WEDDINGS

BOYLE—HANLEY

The Church of St. Charles Borromeo, Read, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday morning, August 20, when Mary Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Hanley, became the bride of John Joseph Boyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Boyle of Railton. Very Rev. J. T. Hanley, uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony. Mr. William Hanley presided at the console of the organ and rendered two solos. Miss Dorothy Ann Williams sang Schubert's "Ava Maria" and "Panis Angelecus".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly attired in a gown of traditional white satin, fashioned with an embroidered basque bodice, square scalloped neckline and a full skirt falling into a short train. Her fingertip veil was held in place with a Mary Queen of Scots headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses, maidenhair fern and bouvardia.

Miss Margaret Hanley, who was her sister's bridesmaid, wore a gown of June rose marquisette with fitted bodice, cape effect shoulders and full skirt. Her headdress fashioned in bonnet style was made of the same material as her dress and trimmed with pink mohair. She wore matching lace mittens and her bouquet was of blue carnations, maidenhair fern and bouvardia.

Mr. Frances O'Reilly was groomsman and the ushers were Messrs. Joseph Hanley and Harold Walsh.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Hanley received the guests in a gown of pearl grey crepe trimmed with lace, with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Boyle assisted wearing a gown of twilight blue faconne crepe, with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

For travelling the bride chose a suit of dusty turquoise gabardine with black accessories and a corsage of glomelias. After a wedding trip to New York the bridal couple will reside at Railton.

FARM WEALTH

Third Showing Fall Fashions Delights Karnival Audience

Albert's Style Shop, Goodman's Store for Men, Woodley Furs and Millinery, McFee Jewellery and Cosmetics by Lattimer Displayed

Master of Ceremonies, Charley Cawker, was in charge when the Kiwanis Karnival in the armouries opened again last evening with another "full house" for the third showing of fall fashion.

Mr. Bill Stovin introduced Don Barnett, Bob Lucy, Clarence Culkin, Dave Sutherland and Roy Hinchey in smart styles for men, as illustrated by clothes from Goodman's Mens Store on Front St.

Suits For Men

Suits came in the easy fitting, three button, double breasted, lounge style in grey, dark brown with lighter stripes and a dark blue suiting material. For the mature gentleman, a dark blue. two button, single breasted model with long lapels was shown in a dark navy. Younger men may wear similar single breasted suits in lighter colored tweeds in grey or tan mixtures. But tweed for experienced business men feature a double breasted model in grey with a darker over-check pattern.

Overcoats

An all-purpose belted overcoat with a double back yoke had the appearance of a rain ulster, but a removable quilted lining portrayed its dual purpose.

A raglan shoulder lined colored rain coat with fly front buttoning close to the throat, was English in design as well as in material. A "Churchill" model in the ever popular olive colored gabardine was extremely modish on one of the younger models, while a fine English all wool worsted with short lapels, shown in King's blue was definitely made for a mature figure.

Selected Garments Shown

For the display of fashions in ladies' wearables from Albert's Style Shop, with accompanying hats and furs from Woodleys, gloves and bags from McIntosh Bros., jewellery from McFee's and cosmetics from Lattimer's Drug Store. Mrs. W.C. McCutcheon was once more commented on the great variety of carefully selected garments modelled by Mesdames Sexsmith, Seymour, and the Misses Corneal, Armstrong, Martin and Lysak.

In a combined showing of attractive fall and winter cloth coats worn over dresses in all the shades of Autumn's artistry, with "chic" hats, Mrs. McCutcheon introduced a breath-taking model of silver grey tone, showing a box back, large ball sleeves with narrow wrist bands; Black Persian lamb fur faced the tuxedo front, and covered the cuffs. A black off-the-face hat with matching accessories completed the picture.

A double breasted mannish tailored coat was made from a comfortable coating in the popular neutral beige shade; and a more dressy model was shown in delicate poudre blue with grey squirrel outlining the neckline to the fitted inserted belt, and was used to emphasize the narrow wrist bands. Silver grey gloves and matching plastic bag were used in contrast.

Coats Removed to Show Dresses

These coats were removed to show, respectively, a chartreuse wool crepe dress with Dutch-fashion pockets; an aqua blue crepe featuring a pleated girdle falling in a cascade down the back of the skirt to the hemline; a silver grey, severely plain dress with fitted bodice, buttoned down the back, and relieved only by small silver buckles on the rather wide belt.

A black two-piece wool dress, very suitable for all-round winter wear, with a removable jacket under which was shown a satin blouse, with very short sleeves, for house wear. With this was shown a smart off-the-face black hat, a sparkling flower necklace and matching ear-rings.

A really arresting combination was a fitted dark green coat with brown fur collar and wide reveres, worn with a tan colored hat, gloves and a plastic bag.

Removal of the coat disclosed an exquisite afternoon dress in a lovely shade of tan silk crepe, featuring an all-round softly gathered peplum, edged with lace of a slightly paler hue. The presentation of this ensemble received many favorable comments from female members of the attentive audience.

Women's Fur Coats

Fur coats from Woodley's featured the present trend toward largeness in sleeves and backs. A closely curled Russian lamb was made in a tuxedo style, with push-up sleeves This was shown with a contrasting tan hat, bag and gloves.

A three-quarter "shortie" of sable muskrat proved the exception to the usual rule for fur coat lengths, and showed a scalloped hem line; while the ever popular Canadian muskrat coat featured fitted cuffs with very full top sleeves. The beautiful natural brown of Alaska seal in a collarless, two-button model was very effective with the rippling fullness of its swagger back, and the luxurious roominess of the leg o' mutton sleeves. An off-the-face pearl grey felt hat with matching ribbon trim was strikingly attractive.

Hudson seal was used in a coat with a ripple back, full sleeves gathered into narrow wrist bands, and a three-button closing, while Persian Lamb was used for one with more conservative lines. A small black hat with a short veil was worn with this coat.

Gowns for Afternoon and Evening Wear

Afternoon and evening gowns from Albert's Style Shop were shown, the first being a very pale grey, military in style with gold buttons from waist line to high neck. This featured closely fitting buttoned cuffs on three-quarter sleeves.

Cocktail dresses varied in style and materials. Black moire was used for one with a fitted bodice, standing collar and short pleated peplum. Gold buttons and glamor pin relieved its sombre shade. An afternoon sleeveless model was unusual with its lace-trimmed-capishawl, worn in place of the usual afternoon hat.

Attractive indeed are the pleated girdles which meet at the centre back of many frocks, and cascade down the full length of the otherwise plain skirted dresses. This effective feature added that certain something to a cocktail dress of simple lines with a V-shaped neck opening; but a luscious fuchsia model with high neckline and tiny tucking on the bodice, complimented by a shining cluster glamor pin in clover leaf design, was most effective in combination with a stunning stone martin neck piece.

Mink was worn over the shoulders of a black cocktail dress, partly concealing the sparkle from clusters of different colored stones scattered over the front of the bodice.

Formals were given a prominent place in last evening's display. A creation of poudre blue bengaline, with sweetheart neckline, fitted wide waist line and a very unusual treatment of the popular bustle back was accented with a three strand pearl necklace.

Contrasting Shades

Two similar formals of net over taffeta in contrasting shades of peach and blue were suggestive of a bridal party, with their off the shoulder rouchings and deep flounces at the bottom of the skirts. Gold and silver combined in "chokers" to outline the invisible high necklines.

A black afternoon party-dress was made with a severely plain peplum across the front, in three tiers, but with rippling fullness in the back. A fitted bodice opened with a key hole neckline, and had long sleeves. An artistic addition to this costume was a "petite" feather hat worn well to the front and tipped slightly to the right over the forehead.

For a grand finale to a fine show, captain of the team representing the models, Eddie Shapiro, staged a bridal party's entrance to the opening notes of "The Briday Chorus," the bride wearing a beautiful white satin floor length gown, complete with embroidered veil, orange blossoms and cascade of glomelias. Her attendants wore the evening gowns previously shown in peach and blue net, with matching headdresses and shoulder length veils, and carried firm bouquets flowers from the Weller Flower shop, while other mannequins represented guests in other formal attire.

Miss Shirley Johnson Presented With Gifts

On Wednesday evening Miss Helen Miller, MacDonald Ave., was at home to a number of friends in honor of Miss Shirley Johnson, of Yeomans St., when gladioli in baskets and vases added to the attractiveness of the spacious living room.

A collection of miscellaneous gifts were presented to the guest-of-honor, in a basket beautifully decorated in pink and white, by the hostess and Miss June Woodbeck. After opening the attractive packages Miss Johnson graciously expressed her thanks for the useful and beautiful gifts.

Entertainment was provided by games and a singsong, after which delicious refreshments were served informally.

Mrs. A.D. McLean "At Home" For Trousseau Tea

From three o'clock till six on Wednesday afternoon Mrs. A. D. McLean, George St., was "at home" for a trousseau tea in honor of her daughter, Miss Helen McLean, bride-elect.

Junior Miss Carol McLean opened the door for the guests, who were invited to the second floor by Mrs. P. W. Neelands where the trousseau and gifts were being displayed by Miss Lois McLean and Miss Marion Brennan, and where the guest book was signed.

Gladioli in baskets and bowls added considerably to the festive appearance of the attractive living room, where Miss McLean received with her mother; and in the dining room the table was covered with an exquisite hand made lace cloth; a silver basket of snapdragons serving as a centre piece with tall white tapers in silver candlesticks on either side of it.

Presiding over the silver tea services for the first hour were Mrs. J. A. D. McLean, grandmother of the bride-to-be, with Mrs. Wm. Finkle; and later Mrs. Jas. Brennan and Mrs. John Nunn.

Assisting in serving the guests were Misses Elinor Finkle, Phyllis Dickens, Lois Peacock and Mrs. A. Downey. Replenishing plates and tea pots were Mrs. Ross Stiver, Mrs. Walter Scott and Mrs. Wollams.

Stop early drop...
Spray with PARMONE

For fewer windfalls, better fruit, longer picking season, spray trees with PARMONE, the C-I-L hormone concentrate.

PARMONE prevents or greatly reduces pre-harvest drop of apples and pears—in some cases, as much as 85%. Fruit clings longer and more firmly to the trees, improves in colour, quality and size.

Fruit Reaches Full Maturity

PARMONE allows fruit to reach full maturity, though it does not delay normal ripening processes. Hence, fruit should be picked at the proper stage of maturity.

Insure better fruit by spraying thoroughly with PARMONE immediately dropping begins.

PARMONE is effective, costs little. One 4-ounce bottle makes 100 gallons of spray, and one spraying is usually sufficient. Ask your dealer for PARMONE.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Xlbitzer

Many a bridge player is kept around the house only as a pet. He can become quite a nuisance if he is not finesse-broken. On the other hand, a good finesser can make himself very useful.

Maybe you are just finding out that a finesse is not a female Finn. If so, you know the kind of a finesse I am think about. It is a tentative of A Q or A K J or A J or Q 10 that you lead toward.

But picture the ace with small cards in one hand and the queen with small cards in the other. Or A K with small in one hand and the jack with smalls in the other. Notice what they can do.

Cara beetle, first leading your small face toward the hand with the ace or A K, a finesse can be taken with such combinations. But no good comes of it unless you lead toward the small face.

SOUTH	NORTH
♠A K 5 3	♠J 7 2

South has ace and king with two small. North has jack with two small. If your best plan to take the most tricks in this suit?

Lead a small south heart toward north jack. If west has queen, you will take three tricks. Whether west queen ducks or takes this first lead, north jack gets a trick; A K later take two more.

If east has the queen, only the south ace and king will be able to take tricks. So what? In that case, you could not have had more even if north had had the jack. See why?

East would cover the jack-lead with queenie. This forces the north king. The north ace will take another trick. No more. The ten and nine in opponent hands will then be good.

Leading jack produces only two tricks no matter which foe holds the queen. Leading small toward jack takes an extra trick if west has the queen; a 50-50 chance, all a finesse chance.

Half a chance is better than loafing.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 22 (AP)

Breakfast - table chit-chat of the Mike Frankovitches (Minnie Barnes) will be broadcast coast - to coast this fall, the actress reports. They will be the first couple to sip coffee and break crullers before a United States-wide audience.

Designed after the Mr. and Mrs. shows in New York, and program features Minnie and Mike in their "Beverly Hills home" commenting on the news and discussing their days work. He's a Republic serial producer and she's acting in "My Own True Love." They have been broadcasting locally for seven months.

The program has its hazards. Once a plumber made an appearance while on a repair call. And on far more serious note quit. Each was permitted a brief appearance to serve the eggs or toast, but they received bigger roles. One even wanted to sing, Minnie said so.

Frank Sinatra (and I promise this is the last Sinatra item for eight days) will play the Capitol theatre in New York if he can stay in the theatre apartment which once belonged to the late Major Bowes. Frank wants to try for a real box-office record and figures if he has to travel to a hotel nightly he would stop off at night clubs and wouldn't be able to play as many shows.

Lizabeth Scott is eager to play "House of Mist," a "Rebecca"-like South American story which Hal Wallis will make. Liz, who understudied Tallulah Bankhead in "Skin of our Teeth" wants to do something dramatic on the screen. Kay Kyser and ZSO are huddling and the Ole Professor may be on the screen again . . . Bergen and Bacall back from a cruise to San Francisco . . . Lode Hayward tells me his deal with Edward Small for a D'Artagnan film has cooled because MGM is believed to control the "Three Musketeers" rights now . . . Xavier Cugat says he is adopting plane-ness glasses because people don't take him seriously.

Topics of the Town

The Lana Turner-Tyrone Power romance, which continues warm . . . the anti-monopoly suit against technicolor . . . "Body and Soul" the town's newest hit . . . how the British tax has specially hit U-I, which was geared to an Anglo-American market . . . the new William Powell in "Life With Father" . . . the shutdown at Warners, first at a major studio in years . . . "What ever happened to television?" . . . this week.

AT THE CAPITOL—Gene Autry and Sterling Holloway score again in Republic's "Saddle Pals" new western hit now showing at the Capitol Theatre Tonight and Saturday. On the same program "Blondie Knows Best."

Philadelphia Athletics Most Surprising Team in American League During 1947 Season

(By The Associated Press)

The 1947 major league season has produced many surprises, but the most confounding of all has been the amazing brand of baseball produced by Philadelphia Athletics.

Picked almost unanimously to finish a solid last in the American League race, Connie Mack's men climaxed a stubborn fight to stay in the first division last night wrestling third place away from Detroit Tigers.

In fact, the Mackmen were only 1 1-2 games behind the defending champion Boston Red Sox who occupy second place 12 games back of the league-leading New York Yankees. Not since 1933 in the days of Lefty Grove and Jimmy Foxx and Mickey Cochrane have the A's been in such lofty atmosphere.

One of the reasons for the A's surprising showing has been the fine work of their young pitchers, Joe Coleman of Toronto, Carl Scheib and Bill McCahan. This trio has won 16 games between them as many as had been expected of them. Another Canadian hurler, Phil Marchildon of Pennsylvania, has won 15.

McCahan last night led the A's to an 8-5 victory over the Brown in St. Louis for their 11th victory in their last 13 games, a .753 pace.

Brooklyn Dodgers gained a half game on St. Louis Cardinals and increased their National League lead to five full games by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 9-1 at Ebbets Field while the cards were held to a split in a doubleheader in Philadelphia.

Musial Belts Two

Clyde King limited the Reds to eight hits while the Brooks made merry at the expense of Ewell Blackwell to vault to five games ahead of the Red Birds.

After Oscar Judd of Ingersoll, Ont., pitched the Phils to a 8-2 five-hit victory in the opener, the Cards bounced back with a 13-3 slam bang nightcap 13-3. Stan Musial belted two homers, including one with the bases loaded, and Ron Northey slammed a three-run homer to lead the Card attack.

The Phils bumped Red Munger and successors for 12 hits in the first game, including three singles by Harry Walker, the circuit's top batter.

The Cards also lost the services of Ken Slaughter, their hard-hitting left fielder, indefinitely. He suffered a concussion at the base of the skull when he collided with shortstop Bernie Creger in the eighth inning. He was removed to hospital where Dr. Gerald Gross ordered the injury. But no fracture.

Meanwhile, the third-place Boston Braves continued their relentless pursuit of the Dodgers and Cards by sweeping both ends of a twin-bill from Chicago Cubs, 8-2 and 6-4.

Warren Spahn stopped the visiting Cubs in the opener on seven safeties to gain his fifth triumph in five-run, seventh-inning rally enabled the Braves to come from behind and take the windup.

On the only daylight action in the American League, Washington Senators tripped Detroit Tigers twice, 3-2 and 5-3, to snap an 11 game losing streak.

Early Wynn batted the Tigers on six blows in the opener losing his shutout when rookie Johnny McHale homered in the ninth. Sid Hudson scattered seven safeties in gaining the nod in the finale over Fred Hutchinson.

In the only National League night game, Clint Hartung pitched New York Giants to a two-hit 4-1 conquest over Pittsburgh Pirates at the Polo Grounds.

Hartung had a no-hitter until Jimmy Bloodworth singled in the eighth. Frank Gustine homered for the other Pirate safety in the ninth. Hartung, converted outfielder, helped his own cause with a four-bagger in the fifth inning.

CHIPS
OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK
By GEORGE H. CALVER, Sports Editor.

Our age-and-condition report on Mr. Boyd Upper, who is reportedly developing a nose for news and the ability to write it down on paper, was the topic of discussion at the Kiwanis-Kingston game the other night.

Young Mr. Upper who wears his official tags in sports with becoming modesty, wended his way quietly through the crowd that surged through the turnstiles at the Exhibition Grounds (Drobec, if you're a long time since we have written anything like that), picked out a likely looking prospect and sat down beside him.

Young wielder being in need of a good share of manly beauty, there beats beneath the colored shirt of young Mr. Upper a heart that is filled with not only the joy of living but sympathy for the working man and finally as a viable reputation and besides being expert players can stage a show that should suit the most rabid critic.

Gazing down from his seat in the "Secret" he presently mas noted his sports editor dashing more or less madly from one dugout to the other, perspiration streaming from atop the bald pate to the extremity of hand moccasins. His blue shirt was black with the sweat of honest toil. Last minute changes were his specil down to the last inch. Lack of boots on the paths had kept him a diligent correspondent with F. A. Broadcasters added to his worries.

"Hmmm," murmured our Mr. Upper, sympathetically from his seat among the mighty. "Such self-sacrificing boy. Who knows that in the dim distant future, if my nerves do not fall me, and I become accustomed to the idiosyncrasies of the sports public, not to mention those who indulge in it, I may some day become a sports editor. That is, if a padded cell doesn't cut me 'out and I waive all right to the liberties of man, and dedicate my life to the existence of those who work while others play and work while they work."

"But" he ruminated, throwing off the attentions of a half dozen enamored Kiwanisezers, "while I wouldn't object to becoming a sports editor, I can't say that I want the characteristics, physical, by, that is, that go with it. Of the two it is criterion. Right now I am ——— of hair and am fit. That guy down there has walked fifty feet and is sweating like a calliope with bronchitis. has a crashem that looks like a cross between a cue ball and a fire-ravaged forest. Corand and accessorial bulge that has the late Hermy Goering resembling a ——— pole."

Then our Mr. Upper rested his chin in his hands. Suddenly he raised his head. He sniffed the air. Something strange was in the offing. Then he murmured into his dandelion fluff, "A small celebrity." He turned his head to the left. The breeze was weak. To the right it was noticeably stronger. Then the youthful sports writer had on the trail, finally located his quarry. It was a baseball scout from one of the National League teams. Our Mr. Upper edged him to earth, dragged out a ball team lead pencils and in his garnished with a sprinkling of toothpicks growled, "Start talking. Name names."

Big league scouts roaming the circuits in search of baseball talent usually have their sweetness on the desert air, need as much prompting to talk to a newspaper man as a brush salesman to a housewife. Mr. Upper's pencil flew over the copy paper with lightning speed, and after he had had it decided and set down in English, here is what he wrote:

"That George Lay is a lad with talent, and he has the makings of a ball player." So spake a tall, sun-burned, gentleman Wednesday evening at the Kingston relief harlot whiffed his second straight batter in the eighth inning of the Junior playdowns to retain the Kingston lads end of a deep, dark, hole.

"The gentleman in question should know because he was there other than Tommy Thomas, for nine years a pitcher with the Baltimore Orioles of the International League, and at present a scout for the Boston Red Sox. He was detailed by manager Mickey Cochrane of the New York Club to visit Belleville and scout the local squad because by some hook or crook the worst smashed the seats of the mighty that some promising ball players are being developed here.

"Although he had come to scout the Belleville shortstop he was particularly impressed by the pitching displayed by Bob Bunton came in for his share of praise, as did Jack Kingston reliefer. Bob's windup motion was criticized as being too swift and a trifle jerky, but aside from that he has prospects. After the game Mr. Thomas approached both George Lay and Bob Bunton with an offer of spring training with the Toronto Leafs next year.

"I am not promising that you will pitch for any team in organized baseball," he said "but I will give you an opportunity to see what you can do."

"Tommy was favorably impressed by the fielding skills also of both lads. He liked Belleville's Jack Wardhaugh and stated he was a good hitter and gets that ball.

He also echoed coach St. Louis's remark when he removed out loud, "Where are the hitters?"

"Tommy returned to Toronto the same evening but his presence here is more than a hint that a ball player never knows when he will be scouted or who will be doing the scouting and is the key to a baseball future."

Important hockey decisions may be arrived at here tonight when the Belleville Hockey Association and the Sports Committee of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada get together. The intermediate "A" team for the best five players will be together in a business conclave.

All hands are on gold for sessions of hockey teams here for the past two years due to unseasonable weather and natural ice. This year, it is felt should see a reversal of things with participating aids to practice at will and games run off strictly on schedule whether the weather bloke approves or not.

The Army and Navy Veterans have borne the financial brunt of the intermediate squad and they feel that they should have a chance for the franchise this year. With the farm team of the Philadelphia Rockets here, it is safe to assume that both interests will be on the junior squads will receive some not unwelcome hockey talent. In addition a number of experienced players have come to Belleville since the last whistle sounded in the fall and on paper things look bright.

However tonight's conclave should bring forth some interesting facts regarding the sport this winter and there is every reason to feel that with the co-operation of all concerned and that includes Mr. and Mrs. Fan, Belleville should not see one'sf its best hockey seasons since the era of the Cities Service and such squads.

Weather permitting Latta will clash with Bata tonight at the Fair Grounds under the lights, starting at 8:30. The admission is fit to play on, that is. We expect to get further info later.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 23 — (CP)—The announcement a few days ago that Toronto's baseball Maple Leafs would sponsor a Peterboro team in the Border League next year has been looked upon with favor in sports quarters. It might mean a start to reviving pro baseball in Canada and give a few more Canadian lads a chance to show they can play baseball just as well as they do in the United States.

With more cities in these parts easing into the smaller league there is more opportunity for young Canadian players to turn closer to home for tryouts, said Tom (Timmins Press) O'Loughlin. Canadians can do a little more scouting, too.

"We've often wondered why the Leafs or some other club didn't move into Canada and set up some type of a farm chain," the Timmins writer asks. "even if it was only to help junior or senior clubs and send a few players out for seasoning."

There are lot of youngsters playing in loops around the country and if they had something to look forward to in the way of a promotion, they might even work a little harder and play a heavier schedule in order to spruce themselves for a pro trial.

More Support

From George H. (Belleville Ontario Intelligencer) Carver comes more bunnies for Pete Campbell's move to put a Border League team into Belleville.

This year, Belleville wanted a franchise but the League was adament since it would have meant a seven-team set-up. Now that Peterboro is in, Belleville probably will join the loop making four Canadian teams in the class 'C' organization.

"The deal with Kingston, Peterboro, Ottawa and Belleville as a Canadian section of the Border League looks good," Carver said.

"It would not only mean a revival of the friendly if sometimes bitter enmity that has always been apparent but it would prove a good drawing card."

The International Border of the league would pull cash customers on both sides of the border. And that's something the U. S. teams are as interested in the Canadian teams — and the league, no doubt.

B.C. Apple Trade Looks to U.S. For Outlet

By GEORGE FINLAY

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Vancouver, Aug. 22. (CP) — Packing of autumn apple growers' fruit has started in the Okanagan Valley where the spring move to packing agencies by 70 per cent of commercial growers has been completed.

A million carloads to the United States where the government has removed the 7½ cents duty for entry of 2,750,000 bushels of Canadian apples, will be started immediately.

"It is up to us to sell the apples," said G. C. Reid, general manager of the B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., the marketing agency for the hundreds of growers who last year packed 4,000,000 boxes in British Columbia and 1,000,000 to United States buyers.

The U.S. government has approved admission for Canadian apples but has no purchasing plans. Purchases will be up to the individual American buyer.

Mr. West said today, however, that B.C. growers would like to get the largest share of the exports as the West Coast packers concentrate on the boxed apple trade, a marketing method favored by American buyers. In past years, B.C. has had 80 per cent of the U.S. market.

With the British market idle due to the economic crisis, stiff competition for the limitless trade is expected from the apple producing provinces of Ontario and Nova Scotia.

Eastern growers may seek government assistance in marketing in the United States, but the B.C. packers will not seek aid from federal authorities.

B.C. growers also have a big market on the Canadian prairies, and other export outlets in South America, Palestine, Egypt, China, the Philippines and South Africa.

The crop this year is estimated at 7,700,000 boxes, a drop of 1,300,000 bushels from the bumper yield of 1946.

Dollar Shortage May Make Canada Cut U.S. Imports

London, Aug. 22—(CP)—Canada's shortage of United States dollars is so severe "insofar as either that the Dominion will have to reduce American imports," the London Times said in an editorial.

If such a situation arises and Canada finds herself "drawn, at least in a measure, into the sterling group of countries, Britain must make a maximum endeavor to see that existing shortages of manufactured goods in Canada are not increased by possible duration."

The report said the deterioration of the Canadian exchange situation "is largely due to circumstances beyond the Dominion's control. It was difficult to see how the country could have acted followed other than bilateral agreements providing for non-bank for payment in cash for heavy exchanges of goods and services with the United States and on the other for financing large favorable trade balances with the Britain and other European countries on lines of credit.

Due to her position midway between the United States and the sterling area, "Canada had a greater interest than almost any other country in the establishing multilateral trade but the results had been disappointing due to the slow recovery of European countries.

Serious Problem

Canada received 50 per cent of her export surplus to Britain in 1946, the report said, but the United Kingdom American credits were exhausted. The Dominion faced "a serious problem."

"Unless this country is prepared to heavily increase its gold reserve or is furnished with a new supply of United States dollars under the Marshall plan which would be quantified by financing a continuing adverse trade balance with the Dominion, Canada must be prepared in order to take a thorough reorientation of her foreign trade and financial policy.

"Whatever may be done in such circumstances about exports a relatively drastic cut in imports from the United States appears inevitable."

The fact that Canada has been paying inflated market prices for American manufactured goods while selling a large part of her agricultural products on long-term contracts at prices materially below world levels had undoubtedly aggravated her overseas payments difficulties.

Goods which Canada now was selling Europe in large quantities were not the type which could be diverted readily to the United

Million Dollar Sugar Beet Crop Seen in Manitoba

Winnipeg, Aug. 22 — (CP) — Manitoba's 700 sugar beet growers are optimistic as they survey dry fields and they will harvest a $1,000,000 crop this year.

They are all the more excited over the prospect because up to a few weeks ago the sugar beet situation in the province looked grim, with prospects of a crop failure imminent.

Today, however, since the warm, rainy weather of the last few weeks, the beets have grown to good size, with the sugar content to be decided. Normally it ranges around 14-15 per cent and if September is dry growers say the tonnage will be high.

A $1,000,000 crop for Manitoba while not expected, would be only slightly more than last year's, at that, with the Manitoban receiving almost double the price it was getting then. In 1946, 700 tons harvested in 1946. The average price paid then was $11 an acre.

This year's price has not been determined yet, but growers are hoping that it will follow the upward trend generally evident since 1946.

A $1,000,000 crop for Manitoba will not be tops for Canada, however, if the pattern of last year is followed. Both Alberta and Ontario grow more sugar beets than Manitoba's best acreage last year, Alberta getting 383,000 tons from 39,800 acres and Ontario 222,600 tons from 23,000 acres.

Extension of the sugar beet industry has not yet reached the stage where the Dominion can consider itself self-sustaining so far as the population's sugar demand is concerned. Last year the entire sugar beet industry in Canada processed only about 15 per cent of all the sugar used in the country.

A good crop throughout the beet provinces this year could raise that percentage, officials claim. In Manitoba they predict that the factory's 1st capacity, could provide for 50 per cent of this province's needs, with production for the Dominion reaching at least 34 per cent of the country's needs.

Mounties Quell Fight in Park Near Cornwall

Cornwall, Aug. 22 — (CP) — Royal Canadian Mounted Police early Wednesday quelled a fight in Central Park near Cornwall canal among a group of men said to be members of a (Pat) Sullivan's Canadian Lake Seamen's Union and had been brought by bus from Montreal.

The fight was said to have originated in a dispute in the bus en route from Montreal. A knife was wielded in the melee and one man whose shirt was blood-spattered claimed he ducked in time to avoid being struck by the weapon.

Police took four men into custody but, not related to it. It was announced that the two being held would appear in court today to answer charges which were not divulged. None of the names of the men was released.

A number of the men announced at the park they were here only as "hirelings at $12 a day" and said they were withdrawn unless they were paid. A C.L.S.U. official said the men in cash at the park. The men told reporters they joined the C.L.S.U. only a few minutes before boarding a bus in Montreal.

The developments came on the eve of a conference in Ottawa today between representatives of Canada Steamship Lines, Sarnia and Colonial Steamships Lines and government officials in an effort to stave off a threatened jurisdictional strike of seamen on the Great Lakes.

Chased in Circles By Outboard Boat

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 22—(AP)—John F. Lott, 36-year-old boatswain, said he was chased all over the Mississippi by an outboard motorboat "going around in circles like a dog chasing its tail."

Lott was working on the engine "when she started bucking like a horse." He was thrown into the Ohio River, fully clothed and started swimming toward shore at "about half a knot an hour." Then he noticed the boat coming toward him "at about 40 miles an hour."

Lott dived, evaded his pursuer and continued the hide-and-seek process for more than 10 minutes before he reached a pile of driftwood and temporary safety. By that time the gasoline supply in the boat was exhausted.

Stratford Man Faces Rape Charge

Stratford, Aug. 22 — (CP) — Albert Rosso, 21, of Stratford, appeared before Magistrate A. F. Cockburn today and was remanded in custody until Sept. 26. Rosso was arrested by city police at his home shortly after midnight Wednesday in connection with the alleged hold-up of four young people and the indecent assault of one of the girls, about 10:30 Tuesday night, on the north bank of the Avon River.

Rosso is charged with theft of a gun owned by Thomas Marsh. Theft of the pistol is alleged to have taken place on or about the day of the hold-up. Rosso was advised to reserve his plea and was remanded on both charges.

James Schleck and Laverne Cahill, both 18, of Stratford, and two girl companions, one of London, the other of St. Marys, told police that a man carrying a flash light, which he used to illuminate a pistol he was holding, halted them as they walked westerly along the north bank of the river about 10:30 p.m. Sunday. The man just asked the youths to hand over their wallets.

Apparently annoyed that the youths did not have any money, the man ordered the four into a nearby thicket and told them to lie on the ground. Then he said to have assaulted one of the girls while the others were lying face down.

MORE THAN ASKED FOR

Detroit, Aug. 22 (AP) — Mrs. Grace Kluger, who "really only wanted one dozen eggs," got 26 dozen of them scrambled on her front lawn and to have installed one of the girls while the others were lying face down.

Heavy Rain Falls When Dry Ice Is Dropped into Cloud

Chicago, Aug. 22 — (CP) — An airplane dropped 120 pounds of pulverized dry ice into the top of a cumulus cloud at 20,000 feet Wednesday and 10 minutes later a 40-minute rain deluge drenched the Chicago suburban St. Charles, Ill. Federal weather forecasters said were aboard the plane said there was no rain within 20 miles before the experiment.

Seven of Eight Arrested Given Bail by Court

Toronto, Aug. 22 — (CP) Seven of eight men charged in a police roundup following last January's $10,000 robbery of Lansing branch of the Toronto branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, were at liberty on bail of $500 each yesterday but the seventh is still held under remand for sentence for possession of an unregistered revolver.

All eight have pleaded not guilty to vagrancy charges while one, Earl Rowe, pleaded guilty to the revolver possession charge. The Crown had opposed application for bail but later defence counsel Frank Nasso obtained it for the seven after charging that police wanted to keep the men "in cold storage."

Meanwhile, police are continuing investigation into the bank burglary in which a gang smashed their way into the safety deposit vault through a brick wall. Detective Inspector Jack Cook said other by a gunsel — are suspected in the case.

Take the Laughter

CHAPTER 12.

Sherry had to ask whatever the picture business had to do with it, and Hartley went on to tell her what a swell little pal Lilly had been until she got the bug that she wanted to go into the movies.

He said, "I got advised of mine to get her a job on a Stein picture."

Hartley went on, "You know, only a day's extra work, but this dumb chuck of a cameraman has to tell her that her face is photographically perfect."

She said, "If the girl's face is perfect, I think she has a right to know it."

Hartley said, "Yeah? Well, anyway, he gets her a lot of work and he's such a quiet sort of guy she fall for it."

Marcia got up suddenly.

She said, "Hartley, we've got a date at five that I completely forgot about! I hate to rush you off like this."

She sounded a little breathless and Sherry was puzzled. She knew that they did not have any date.

Hartley got to his feet good-naturedly.

He said, "Well, to make a long story short, this bird gives her a song and dance about what he can do for her in pictures, and about his wife's being too sick to be interested in him, and yours truly's out in the cold."

Sherry sat very still and stared at Hartley. She thought, I'm not hearing this! He can't be saying this! He can't mean Peter!

She felt Marcia's hand gripping her shoulder hard and knew she must have come around to stand behind her.

Hartley had got his hat. He grinned.

Marcia said, "I'm so sorry to rush you, Hartley," and opened the door.

The man grinned.

He said, "That's O.K. 'Bye, girls!" and laughed and went out.

Marcia shut the door and leaned against it if they were quiet for a minute.

Sherry was thinking. Now this is something really important and you can't go off alone and hide until you get over it. Marcia's watching you and you've got to take it standing.

Marcia said, "How're you doing, Sherry? Chin up?"

Sherry said, "Damned right it is," very slowly.

Even at the moment she was conscious of the word "damned." She had never used it before like that and somehow it stiffened her spine a bit. She took a deep breath and made herself talk.

She said, "Look, what! Under the circumstances what's a lady to do?"

Marcia said, "As often as it happens to me I always have a moment's doubt myself. I'll go heat up the kettle. Some fresh tea'll give us inspiration."

She went out to the kitchen.

Sherry was grateful for the moment's respite. She shut her eyes and held her temples hard. There was no doubt—not that it was Peter. No one else had ever photographed a Stein picture. Hartley had said he was quiet, and that he had said his wife was ill. Peter was at Big Pine. That had to be Peter.

She felt nauseated and her chin trembled.

"Now you cry or be sick, you cream puff," she told herself seriously, "and I'll slap your face!"

She took a long breath and felt better.

If he loved the girl Sherry could understand. If he was even infatuated and swept off his feet by her youth, Sherry surmounted Peter's better judgment. If he admired her acting, Sherry despised Lilly's type. Then why? Why?

She said, "I remember what they say, infant. It's better to have loved and lost—much better."

Sherry said, "Yeah?"

Marcia sat down.

"To begin with, are you sure it's Peter?"

Sherry nodded.

Marcia said, "I am too, so there is no kidding ourselves. Are you planning to kill Lilly?"

Sherry shook her head.

"Poor child, she's little girl—maybe she's in love with him. No, it's Peter. I can't understand. Wanting to take her with him."

She said, "You haven't asked me. But you do really."

Before she had married him she had imagined that he did not care very much for girls. She had been surprised to find little by little that there had been a great many.

Marcia patted Sherry's knee and poured two cups of tea.

"Drink up, baby," she said, "and then we'll do some thinking."

Sherry obediently sipped her tea. She wished she did not have to think about it.

Marcia said, "What about the boys?"

Sherry looked up quickly. It was the first time she had thought of the boys.

She said, "Oh, they mustn't know, Marcia! They might tell. She broke off undecidedly. The Lord knows what they might do! It'd be sure to be a mess. Besides I—I'd rather they didn't know."

"Do you think you can keep them from finding out?" Marcia asked.

Sherry said, "I—I could talk it over with Peter. I'd hate it, but I could. And tell him I knew about it and didn't want to live with him any more. We could tell people we simply agreed to disagree, and I could get a divorce in Reno."

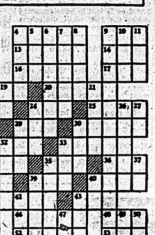
She said, "You haven't asked me, little one, but I'm going to tell you what I think, anyway."



And she told Sherry how she had got a divorce for the same reason, and how she had regretted it ever since.

She told Sherry about the loneliness and how tired you got of always being on your own and battling around for just yourself.

"Listen," she said, "After all, Peter's kind and you have fun together. He takes good care of you. What more do you think you can get?"

SPORTS PROGRAM OF C.N.E. WILL INTEREST FANS

Every Known Sport Will be Featured in Two Weeks of Exhibition

Toronto, Aug. 22 (CP) — A program of sports events that runs from morning to evening and continues from today until the last day of the Canadian National Exhibition has been prepared to provide entertainment of every variety for the thousands of sports-loving fans attending the first post-war exhibition.

Opening with a feature rolling event today, the program relents championship sports in checkers, archery, table tennis, swimming, fly and bait casting, motor boating, softball, rowing and basketball, as well as the popular horse show, cat show and dog show, and the all-exhibition event including speed skating, diving and sports car competitions for the fair's duration.

Bringing together Diamond Jubilee Jack Kelly, Penn's son, a few weeks ago won the Canadian Henley title, and the best of Canada's scullers, today's program opening highlight is the Joe Wright trophy race, amateur of the Dominion Mile scrolling crown.

Ken Nunes and Ted Chilcott of Toronto Argonauts, R. G. Platt of the Toronto Dons and Gaby Beaudry, crack Ottawa carmans, are slated to be on hand to give Kelly a run for the Wright Cup.

Other rowing events scheduled later are doubles, fours and eights for C.N.E. utes. Paddlers get their chances in a 70,000 metre tandem canoe race with entries received from Montreal, Ottawa and Sudbury aside from the many Toronto clubs taking part. There will be 10 canoeing competitions are the two metre fancy diving event and the 3 metre for men. The $10,000, 35-mile swim is set for Aug. 30, while the 10-mile marathon for $4,000 in prizes Aug. 27. Swimming championships record and gold medal events also are slated during the two weeks of the exhibition.

The speed boat races bring together Sammy Parks, who won the United States gold cup a few weeks ago and hopes to make it two straight, he defeated in the event, with several other U.S. speedsters expected before the line.

A wide program of softball will take place, diamond fans busy for the full two weeks as top U. S. teams—including the Leslie famed Detroit punchers and the World Champion Fort Wayne Gallileans—battle it with the best Canada has to offer for the C.N.E. title.

Team Manager And Sports Writer Come to Blows

Detroit, Aug. 22. (AP)—With a slight exception, all was peace in the Washington baseball picture today as a double victory over Detroit, Tigers yesterday went a long way toward healing the wounds made by Senatorial flare-up during streak. Suggestions of internal strife in the Washington camp were dispelled in a clubhouse meeting before the games.

Burton Hawkins, Washington baseball writer who had first told of the player's complaints in a story by Ed Wynn, Washington Evening Star, became heatedly involved with Manager Bucky Harris later over what the Washington Manager termed "malicious" stories about the Senators.

Lou Cumming Man to Watch In Golf Tourney

Riverside Golf Club, N.B.,— Aug. 22. (CP)—The spotlight focused today on Lou Cumming of the Seaside Golf Club, who fired a 71 in the first round of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association Tournament to make him the "man to watch" in the match play for the Tuchola chase over this rugged Kennebecasis River Par 70 course.

But the light didn't leave all of yesterday's favorites in complete darkness. Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro could still be seen pretty clearly after his 72, was chalked up, Gordon Brydson of Toronto Mississauga opened a possible threat to Cumming's position if he could maintain the pace of his under-par second nine of the starting round.

Definitely in the shadows was little-holder Jules Huot of Montreal Laval who was in a four-way tie for 13th place along with Veteran Ras Yabowski of Haliter Ashburn.

SYRACUSE CHIEFS STILL IN THICK OF PENNANT RACE

Despite Injuries to Four Key Performers, Team In Third Place.

(By The Associated Press)

Despite injuries to four key performers, Syracuse Chiefs still are in the thick of the International League pennant fight.

The third-place chiefs, playing without the services of front-liners Hack Sauer, Claude Corbitt, Joe Just and Jodie Beeler, moved within nine points of the second-place Jersey City Giants and 6½ of the league-leading Montreal Royals last night when they set the Giants back 7-6.

Eddie Stokes led a 13-hit chief attack with a double and two singles while Jack Dittmer with four successive hits and Tom Stallcup with two doubles and a single paced the Giants' assault.

Bill Posedel started and received credit for his 19th victory, the highest output in the league for four pitchers won 20 or more games in 1945.

After the Royals turned back the Blazes, 6-5 in eight innings for the first night game, Buffalo came back and won the nightcap, 6-4 mainly on home runs by Chet Laabs and Jack Bruner.

Baltimore Orioles and Newark Bears also divided a doubleheader, the Bears winning the first game, 3-2 and the Orioles the other, 6-3.

Rochester Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs were idle.

Sports Roundup

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
(The Ruth Fullerton, Jr.)

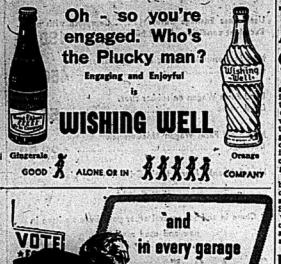
Chicago, Aug. 22 — (AP) — Rain or shine, fast track or sloppy will make no difference to those great handicap stars, Assault and Armed, which meet in the richest match race in turf history at Chicago's Washington Park a week from tomorrow.

They'll go to the post in the $100,000 winner-take-all event regardless of the conditions in keeping with the traditions of North American thoroughbred racing. There had been reports that the race would not take place if the track were not fast. The $100,000 purse exceeds by $15,000 the previous highest match-race award, for the Zev-Papyrus meeting at New York's Belmont Park Oct. 20, 1923. Zev easily conquered the Epsom

Downs winner.

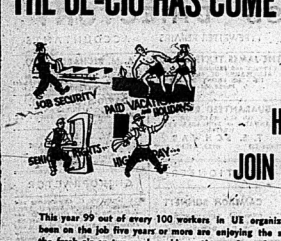
The contest, with its 1 1/16 miles, will each horse carrying 126 pounds, Jockey Douglas Dodson, mount for Col. Edward Bell's Calumet Farm and formerly of Westlock, Alta., will pilot Armed, with the hard-riding Eddie Arcaro aboard Assault.

The sensational horses never have raced against each other, which gives the match added interest. Assault is the second leading money winner of all time. Armed had piled up $600,000 to second place.



High school football across the United States is growing into week-in, week-out affair. The 1947 season will be a whopper from the standpoint of youths participating. But an alarming number of football coaches, because their salaries haven't kept up with living costs, are quitting their jobs and the supply of coaches won't keep up with demand.

Statement Given By President Ottawa Club



(By The Canadian Press)

The Ottawa Football Club "had interest" in obtaining Frank Filchock when the American Football Union ruled Filchock ineligible to play, E. K. Emerson president of the Ottawa Club said last night. The Ottawa official was issued in reply to reports originating in Toronto that Ottawa had tried to get Filchock. Emerson added, "the Ottawa Club would have liked Filchock, but only on the following conditions —that he be re-instated by the National Football Union which suspended him indefinitely and that he be accepted by the C.R.U. and the L.R.F.U."

NINETEEN COAL MINERS PERISH IN EXPLOSION

Second Disaster Within a Week In Great Britain

Five Survivors Severely Burned Taken to Surface

Annfield Plain, England, Aug. 23 (AP)—Nineteen Durham coal miners perished in an explosion in the Morrison north mine here today. All but the burned and mutilated bodies were brought to the surface.

It was the second mining disaster to hit coal-short England within a week. Only five men survived the blast, and they suffered burns and severe injuries.

William Welch, National Coal Board Area manager, said underground officials were experiencing difficulty identifying the victims. William Younger, who was weighman in another coal shaft of the mine, gave this description of the blast:

"There was no noise but we felt a blast of hot air rush past us. We went in. Dust was flying through from the seam to the bottom.

"As we entered the explosion area we came upon three men, two alive, one dead. We raised the alarm and started to get the men out. Eventually we got 19 men out to a place where there was some air. Three were still alive.

Th blast occurred shortly after midnight (Friday night) in a pit dale from the bottom of the shaft to which a night crew of 36 men was working.

Britain's latest mine disaster occurred on the night of Aug. 11 when an explosion ripped through the underseas working of the William Pit at Whitehaven, killing 104 men.

Whitehaven is in Cumberland County in northwestern England, Durham county is just east of Cumberland County.

Three Durham County crews which had been on duty at the William mine most of the last week were rushed to the scene of the latest accident.

Black Damp Slows Work

Black damp slowed their work and soon they send up for additional breathing apparatus. The first body was reported after two hours after the blast. Soon other blackened bodies of victims were brought to the top and carried past little groups of men and women. Some were still in their mining dress, coming from dances nearby.

At Morrison mine, where the blast occurred, has been subject to "spontaneous" underground fires — there was an intense fire in one section in 1940 and the blaze flared again. A few months ago a large part of the workings which had been sealed off because of fires was reopened for mining.

'Alabama Heiress," Friend of Slain Gangster, Lies Near Death at Miami

Miami Beach, Aug. 23 (AP)—Virginia Hill, whose turbulent life has been crowded with lavish parties, three marriages and a gangland killing that startled not just life of her boy friend, Benjamin (Bugsy) Siegel, was in a coma in hospital today near death from an apparent overdose of a sleeping pellet.

At midnight last night she had been in a coma for several hours. Her condition was listed as "very critical" and was being treated by pneumonia. During the night she improved slightly, but an authoritative source said she's life still hung in the balance and "she refuses to co-operate in treatment."

Miss Hill was taken in an unconscious condition yesterday from her gaudiness home on Palm Island, where she had recently installed an elaborate floodlighting and alarm system as a precaution against a gangland attempt at her life.

The Miami Beach police chief, Phil R. Short, reported that "as far as I could find out, she took an overdose of sleeping pills."

It was learned from an authoritative source, however, that there was no pill box or other container found in her home to corroborate exclusively that the 30-year-old actress had taken an overdose of poison.

A few weeks before Siegel was killed she was taken to a hospital in Los Vegas, Nev., for what physicians described as "an overdose of sleeping tablets." Twice in Francisco she reported to have taken similar overdoses.

Miss Hill, blonde, dark-haired Miss Hill skyrocketed into the public eye June 20 when Siegel, a figure in California bookmaking and gambling activities, was shot to death in Virginia Hill's luxurious Beverly Hills home.

Siegel was murdered both here and in California that she, too, soon would be dead.

Her background is obscure. A familiar figure in the gay Hollywood and Beverly Hills night spots, she was generally known as an Alabama belle, but she was ever definite as to what she was an heiress.

But money she had, and she spent it lavishly, giving large parties and entertaining friends at her well appointed home. Many of her guests were well known in the film colony.

Seamen's Union Says Communism Never the Issue

Ottawa, Aug. 23 (CP)—Shrugging off the highly-publicized Communist issue as a minor concession, officials of the Canadian Seamen's Union today were jubilant over signing of a new government-announced settlement of the dispute between the union and three major lake shipping companies.

Claiming that "communism was never the issue" Union President Harry Davis said the union had yielded on the question of non-communist declarations because it did not want a strike that would hit the Canadian economy and hold up shipments of necessities to Britain and Europe.

On other points the union claimed it had gained ground, including concessions towards holiday pay and the cessation of all "discrimination" by the company unions.

The settlement announced yesterday was the result of a series of huddles between Labor Minister Mitchell and other labor department officials, C.S.U. officials and the three shipping companies —Canada Steamship Lines, Seaway Towing Ltd. and Colonial Steamship Company.

Principal parties by the companies was the concession of the right to the C.S.U. where delegates board company ships, they will be allowed to discuss, and deal with "Communists" or "Communist agents".

Also, the union agreed to specify in applying for shore delegations that the delegate must be "to the best of the knowledge of the union," not Communists, and that liability claims for the death or injury of delegates aboard ship be waived.

The third concession of the company union certification of delegates is war servicemen or ex-servicemen, which the company accepted without reservations by the union. Davis said that "like most of the patrol men quality in syn case."

Davis hailed as a big win for the union a clause stating that in early negotiations supervisory vote among lake seamen on the company offer will be taken. He will act as a bargaining agency for the 1946 contract, and the ballot to be taken, the C.S.U. will be the only union mentioned.

100 PERSONS FLEE AS FIRE DESTROYS 5 HOMES, SAWMILL

Half Million Dollars In Losses Estimated In Nova Scotia Fires, No Prospect of Rain

Halifax, Aug. 23 (CP)—Flames licked at the outskirts of two Nova Scotia communities today as weather forecasts warned that "there is no prospect of rain to relieve the critical forest fire situation."

With fires burning at a half dozen points on the Nova Scotia mainland and in Cape Breton Island, the most serious was at Sheet Harbor, a lumbering community of 1,200 about 75 miles east of here, where a sawmill and five homes were destroyed and 100 persons forced to flee.

Early today the flames, which had already caused loss estimated at $500,000, were threatening the Watt section area, on the eastern outskirts of the town. Here 20 were left homeless and the lumber mill and stock-piles of J. Lewis and Sons were destroyed. A telephone operator said that flames were only three quarters of a mile from the heart of the town.

Another fire burning on a four-mile front menaced the Shelburne-harbor village of Lower Sandy Point, 20 miles west of here. Rosengrs said only a change in the wind, or cool rain, could save the homes in its path but village and rural fire crews to stop the flames before they reached the houses.

At Sheet Harbor people who fled from their homes took shelter with homes and friends in communities but with dense blankets of smoke covering the whole community many others made preparations to leave today.

Three fire-fighters working close to the blaze were trapped and encamped by swimming across the river as flames burned down to the shore.

Only one casualty, a fire-fighter who fell from a truck, was reported but Noah Mc Rae Sheet Harbor physician was kept busy through the night treating cases of exhaustion.

Fire apparatus came from near by villages and water from Dartmouth but foresters said they needed still more.

R.C.M.P. Constable Norman Hyslop said water was needed for non-existent.

Two fires in Cape Breton Island were reported brought under control during the night.

Two Remanded In 'Red Belt' Slaying Case

Haileybury, Aug. 22. (CP)—Rosco Shaw and Roger Gauthier, charged with the "red belt" slaying of pretty Valair Vandebelt, 22-year-old Toronto bank stenographer found for a week when they were discovered by Constable Jack Atkinson in Haileybury police court today.

The Magistrate said no date had yet been set for preliminary hearing and indicated the world that the police would be given a further week to complete their present week.

The body of Miss Vandebelt, a red plastic belt around her neck, was found in the bush near River Quinze, 15 miles by road north of Cochrane, June 23. The strangling apparently took place June 21 after a party at a cabin on Lake Timiskaming. The body was found her clothes had been ripped in places and her head was battered.

Several weeks later, after a coroner's jury had returned a murder verdict, Rocco Gauthier, both of Cochrane, were charged with the slaying. They were members of the all-night party after which the nurse disappeared.

Ben Sopher, 75, in Serious Condition As Result of Vicious Attack

Victim of a brutal hammer assault, Ben Sopher, seventy-three year-old proprietor of an Upper Front Street second-hand shop, is today in a most serious state as a result of injuries received at the hands of his unknown assailant.

Mr. Sopher was in his shop about five o'clock yesterday afternoon, when a young man between 20 and 25 years of age walked into the store.

"Have you any day-beds for sale?" he inquired in a courteous manner.

"Yes," replied Mr. Sopher, turning, as he spoke and leading the way to the rear of the shop.

Before the elderly man could answer, a hammer, evidently picked up by the assailant while he was walking through the shop, swung viciously, striking the store proprietor on the right cheek bone.

Partially stunned and bleeding Mr. Sopher lunged for his assailant. Again the hammer crashed down striking him on top of the head. His attempt to avoid the blow caused the weapon to slide off. Observers it is believed the blow might have been fatal.

Mr. Sopher, blood streaming down his face again lunged at his attacker and tried to hold him. The man however, eluded his grasp and escaped through the door. Mr. Sopher ran to the street calling for help and members of the City Fire Department rushed to his aid.

The assailant, however, made his getaway disappearing in the crowd of people that lined Front Street at this point. He was dressed in a light coat, wearing dark trousers. Of dark complexion, he is said to be a young man. Police are investigating.

Virtual Ultimatum Delivered to U. N. Security Council by Representatives

Lake Success, N.Y., Aug. 23 — (AP)— The United Nations Security Council; its efforts to halt hostilities in Indonesia branded a failure by The Netherlands, appeared today to be weeks today in its efforts to reach a decision on the problem.

Dr. Leon M. Van Kleffens, Netherlands representative, delivered a virtual ultimatum to the council yesterday, demanding that it "either restore by force" Netherlands but with dense blankets of smoke covering the whole community many others made preparations to leave today.

Three fire-fighters working close to the blaze were trapped and encamped by swimming across the river as flames burned down to the shore.

Only one casualty, a fire-fighter who fell from a truck, was reported but Noah Mc Rae Sheet Harbor physician was kept busy through the night treating cases of exhaustion.

PEACE TREATIES RATIFIED BY ROMANIAN GOVT.

Foreign Minister Says Interval Between Two Wars Only an Armistice

Bucharest, Aug. 23.— (AP)— The Romanian Chamber of Deputies, in a special meeting today unanimously ratified the peace treaty with the Allied and Associated powers.

The entire cabinet was present in the Chamber today, Foreign Minister Gheorghe Tatarescu said the present peace treaties were the definite form of all peace treaties of the first World War.

"The interval between the two wars was nothing but a long armistice," he said.

"The present peace treaty puts an end to a last war that has been waged against the will of the people," he said.

The treaty requires Romania, which fought with the Second World War on the Axis side, to pay Russia $300,000,000 in reparations; restores Bessarabia and Bukovina to eastern border, which Russia annexed, and limits the armed forces to 138,000 men in the army, navy, air force and gendarmerie; air force, 15,000 tons of warships and 150 planes, 100 of combat type.

The pact was drawn up in a series of 21 peace conferences of foreign ministers' meetings and a 21-power conference in Paris and was signed in Paris last February 10.

In addition to losing Bessarabia to Russia, Romania lost to Russia Romania also cedes Southern Dobruja to Bulgaria.

Commenting on the territorial clause, Tatarescu said the new treaty conforms with Russia has been established where they were in 1914 and that Russia has made no territorial claims on Romania.

Tatarescu declared that Transylvania had been the government's main object at the Paris Peace Conference and that this has been accomplished with Russian backing.

Speaking of Southern Dobruja, Tatarescu declared a deep misunderstanding that had lasted a quarter of a century disturbing normal relations with Bulgaria.

Toronto Faces Ice Shortage

Toronto, Aug. 23—(CP)—With a serious shortage of ice in prospect for the immediate future, Toronto council has called a meeting for Monday to discuss ways of conserving their present reserves.

"We haven't a famine yet and we are trying to avoid one," said the assistant manager of the large ice plant there to double shifts if it, reserves are running dangerously low.

Other dealers predicted that the situation would be much worse by the end of August with little hope of ice available during September.

Dealers estimate that on a hot August day Toronto's consumption of ice amounts to 250,000 tons, or 25 pounds each, almost double that of 10 years ago.

BRITAIN ASKS FRANCE TO TAKE BACK REFUGEES

Three Transports With 4,000 Jews En Route To British Zone In Germany

Paris, Aug. 23 (Reuters) —The British government has asked the French government to take back 4,000 Jews from the 4,000 Jewish refugees now being transported to Hamburg, the British embassy here announced today.

The refugees now are en route to Germany in three ships. They left Port De Bouc, southern France, last night after expiration of a British transit permit to leave the ships or be transported to Germany.

The British announcement said the refugees would be brought back to France, the French government agrees, by train from the British zone of Germany.

A foreign office spokesman in London this morning made it clear that the difference between the alternatives given the Jews when they reach Hamburg and those which they faced at Port De Bouc will be that at Hamburg there will be no prospect of their being put on board ship. Their choice will be one of remaining in the British zone of Germany and one of proceeding to France if the French government agrees to the fresh British request.

The decision that the immigrants shall this time refuse to disembark clearly implies that they anticipate forcible entry in advance of Hashburg if necessary.

The question of disembarkation will be handled by British authorities, since the British government is only asking France to take an attitude not less favorable to "illegal" immigrants than it took on the occasion of the three similar waters during the past three years. The three transports are expected to reach Hamburg in about 10 days.

The British action was based on the legal claim that the Jews have no residence in France, since that was the country from which they sailed in the first time.

The spokesman declined to answer any questions about what would happen to the Jews if the French refused to receive them.

Suspects Arrested In Death of Two British Sergeants

Jerusalem, Aug. 23.—(AP)— Police announced today that "a number of persons" had been arrested in connection with the abduction and hanging last month of British Sergeants Clifford Martin and Mervyn Paice. The bodies of Martin and Paice blackened and bloodstained, recently found suspended from two Eucalyptus trees in a wood south of Nathanya on the Palestine coastal plain.

Urgun Zvi Leumi, Jewish underground organization, had announced earlier that the two had been "convicted" of belonging to an illegal occupying force and had been hanged. Irgun said the hangings were in reprisal for the executions of three Jews at Acre prison July 29 for participation in the Irgun raid on Acre.

Martin and Paice were kidnapped July 12 in front of a Nathanya coffee house as hostages for the three Jews, at that time being held under sentence of death.

A booby trap went off when the bodies were discovered, injuring a member of the search party and blowing one of the bodies to bits.

Police Inspector-General W. N. Gray told a press conference it was likely the two sergeants were held in the Nathanya area during all the time the authorities were searching for them, and that the mock trial was carried out in the same area.

Gray said that since July 1, 323 suspects were arrested, of whom 111 later were released.

Chief of Police Identifies Men By Fingerprints

Found on Stolen Getaway Car Used by Convicts

By GEORGE RONALD
...(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Windsor, Aug. 23—(CP)—Chief Constable Claude Renaud said today it had been definitely established that the two bandits who robbed a Royal Bank of Canada branch here yesterday were thirty-year-old Nicholas Minello of Ottawa, had separated from his two partners.

Renaud were the objects of a concentrated police search in the Chapeau, Que., area early this week. That hunt petered out after squads of provincial officers unsuccessfully combed an area in which it was believed the escapees had been trapped.

Lauzon, considered the most dangerous of the two escaped convicts, was serving 36 years for crimes including arson, false pretenses and a jailbreak at Kitchener, Ont. McDonald, 40 year-old native of Windsor, was serving 15-year sentence for hijacking, consecutive with a seven-year sentence for assault. Minello was serving 15 years for armed robbery and kidnapping.

Kinahan told police the younger of the two bandits looked "like newspaper pictures" of the escaped Kingston Penitentiary.

And the identification recalled predictions by veteran Windsor policemen earlier this week that Lauzon would not be recaptured without a gun battle.

One official said today he doubted there would be any early development in the hunt for the bank robbers "unless they decide to come out."

The bandits, one armed with a sub-machine gun and the other with a Lager automatic pistol, entered the bank three minutes before closing time yesterday.

Mr. McIntyre, the bank assistant accountant, said he saw one man with a gun inside and from a spot from his arm, revealing the underclothing. He dug the weapon against McIntyre's ribs and said:

"This is a stickup."

The second bandit entered through a side door about the same time.

This twn gunmen forced 15 customers and seven girl employees to line up against a wall and made McIntyre and manager A. A. Kinahan open the safe.

Then as one man stood by the door and "covered" the customers and employees, the other left for about 10 minutes and emerged at the wheel of the car. The entire holdup took only 13 minutes.

Renaud said that the Ottawa-to-town district spotted the car about 10 minutes later. Minutes before that, an unidentified woman telephoned police to tell that two men had abandoned the car and hurried down an alley. Unconfirmed reports said Minello was identified by a witness.

Renaud said the car, owned by R. C. Cairns of (60 McDonell St.) Ottawa, was stolen in that city Thursday. In the rear seat police found a sawed-off 12-gauge shotgun, a small quantity of ammunition and some clothing, including a suit coat owned by Cairns. It was worn by one of the bandits during the holdup, police said.

Benny Goodman, King of Swing, Neatly Outswung by Tommy Dorsey

Hollywood, Aug. 23. (AP) — Benny Goodman, long-known as "The King of Swing" yesterday was outswung by Tommy Dorsey last night.

Goodman was home nursing a sore nose and chin where, Goodman's publicists said, Trombone Tommy landed the old one-two at a swank Hollywood night spot in more ways than musical.

The story, as Goodman spokesmen reconstructed it, was that Goodman arrived two hours late at the place, yesterday, and aroused Dorsey's ire by interpreting Goodman's tardiness with a remake. Dorsey is reported to have said:

"Listen, Benny, I came here at nine with the other boy, after working until two. Maybe you can step but we'd like to get the cover charge."

An exchange of phrases led to Dorsey's blows, ringsiders said. Goodman, who apparently landed only verbally, picked himself up off the sidewalk and went home.

Later, Tommy sidestepped questioners, denying he struck the clarinetist. Explained Dorsey:

"There was a little verbal argument. A couple of music stands got upset. Why, I'm a musician .I couldn't punch my way out of a paper bag."

Goodman gave this version.

"I was late and there they saying my clarinet when Tommy walked up and started swinging. I'm mystified about the whole thing."

He denied calling Dorsey any names.

Goodman and Dorsey have been rivals in the popular music battle for a good part of the Chicago days in the 1920s, but this was the first flare-up reported between them.

It was believed the youngster with another boy had decided to take in the Kiwanis Karnival at the Armouries and a search there revealed no trace of the youngsters.

CURLY BOULTER HOOKS 28-POUND 'LUNGE' IN MUSCOTE BAY

"Curly" Boulter and Harry Shorecliff, who are enjoying a holiday down the bay, went out for a spot of fishing last evening in Muscote Bay. Curly hooked and a 28-pound lunge was the reward for the trip. The boys were getting ready to pack up, when Curly got a bite. He got the big fellow struck. Both were using a Williams' spoon and Mr. Boulter says it is a good one. Then some minutes later the fishing party returned to the cottage and sent to Fisheries for packing in ice of the lunge. Two were also landed by Mrs. Meeker on Bridge Street last week and many stopped at the cottage to view the beautiful specimen.

Huge Muskie Strikes Drowsing Fisherman's Hook

Enjoying a quiet afternoon's fishing, and searching for bass, Stanley Kerr of this city and John Hart, Hoxlig, recline lazily in their boat in the Moira River between Chisholm's Mills and Thomasburg. It was a warm day and the men drowsed in the afternoon sun. Suddenly Mr. Kerr's fishing rod struck the hook that was bait-ing for bass, and the line began to run at a line attached to a light casting rod, it surged down stream. The boat was towed as the line slipped away.

Round, the men started "to fish" and well they might because at the end of a 25-minute struggle they succeeded in some deft manipulating of a light rod and line, they hauled in a 25-pound musky that measured 29 inches, with a girth of 13 inches.

The boys could scarcely believe their luck. It is a good fish story and the lads have first-hand evidence to prove their yarn.

Coroner's Jury Holds Driver Of Bus Responsible

A coroner's jury held Gerald Holdenback, Trenton, not criminally responsible for the death of James Purcell, who died in the Belleville General Hospital on Aug. 7th after being struck by the Trenton-Belleville bus in front of the Ontario School for the Deaf. The hearing was opened before Coroner Dr. R. Potter with Crown Attorney H. C. Carman, K.C., conducting the investigation Friday evening.

The coroner's jury verdict read as follows: "that James Tweedy came to death in the Belleville General Hospital as the result of personal injuries received on Highway No. 2 when struck by a passenger bus owned by Arthur Bathurst Limited, Toronto and driven by Gerald Holdenback, said bus being at a time when the lights on the bus failed to operate and defective lights caused by the use of an appliance known as a fuzzer, used to obtain street car fuse which had blown out.

"We, the jury, condemn this practice of using what is known as a 'fuzzer' which causes a potential danger such as arose in this case. It is the view of this jury that the driver of the bus, Mr. Holdenback, should be held responsible for his negligence which resulted in the death of James Tweedy.

Carson, fanned and McCreary, pitch, hitting, scored Carson who had walked ahead of him. In the ninth the first three batters hit safely. Then came a deliberate pass to Vern Guyer which scored Doc Empson who served as pinch hitter for Latta at the plate. Then the Shoe crew went to work with none out. Bowman, first hit to the second baseman. Carson, fanned and McCreary, pitch, hitting, scored on a pitcher to first.

NOMADIC WEED

Regina (CP)—Most Regina citizens will admit that weeds grow tall here. But they can't figure out how a clump of weeds came to be waving atop a street-car trolley pole as it clattered down a main street yesterday.

Minister Chalks up Precedent By Giving Interview in Plane

By JOHN LEDLIE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 21 (CP)—Hon. Clarence C. D. Howe, who likes flying and has been doing a lot of it recently, has chalked up another precedent this time.

Canada's United States-born Reconstruction minister let himself be interviewed by newspaper reporters aboard an airplane in flight.

Mr. Howe had been invited in advance to talk for publication with a few heads and his feet in the clouds.

It was 5.15 a.m. at Dorval, Que., airport and the Howe party just stepped from a transatlantic plane—about as inauspicious a time as any to be thumbing a plane lift from a busy airport. Mr. Howe, the reporter asked for a ride to Ottawa in the government plane warming up for the minister.

"Sure, hop right in," he advised. And in just the time it took to transfer baggage, Mr. Howe was launched on his first airborne interview.

Above the muffled thrumming of the motors, while Mrs. Howe set up shead engrossed in a Quebec City newspaper, information on a score of topics ranging from the clay-like qualities of British bread to the latest political speculation in the newspapers.

Mr. Howe occasionally interjected a supplementary observation, particularly when the talk turned to the British food, its deterioration in the national physique.

"We had lunch at Sydney, and there was no salt, and there was more beer on the table than Vimy Ridge a month in Britain."

Both the ministers made it plain they are enthusiastic air travelers. For the minister, that's nothing new. But Mr. Howe has an open secret here he'd like to complete his public career by taking over management of Trans-Canada Air Lines for the rest of the summer period.

He talked with pleasure of their T.C.A. flight across the Atlantic, and of how the line was soon to get big new planes to expand its service.

Once Mrs. Howes looked up from her book to remark aloud they'd be having morning tea right then if they'd come by train. "Or at sea," she added.

"Who'd want to be on the ocean?" her husband said "all right here," the minister returned. His wife agreed.

Mrs. Geo. Carver Can Now Boast Of Fishing Art

People cannot even sit in a boat anymore without being bothered by a lunge. Last evening the wife of a prominent sports editor on the Belleville paper was quietly wetting a line when something began to agitate the end of her pontoon.

The current was nothing to speak of so it was felt that the tug had some other explanation.

After the lunge had told the angler that the nuisance was still present. Why do fish always come to spoil an otherwise perfect evening?

The lady in question began to reel in the line and the fight was on. Round and under remained submerged for the duration of the tussle and after several short runs it began to tire. Then with a final nonchalant heave it came over the side.

Today Mrs. George Carver will serve her family the juicy fish steaks of a six-pound eighteen that upset an evening of contentment and meditation. Mrs. Carver was quoted as saying that she had no intention of giving lessons in the art of catching lunge.)

Point Traverse

'Toronto' Taken To Hamilton For Scrap Purposes

Point Traverse, Aug. 23 — A familiar sight to fisherfolk of this tiny colony was the appearance of the Canada Steamship Lines excursion steamer, Toronto.

For some 33 years the S.S. Toronto and her sister ship the S.S. Kingston, made daily runs during the summer season passed the "Red Cedars" light here. For many years she has been moored in Toronto's harbour basin. On Thursday last she left on her final voyage, being towed to Hamilton to be broken up for scrap.

Large Whitefish

Two jumbo whitefish, weighing 12 and 8 pounds respectively were taken from commercial fishing nets by Ray Lancaster, local fisherman.

Finds Gold Coins

The Main Ducks, an island whose name is synonymous with raw, stark happenings, for years has called treasure seekers from far and wide, seeking lost gold that legend says was buried there during the early part of the 18th century.

In 1940 a lone prospector by the name of Ken. B. Thomas, who has been a treasure hunter since 1934, when he started a mining fledgel to his prospecting equipment, spent many days of arduous tenative, untiring search over the Docker, but failed to find any trace of a chest of gold locks, which legend says was buried sometime in the middle of the 18th century, when a French brigantine set out from Fort Frontenac for Fort Niagara with a chest of gold coins in keeping of a paymaster. It never reached Fort Niagara.

On his way to locate pay dirt in Northern Ontario, he stopped over in Saint John, N. B. the other day, to test out his electrical device on some buried money he had heard about.

After 18 days of slowly pacing over the indicated terrain, he said the apparatus signalled a find. It was two iron pots of gold and silver coins, minted by the United States. The owner of the property on which the coins were found, split 50-50.

Protests Russian Occupation Of Chinese Port

Washington, Aug. 23. (AP)— A new United States protest to Russia against the continued soviet occupation of the Chinese Port of Dairen was disclosed on Thursday by the State Department.

A note delivered to Moscow Aug. 16 said the United States government "will of certainly hold the Soviet Government responsible" for treatment accorded American interests in the port city while it is under Red Army rule.

Under a 1945 treaty, Dairen was to be returned to Chinese administration and opened to world trade. Russia, however, has banned from the port all foreign shipping since last March.

Cadiz Death Toll Set at 180, Injured 5,000

Cadiz, Spain, Aug. 23. (AP) — The Provincial Board of Health, giving the official casualty figures on Monday night's munitions blast in Cadiz said Thursday 180 persons were dead, 5,000 injured and that about 30 bodies remained beneath the wreckage.

The Board said the number of injured included approximately 2,000, including 250 seriously hurt. Several thousand persons suffered cuts and bruises from flying glass and debris.

Mayor Francisco Canchez Cossio estimated earlier that the death toll from the shattering explosion at the nearby naval torpedo and mine factory would reach approximately 300. He appealed to Generalissimo Franco to remove amusement and munition stores remaining within the city limits, saying they were likely to cause further disaster.

The mayor also outlined the urgent reconstruction problems facing the city — starting from the blast damage, which early estimates said the city council $10,000,000. He asked Franco to rebuild the Old Age Home, hospitals, the Cadiz theatre and other public institutions destroyed by the blast.

Fair Prospects Best in History Says Secretary

Tweed (Special) — The prospects for Tweed Fair to be held on Wednesday, Sept. 17th, are the best in the history of the agricultural society.

The old grandstand was dismantled and the new grandstand is being rushed to completion, under the direction of Wallace Johnston, General manager of the Sawyer Stoll Co.

A portion of land has been acquired from the Alexander Estate to extend it to the east and it is estimated it will seat twelve hundred people, and will make a great improvement to the grounds. A contract has been signed with the Casey Midways of Winnipeg and they have agreed to be on the grounds with shows and rides for the children.

The prize list has been completed and the cash awards in cattle, horses and ladies classes as well will be far in excess of previous years.

The prizes should attract additional interest this year, and the prize lists will be in the mail during the next few days.

The Fair is one of Tweed's oldest and most institutions and it deserves the support of the general public.

Hopeful Sign at Least

Ontario traffic death toll in July was 43 deaths, Highways Minister Doucett announced as compared with 56 in the same month last year. Ten years ago the fatality total was 58 more in July than in last month.

Mr. Doucett however was warned that improvement in a single month is nothing more than a hopeful sign and was no proof that the upward trend of traffic fatalities has been reversed.

The traffic total decrease was in the face of the heaviest traffic in Ontario's history but the worst accident period is still ahead. Therefore he warned motorists and pedestrians to continue vigilance for the prevention of accidents, so that an improvement may not be reversed. Toll is still heavy.

Among the July traffic deaths were five children between five and fourteen years of age with the traffic deaths of 14 children in July 1946.

Schools, the Department of Education, newspapers and radio stations were given praise by the Highways Minister for their co-operation in the traffic safety campaign of the Highways Department. Combined efforts of the Department and these agencies have been very marked and appear to have had effect in helping to curb the awful tragedies which can happen if there is not eternal vigilance on the part of all those who use the highways and roads whether as pedestrians, motorists, bicyclists or cyclists.

It is everyone's duty to observe the laws of the roads for they were made for safety.

Cancer Research Awards

Awards totalling more than $75,000 have been made by the Ontario Cancer Treatment and Research Foundation to help the winning research being carried on in medical schools and hospitals of the Province.

The present time is keenly alert to the possibility of the needs of research in fight this disease which annually claims a great number of people everywhere in the world.

Investigation into such a disease is not bounded by any national boundaries but is the work of science everywhere. It is man's task to get at the secret of cancer and with that knowledge to go on to conquest over this destroyer of humans.

The people of every community in Canada have shown a sympathetic interest in the annual campaigns carried on with the purpose of bringing to every one of attention the importance of early detection of cancer and of the present means of combatting the disease.

Man owes a great debt to those men of science who devote their time and energy to the research of this enemy of human life and to all engaged in arousing public interest in research.

Fair Season Not Far Away

Present preoccupation with the severity of the heat wave does not prevent realization that the summer season is advancing and that before long the early fairs and exhibitions will be going on in various parts of the province. Exhibitions begin early and some are very late but the great majority of the shows are held in September.

Local and district fairs carried on without interruption during the war, it being the general feeling that these could not well be dropped because of their inspirational and industrial value. In the time when the wartime effort was strenuous and demanded the all-out service of everyone in whatever position he occupied. The moral effect of the rural fairs and the district exhibitions was realized, these providing an opportunity for the public to express its feelings in keen rivalry in the growing of grain and in the production of the necessities of life which have belongs to the farmer's and Empire's table. These meetings of the people and the keenness of the competition have inspired the people to their highest effort. That they not fail has been amply proven and is already history.

These fairs have served in times of peace and war their districts and agriculture in general as well as the Dominion and the Empire's cause for they have been a source of staunch builders of morale and enterprise. They are integral parts of the life of their communities.

The war over, the fairs carry on the cause of building up agriculture and industry with renewed zest. Their history of success in the years 1945 and 1946 as in other years offers the assurance and guarantee that in 1947 they will be successful.

"Ballooning" to the Sea

Facts are stranger than fiction, so the story goes, but fiction is still several furlongs ahead when it comes to a comparison of what modern research has been able to do with its wonderful "deep sea diving dress" outlined by Jules Verne in his imaginative journey "Twenty-Thousand Leagues Under the Sea."

Even the goals sought by Professor August Picard, famous Belgian scientist-balloonist, now would-be conqueror of great ocean depths, can at best enlighten only a few dark corners that seek to send his "unsinkable" or bathyscaphe as he calls it, seven miles beneath the surface of the sea in the Gulf of Guinea, West Africa, says Christian Science Monitor.

The idea is a brave one, says Picard who explains why he would never trust himself in the bathysphere. "Cables break too often, and then where are you?" he asks. He calls his sphere "a submarine free balloon."

As long as there are men like Picard, Beebe, Lake, Maury, and Wilkins, the search for knowledge in the depths will make progress. Many men and nations depend upon the sea for existence, and what transpires in the abyssal region, as well as what happens in the atmosphere above, influences ocean currents, the weather in Nebraska, the number of fish in the market, and other things important to men who never see the ocean as well as to those who sail upon it.

Beneath These Roofs

There is a great difference between looking down on a thing and looking down on them. Looking up at houses attention is focused on windows, doors and balconies, and one feels the owner's, power, or his humbleness.

Looking down on houses is different. Variations vanish, for rooftops have a singularly levelling effect. Flat roofs, sloping roofs and gabled roofs, one very like another, show humanity small and powerless.

In themselves roofs are interesting. Basking in the sun, they are contented as sleeping kittens. Covered with snow, they are friendly and companionable. Shining in the rain, they give a sense of other-worldliness.

But, more than interesting, a rooftop is significant. It is some-how a shelter against the world, the centre of his hopes, interests and ideals, and expresses more than any other thing his concept of harmony and home. — Montreal Gazette.

Sweeping the Seas

The vast minesweeping operation which is making the coast and approaches to world shipping is now nearing completion. The fleets of 13 nations are co-operating in this work of which the largest share has fallen to Royal Navy. It is the biggest job of mine clearance in history and aims at freeing all European waters for the unrestricted movement of shipping by next year. Today — after two years of patient labor always under the threat of sudden danger — 140,000 square miles are now entirely clear of mines.

An article on resuscitation points out that people who have been in the water as long as half an hour have been revived and it is also said the effort should not be abandoned in an hour as is a usual practice but should be continued for three or four hours. Cases of electric shock have recovered after eight or ten hours. In the effort to resuscitate from drowning a important thing is to draw the tongue forward and open the larynx for air.—Fort Arthur News Chronicle.

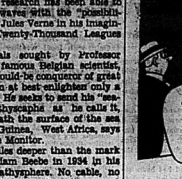
COMMON GROUND

If race and creed
Of hate are sped,
Then cattle are
The nobler breed.



If human worth
Belongs to birth,
Then here can be
No peace on earth.

Not pigment hue
Nor creed we ask you
But what we are
And what we do.

Where good is found,
Where hearts are sound
All men should meet
On common ground.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How did "indigo" originate?

"Indigo" is from Latin "indicum," Indian. The species of plant called indigo was native to southern Asia. In India the process of producing indigo dye was a carefully guarded secret and for two centuries European importers of the dyestuff were fearful at a great cost without knowing it was obtained from a species of the pea family closely related to one growing in their own backyards and fields.

The ancient Britons stained their bodies blue with woad, a paint known as woad, made from a plant similar to indigo, and the ancient Greeks and Romans made a dye from the same species, a related species native to the New World and was the source of a dye used by the Aztec civilization Mexicans, whose name for it signified "dye."

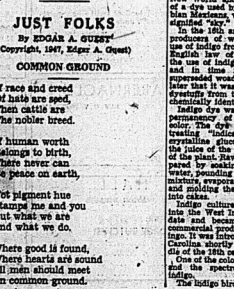
In the 16th and 17th centuries produced in India was the source of indigo from the Orient. An English law of 1581 forbidding the use of the new textile dyestuff and in time indigo practically superseded woad. It was not until later that it was learned that the dyestuffs from these plants were chemically identical.

Indigo dye was notable for the permanency of its strong blue color. The dye was obtained by treating "indican," a colorless crystalline glucoside found in the juice of the leaves and stems of the plant. Raw indigo was prepared by soaking the plants in water, pounding and churning the mixture, evaporating off the water and molding the paste into cakes.

Indigo culture was introduced into the West Indies at an early date and became an important commercial product in South Carolina shortly before the middle of the 18th century.

One of the colors of the rainbow and the spectrum was named indigo.

The indigo bird, or indigo bunting, a small American song-bird of the finch tribe, was so called from the rich, sky-blue color of the male's summer plumage.



Indigo continued to be the most valuable vegetable dyestuff of chemical dyes began to come into use about 50 years ago.

Convict Search Leads to Quebec But No Results

Montreal, Aug. 23 — (CP) — Search for a convicted murderer who escaped from Kingston penitentiary and a kidnapper named by the Manitoba-North Dakota border district of Quebec Friday but Provincial Police said today that there was no indication that their "very good clues" had led them to the missing trio.

Capt. Alfred Quesnerville of the provincial police said two guided cars were sent to the heavily wooded district about 100 miles north of Ottawa to follow up a tip on the whereabouts of Donald (Mickey) McDonald of Toronto, Ulysses Lesage of Windsor, Ont. and Nicholas Minille of Ottawa.

"We have had no report back yet," he said. "That may mean there was nothing to it."

Earlier, Inspector Simcoe Beauregard of the provincial police said that if the men are still on the road "we will find them but it will be a different matter if they have to take to the woods."

Police Find Body Of Woman At Address Given

New York, Aug. 23 — (AP) A man said by police to have given a fictitious address in connection before walking into a police station to confess a slaying was held Friday on a homicide charge, booked only as "John Doe."

Police said the distraught man, about 30 years old, told them today:

He killed a woman at 230 Riverington Street. But I won't tell you who I am. I have a mother and sister and I don't want to disgrace them."

At that address, police found the body of Mrs. Clarissa Strakele, 38, who had been strangled with a bobby sox and her head battered in with a hammer, which apparently she had used herself to beat a hole in her breast.

Police said the man told them he met Mrs. Strakele Wednesday night at a dance and escorted her to several night clubs and then to her apartment, and remembered nothing more.

FIRST POLIO VICTIM IN LONDON DISTRICT

"The Roosevelt Story" Film Has Premiere

New York, Aug. 22, (AP)—"The Roosevelt Story," a semi-documentary film based on the life of Franklin D. Roosevelt, had its world premiere last night before a Broadway audience that cheered—and even cried—at a movie depicting the life and work of the late president as "something of a legend in himself," who appeared throughout the picture in "flesh-and-blood" footage covering 40 years of his private and public life of her husband, and a group attending the premiere.

PERSONAL HEALTH TALKS

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, and to questions of treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed for reply. Address Dr. Brady, care this paper. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to the above rules. Dr. Brady cannot undertake to diagnose.)

MY LEGS HURT, THE MOPPET CRIED

From early infancy my boy complained of his legs hurting him and I was hard to manage, as soon as he could talk he would complained "my legs hurt" and would cry almost all the night. I tried everything I could think of for relief but failed in relieving him.

Here let me (Brady) interrupt to say it never hurts to grow. Pray correct me if I am wrong, but medical may help some other unfortunate mother to, give her baby some consideration. Don't say "ignorant" — that's what I mean. How could a mother be otherwise if she has never had even a term of instruction in school on the care of the baby? Annually the public schools graduate millions of boys and girls who are as ignorant as you are, Ma'am. The entire subject of having babies and caring for them is not quite decent, so far as the American educational system is concerned.

Finally I took him to a doctor. The doctor said my boy had rheumatic pains, Ma'am. It is impossible to tell you the treatment he gave me for a real doctor of some kind of trick doctor, I hope it was the latter. Because if it was the phony kind, he called me a "good doctor" told you.

Finally I took him to a doctor who told me the pains were caused by dampness, exposure and drafts. He ordered "give him aspirin twice a day, keep him out of drafts, protect him against exposure, and he will outgrow it."

"If you paid the "doctor" a fee for that, Ma'am, you were bunkoed. Tell him I said so, please.

Still I wasn't satisfied, so I took him to a large children's hospital and there I received the most identical advice — to give him aspirin whenever he complained of any pain, until he outgrew it.

The size of the hospital makes little difference in the soundness or value of the advice you get from the institution.

I still could not see how aspirin would relieve my boy's pains. I had leg pains for nearly three years. How long was I expected to give him aspirin — and what effect would it have on his legs?

At last I decided to ask a non-professional quack (name of Brady) about it. All I got for my pains was a little print about "Rheumatic Fever and Growing Pains" and suggestion that I consult my M.D. as a preventative. I began giving the boy that, and in a few weeks the pains ceased and never returned.

Naturally, Ma'am, when you called in a quack of my class—

Seriously, we'll never know whether calcium and vitamin D would aid any real case or not. All we know is that it can't do any harm, and it's cheap and easy to give.

Answer — I am ashamed to admit the pedatrician may be be right about that. Ashamed for the medical profession. Every reader expecting or hoping to have a baby! If so, send 25 cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet "Preparing for Maternity" and one entitled "Caring for a baby. If so send 25 cents and self addressed envelope for the Brady Baby Book.

Adopting a Baby

Please advise my husband and me on adopting a baby. We don't know where to apply. (Mrs. A.)

Answer — Ask advice I can give you is, consult your physician or other reputable physician in your community.

Milquetoast the Pedestrian

Brought our three fine children up since the prenatal days of preparing for "Maternity" and "The Brady Baby Book". In our home no one imagines there is any difference between wet feet, chilling insufficient clothes, sudden changes and the contrary infections .... I asked our pedatrician about it and he agreed all that is a lot of hooey. But he said he can't tell mothers so, for they would give him and take their children to a pedatrician who believes drafts and the like cause respiratory disease.

Mining Engineer Strikes it Rich Gets Girl, Too

Editors note: Through an error this story which appeared in The Intelligencer because of its interest it is being repeated).

By HAL MOYLE

New York — Two important things happened to Mark Evans, a young mining engineer, during the snow-locked winter he spent alone in the Canadian wilderness.

Found Golden Vein

He found a vein of gold ore of fabulous promise. And he fell in love with Kathleen McDingle.

When his miner's pick uncovered the yellow metal he had days of poverty were over. In the spring he would be able to sell his discovery for at least a million dollars.

At night when the wind beat against the tight-closed door of the old abandoned cabin he had made habitable, he would stretch out his head on his log pillow and dream of what he would do with his riches.

He would travel, yes — see all the strange cities he had read of in his lonesome hours. He would have been poor and lonely all his life. Now he could change all that.

It was then that Kathleen McDingle came into his life in an odd way. While examining debris from a shelf over his bunk he found a scrap of newspaper apparently torn from the society page. It showed the face of a beautiful, smiling girl with dark hair that hung to her shoulders.

The caption beneath the picture said she was Kathleen McDingle of the Montague of social register fame and that she was visiting friends in Montreal when there was no books in the public library newspapers to read in the snowbound weeks that followed, Evans studied the picture. Very soon he knew he would be full head over heels in love with Miss Plane.

"By golly, I'm going to marry her," he told himself suddenly one night. "I'm lonely young man and she's the first good looking one I didn't seem a strange duck to. I'll start making that plan."

When spring came Evans went to a leading mining company with his ore samples. In a few weeks he closed a deal with a firm that assured him of his million — and more. He left at once to find Kathleen McDingle.

The house was big and old and impressive. Mark felt a little timorous after ringing the doorbell. The door swung open and he found himself gawking into the face of a beautiful girl with long dark hair.

"You're Kathleen," he stammered.

"Yes," she said pleasantly.

"You're even prettier than the picture," said the bemused young engineer.

"I don't know what—" she started to say uncertainly. But Evans didn't let her finish. His arms went out in a swift torrent of words. He told her of his gold discovery and the discovery of her picture, and how he had come to love her. She listened in wonderment.

"Here," he said nervously as he concluded and pulled the worn picture from his wallet. She studied it and then looked at Evans thoughtfully.

"Mother!" she called into the interior of the room. A woman faced a graying woman of middle age came out.

"Look at this, mother," said the girl. The older woman glanced at the picture and exclaimed.

"Why, wherever did you get this, Kathleen? That picture of me taken after Montreal in 1920 before I was married."

Kathleen burst out laughing. He mother looked doubtfully on her daughter as the thunderstruck tall young man staring sick at her as if hypnotized.

"What's it all about?" asked he puzzled woman.

Kathleen thoughtfully studied the confused visitor who, after all, had found a nice new gold mine. A few eligible bachelors do these days. Her dark eyes smiled warmly at Evans with a sudden warmth that began to thaw his chilled despair. Mark smiled back at the lovely girl.

"It's a long story, mother, better invite this young man to stay for dinner."

HOLSTEIN TRIPLETS WIN TWENTY PRIZES

Farmington, Coun., Aug. 22 (AP)— This has been mass production week in the short history of Raymond P. Olson's dairy farm.

Early in the week one of Olson's Holstein had triplet heifers. They named Jock, Stock and Barrel. The next day, said Olson, another Holstein had twin bulls. This pair, he said, was christened Tom and Mike because they look alike."

300 YOUNGSTERS ATTEND SCHOOL AT THAMESVILLE

Pittsburgh Pirates Send Coaches to Aid Boys in Development

Thamesville, Ont., Aug. 22 — (CP) — The largest baseball school ever operated in Canada rolled into the Sports and Recreation field today with coaches from the Pittsburgh Pirates organization among the five points of the game to more than 300 enthusiastic youngsters.

The boys hail from almost every town and city in Western Ontario plus a few from points in Quebec, Detroit, U.S.A., Toronto, Ottawa and Manitoulin Island—and one came all the way from Halifax.

Sponsored by the Thamesville Board of Trade and the Pittsburgh Pirate Baseball Club, the school has two aims: to give expert coaching to any Canadian youth who desires it, and to pick out a few recruits with major league possibilities.

So far the school appears headed for success on both counts. The reception tendered it has flabbergasted the staff who had optimistically looked for 100 youngsters. As per procedure to go, all the scouts and coaches in attendance said they would be disappointed if less than ten of the lads failed to show enough to warrant a pro contract.

The school set up headquarters in Thamesville through the efforts of Fred Ruckle, well known in the Western Ontario baseball circles who has had a long connection with the Pirates. Ruckle's reason for its location in this area: George "Mickey" Gibson, former Pirate catcher and manager who now lives at Mount Brydges. Mooney is one of the active coaches on the staff and is getting just as much bang out of the showing of the young Canucks as the kids are themselves.

Joe Brecheen, a crack pitcher in the 1944-45 season, has been head man up to now but Ray Kennedy, big boss of the Pittsburgh farms, is due in soon—manned today when the All-Star recruits clash in two games in a big finale. George Stacko, a former Duquesne University football and wrestling ball coach, is another member of the staff, and Joe Vitelli, former Pirate, is the fourth.

"We know there are just as many ball players in Canada as in the United States," said Brecheen. "All they need is a little more expert coaching and a chance to make good." He said the school would be an annual affair. "We plan to give the Canadian lads every opportunity to make a place in pro ball," Brecheen stated.

Pound Three Shutouts Hurlers at 6 Hits Apiece Blows Up in First Inning Explosion

That first inning jinx that has been trailing the Kiwanis Juniors for the past two years assumed balloon-like proportions last night as Kingston won the first game in an initial best explosion that was not only heard for several city blocks but resulted in seven Kingston runners scrambling across the plate. The debacle resulted in a 13-0 win for the starry Kingston kids.

Our young golden youths had anything right and by the same token the Kingston lads didn't do anything wrong like the good team that they are.

They slashed out four hits including Gordie Bunton's double in first inning havoc, and added and abetted by four walks, three of them costly every time Gordie Bunton they had a field day at the plate. As per procedure to go, all the scouts and coaches in attendance said they would be disappointed if less than ten of the lads failed to show enough to warrant a pro contract.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

MARSH HAWK

With slow, steady, owl-like flight, a large bird glided low over the damp meadow. The evening was much like that of a Quiltmaker's picture, soft and grey elsewhere, and dark tips to the wings, tail and long neck showed. The tail was long and narrow. A few flaps, then a facing about and we saw the white rump of Mr. Flicker's.

Marsh Hawk, of course," said Vera, quickly adding, "Fetch!"

Down it came like a rock, and disappeared from our view. But we knew there was one field-mouse less in the world and that it made Marsh Hawk was having its supper.

The best way to identify Hawks is by their silhouette against the sky and their manner of flight, for it is seldom we get a close-up of one at rest because of tails and wings make good distinguishing marks. Now everything indicated that this was a Marsh Hawk; the conspicuous white rump giving the final clue. Females and juveniles are rusty red.

The male demonstrates expert flying when doing his spring courting. With measured beats of wings he shows off before his lady love. Then the pair usually build a nest in the tall marsh grass on—though indeed they are not particular—mice, mice their favourite food. What good eyesight must be theirs to spy small rodents in the grass! Their descent is then rapid, and the straight in the powerful talons, brought to a nearby fence post where it is methodically devoured, unless it is to be taken home to a hungry family.

Probably this is the most comprehensive of mammals Canada. During the beating period an average family makes away with approximately 1000 insects. Very rarely do they take small birds. Their valuable species must have full protection.

The nest of grasses is made on the ground, in a boggy marsh or wet meadow. The male shares the nest responsibility with the owner, and rears their young, and are fierce in defence. In the approach of danger they give a shrill whistle.

When the juveniles first leave home they are allowed to go only a short distance, then a little farther each day. As they grow older they accompany the hunt with their parents. Later on, the families join forces, until 20 to 30 birds constitute a migration to the southern states. By October the last member of the Hawks in general is at its height.

McCallum led in prayer. Items of business were discussed. It was announced that the Sunday School picnic will be held Aug. 19th at "The Outlet" in Prince Edward County.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction and refreshments served by the committee in charge.

The Mission Band members held their August meeting at the home of the leader, Mrs. Clifford Sine, with Gerald Cooke presiding. The meeting opened by singing some chtruses. Mrs. Howard Cooke had charge of the Study Book and at the close of the meeting Mrs. Green served dainty refreshments.

Strong Impressive Service For Rededication Of St. Andrew's Church

A large and appreciative congregation attended the impressive service of rededication of St. Andrew's United Church, Foxboro, on Sunday afternoon, when Rev. Dr. Wallace Hamilton, Toronto, was the guest preacher. Rev. W. J. Walker, the minister was assisted by Rev. Donald Masters, Ameliasburg, who delivered the opening prayer.

The choir rendered the appropriate anthem, "We Have Trusted in Thy Holy Name" by Gounod and Mr. Lyle Reynolds contributed the solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple", with Mrs. R. H. Williams at the organ.

A special feature was the presentation of a beautiful new communal table, given by the family of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Farrow, in loving memory of their parents. The dedication of this memorial gift was followed immediately by the Ordinance of Baptism, for three small children, i.e., Grace Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McGee; Graydon Donald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rodgers and Leslie Earl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Nicholson.

A profusion of flowers added to the beauty of the interior, among others a basket donated by Miss Ethel Anderson, was placed in memory of their mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence. St. Andrew's Church has recently been redecorated in soft pastel tones, harmonizing beautifully with the colors in the beautiful stained glass windows.

This outstanding service was brought to a close with the singing of the Psalm-hymn, "O God of Bethel".

Harnessing Another 81,000 Horsepower for Hydro

People sometimes ask us what we are doing about providing more electricity for Ontario. Many know how close we are now to using up all our present supply.

Since the end of the war, Hydro's peak load demand has increased approximately 500,000 horsepower or more than 25% of the highest wartime demand, and is still mounting.

What are we doing about it?

Above is a part, but only a part, of the answer. It shows the great power development at Stewartville, on the Madawaska River in Eastern Ontario, which was started many months ago when materials and labor were in even shorter supply than now. It will give you 81,000 horsepower commencing next year.

With other Hydro developments being rushed to completion, an added 500,000 horsepower will be available in the next five years.

In the meanwhile we must all use Hydro sparingly so there will be enough to go around.

Federal aid is not needed to settle bidding disputes. When you strike an uncertain situation, call in no fact-finding board. Simply follow the order of choice in T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump.

South opened with two diamonds, a forcing to game signal. North held this hand:

♥ A K J 8 2
♣ 8 4 2

The response by north was two hearts. South then bid three in the diamond suit. North now has a choice between bidding three hearts or four diamonds. Which should it be?

T-A-N says a takeout comes before an assist. Before assisting diamonds, north should takeout again to his rebiddable heart suit. At least, rule says so. And why not?

The forcing signal will keep south from walking out on him with a pass. The very worst that can happen is that south will wait one more round to learn of the north diamond support, if necessary.

With support for rebiddable hearts, south will use the prober for slam bid of four no-trump. Without such support, south will at least bid three no-trump. North can then assist to four diamonds.

Again south is in a position to bid the four no-trump asker for slam information. So, the entire picture is revealed to partner by following T-A-N. By rule or reason it fits into the groove.

From the moment south opened with a two bid, north knew there is a slam in the their pair. A two bid shows nine tricks. Lay out any hand with nine tricks and see what you find.

Combine what you see with the north hand. What you will have is enough stuff to choke off any thought of ever stopping short of slam. Therefore, north should give south all possible information. Showing rebiddable hearts may help south decide on a grand slam.

Compromise on the mutual best.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 23 (AP) — Having reached the third and most important area of film stardom—the Plateau—Robert Taylor is a thoroughly happy man.

"I never was happier making pictures," he said. "I don't have to worry about the fans chasing me all over town. I don't have to fret about publicity and fan mail—although I don't mean that's not important. If I turn a picture down, that's that—the world doesn't come to an end.

"All I have to do is make a picture now and then. The rest of the time I can spend hunting and flying and doing the other things I want to do."

Bob has earned the leisure. He started in pictures in 1934 when he was 23 and within two years was a top-box-office star. He has been in screen prominence ever since, except for his wartime service in the United States navy. He described the three phases of an actor's professional life.

"First you shoot upward fast. The studio puts you in 16 pictures a year and you might just as well do what the bosses say. It doesn't matter how good the pictures are because they'll sell anyway. But then the hysteria wears off."

Then comes the danger period. The actor's popularity, as judged by the theatre receipts, takes a sharp decline.

"You suddenly find out you can't play juvenile roles all your life. You've got to find good roles or your career will continue to drop."

Bob found himself in such straits after a series of pleasant but undistinguished roles such as "A Yank at Oxford." He figures he started coming out of the decline about the time of "Waterloo Bridge." Now he is comfortably situated on that profitable plateau of popularity with such companions as Gable, Grant, Tracy, Bogart, Cooper, Power and MacMurray.

That, then, is the Shangri-La for all male movie stars. Each must find it eventually, or perish.

Deep-Sea Diver Underwater Fan

Grand Harbor, N.B., (CP)—Samuel Guptill, of this fishing village on Grand Manan Island, is a baseball fan. He's also a deep sea diver. Nevertheless, when the Seal Cove Atoms of Grand Manan played an exhibition game with Saint John Dodgers at Saint John, he was able to combine vocation and avocation.

Down at the bottom of the sea, while working at a sardine weir site, he enjoyed a broadcast of the contest. Assistants on the surface kept him tuned in through wires from a radio on a boat to earphones attached to his diver's helmet. Guptill had further cause for enjoyment. Atoms won 4-1.

CARDS SKID TO SIX FULL GAMES, BEHIND DODGERS

Defeated by Phillies While Brooklyn Beat Reds in 12 Innings

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

That glossy National pennant picture, as painted only the other day by Eddie Dyer, master manipulator of St. Louis Cardinals, appeared today to have become somewhat blurred.

Despite Dyer's assertion that it would be a fight right down to the wire "with the Cards winning it," it was doubtful whether the unpredictable Redbirds have ever been worse off than at this moment.

Beaten for the second time in three games by the lowly Phillies in Philadelphia last night, the Cards skidded to six full games behind Brooklyn. Although they have trailed by more games on other occasions, never had they so little time in which to make up the deficit.

With only three more cracks left at the Dodgers, the Cards have but 35 more games left to play, and 33 for the Brooks.

The Brooks, unlike the Cards, continued to fatten up on the second division outfits, eking out a 6-5 victory in 12 hard-fought innings at Ebbets Field. A muff of a thrown ball by catcher Ray Lamanno enabled the Dodgers to score the winning run.

A ninth-inning home run by Al Lakeman with one on won for the Phillies 4-2. The four-base blow was a climax to a pitching duel between Dutch Leonard of the Phils and Harry (The Cat) Brecheen of the Cards. Leonard now has 15 victories.

15th Victory

Bob Feller also pitched his 15th victory of the season as Cleveland Indians swept a doubleheader from the American League-leading New York Yankees 4-3 and 6-1 before 52,105 fans at Municipal Stadium. Feller allowed only four hits in winning the afterpiece.

Ted Williams collected six hits in seven times at bat as Boston Red Sox divided a doubleheader with the White Sox in Chicago. Williams got two hits in three times in the first game and four for four in the second which was won by Boston 6-3. The White Sox, behind Ed Lopat, won the opener 7-2.

Season Output 166 Runs

After appearing in 37 games in relief roles for Chicago Cubs, Emil Kush held Boston Braves to four hits for a 5-1 victory while making his first 1947 start.

New York Giants increased their season home run output to 166 when Will Marshall, Walker Cooper and Mickey Witek slammed four baggers to lead them to an 8-7 win over Pittsburgh Pirates at the Polo Grounds.

After absorbing a double defeat at the hands of Washington Thursday, Detroit Tigers retaliated by winning two from the Senators in Detroit 7-6 and 2-0.

A three-run double by Walt Judnich in the eighth inning enabled the Browns to come from behind and defeat the fast-travelling Philadelphia Athletics 7-5 in a night game.

Black Bass And the Fly Rod

Sometimes I find myself a little out of patience with the fish I capture. Now, don't misunderstand me, please! I say that Bass fishing has its place in angling, just as fly fishing or plug casting or anything else may. If the situation is such that it indicates bait fishing, I'm glad to fish it and hope for good results as the next fellow.

But, when you come right down to the meat-and-potatoes of the sport—not in any way to get another meal, fishing the fish that are actually present is always the by-product of angling and not the primary purpose. Thus, it naturally follows that the more sport a fellow can find in angling, the more he can treat it like the sport that it is and not like the chore that it's often made out of it.

Last summer a friend and I stood on a bridge that spans the North Branch of the Susquehanna River in northeastern Pennsylvania, a major Solunar Period was in progress, and we were both casting. Now, left the river before the best fishing time of the day, but we had an engagement for supper and there was no choice but to leave. The time just went all too soon.

As we drove across the bridge, I noticed that there was a tremendous flurry of fish activity in the air and the surface of the water was covered by the rises of feeding fish. Regardless of the time—the ladies could wait for a few minutes—we parked beside the car and walked back on the bridge. The fish were there and well worth the beating we took from my companion. Then, finally, we did reach home.

As I say, there was a Solunar Period in progress and I'm sure that those rare summer evenings when everything is perfect are rare indeed. The weather was fair and the river was in fine condition for fishing. The temperature was moderate, for the most part, and the flies was of the sort that happens only under "ideal" conditions for their emergence. The air was heavy enough it were filled with large quantities of the aerial activities of the graceful insects hovered over the water.

Below this particular bridge is one of the famous Bass pools in this section of the river and I honestly believe that every bass in the pool was making a meal of May flies. Within our range of vision were dozens of fish—some of adult bass—big fellows, well up in poundage, and they were feeding as they took drifting insects from the surface.

One lone angler—if you could call him that—was on the river. This fellow was sitting in an overhead boat, his eyes glued to two bait rods which extended out over the side of the boat, the tips in the water. He was casting with the bottom of the boat as a base and, I might add, he was getting a good territory or hunting ground, for during these times, if you wish to find the best fishing, you must go where the fish are.

Solunar Tables

By JOHN A. KNIGHT

The schedule of Solunar Periods for publication below has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan Your Fishing. By heeding the use of artificial lures and keeping track of their daily movements of the bass through the medium of the Solunar Tables, you should have so much more fun out of their fishing that they do by ashering to them.

FEATHERWEIGHT CROWN RETAINED BY WILLIE PEP

Willie Pep, Hartford, Ct., (AP)—Willie Pep, 20-year-old featherweight champion, proved tonight he's not a one-punch fighter as he gave Phil Furr, Jacksonville, Fla., a boxing lesson and made him look like a set-up.

Pep, who has won 57 bouts in 61 starts, used every punch in the book to win a unanimous decision over Furr in a non-title 10-round bout before 4,000 fans.

Furr, who had won 19 of 20 starts, was floored in the first round by a left hook to the jaw, but he got up and weathered the storm.

Pep, who has been boxing since he was 14, showed he could box as well as punch. He jabbed with his left and shifted his attack to the body with his right.

Furr, who had been knocked out only once in his career, was unable to get his punches over.

Pep weighed 125 pounds and Furr 126.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE B. CARTER, Sports Editor

Rookie of the season as a major league hitter and, by more recent success as a coach of baseball young ball players the College is passing along the lights of Hornsby's hitting tips to the hope that service for Canadian youth.

• • •

The most important fundamental of hitting, is keeping your eyes on the ball. It's a simple rule, but is rarely generally observed by the average player and the result is a hitting suffers. Make a point of watching the ball every time the time it gets into the pitcher's hands until you have hit it or it is in the catcher's mitt."

• • •

Hornsby stresses other points like these. "The more muscular energy you put into swing the less effective it will be . . . concentrate on just meeting the ball with a smooth swing.

• • •

"The reason you read so often of the .400 hitters of baseball which there are 15 to 20 strikeouts is that so many of the hitters like these 400 hitters are trying to clout the ball out of sight instead of just meeting it."

• • •

"Too many young players use much too heavy a bat. . . experimenting until they find a swing the less effective it will be . . . concentrate on just meeting the ball with a smooth swing.

• • •

"The reason you read so often of the .400 hitters of baseball which there are 15 to 20 strikeouts is that so many of the hitters like these 400 hitters are trying to clout the ball out of sight instead of just meeting it."

• • •

"Too many young players use much too heavy a bat. . . experimenting until they find a swing the less effective it will be . . . concentrate on just meeting the ball with a smooth swing.

• • •

"Young hitters must train themselves so they can recognize when the ball is in the batter's shoulders is his knees and the width of the plate. Then, if the ball is not a strike, they must learn to refuse to swing at any ball outside. By so doing they form the habit of hitting only at good pitches. Only one player in one hundred has this skill.

• • •

"My observations are that the average boy doesn't get enough. . . . Don't let this happen to you or your boys. Every coach should remember that one of the most important things he can do for a player, especially a young one, is to instill in him a feeling of confidence and one sure way to gain confidence is to get plenty of it, the right kind of batting practice. By practice I mean 10 to 15 minutes each day doing nothing but hitting straight balls pitched at half of batting speed."

• • •

The Ontario Amateur Softball Association apparently was not feeling when it said it would "definitely refuse to raise and regulations. The other day the Toronto Globe reported indorsed by the Toronto International Baseball League and the Parham squad following a playoff series which saw the Parham team win 4 games to 3, 23-13 score. Tweed protested the results on the grounds that the opposing pitcher did not wear the required baseball uniform and that the Parham players were not a qualified official. The game has been ordered replayed.

• • •

Rained out on the last two occasions, the Belleville Juniors and Napanee will by once more to get their scheduled semi-finals game of the City Baseball League played off. The squads accordingly announced Don Thomas will meet in Napanee on Tuesday evening the game to get under way at six o'clock.

• • •

• • •

Well we have had it. The Kiwanis Juniors, last year's semi-finalists, were the band for the Ontario Junior championship crown, went down to defeat in the first round six games in two straight games. The Kingston Athletic Sailors of the coup de grace last evening on their home field winning by the lopsided score of 11-4.

The batting was very much the order of the day. Kingston got 15 safeties, Belleville 6. Although the Sailors had the better of the hitting they had to go the limit to win. Pitcher Ken Fraser, for the Athletics, Andrew Watt and a fill pitched creditable ball but were unable to stem the tide. Fraser went in in the 7th inning.

• • •

Two more Kingston runners were added to the list of those injured. Three runs scored in the second inning including a triple by Fraser, first time Fraser's Belleville netted down in the 3rd and 4th innings. Kingston scored their nine runs in the fourth and sixth innings.

Sports Roundup

By JACK BEWDING
(New York Herald Tribune, Jr.)

Seattle, Aug. 28 — (AP)—The genial gentleman from Georgia who has his heart set on going back to the majors some day is a manager's toga, has whipped a big league team on the rugged and a last-place complex to make the Seattle Rainiers a factor in the 1937 Pacific Coast League pennants.

Jo-Jo White, was a ball of fire in Detroit for seven seasons and he hasn't cooled a bit. He still runs those bases like a bee-stung mule, fans the first pitch batted to the runner in the clutch, fidgets nervously in right field.

White came back to Seattle late last year as head man after several seasons in baseball's wilderness. He found the club hopelessly in the cellar, mentally as well as statistically.

Just as Jo-Jo got the Rainiers out of a fair start this year, Manager White's knee ballooned unaccountably and for a couple of months it was a chore for him to get himself to home plate and hand the umpires his lineup. In spite of the pain at times and used himself as a pinch hitter — one of the few times he was the league's top clubber.

Doctors wanted to operate but Jo-Jo said no, he couldn't spare the time.

Meet Trouble

So he was booming along setting the hitting and fielding pace for the team and one day a thrown ball cracked him on the head and knocked him cold. He golder than an umpire's heart. He's had a gradually disappearing twitch in his left eye ever since and the batting averages has sagged.

He'd stand up there at the plate worrying about the next pitch instead of the next pitch," laughs Jo-Jo.

"But I'm superstitious. The team's due to better when I'm playing. I'll stay out there and play as long as I figger I can do a good job. I'm a good Pacific Coast Club's Mrs. White, who wouldn't miss a ballgame for the world, says I won't quit until I'm shovelled under but I think I'll know when I get to the end of the line."

After more than a year of cellar dwelling the Rainiers rallied to the awful height of fourth place from lumbering Joe Baked in their fight at Harrington Arena a few months ago. The boys was tested by sparring partner Tom Reddington, Doncaster, rail-roader commented:

"I think there's something in what Reddington said about a member being stronger than before it was broken."

Bruce's Jaw Bent But Yet Unbowed

London, (CP)—Bruce Woodcock, British heavyweight boxing champion, isn't worried about the fractured jaw he received from lumbering Joe Baksi in their fight at Harringay Arena a few months ago. The jaw was tested by sparring partner Tom Reddington, Doncaster, rail-roader commented:

"I think there's something in what Reddington said about a member being stronger than before it was broken."

Eddie Stevens Swinging Heavy Bat in Drive

(By The Associated Press)

Eddie Stevens is swinging a heavy bat in Montreal Royals' drive for their third consecutive International League Pennant and the hefty first sacker appears a cinch to receive another shot at a major league berth with Dolph Camilli, Chicago Cubs.

Stevens, who played part of 1945 and the entire 1946 season with the Brooklyn Dodgers, being returned to the Royals, hit his 34th home run of the season last night as the Royals downed Buffalo Bisons, 9-5.

Jersey City Giants suffered a 1-3 setback at the hands of the league leading Syracuse Chiefs. Young Herm Wehmeier limited the Giants to six hits in posting his 15th victory.

Rochester Ray Yochim also posted his 15th triumph, pitching the Red Wings to a 6-3 conquest over Toronto Maple Leafs. Yochim yielded four hits including a two-run homer by Austin Knickerbocker in the seventh that deprived him of a shutout.

Newark Bears buried Baltimore Orioles under 18-hit assault in the latter as Les Mueller pitched the Bears to a 14-1 triumph.

"They'll Do It Every Time"

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By EDGAR SIMON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 28 — (CP) — Scooter or later, wherever a small knot of hometown fans are gathered to suffer with their, losing ball club, the question is bound to come up—why can't those young pitchers be more consistent?

Ivan (Hamilton Specials) Miller, recently watched a big league game in which three Hamilton Cardinal hurlers gave up 21 runs, 31 hits, nine walks, the pitches and nine walks. The result: Toronto Maple Leafs, Miller moved smartly to his left and rifled the following query in his general direction of first base:

"Youngsters — appear to feel they need a bewildering assortment of fancy pitches. They try all of the knuckle, curve, ball, slider, the screwball, etc., and get the idea they can master all these pitches and still throw a decent fast ball, a sharp hook and a change of pace.

"As a matter of fact, young-sters can master only a matter of two or three standard pitches to go with a fast ball and change. Develop a hop on the fast ball, toss a curve with a little snap to it and mix these two judiciously with a change of pace and you have the formula for pitching success."

Provided, Miller adds hastily, that you can toss the ball where you want to—throw it—but that's another story. Under the best delivery comes naturally; it's better left alone, says Miller, because continued experiments ruin the youngsters' effectiveness with the orthodox stuff.

Champ Promises

More than the title was at stake when Frank Stranahan romped home with the Canadian amateur golf championship last week if you can believe the jitterbug gossip.

Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle says the talk around the Bolestchief course was that the Toledo flash was promised a $100,000 boost in his allowance if he copped an amateur crown. It seems Stranahan's father, tired of financing Frank's golfing junkets without getting any returns.

Lytle also points a nonsuch-er's moral in recalling that finalist Bill Kinickel, five down at the time, finally lit a 75 cigar. It didn't help.

CHAPTER 14. —

Sherry was a little shocked. She sat up.

She said, "But, Marcia, I don't want to be married for just what I can get out of a husband! I want to give too."

Marcia put her tongue in her cheek.

"O. K., what's stopping you? Don't you think you have anything to give Peter now because you didn't get just what you expected?"

Sherry had not thought of it like that before. It made her sound selfish.

They talked about it for a long while.

Marcia said, "If Peter knew you knew, you'd have to do something, of course, but he doesn't. And I'll bet my bottom dollar, Lilly of the valley will be out of the picture before very long. Why not have another go at it?"

Peter was due to return the next Sunday, and when Sherry finally heard his car, the lock in the high part of her stomach moved, and her cold hands clenched involuntarily.

"Dreadding yourself again, aren't you?" she told herself fiercely, and she smoothed her dress and went out to meet Peter.

After the first embrace he held her away to look at her.

He said, "Gosh, how I've missed you, darling," and then, "You're so beautiful."

He held her very close again.

Sherry thought, Yes, I can do it. I'm not angry at you, Peter. I don't feel the same toward you, of course, but you'll never know that.

The boulevard usually cheered Sherry. Today it depressed her. The air was stoo wae mfor this time of year, and the people she passed looked stiuky and tired in their winter clothes, or conspicious and chilly in spring ones.

Sherry was miserable. Her new blue shoes, but she had walked too far for their refinement and one had rubbed a blister on her heel.

She thought, darn it! It's silly to take a cab two blocks to the store, and decided to walk very slowly and pretend to be window-shopping.

The scarf she had bought much a small slippery package. It was red and blue and tan, hand blocked.

"How you can wear it with grey, you idiot," Sherry told herself. Why didn't you think of that in the store?

She stopped in front of a long, red-skin coat, but really she was thinking about the boulevard. It had been exciting and gay last summer when she had just come to Hollywood. The color had enchanted her. She had never seen tweed or cream or pale-blue toadsters anywhere else. Not that she would drive one, but they were gay in passing.

Then there were the girls in shorts and halters with pretty cager faces that were sometimes hard, and the tanned sleek-haired men, so affectedly nonchalant. The hurrying men were not hermits at all, had interested her with their beards and loincloths and thonged sandals.

Then, that first fall, crisp and clear, the Christmas shopping on the boulevard called Santa Claus Lane, and all dressed up.

She had passed these same windows with the boys at night when they had come down to Sherri's or the movies, or one or their big celebrations with an extra special occasions.

She remembered the days when she was working and buying spring things and starting to be ill.

Sherry strolled on, her eyes on the shops. There was the book-store she used to patronize—there was a better one now—and there was the smart new restaurant where Sherry used to be across the street. That had gone too, like the furry and all her funny happy life with them. The next street was the one with the un-painted furniture store. Well, the Chateau had all the furniture she needed.

Shopping had been fun that first spring after she had married Peter. Just the best shops, and the first time she had bought all the clothes she wanted. Now there wasn't much she couldn't buy, but why buy anything?

"You're an ungrateful wretch!" she told herself. "You're so much to be happy about."

Peter was working seriously and had already sold three stories. Only two weeks ago the first purchased one had been bought by a studio. That was wonderful, really! She was proud on her way to success.

Peter was very pleased with her. They got along well, she and Peter.

Somehow he had known that Sherry knew about him and his affairs. Lilly had long since been replaced by a number of other women, and was going around women. They had never discussed it, of course, but by tacit understanding they had grown apart. They were pleasant, dear and friends now, sharing the same apartment harmoniously, and each going his separate way.

Sometimes they went out together, formal things where Peter had to produce a wife, or to the theatre sometimes, if Sherry's when she thought it better form to be escorted by her husband.

Then, too, available about these occasions and made the appointments. Usually ahead of time, each willing to give up some plan of his own for the convenience of the other.

Oh, yes, she and Peter got on well.

Sherry thought, It's very satisfactory, really.

Sandro had seen his parents in France, and Sherry got letters from his mother now. She loves the letters and answered them promptly.

Sandro and Kris, however, she only wrote by spurts, when the mood moved her or when she had something to tell them. Kris was producing in Denmark. A wealthy orient engaged to be married.

Sherry had rushed her congratulations to him, and his fiancee had written her charming English that she was trying very hard not to be jealous of the girl after for-ture husband "admirationed so intensely."

She had sounded nice in her letter and Sherry had sent her a fancy lace bed jacket, not for a present but because she liked her. She supposed the girl in time would probably freeze in the thing, but the feminine touch looked like the letter sounded.

The girl had been delighted in very bad English.

Tony had not written now to. He was directly a picture at a Long Island studio. Sherry had heard before he had married Peter from him over a month ago, but she had not written to him.

Sherry strolled on. Only a half-block to the parking lot now. It was good she had nothing to hurry for.

The days were getting longer, but the promise of dinner was already in the gathering dusk. She wondered what she would do about eating. Peter was away and Marcia had flunked out of town yesterday to close an option with a man in Long Beach.

Sherry got her car and drove slowly home.

Marcia was stretched out on the living room davenport.

She said, "Hi, toots. Good of you to come."

Sherry said, "I'm much gladder to see you than you deserve. Did you close your deal?"

"He made his mark on the dotted line," Marcia told her. "I don't know if it's business acumen or sex appeal. She yawned. "How's the new story?"

Sherry said, "Sticky. The girl told him she loved him too soon. Now I haven't anything to build on."

She went into the bedroom to take off her hat. Marcia got up and followed lazily.

"Why not give it a twist?" she wanted to know. "End it with her deciding she doesn't love him if he were the last man on earth."

She lay down on Sherry's bed. "That expression's idiotic," Marcia went on. "It should be 'unless he were the last man on earth.'"

Sherry said, "That's an idea and a half, pet. Maybe I'll use it, and take all the credit." She sat down and took off her shoes. "It's stuck to my stocking, of course."

Marcia said, "Doesn't make sense," and yawned again.

Poachers Sneer At Muskie Laws Spear Hundreds

By PETE McGILLEN
(Peterborough Examiner)

Conservation of fish and game is a battle that never ends It's a struggle of all lovers of the Great outdoors against the forces of greed, selfishness and stupidity who put the dollar sign above all else. Sportsmen would perpetuate for future generations this great heritage, but the poachers, racketeers and money grabbers live for today and sneer at game laws and sportsmanship.

Across Canada the natural resources of the forest and stream have suffered as civilization advanced. Today, virgin timber and hunting is pretty much a myth, with airplanes landing sportsmen at any spot they desire. In every province fur-seeking sportsmen and honest men have taken up the cry of conservation and demands on governments have brought some relief.

In Ontario, the muskellunge holds the spotlight. Thousands in Ontario, and parts of the lower St. Lawrence, in all Canada the muskellunge is a magic word to fishermen. It conjures a picture of a streamlined, tyrannical fish, the aristocrat of fresh-water battlers.

A member of the pike family, muskies grow to 65 pounds, with 30 pounders being common. They spawn soon after ice leaves the lakes but, unlike the bass family, do not remain in the nests to spawn. In two weeks or more the eggs hatch, and fry grows rapidly into fingerlings. At this stage they are carnivorous and desert minute marine life for the more substantial food—fish. Depending on the amount of food available, a muskie will grow from nine to 13 inches in length from April to October. In five years the fish should be 30 inches long, or legal size.

Protection

Department of Lands and Forests, Ontario, with enforcing fish and game regulations, as well as restocking of lakes, has introduced a large plan to protect this fish. Two years ago, the size limit was raised from 24 inches to 30 inches so that the fish would have spawned once before becoming real size. Fish are stripped and the spawn hatched in Deer Lake hatchery, then distributed as fingerling to countless lakes. The government has realized the muskie is a goose that lays golden eggs for Ontario by sky-rocketing tourist revenue.

Here is something in the way of contrast in automobiles. The big car is Rollton Special, in which the British speed king will attempt to better his own record at 369.7 miles an hour over Bonneville salt flats. The smaller car is Ab Jenkins' Mohi Special, in which the veteran race driver plans to set a new endurance record.

More game wardens are to be added, sportsmen want more secrecy policing, but the backbone of these fish goes on. In the spawning season, poachers armed with nets by hundreds net muskies as they move in the shallow water.

Largest specimens are caught in the Lake of the Woods district, and in Georgian Bay. The greatest number are taken in the Kawartha Lakes and Trent waterway. The lower St. Lawrence and rivers feeding into Lake Ontario from the east yield many too. Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio and New York are concentrating on propagating these fighting fish, which is also native to the waters of these states, but still Ontario leads, not only in the number caught but in size.

But the huskiwriting is on the wall. The muskellunge may soon be terminated by men insane with greed. It could happen very easily to the muskellunge.

Paris Not Gay But Women Chic

Montreal, —(CP)— Paris has lost much of her gaiety, but not even sky-high prices can dim the Parisienne's flair for smart clothes, Miss Cecile Rea Bouchard said in an interview here on her return from a three-months visit in Europe.

Miss Bouchard, former C.W.A.C. public relations officer, said she found prices for clothing and millinery in Paris "fantastic."

But the French woman, even moderate means, manages to look chic and different.

"And right now I'd like to say that New York in my opinion will never replace Paris as the fashion capital of the world. The artistry and creative ability of the French haute couture can only be surpassed."

Food conditions, particularly in the large cities of France, still are pretty bad, Miss Bouchard said, the average person living on a very meagre diet, Miss Bouchard said.

"There's no butter to be had, and the bread for which France was famous is now-existent. A kind of cornbread is eaten.

"Grim reminders of war are to be seen in the fields of France. Tanks and other materials and weapons of war clutter up the fields. It's pathetic to see people living in houses that are total wrecks."

Budgeted 5 Years For Global Jaunt

Regina, (CP) —Five years ago two Regina girls promised themselves a trip around the world, even if it meant going without new dresses until they had saved their passage money.

It meant no new dresses and a lot more things, but Kay Clews and Jone Joslin, both 24-year-old comptometer operators in the city, have set aside a one-way ticket to Auckland New Zealand, and leave in mid-September.

They estimate they will have enough money to eat for a week after they get there.

They plan to complete their round-the-world jaunt by working in each city until they have enough money for passage to the next.

Budgeted Five Years

"It all began in our minds about five years ago," explained Jone, a tall, attractive blonde. "Kay and I talked it about it then, on the same day and it wasn't long before we were friends and discovered that we both had such a longing for travel. For five years we saved every cent we could. We went without 'cokes' and budgeted our clothing allowance. We didn't know exactly when we would go, we only knew we were going — some day."

"Father," she determined, dark haired Kay, "wasn't very enthusiastic.

"But mother couldn't very well object. She did the same thing herself when she was my age. She was a teacher and came to Canada with another girl just to see what the rest of the world was like."

After New Zealand, they plan to visit Australia and South Africa. After that it depends on the breaks and the budget.

Rawdon

W.M.S. MEETING

Rawdon, Aug. 20—The August meeting of Mount Pleasant Woman's Missionary Society was held at the Church on Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. Ross Hoard played quiet music before Mrs. Jeffs who presided, used the Worship Service in the devotions based on the theme "The Nations Get Together." Some simple facts about the United Nations organization and a preface to the Charter was read by Mrs. Jeffs.

All people are asked to practice tolerance and live together in peace as good neighbors. Mrs. Roy Tennyson read a prayer by Miss Frances Bonwick of the new Study Book entitled "Crest is the Conquest" written by Violet Wood and based on Psalm 68. The book is a story of how the Bible was translated and given to people all over the world.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver contributed a delightful vocal solo.

A poem on "Temperance" was read and the Christian Stewardship Secretary gave "The Contagion of a Smile" and said "the idea of giving is contagious the world than Stewards are people who pass on the contagion of all those qualities of life which children love."

Mrs. Ross Hoard and Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave a resume of news items about the Bible. For many years the Bible has been the World's "best seller" and just recently a large shipment of Russian testaments and gospels have been received in Moscow. In 1946 nearly three million copies of the Scripture were forwarded to Latin America.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver told a story about "True Happiness."

Single Girl, 30, Hasn't a Chance

London, Eng. (CP) —Leading psychologists who seven months ago formed a non-profit making society to give advice on marriage say they are thinking of closing down because 75 per cent of male applicants "are neurotics and none will consider marrying women over 30."

"Our existing organization is not big enough to deal adequately with these problems," said Miss Winifred Hartley, Street psychologist and co-founder of Marriage Society.

"In our experience — and we have had 20,000 applicants — single women in their 30s has a tendency to change in the direction of getting married in England today.

"We have thousands aged 33 and 38 on our books — attractive healthy intelligent women who would make ideal wives.

"But the men won't look at them. They all want girls in their 20s — one reason is they think women in their 30s are too old to bear children."

Becoming Frustrated

Wingate said many women doctors are frustrated, developing "becoming frustrated." Others were "going out and having promiscuous affairs." Younger girls he added, refused to marry men in their fifties, "however much money they have."

While most of the women applicants are single, about 75 per cent of the men have neurotic tendencies, and would need some psychological treatment before they were fit for marriage."

The psychologist said many of these tendencies had their roots in unhappy childhood giving rise to a "feeling of inferiority so that men become shy and awkward with women."

"One hope of solving the situation lies in our increasing correspondence with men in Canada, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and other Empire countries. Many are writing to us with a view to marriage . . . and they do not insist on girls being under 30."

The society, now 18 months old, such applications could not be dealt with as the society had no branch offices overseas.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was downtown with ma and she had her new hat on, being a little round black hat with a thing like a shavin' pot sticking up in middle, looking like something she had just cut on for a joke instead of a hat, and I was laughing loud, and a lady went passed with a white hat on, it was on the back of her head, and I said, G, ma, do you think that lady knows her hat looks as if it's going to slide down her back any minute?

I'm afraid she will, pa said. Some women have a strange idea of dressin, sometimes a hat, apparently, she said, and I said, Well Hinminy, ma, here comes one with a red hat that looks as if she planted roses on it and a lot of weeds came up at the same time and had just got to a place for a blow out.

That's a very good discription and I dont wonder you're amused, pa said, but you must be kind, ma, I mean G, why do ladies all wear different shape hats instead of all wearing pritty near the same shape like men have even if they did look funny they wouldn't look any funnier than all the other ladies?

Well, ladies have a natural desire to please their hubby, but unfortunately it takes all sorts of people to make a world, especially women, and I suppose it isn't every woman that has the good taist to select, a becoming hat, pa said, and I said, G, ma, do you mean like you for instance?

Well, I dont like to sound conceited, but when I see some of the objects "that other women parade on their heads, I admit it sometimes make me smile to my self, pa admitted, me said.

Me not spoiling her pleasure by saying anything like that, she turned on her hat, and the next drugstore we came to I asked her if she'd like a dish of ice cream soda and she said I could without me even having to argue.

Anxiety Expressed For Campers In Forest Fire Area

3 Homes, Church, Burned By Fires Near Shelburne, N.S.

Rouyn, Que., Aug. 25—(CP) — Miners and other volunteer helpers joined today in a fight against a forest fire blazing in a 15 square miles section of rugged scrub land on either side of the highway leading to Val D'Or, about 50 miles east of here.

At least two automobile accidents, possibly the result of poor visibility, were reported last night on the Rouyn-Val D'Or road and one man was said to have been killed. Details were not available here as the injured were taken to Cadillac, to the east, and the fire had burned out the telephone lines.

Some anxiety was expressed today for the safety of 10 to 15 families camping on Joannes Lake, about 10 miles south-east of here and in the heart of the flame-swept region. There had been no word from the campers since yesterday morning.

May Have Sought Safety

There was a possibility they had sought safety outside the area because a search plane which landed on the lake yesterday found no sign of them.

Although the wind switched today to the east and was blowing at about 15 miles an hour, the twin towns of Rouyn and Noranda, with a combined population nearing 20,000, were not believed in danger.

Most of the country around these towns was burned over in 1932 and this created a barrier of open land across which the flames likely could not jump.

The forest growth is not high but the scrub and underbrush are tinder dry after the hot, rainless summer and were easy prey for the flames. Telephone poles

Halifax, Aug. 25 —(CP) — Flames racing through timber on the Jordan Bay Peninsula near Shelburne, 100 miles from here on the province's south shore, were brought under control today after destoying three homes and a church and forced fisherfolk to flee the area.

Reports this morning said the fire was being held in check by a large force of volunteer fire-fighters recruited from the surrounding areas. A predicted wind shift this afternoon from south-east to southwest would not change the fire situation.

The most serious of a dozen fires burning in Nova Scotia woodland areas during the weekend, the Shelburne blaze forced officials at the Roseway Hospital to make preparations for evacuation of 100-odd patients as smoke from the fire-front two miles away enveloped the building.

With taxis and private cars standing by and beds ready in church halls, the decision to move the patients, most of them tubercular, was postponed as the fire lost some of its fury.

In other areas thunderstorms helped check fires which have destroyed at least 24 homes, dozens of other buildings and thousands of acres of woodland in the last fortnight.

Another serious fire was at Sheet Harbor, 75 miles east of here, when the lumbering town of 1,200 was threatened during the weekend after five homes and a sawmill employing 80 men were wiped out.

Blaze Under Control

The showers and the efforts of 300 fire-fighters brought the blaze under control before it reached the big Halifax Pulp and Power Company's mill or the town itself.

But although the forest rangers said the danger to Sheet Harbor and its industries was past, the fire could not be considered out until it was drenched by a heavy rainfall.

The best weather forecasters could offer, however, was thundershowers.

Other fires burned during the weekend at River Bourgeois in the southeast corner of Cape Breton Island and along Cape George in Antigonish County at the northeast corner of the province's mainland.

Forest Rangers, who said it was the worst fire in that section since it was burned over 17 years ago, were hampered by low wells and drying brooks.

Water had to be trucked from the sea and at some places fishermen's dories by the roadside were filled with water and used as reservoirs.

During the night new equipment was rushed to the area to aid fire-fighters, many whom had nothing but shovels and buckets as fire tools.

Fatality Toll Numbers 33 With 14 Drownings

Marie Laforge, 12, Ramore, Ont.

Claude Champagne, 10, Ramore.

Rene McAndrew, 15, Ramore.

Harold Delves, 10, Ramore.

Huguette Leduc, 10, Holtyre.

Aime Leduc, 12, Holtyre.

The three saved, all 10 years old, are Rene Droin, Jeannine Gabourg and Donald Champagne.

The children drowned within sight of their parents who stood, horror-stricken and powerless to aid, on the shore of the little lake 12 miles east of this northern Ontario community about 30 miles northeast of Timmins.

Shrieks Heard

Shrieks of "papa" and "mamma" from the children in the sinking boat 500 yards offshore brought screams of grief from the parents. The pilot of an airplane flying overhead saw what was happening and landed but was too late to help.

Bouchard, a miner, left six children, none of whom were in the boat at the time it sank.

He offered a boat to children from the nearby mining area attending family picnics on the lakeshore. Nine children accepted the invitation and, amid their shouts of delight the little craft nosed out into the lake.

When it was about 500 yards from shore the bow sank and the boat filled with water. Its passengers, in screaming frenzy, were spilled into the lake.

First rescuer to reach the spot was Joe LeGault of Matheson, Ont. He tossed some inner tubes from the boat, enabling three children to keep afloat. He recovered the body of Marie LaForge but efforts to revive her failed.

Claude Champagne was the son of Mrs. Thersa Champagne of Ramore whose husband was killed four years ago by a truck. The father of the LeDuc children, C. LeDuc, was killed in a bush accident two years ago.

Glasgow, Aug. 25 (Reuters)—Princess, Elizabeth will launch the 30,000-ton Cunard White Star Liner Caronia from the Clydebank yards Thursday, October 30, it was announced today.

The Caronia has been designed for a dual purpose—service on the North Atlantic or a cruising liner. She is a sister ship of the Maurentania, built in 1939, used as a troopship during the war and put back into passenger service to New York last April.

Manchester, England, Aug. 25—(Reuters) — Two men were killed here yesterday when they vainly tried to rescue the 12-year-old son of one of them from a sewer into which he had climbed. The three victims were believed to have been overcome by sewer gas.

Three U.S. Soldiers Released After Detention by Russians

Seoul, Korea, Aug. 25. (AP)—Three youthful American soldiers, released unharmed by the Russians after 12 days' detention in the Soviet zone, said today that guards with tommy-guns accompanied them constantly, but that they were not subjected to close questioning.

The three men, detailed to inspect a telephone line linking Seoul with Russian headquarters at Pyongyang, were taken into Soviet custody Aug. 12 at the village of Yohyon-Ni, inside the Russian zone. They were released at the same spot Sunday afternoon.

The three said they walked into the Soviet zone inadvertently through failure to see a marker at the 38th parallel, dividing line between the American and Soviet Occupation areas.

Soviet officers questioned them twice on their birthplaces, ages, and samilar matters, and repeatedly asked them why they crossed the border, but never searched them or examined their wallets or personal papers, the three told correspondents.

There were no questions about American installations or operations in South Korea and the only time politics came up was when they were asked if they had heard of Stalin and Lenin. The three answered "yes".

Geffen, 18, said an officer put him on the telephone at Yohyon-le after their capture and that a voice asked him in English how they happened to cross the border.

Geffen explained that they had failed to see the marker. The voice had remarked, "Sorry this happened", and assured him an American officer would come for them that evening.

Meanwhile, a Korean entered the outpost with a $30 camera which Pugsley, 19, had dropped beside the railroad. Hope said finding of the camera apparently caused the Russians to change their minds about releasing the Americans.

Hopfe, 19, said they were taken about 100 miles north by train next morning to a battalion headquarters and held there.

Geffen said a Soviet officer loaned them a chess board and guards taught them to play. The guards, he added, admired Joe Louis. The Russians soldiers were poorly dressed, with only one uniform each, but appeared in excellent physical condition.

Before the Americans were released, th Russians rturned two confiscated carbines and the camera, with a new roll of film.

FIND GETAWAY CAR USED BY THREE CONVICTS

Abandoned in Bushland Near Guelph And Provides Missing Link in Movements

Guelph, Aug. 25 (CP)—A farmer's tip to police that an olive-green sedan had been abandoned in a patch of bushland northeast of here had led to recovery of the getaway car used by Donald (Mickey) McDonald, Nicholas Minille and Ulysses Lauzon in their break a week ago today from Kingston penitentiary.

Finding of the car, stolen from Henry Haunts of Kingston, provided a missing link in the story of the ex-convicts' movements but, although police immediately launched a hunt for clues in the Guelph area, apparently it afforded no solution to the mystery of the trio's present whereabouts.

The car was found on the Eramosa Road, a gravel highway looked upon by Guelph as a "back road". It rambles northeastward through Erin, Alton and half a dozen other small communities to Orangeville, skirting most large centres of population.

The theory here is that the convicts followed this back road until they were about five miles from Guelph, abandoned the olive-green sedan, walked a short distance farther along the road and then, early Friday, made off with an automobile owned by R. C. Cairns of Guelph.

Sighted in Windsor

The stolen Cairns car next was sighted in Windsor, Ont., where two gunmen who robbed a bank of $40,000 Friday afternoon used it for a getaway and then abandoned it in Windsor. In the car, besides a shotgun and ammunition, police found McDonald's fingerprints.

For Guelph residents the finding of the Haunts car by Constable W. S. (Joe) Cluff ended speculation as to how the bandits reached Guelph. It had been thought previously that they had abandoned the Kingston car and stolen another car in this district before taking the Cairns automobile, but no other car had been reported stolen in this area at the time.

At district headquarters of the Ontario Provincial Police in Mount Forest, officials last night confirmed the discovery of the car and said they were checking all angles raised by it. They indicated, however, that the possibility of the convicts still being in the Guelph area appeared slim.

Called to quell a disturbance in a local home police found an English war bride in a battered condition. The constable suggested she lay assault charges against her spouse.

Nothing doing, she replied. She was going back to England and her mother.

GILBERT PARKS, BANCROFT, DIES AFTER ACCIDENT

Catapulted Into Ditch From Truck After The Vehicle Strikes Bridge

Bancroft. (Special.)—Catapulted into a ditch when the truck in which he was riding hurtled into a railing near Dutch Creek, two miles north of this village, Gilbert Parks, 50, was fatally injured and died in Bancroft Red Cross Hospital, early Sunday morning a few hours after admission.

Parks was riding in a truck driven by Ray Martin, L'Amble, along Highway No. 62 when the vehicle struck a soft shoulder and went out of control. It careened across the road and smashed into the railing of Dutch Creek bridge. Parks who was riding in the rear of the vehicle was hurled into the ditch by the force of the impact, suffering a badly fractured skull.

He was rushed to Bancroft hospital by Provincial Police Constable Stanley Palmateer, where he was attended by Dr. S. S. Lumb. Parks, however, failed to rally and died early Sunday morning. The accident took place on Saturday evening.

An inquest was ordered and after a premliniary hearing by a jury empanelled by Special Constable Howard Tanner and the body released for burial, was adjourned until September 3rd.

Galveston Lashed By Tropical Storm

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 25 (AP) —Severe rainfall lashed this area today in the wake of a howling tropical storm that scored a bull's eye on Galveston and its explosion-scarred neighbor, Texas City.

Heavy, driving rains accompanied the squalls that swept in from the tide-swollen Gulf of Mexico. Even as the tropical storm was blowing itself out farther inland it claimed at least one victim.

The storm, with winds of about 70 miles an hour, centred on Galveston at 4:45 p.m. yesterday and on Texas City a short time later, causing considerable property damage of a minor nature. Residence and store windows were smashed, homes were unroofed, small boats were battered or set adrift, signs were blown down, communication lines suffered and both cities temporarily went without power.

Not until late last night were power circuits generally restored in Galveston. So many power lines were knocked down that electric current was cut off to forestall live-wire danger. Joseph M. Tate, however, lost his life by electrocution in Galveston when he came in contact with a fallen power line.

Three men were missing and feared lost with 46-foot snapper boat Linda K which had sailed from this island port Friday. The boat has not been heard from since.

Dozen War Veterans Salvage RCAF Bomb Noses From Lake Erie

Port Dover, Aug. 25. (CP)—Salvaging the metal remains of the thousands of practice bombs the Royal Canadian Air Force dropped into Lake Erie during the war is starting to pay off for a dozen Canadian war veterans.

The lead and cast iron they recover and sell for scrap becomes available for peacetime use. Besides the cash, the veterans, some of whom helped drop the bombs, get all the thrills of a big-scale underwater salvage operation.

They use a landing barge they bought from War Assets Corporation, two diving helmets, three or four diving suits and an air compressor and prowl around the Lake Erie bottom about 25 feet down.

Divers stay down two and one-half to three hours at a time, picking up bomb noses and tossing them into a basket. They work on a piecework basis during the time underwater.

On deck the whole group hauls the 500-pound basketfulls of bomb noses to the barge's side, unloads and counts them and does other work in connection with the job. Two men sit on either side of the barge to hold the line attached to the divers.

The men are working fast to get as much as possible accomplished before cold weather comes. Already they have cleared up the target area off Peacock Point and no war working on another target area. When all the bomb noses have been retrieved, they plan to use their experience to set up a deep water salvage business on the Great Lakes or elsewhere.

Leader and master-mind of the group is Crawford (Lucky) Steiss of Galt, Ont., formerly of the R.C.A.F. The others include Frank Matthews, son of Mayor John H. Matthews of Brantford; Don Pentry, Port Dover; Jack Meggs, Guelph, Ont.; Art Neil, Oakville, Ont.; Johnny Thompson, Brantford; Bill Holden and Howard Steiss of Galt.

DOUKS MASSING FOR SHOWDOWN AGAINST RAIDERS

Orthodox Sect Members Issue Appeal to Govt. To Oust Radical Sons Of Freedom Group

Shoreacres, B. C., Aug. 25 (CP) —Grim-eyed guards kept a close watch on this small, picturesque Doukhobor settlement today in a desperate attempt to halt a fanatical band of firebugs whose outbreak of arson and violence have caused one of the worst reigns of terror ever forced on the district.

Meanwhile, representatives of British Columbia's 7,000 Orthodox Doukhobors issued a written appeal to the police and Attorney General Gordon Wismer to oust the radical Sons of Freedom group, generally blamed for most of the depredations that have shocked this West Kootenay district for the past 20 years.

A tight cordon of guards was thrown around this settlement last night following a day-long gathering of Orthodox Doukhobors from all sections of the Kootenays.

Every automobile and every person attempting to enter the mile-long settlement was stopped and cross-questioned before being allowed to proceed.

Handed personally to Inspector Robert Harvey of the British Columbia Police, the appeal asked that police take "immediate steps to remove the band of fanatics from this settlement (Shoreacres) and to keep them off other settlements as well.

"They have burned several dwellings in this settlement and threaten to burn the rest of the dwellings, generally terrorizing our people in this district and causing tremendous loss to the country."

Inspector Harvey declines to make any comment on the protest note except to point out that "this will be sent to our headquarters in Victoria."

Police meanwhile continued their drive against the fanatics as they maintained a 24-hour patrol on all trouble spots. Within the last week a total of 15 men and women have been placed under arrest in connection with the arson outbreak.

Penitentiary Supt. On Way to Kingston To Conduct Inquiry

Ottawa, Aug. 25 (CP) — G.L. Sauvant, acting superintendent of penitentiaries, left for Kingston, Ont., to conduct an official inquiry into the break of three convicts from the penitentiary there last week.

Official sources said today Mr. Sauvant will hold the inquiry with the penitentiary warden. Two prison officials, unidentified as yet, have been suspended pending the outcome of the investigation, which will look into the possibility of collusion and negligence in the escape.

Mr. Sauvant is scheduled to take over a new post as senior assistant commissioner of penitentiaries shortly.

Rumors Flying About Super-Secret 'Atomic Defence' Project in Mexico

Albuquerque, N. M., Aug. 25 — (AP) — Rumors flew thick today about the $10,000,000 super-secret project under construction on the mesa a dozen miles east of Albuquerque, between this southwest United States city and the Sandia and Manzano Mountains.

Military sources termed fantastic some portions of a copyrighted story by the Denver Post which said the armed forces are building huge caverns for atomic war defences.

Private fliers who would not be quoted by name hinted, however, that there might be truth to tales about construction of underground storage facilities for such munitions as the atomic bomb.

The Sandia secret project is next door to an army airfield and to a navy project which is the successor to proximity fuse research. Sandia is midway between Los Alamos, where the first atomic bomb was built, and Trinity, N. M., where it was tested.

The Post said huge caverns were being excavated in the mountains, and that underground workings would provide storage for atomic bombs and perhaps for a plant to produce such weapons, and for a fast global air force capable of carrying them.

Brig.-Gen. Robert M. Montague, commanding officer at Sandia, termed some statements in the Post article "fantastic". He declined to amplify.

Varying reports came from Albuquerque fliers.

They look like igloos at an army ammunition depots and have a covering of dirt like buildings used for ammunition storage.

"There are at least six of them, and each is surrounded by a fence with guard towers at the corners. They are 200 to 300 yards apart."

This source said the army has fighter planes at nearby Kirkland Field ready to take the air, and could turn back any ship and force it to land for investigation.

Reports that the base is guarded by long lines of planes were traced to storage of war - weary craft at Sandia base which is closely restricted.

3 Armed Bandits Take $4,000 From Long Branch Bank

Telephone Wires Cut, Speed Away in Stolen Motor Car

Long Branch, Ont., Aug. 25 — (CP) — Three armed bandits escaped with $4,000 in a holdup at the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch in this town 10 miles west of Toronto today.

Two of the bandits entered the bank shortly after its opening while a third remained at the wheel of their getaway car. The bank manager fired one shot after the pair as they dashed out of the bank to the car but no one was hit.

Toronto police just previously had received a tip that the three long-term prisoners who escaped a week ago from Kingston penitentiary — Donald (Mickey) McDonald, Ulysses Lauzon and Nick Minille — were in the Toronto area but it was known immediately whether they linked the hold-up with the escaped trio.

McDonald and Lauzon had already been linked with the $40,000 hold-up of a Royal Bank of Canada branch at Windsor last Friday and Windsor police today said that as far as they knew McDonald and Lauzon were still in the Windsor area.

The telephone wires to the bank apparently were cut just before the bandits entered. The two went in the bank were both described as "big men" and one of them said during the holdup: "We aren't the Kingston convicts; we're just little guys."

The tip about the Kingston escapees said that McDonald and Lauzon had been spotted in a Long Branch restaurant earlier today. Police found no trace of them.

Manager A. C. Hopkins and a staff of seven, including three women and an office boy, were in the bank at the time.

The car used by the holdup men was believed to have been stolen either from Westmount, Que., or Markdale, near Toronto. It departed at a high rate of speed eastwards.

Believed Still in Windsor

Windsor (CP)—Ulysses Lauzon, 25, and Donald (Mickey) McDonald, 40, are still in Windsor "as far as we are concerned," Chief Constable Claude Renaud said today.

He said local police would continue their intensive search for the escaped Kingston penitentiary convicts until definite proof has been received that the fugitives have been located elsewhere.

No official word has been received here that either Lauzon or McDonald—or Nick Minille, with whom they escaped last Monday—had been seen in Strathroy, Ont.

"I saw something in an out-of-town paper about it tihs morning," Chief Renaud said. "But this department has not received any report from investigating officers that the hunted men have been positively identified with incidents reported from the Strathroy area over the weekend.

"As far as we are concerned they are still in this city and we are going to keep working with that assumption until we have definite proof that they have been recognized somewhere else."

(The London (Ont.) Free Press said today that Minille and McDonald were "believed seen Saturday night in Strathroy attempting to make purchases at two stores.")

The city-wide hunt for Lauzon and McDonald was started here within minutes of their escape with $40,000 from a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada Friday afternoon.

Chief Renaud said today that city, provincial and R.C.M.P. officers are combining in an intensive search of districts in which the dangerous pair might be hiding.

"All available police are working on the case here and we are tracking down every clue."

Minille May be Dead

Toronto, (CP)—The Toronto Telegram in a newspage dispatch from Guelph today said there were rumors there that Nick Minille, one of the three escaped long-termers from Kingston penitentiary, may be dead.

The car in which Minille escaped from Kingston with Donald (Mickey) McDonald and Ulysses Lauzon was found near Guelph at the weekend and the story said that a farmer's wife told police Sunday that she had seen the lights of a car last Wednesday. She said she heard men talking in rough voices as though quarreling and then heard what she thought was a shot.

The story said that police were searching the area for a body but the search was complicated by grass growing to a man's height.

The dispatch noted that only McDonald and Lauzon had been linked with the Royal Bank hold-up at Windsor Friday, and that police apparently had no clues on Minille.

Vatican Prelate Injured, Priest Killed by Mob

Rome, Aug. 25 — (AP) — An Italian news agency dispatch from Trieste today said a mob in the Yugoslav zone of Venezie - Giulia inflicted grave injuries yesterday on a Vatican prelate sent to confirm children in the area, and killed a local priest who tried to defend him.

The agency, Ansa, said the prelate, Msgr. Giacomo Ukmar, was taken to a Fiume hospital suffering from a skull fracture and serious knife wounds in the region of the kidneys. It said Rev. Miro Bulelsch tried to guard Msgr. Ukmar and was cut so seriously he died almost immediately.

The attack was at Lanische, in that part of the Istrian Peninsula known as zone B, occupied by Premier Marshal Tito's forces. Ansa said the Vatican sent Msgr. Ukmar, a native of Trieste, to the area after hostile manifestations prevented Msgr. Antonio Santin, Bishop of Trieste and Capodistria, from conducting confirmations.

Bishop Santin was treated roughly at Capodistria two months ago, but escaped serious injury. He informed the Vatican in June, 1946, that "Slav Communists" were preventing him from exercising his ministry in the zone.

When Msgr. Ukmar reached Lanische Sunday, Ansa said, part of a crowd advanced upon him with knives bared. The priest, moving to defend him, was slashed and his body tossed aside, and the prelate was assaulted.

LARGE POTATO BROUGHT TO OFFICE

Mr. Hugh Badgley, Frankford, has grown some large potatoes this year but if the sample which he brought in to this office this morning is any indication, his entire crop is said to be enormous in size.

The specimen measures 22 inches over one pound. It was thirteen inches around in length and two inches thick. It was a Green Mountain variety.

And it is not the only potato in the hill. There were two others of the same size and a number of small ones. The top of the plant was likewise large, measuring as even six feet.

Mr. Badgley stated that there is a big new crop in the plains in the vicinity of Harvey Pitcher's store in Shelburne but they are five feet four inches in length.

DRIVER LOSES CONTROL WHEN BEE ENTERS CAR

A buzzing bee-winged uninvited passenger who landed suddenly on an exciting if brief ride in Belleville on Monday morning was the cause of the car being nearly wrecked as well as the driver losing the top of a front tooth.

Miss Olive E. Williams, 30, of 143b Fourth Street Ottawa, was driving an automobile owned by Walter W. Pacheco, also of Ottawa along the Trenton-Wellington Highway.

One and one-half miles north of Wellington, a large bumble bee got entangled in the driver's window of the car and proceeded to investigate the interior.

Terrified at the nearness of the flying intruder, Miss Williams lost control of the car, which careened into one ditch, righted itself momentarily, then swerved into fifty yards then swerved into a telephone pole shapping it off at the base.

No injuries were suffered by the occupants of the car, but the vehicle was badly damaged. Chief of Police Earl Murvin, Wellington, investigated.

PROVINCIAL CONSTABLE SENT TO BANCROFT

...Bancroft. (Special)—Provincial Police Constable Stanley Ketcheson of the Belleville detachment, detachment Headquarters, has been assigned to duty in this area. The appointment increases the strength of the force here to three. Other members are Constables Stanley, Palmateer and Bedford.

BREAK-INS REPORTED AT TWO PREMISES

It is quite unlikely that there was any connection between the two incidents, but the disappearance of a fishing rod and reel from a local sports store and the loss of a cedar skiff from the government dock could add up to an afternoon's fruitless expedition on the Bay.

Today Bill Dennis, owner of the Dennis Sport Store, Front Street, reported that a rod and reel were taken from his store some time on Saturday, while also over the weekend Mr. Ken Mackey, Bridge, complained that a cedar skiff had been taken from the government dock.

Break-ins were reported at the Glenroy Creamery on Pinnacle St. and also at the C.N.R. freight shed with police on the scene if anything taken. Two local juveniles were charged with the latter two along the Trenton-Wellington Highway.

BASKET OF EGGS TAKEN FROM MARKET

With the price of eggs approximately five cents each it was only a little too much to expect that a large basket of eggs left unguarded in a market would remain unattended hours after the owner had left the premises.

On Saturday a Sidney township farmer had inadvertently left a large basket of eggs beneath her stand in the market square and had not remembered until she arrived at home. A hurried call was put through to the local police station with a request that an officer pick up the basket. That's right, the basket had disappeared.

VICTIM OF ASSAULT RESTING COMFORTABLY

Mr. Ben Sopher, 75-year-old second hand dealer who was brutally assaulted last Friday by an unknown assailant remained in a comfortable condition and comfortably in the Belleville General Hospital. His condition is reported as "good."

FASTER RIPENING DUE TO HOT WEATHER

Acceleration of ripening of the tomato crop due, it is said, to the hot weather is the cause of canning factories of the district to rush completion of fittve out plans for canning.

Bloomfield plants will start canning operations at the end of Picton and other Prince Edward County factories will be started by the middle of the week. The crop is said to be heavy in some areas, and not so good in others.

Another report stated that tomatoes are rotting in fields near Deseronto.

Five Vehicles Involved In Traffic Crash

Prospect Street intersection is apt to be quite busy at times, especially, $1,000 was involved in a highway accident involving five vehicles on the Picton-Belleville highway over the week-end.

Two trucks and three automobiles came to grief with no less than injury in a fresh series of crashes that had police wondering when it was going to stop.

It all started when Constable Milt Allinson, Brighton, Ont. truck proceeding towards Belleville Friday morning topped the rise near the Mountain View Cheese Factory. Another milk truck coming from the opposite direction and driven by Wilmot Knox, Consecon, attempted to turn into the factory ahead of the Quinte truck and there was a heavy collision.

Chief of Police Earl Marvin, Wellington, reached the scene a few minutes later and parked his car off the highway near the factory.

Both trucks which were considerably damaged had been taken off the travelled part of the highway when racing over the brow of the hill came a car driven by Ivan Walker, Deer, Ontario. Attempting to stop to avoid hitting one of the vehicles, the Deer car swerved out of control when the brakes were applied on the wet pavement. It skidded sideways over in a ditch narrowly missing the police car.

Chief Marvin, assisted passengers in the car and just had gotten official business well in hand when another car driven by Miss Ethel Hibbard, Kleinburg coming from a southerly direction also went out of control crashing into the rear of the police car and causing considerable damage to both vehicles.

It was learned no charges have been laid against Hibbard and Deer.

The big muskie was caught last Sunday by Michael Paris in Little Lake on the Otonabee River after a 30-minute battle that drew a gallery of 300 spectators on the shore.

Baby Distracts Mothers Attention When Driving Car

The cries of a three-months-old baby distracted the attention of Mrs. Carrie E. Fuller, 115 Dufferin Avenue, Trenton, from her job of driving the family automobile Sunday morning on the eastern outskirts of the village of Wellington, with the result that the vehicle went out of control, plunged into a ditch and almost wrecked itself in a field.

Mrs. Fuller suffered severe facial lacerations, but the baby was unhurt.

Chief of Police Earl Marvin who investigated the accident rushed Mrs. Fuller to Trenton, where she was given medical treatment. No doctor were available at the time in Wellington.

Mrs. Fuller was en route to visit relatives in Bloomfield when the accident occurred.

Noted Canadian Artist Dies

Toronto, Aug. 25 (CP) — A Canadian who detremined at the age of 12 to make art his career —and walked 20 miles from his farm home to see a real artist—is dead after a career that earned him the place of Dean of Canadian art.

He was George Agnew Reid, R.C.A., who studied painting in France Spain, Italy and the United States and won wide renown in his native land and abroad as a landscape and figure painter.

This native of Wingham, Ont., who died Saturday at his Toronto home at the age of 87, contributed to the development of Canadian art during its most active formative period.

Principal of the Ontario College of Art, Canada's largest school of fine arts, from 1912 to 1929, Reid left a heritage of encouragement and wisely developed talent that ranks with the legacy of his own paintings.

It was not until Reid was 19 that he was able to attend the Ontario School of Art in Toronto, but by the turn of the century he was definitely established. Paintings by the onetime farm boy now hang in the Toronto art gallery and Canada's National Art Gallery —both of which he helped to establish Among his most famous works owned by the National gallery are "Dreaming" and "Mortgaging the Homestead."

Only one of many honors was his appointment as president of the Royal Academy, 1906-1909. Earlier at the age of 37, in 1897, he had become president of the Ontario Society of Artists, a position he held until 1903.

Ice Rationing Now in London

London, Ont., Aug. 25—(CP) — Ice rationing — 25 pounds to a customer — will commence in London tomorrow, S. Gillis manager of the city's sole ice distributing firm announced today.

A continuing torrid heat wave combined with the fact that many electric refrigerator owners, unable to get replacement parts for broken down machines, was the reason for unprecedented ice consumption which forced rationing, Mr. Gillis said.

"We have been getting a carload a day since June from a Windsor firm," Mr. Gillis said "and using up our stocks of 4,000 stored tons at the rate of 150 to 200 tons daily. We have used up over 400 of 500 tons we had stored in St. Thomas also," normal consumption he said, was about 60 tons daily.

Deliveries will be made daily to customers only and no new customer will be added during the rationing period, Mr. Gillis said.

Brief Shower Helps

A brief shower early last night assisted firefighters to a small extent and the forecasts called for additional rain the next 24 hours. Mayor M. Paul Cuddihy said that the fires had died down in the cool night air but he added that they would "come to life again at three or four in the morning."

Rouyn was not believed in any danger from the fires since a "safety belt" that the flames could not leap had been burned around the town by forest fires a few years ago. Last night the worst fires, fanned by a strong wind, had swept in an easterly direction away from the town.

Mayor Cuddihy said he had been told by the Department of Lands and Forests office here that every available man, pump and piece of equipment had been thrown into action against the fires. One of the results of the fires was a smoke pall that hung over Rouyn in the early evening, making it impossible for residents to see across the lake to Noranda. Noranda is only a half-mile away.

The fires forced suspension of train service on the Montreal-Rouyn run while buses also were affected, not being able to use some roads in the district.

A family of picknickers — their exact number undisclosed — was rescued by a Norseman plane which criss-crossed the fire area through the day. Advised by relatives in Rouyn of the possible plight of the picknickers, those in the plane were on the lookout. They brought the members of the family back to Rouyn.

Firefighters managed to beat out the flames threatening the nearby village of Kinojevis Saturday after a two-day fight.

"LADY IN BLACK" IDENTIFIED

Hollywood, Aug. 25 (AP)— The "lady in black" who has been visiting Rudolph Valentino's tomb on each anniversary of the silent screen lover's death 21 years ago appeared at the Hollywood cemetery mausoleum again Saturday —and finally identified herself. She said she is Ditra Flame and that she "knew him years ago."

Ford Announces Price Increases On all Models

Detroit, Aug. 25 (AP)— The Ford Motor Company, which seven months ago startled the automotive world by cutting its list prices, today was the last of the American automobile industry's "big three" to announce price increases, ranging from $20 to $97 on most of its passenger car and truck models.

The boost, averaging 4.2 per cent, followed similar moves by Chrysler and General Motors Corporations and such smaller producers as Kaiser-Fraser, Nash, Hudson and Packard.

"This action," said company president Henry Ford II, "has been dictated by the simple necessary of keeping Ford Motor Company on a second economic basis."

Price reductions from $15 to $50 on passenger cars last Jan. 15 "had the effect of retarding the upward movement of prices" but since then "slowly but steadily....the cost of things we buy to make our product has risen.

"We have held to this lowered price line on..cars for seven months and even now, with these increases, we still offer the lowest priced six-cylinder tudor sedan and six-cylinder three-passenger coupe. But like any other company, w need a profit to insure our continuation as a sound unit in the national economy and to provide a reasonable degree of security for our employees."

"Millions of dollars" were spent above regular operating costs "to maintain stable employment and to attain production schedules of less than 70 per cent of capacity ...." Because of various "interesting factors," the company would turn out 135,000 fewer autos and trucks than contemplated during 1947.

ELEPHANT ON RAMPAGE

Salt Lake City, Aug. 22 — (AP) — Princess Alice, an elephant, broke out of her quarters at a zoo yesterday and, after a rampage, seemingly went to visit her caretaker.

She ripped up a drinking fountain, uprooted a tree and stripped branches off five others. Her delighted trumpeting brought Peter Mattson, the caretaker, running out of his house.

The Princess turned on Mattson. He jumped back into the house and locked the door.

Screen Exposed Fruit

This being the time of year that poliomylitis is prevalent throughout the country it should be everyone's care to use more than ordinary precautions in the handling of food. While the cause of the disease is pretty much a mystery some authorities believe polio may be caused by contaminated food and swimming in water that is not purified by good currents of water at bathing beaches and ponds.

At present it is quite common practice to display fruit along sidewalks outside stores, and by the curb at the city market place. Unless some protection is provided this gives flies an excellent chance to feed and lay eggs. The soft-skinned fruit such as plums, peaches, grapes and berries are particularly attractive to flies which will leave piles of filth in other areas to feed on the sweet juices that all fruit provides.

We may hope that everyone washes this food before using but some people are careless and they are the ones who should be protected from their own deeds. We suggest that all displays of fruit in the open should be covered with cloth screening. If this screening is lightly sprayed with some insecticide it will further discourage insect pests from contaminating our food. Grocers and market vendors can thus do their share in furthering the cause of public safety by making sure that one possible source of polio is eliminated.

Signboards To Go

The surprising but pleasing announcement by the Ontario Government setting up new regulations for the elimination of signboards from all provincial highways will cheer those who prefer the natural charm of unmarred countryside to the unsightly signs we have been accustomed to for many years.

The regulations which were published last Thursday prohibit erection of a sign except under licence by the Minister of Highways. These apply not only to regular signboards but to signs on fences, rocks or other surfaces. Highway Minister Doucett also said signs painted on the sides of barns could be prevented by the new regulations.

The reason given for this action is that signboards are considered a hazard to safe driving through distraction of the motorist's attention from the highway. The new regulations are a duplication of those already in effect on the Queen Elizabeth Way and the new Toronto-Barrie and Oshawa highways.

With respect to the signboards that are already in place there is no word, but it can be expected that when present contracts on signs for advertisers are concluded that no new ones can be put up. There will likely be a time limit given to remove the others that are in place more or less permanently.

This forward step by the Government will earn the commendation of the motoring public which likes its scenery without being told what to buy and where to go.

Train Hit Speed Record Canada's First Railway

This Fall marks the centenary of Canada's first stretch of railway and the unique establishment by the first train of a speed record which its streamlined successors have not yet surpassed. The epic train ride took place Nov. 19, 1847, and is to be commemorated by the cities of Montreal and Lachine and the Canadian National Railways, whose network of rails over a vast continent is an outgrowth of that eight track between Montreal and Lachine.

Behind them stretched the second class cars, with their leather-covered seats, followed by the third class open coaches, says the Christian Science Monitor. At the head of the train was a Norris engine, built in Philadelphia and laboriously hauled up from the harbor by horses.

Bumping along the soft roadbed with a motion so violent that many a stovepipe hat was flattened on the ceiling, the historic train deposited its passengers in Lachine eleven minutes later.

The dishevelled passengers did not share the engineer's enthusiasm for setting a record, and the angry railway Directors threatened to fire him unless he slowed down on the return trip. However, he was seen to wink to a near-by trainman and the return trip was made in nine minutes, a speed which challenges belief, but is of record.

The daring engineer was made General Manager instead of being fired, but the speedy engine was found to be too heavy for the Lachine road, and was replaced by one whose maximum speed reached 20 miles an hour.

Plans for the celebration are not yet complete, but already the city of Lachine has had struck a number of tokens in gold, bronze, and silver, on which appears a replica of the first locomotive in Canada. These tokens, which will be distributed to school children, have a hole in the centre, like the original tokens used as tickets. This form of ticket was used because it was found that ordinary railway tickets were not convenient for Indians and Lachine canal workers, who formed the bulk of third class passengers. The tokens were strung on a wire as they were collected from the passengers by the conductor.

Montreal was a city of 50,000 persons when Mr. Ferrier and his associates drew up the original plans for the construction of Canada's first railway service. The station at the Montreal end of the line was described by a newspaper of the time, as being a large open building, amply sufficient for the intended purpose. The Lachine terminus was on a spacious wharf fronting on Lake St. Louis, used as a mooring for steamers which carried passengers departing for and arriving from Upper Canada and the United States.

The Unmysterious Moon

While scientists continue to study further ways and means of reaching the moon by radar and rocket, and the prediction is freely made that in a few years' time the enterprising traveller may add this satellite to his itinerary, no one seems to have considered the effect of the change upon our moon-minded lovers and poets.

Half the beauty of the moon has been her mystery. Yeats' fancy about "the silver apples of the moon" owes its charm to the fact that no one can possibly testify that this is, after all, a pomological absurdity. The light that flows from her owes its enchantment to unbridgeable distance, to a certain remote fascination that the unassailable ether space has created.

Ah, moon of my delight that knows no wane,

The moon of heaven is rising once again sings Omar in a passage always considered to be in the best taste in amorous compliment.

But what shall be said of this when the moon has become only a tedious stop on the interstellar local—when groups of appropriately-clad tourists roam hither and yon stolidly munching astral sandwiches, and eyeing with boredom the clutter of billboards and cosmic road signs?

Poetically speaking, the thought is monstrous. One could go out and—yes, this would still be appropriate, doubly appropriate—"bay the moon."—Montreal Gazette.

Moving Passes

The United Kingdom is as desirable a Utopia to the displaced masses of the continent, as Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa are to the unprivileged workers of Great Britain. These currents and cross-currents of migration may be expected to rise in unexampled volume throughout the whole of the first decade of the postwar era. The impending flow of homesettlers from the British Isles to Canada will be particularly welcome, says Sydney Post-Record.

It Pays To Be Courteous

Rudeness and lack of consideration for other people may cost you some friends, but on the highway they are terribly apt to cost a life, says Capper's Weekly. A courteous driver never expects other motorists to read his mind; he makes his intentions clearly known, well in advance. He signals before turning, before slowing down, before stopping. At other times he refrains from pointing, waving, or making other confusing motions with his signalling arm. If everybody applied even that tiny bit of highway etiquette, a human life could be saved every day of the year.

ABOUT GLAMOR

She may be beautiful to see,
But beauty disappears,
And more enduring charm must be
To last throughout the years.

Though she be lovely to the eye
There's more than sight to feed,
And all men find as time goes by
'Tis tenderness they need.

Though beauty is all men's desire—
And proud of it are they—
'Tis more than beauty they require
When trouble comes their way.

Behind the charm must patience lie,
And understanding, too,
And love must endless care supply
To last a lifetime through.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Who are the Walloons?

The Walloons are the Catholic inhabitants of Belgium who speak a dialect of French as contrasted with the Protestant Flemings or people of Flanders who speak a dialect of Dutch or Low German.

"Walloon" is derived from Teutonic "walh," foreigner, and was applied to the Celtic Belgae by their Germanic neighbors.

The term is related in origin to "Welsh," the name of the Celtic inhabitants of Wales, and to "Wlachs," the name of the inhabitants of Wallachia or Rumania.

Racially the Walloons are the descendants of a mixture of Alpine Celts, Romans and Teutons. In a general way it may be said that the Walloons live in that part of Belgium west of Brussels —in the provinces of Hainaut, Namur, Liege, Luxembourg and about a third of Brabant, as well as in the adjacent skirts of Flanders and France. As a rule they differ physically from their Flemish countrymen in being taller in stature, stronger and more angular in frame, darker in complexion and more nervous and vivacious in temperament.

Both the Walloon (French) and Flemish (Dutch) tongues are officially recognized in Belgium and the language question is acute in the politics of the country. In 1940 it was estimated that about 3,000 Belgians spoke only Walloon, about the same number spoke only Flemish, while the rest of the some 8,000,000 inhabitants of the country spoke both the official languages.

Although the Walloons represent only about forty-two percent of the population, they are the more aggressive faction and in the past have been the dominant race politically. In the time of Emperor Charles V the Wolloons sided with the Spanish in the low countries and it became a tradition with the monarchs of Spain to maintain a bodyguard composed entirely of Walloons.

Many people have the notion that the Walloons are Protestants, owing perhaps to the fact that the Huguenot colonists who immigrated to the United States from Artois, France, were so called. The Wolloon church in The Netherlands is a Protestant denomination and the members are descendants of persons of the Reformed faith who fled from France and the Wolloon provinces to Holland in 1581 and the years following. Essentially it is an offshoot of the French Protestant church, using the Geneva catechism and the French language in its services.

Most of the thirty families who settled New Amsterdam in 1623 were Walloons who were sent out under the protection of the Dutch West Indies Company. Although they were from Holland, they were really Belgians rather than Hollanders.

British Miners Revert to Six-day Week Until May

Porthcawl, Wales, Aug. 25 (Reuters)—British miners will give up a four-months-old victory after 40 years of battle and revert to a six-day week to help pull Britain out of her economic crisis, Arthur Horner, general secretary of the National Union of Mineworkers, said last night.

In a tough take-it-or-the-consequences statement, he promised the union had the power and the will to discipline workers or management alike for any "irresponsibility or sabotage."

The move suspends for eight months, until May 1948, the new five-day week which the union won after protracted bargaining with the Labor government, which took over ownership of the mines the first of the year.

"We have offered to work 6½ hours every Saturday from September until May next year," Horner said. Miners, leaders, and cabinet officials have been meeting continually the last few weeks discussing the best way to improve coal production and supply fuel vital to crisis plans of stepped-up imports.

Miners this month were one week behind schedule for the production target of 200,000,000 tons, set as the minimum needed for home and manufacturing consumption this year.

Horner said "irresponsibles," only 10 per cent of the workers, failed to weigh up income against the country's vital needs for coal. They are "hurting the country and are impeding our union's efforts to bring about reforms in the industry."

Premier Drew Tells Vets World Faces War Threat

Toronto, Aug. 25. (CP)—The world faces the threat of a third world war today just as vividly as it faced the Second World War in the late 30's Premier Drew of Ontario Saturday told a luncheon meeting of veterans at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Guest at the Warrior Day program, Mr. Drew said the peace-loving nations of the world must continue to prepare for the possibility of war despite the fact that everyone desires peace.

The way to peace is to be strong he said; "We must show strength in the face of a threatening aggressor."

Attacking Russia's "policy of tyranny", Mr. Drew said that country today occupies more land than did Germany in 1939 and that Russia since the end of the Second World War has taken more than 100,000,000 persons into the zone of her domination.

"The time has come for veterans to say, "we want an end to hypocrisy, we need clear and honest thinking, and we want to extend a friendly hand to Russia with the understanding that freedom prevail in the countries of Europe".

Canada could do much for the less fortunate lands of the world with its relative security and its comparative prosperity. The smaller nations of the world would welcome the strong voice of a dynamic nations like the Dominion.

"Appeasement brought on the last war and surest way to bring on the third world war is to repeat the course of appeasement again.

"The United Nations is not going to do any good just sitting in a building in New York and mumbling platitudes about peace while taking no action."

The Premier paid tribute to the veterans of both World Wars who were being honored at the Exhibition yesetrday, saying that if they keep their minds clear and their thinking straight and stand behind the principal for which they fought," this country need have no fears of anything in the future."

ADVICE TO GUM CHEWERS AND TOBACCO CHEWERS

If the theory or contention of Bunting school of dentists has any merit — frankly I can't savvy it — dentists who do accept it ought to warn all their young patients against chewing gum.

Dr. Bunting and his associates believe a common cause caries (cavity formation) is erosion of the enamel by acid generated in the mouth by the growth of Bacillus acidophilus (the lactic bacillus strain present in acidophilus milk.) This germ ferments sugar which adheres to less exposed surfaces or fissures of the teeth and generates lactic acid, just as the common lactic bacilli in milk sour milk by fermenting the milk sugar. The investigating who advance this theory cite various bacteriological examinations of mouths which show that when there are few or no acidophilus bacilli present the individual has few or no cavities, whereas when great numbers of bacilli are present the individual generally has many cavities. But the bacilli may be absent because teeth free from cavities do not retain sugar long enough for the germs to grow on it, or the presence of one or more cavities may provide enough sugar to favor a vigorous growth of B. acidophilus.

However, if encouragement of B. acidophilus growth in the mouth favors cavity formation or decay of teeth the dentist ought to speak out about the habit of gum chewing, or at least against the use of sugar to sweeten gum.

As I have said, I take little stock in the Bunting theory, and so I do not inveigh against gum-chewing or candy sucking as a habit.

I do offer a health suggestion to chewers of gum or tbacco. Try carrying a small package of Plain Wheat in pocket and taking a chew of it whenever you feel the desire. Chewing wheat is real exercise and massage for teeth, gums and jaws. After several minutes of chewing it forms a kind of gum. As you chew it you are getting valuable vitamins which your diet probably supplies in insufficient amounts to maintain vite.

We kids in the Chapel Street gang chewed pine pitch when we could get it. It was tough and so brittle you had to chop a chew out of the mass with chisel or axe. It had a lasting piney flavor and it didn't get very soft even with prolonged chewing. Chewing pitch was real exercise for the jaws and massage for gums and polishing for teeth.

So far as exercise for the jaws, massage of gums, and cleaning and polishing of the teeth may be concerned, all any one needs is natural, unrefined food to eat. This is no mere theory or surmise. In Save Your Teeth (for copy send 25 cents and stamped self addressed envelope) I cite incontrovertible statistics and scientific evidence that should convince anybody except a Yankee Wiseacre that the cause of the soft, decaying teeth of the American people is (1) insufficient use of teeth, jaws, gums in chewing the refined, "purified" modern food (starch and sugar) that supplies most of the calories in the American diet; and (2) nutritional deficiency, due to the processing, purification and refinement of most of our food.

Keep these facts in mind.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Not Old C. O.

My head noises (I'm totally deaf in one ear only) are of fifty years' standing and I am conscious of them only when it is quiet. I snore, too, my wife complains. Lately I have been doing the grimace exercises you recommended for deafness and tinnitus, especially when I go to bed, and according to my wife I have stopped snoring almost altogether . . . Is this just your old friend C. O. Incidence or is it significant?

(S. R.)

Answer—From numerous similar reports by readers I infer it is significant. The whistle-scowl-squint, ear-wiggle-hike routine especially tends to tighten up flabby tissues in nose and throat, relaxation of which causes snoring. On written request — clippings will not suffice — any reader who provides stamped envelope bearing name and address may have the pamphlet Head Noises and Deafness, which tells about the exercises.

Displacement

For about a year I have followed the posture exercises advised in your pamphlet on Tumor, Cancer and Displacement, and I believe my trouble, retroversion, is cured. At any rate I no longer suffer.

(Mrs. A. S. R.)

Answer — Some such simple regimen, if the patient will only carry on faithfully with it, would bring about complete recovery in a good many instances. On written request (do not use a clipping) if you provide stamped self addressed envelope, I will send the pamphlet the reader mentions.

Thrombo-angiitis Obliterans

Ben Told I have beginning of Buerger's disease and that I must give up smoking.

(Mrs. R. K. W.)

Answer — For once Ben may be right — but in your place I'd ask my doctor about it. Chapter on Buerger's disease in booklet CVD — for the booklet send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa

11-Power Conference to Consider Japanese Treaty Likely this Fall

(By The Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Aug. 25 (CP)—Peace: — Senior government officials here believe the United States will call an 11-power conference to discuss Japanese peace treaty terms this fall, whether Russia agrees or disagrees to attend.

When United States officials first announced plans to hold the conference this year, Russia protested, saying that the Foreign Ministers of the great powers should first draft terms which could be submitted to a conference for approval.

Officials here states the United States government does not agree with this view and probably will soon announce the date and place for the proposed conference.

It is expected that the date will be set sufficiently far ahead so as not to conflict with commonwealth peace conference in Canberra and possibly the meetings of the general assembly of the United Nations in New York next month.

Defence Minister Claxton will represent Canada at the Canberra conference which opens Aug. 26 with a view to discussion in an informal and non-committal way possible terms of the Japanese treaty.

Boxcars: Government officials, pondering over the friction which arose between Canada and the United States during the recent controversy over the movement of boxcars, are confident that should a similar incident occur again it could be handled much more smoothly.

The officials were ruffled by the action of Col. Munroe Johnston of the office of Defence Transportation in slapping an embargo on the movement of coal over Canadian National Railway lines because he felt coal cars were not being returned fast enough.

They felt that such drastic action should only have been taken by the American State Department because the move affected the economy of Canada as a whole.

However, the embargo was lifted after three days and, the officials say, everybody is happy. Their main worry now is to see that the coal cars which have piled up in the United States during the embargo are not kept here too long when they are moved in full of coal.

Man is Held Without Charge In Woman's Death

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 25 (CP)— Police today held a man without charge pending full investigation of the hotel room death Saturday of Mrs. Agnes Walker, 45, of Toronto. One theory is that the woman drank a bottle of liniment, police said.

"We won't know the exact cause of death until after the autopsy," said coroner J. B. Symington. The body was sent to Toronto for an autopsy last night.

"Mrs. Walker was writhing in pain on the floor when I went in the room at 10.25 Saturday morning," said Mrs. Mary Toivonen, a chambermaid at the hotel "She was moaning and groaning. She had only a slip on and was lying face down."

It was almost noon before police and hotel officials located a doctor.

Investigators said that on the dresser in the room they found an empty linement bottle and a full bottle of disenfectant. They said the man they are holding came to Sault Ste. Marie from Toronto with Mrs. Walker and another man. The second man left here two weeks ago.

It's Children's Day at the CNE today, but Jimmie Burke, son of Mrs. B. Burke, 85 Castleton Ave., Toronto, got a head start Saturday. Here, his wistful eyes turn toward another cob of green corn at the "Ex."

C.N.E. Breaks All Existing Records Saturday

Toronto, Aug. 23 (CP).—With three attendance records shattered in the first two days of the Canadian National Exhibition, officials today were revising their early estimate that some 2,000,000 people would attend the 1937 version of the "World's largest annual exposition." Today the talk was of "nearly 3,000,000 this year."

Following close on the heels of an opening day record Friday, officials spent hours tallying a Saturday count that totalled 272,000 a new record for any day since the inception of the C.N.E. previous record was 267,000 on Labor Day 1941.

The Saturday mark was also a new second-day record puncturing the former 217,000 created in 1941. Friday's attendance was recorded at 103,000 — a 78 per cent increase over opening day in 1941 and well above the former 80,000 opening day record.

Today was children's day at the "Ex" and more records are expected to go by the boards after more than 300 of the youngster generation were reported lost during the "Warrior's Day" program Saturday. Highlighting the kiddies' activities was a contest for the most freckles and a decorated baby pram competition.

A wide program of sports, too, was scheduled with the boys and girls amateur swimming championships headlining that department's events.

In sweltering heat Saturday, abnormal crods started to fill the park early in the morning. With less than an hour to go before closing time, several thousand persons were lined up outside the park gates still waiting to buy admission tickets.

Honored during the Warrior's Day program were 20,000 veterans of the first and second world wars who marched in a thrilling parade and later competed in platoon competitions. A sports program kept several thousand visitors entertained and the midway booths reported record business.

Several soft drink and sandwich stands were forced to close shop early in the evening when supplies ran out and several restaurants on the grounds were closed by 6 p.m.

Teen-town, an innovation at the "Ex" will come into its own today with continuous programs of musical shows, movies, high school variety acts fashion shows and special broadcasts.

Wilson Southam, Managing Director Of Citizen, Dies

Ottawa, Aug. 23 — (CP)—Wilson Mills Southam, managing director of the Southam Publishing Company, former managing director of the Ottawa Citizen, and one of the city's leading philanthropists, died in hospital yesterday following a lengthy illness.

His funeral will be held privately today.

Eldest son of William Southam, founder of the Southam newspaper chain, he was born in London, Ont., and educated there and in Hamilton. He learned the business side of newspaper publishing under his father's direction and took over the post of managing director of the Hamilton Spectator in the early 90's.

He came to Ottawa in 1907 with his brother, Frank E. Southam, to be managing director of the Citizen, and assumed increasing responsibilities both in management and editorial policy, becoming head until recently was co-publisher.

In 1920 he took over the management of Southam Limited, at that time the holding company of newspapers and publishing houses controlled by the Southam family, but retired from active business in 1927 to devote himself to his interest in the Citizen and in many reforms which he advocated. He was a Christian Scientist and an advocate of social credit. During the last session of parliament he wrote the Commons elections committee suggesting proportional changes in Canada's voting system, and advocating representation and transferable votes.

Survivors include his widow, the former Henrietta L. Cargill; three sons, John D., publisher of the Calgary Herald; Gerald of Montreal and G. Hamilton of Ottawa; two daughters, Mrs. Herbert Brickman and Lady Brickman, both of Ottawa; two brothers, E. W. Southam, publisher of the Ottawa Citizen and W. J. Southam of Hamilton and one sister, Mrs. St. Clair Balfour Sr. of Hamilton.

Greek Coalition Cabinet Falls

Athens, Aug. 23. — (AP)—The Coalition Cabinet headed by Demetrios Maximos, backed by $300,000,000 in American aid to bolster its internal position, fell today.

The resignation of three ministers who insisted on changes in the Cabinet, prompted the government's fall. Foreign Minister Constantin Tsaldaris, just back from the Washington Conference, opposed the reshuffling, contending it "would render no service whatever to the country."

Informed sources said Maximos was drafting his cabinet's resignation for presentation to King Paul this morning.

Maximos, a leader in the Populist Party, formed the Coalition Cabinet last January, with members from seven of the eight parties represented in parliament. The Left Wing E.A.M. parties were not represented.

The crisis arose because of a disagreement over reconstitution of the Cabinet. Three former premiers who were members of the cabinet—Sophoulis-Venizelos, George Papandreou and Panayotis Kanellopoulos—insisted on changes. Foreign Minister Constantin Tsaldaris, also a former premier objected.

Venizelos, Papandreou and Kanellopoulos then resigned.

All three are former premiers. Venizelos, head of the Venizelos Liberty Party, was vice-premier and Minister of War in the Maximos Cabinet; Kanellopoulos, a National Unionist, was Navy Minister, and Papandreou, a Socialist Democrat, was interior Minister.

Pigs Go to Mart Modern Way--Fly

Dawson Creek, B.C., (CP)—Pilot R. P. Baker thought he had carried everything on his planes, but he broke new ground recently when he flew 200 pigs late to Anchorage, Alaska. More and larger consignments of pigs and other livestock from this area are in prospect.

The eight-weeks-old pigs came from Ted Hawley's "Pig Factory" at Progress, B.C., 26 miles west of here.

Passenger seats were stacked at the rear and the floor was covered with sawdust. Partitions were built so that there were only 20 pigs in a compartment.

E. Z. Briggs, purchaser of the livestock, was here to help with the loading. He expressed the belief that livestock can be transported by air from Peace River district to Alaska more economically than by truck or boat, requiring only eight hours to Anchorage.

The load of nearly 7,000 pounds was made up of 5,540 pounds of pigs and the remainder in feed.

Pilot Baker said this was his first venture in air transportation, but recalled, he had carried dogs, cows, skunks, chinchillas and other animals and would haul a 700-pound ox his next trip.

A new addition to the Warriors' Day parades — women veterans. Their smart appearance and precision of their marching added to the impressiveness of the parade.

Wheat Harvesting Now Under Way On Prairies

Winnipeg, Aug. 23 (CP) Canada's 1941 wheat crop appeared today to be somewhere between 340,000,000 and 380,000,000 bushels with the actual figure uncertain until harvesting, now under way in many districts, is completed.

In any event, agriculturists concede, there is no possibility of a crop to equal last year's approximately 418,000,000 bushels. A late spring, hail, insects, drought in some areas too much rain in others and disease have combined to cloud a once-optimistic picture.

A Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimate earlier this month placed the country's wheat crop at 358,784,000 bushels, 329,696,000 of which were to come from the prairie provinces.

Since then, however, private estimates have put the prairie harvest as low as 321,000,000 bushels.

The bureau's estimate also showed a decline in oats from 400,662,000 bushels in 1940 to 281,520,000 bushels this year and a drop of 5,300,000 bushels in the 154,584,000 bushels in barley. Of the oats, 200,000,000 bushels came from the prairies as did 144,400,000 bushels of barley.

Again privates estimates were more conservative, placing the prairie oats crop at 189,300,000 bushels and the barley yield at 143,000,000 bushels.

Rye and flaxseed production in Western Canada, however, was greater. The former was placed at 13,246,000 bushels and the latter at 10,849,000 bushels.

Drought was the major cause of the reduction. What apparently remained of subsoil moisture reserves, depositied by greater-than-average snowfalls last winter, especially in Saskatchewan, were depleted by excessive heat and lack of rain. Especially hard-hit were north-central and western Saskatchewan and southern Alberta.

HUGE AQUAMARINE

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP) — The United States Bureau of Mines said the mineral, $2,500,000 are expected to be cut from an aquamarine almost a foot square flown to New York from Brazil. The bureau said the stone was first last October near Redondo, Minas Gerais. A rough, hexagonal prism weighing 40 pounds it was 11 inches high and 10 inches in diameter when it was reported insured for $500,000.

Whip, Horse Failed Now Shock Customers

Auckland, N.Z., (CP) —They take a strong line with spectators in the North Auckland district of New Zealand where rugby football is considered a religion but ground facilities are rather rudimentary. Most grounds are simply a field with goal posts at either end and boundary lines marked out with white paint.

One club had continual trouble through spectators encroaching on the field of play in their eagerness to see the game. The club thought it had solved the problem when it installed a large Maori carved gate-post to keep the spectators back.

Even this proved insufficient, however, and next Saturday the effort appeared mounted on a horse and charged forward and forward along the boundary until the crowd fled in terror.

But the club is not beaten. Now it has erected an electrified wire fence round the ground.

FINISH ALL-EVEN

Inglewood, Calif., Aug. 25 — (AP) — South Africa's Bobby Locke, making his first California appearance, did no better than even par 72 yesterday in 18-hole exhibition match at Inglewood County Club.

Locke shot 37-35 as he teamed with Earl Moss, veteran golfer who carded 73, to finish all even in a best-ball match with George Fazio and Olin Dutra. Fazio had 36, Dutra 71.

Some 2,000 golfers turned out to see Locke, who has won three of 12 major tournaments since he arrived in the United States.

Consecon Lake News

The lake is calm on this fair August morning.

The lowering trees cast shadows cool and clear.

Bird voices hushed are waking with the morning.

A stranger's voice breaks through the surrounding quiet and swallows skim above the rising foam.

Careless they fly as in those radiant summers,

Heedless that winter come with whistling wind and snow.

Only the human heart dwells on life's fleeting changes

Constables Cecil Giles said the driver, Donald B. King, 338 College Ave., Simcoe, has been charged with reckless driving.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a walk with pop to encourrage his appetite and I'm getting my figure, and a big blue jay went passed extee fast honking a good deal like Mrs. Jones and I said, G, pop, it must take a lot of money to earn a liv like that.

That's rite, I shouldn't be surprised if the cheap in that one has the idea that money can buy everything, but pop said, No, you find out different, just like Hyslow Cross beam, pop said, and I said, Who makes his, pop?

Oh, Hyslow was a chap who got the wrong start—a about money and through having too much of it, pop said. Even as a boy he got a mutch bigger allowance that the other kids and he used to have second ice cream and candy, so whenever he went to a party all the gritty gerls called out—his number in the kissing games. That's what started him to thinking that money can buy anything, and when he like it did buy him practically everything. It bought him health, because almost every five doctors filled him with sutch expensive medecine that he was able to eat solid pickles and fat cheese drippings just before he went to bed every night. It even bought him liberty by keeping him out of jail when his stole 2 million dollers from a comparitively poor rayboy. He simply hired a lawyer who was formerly a hipnotist, and this lawyer hipnotized the judge and the jury and got Hyslow Cross beam off scott free. Talk by gollies he found out there was one thing his money couldn't buy, and the bitter nolly pop solooned his otherwise bought and paid for existence, he went on.

Gosh, pop, what did he find out? I said, and pop said. He found out that all his money couldn't buy him a certain sensation that he'd allways read about and heard about, and that was managing to actually injoy it himself. It was the sensation of being poor but honest. I'm getting hungry, let's turn back, pop said.

Which we did.

No Dye Needed For the Hair Of These Customers

Arlington, Va., Aug. 25 — (AP) — Eight ladies sat patiently under the hair driers in a beauty shop.

One of the ladies suddenly felt uncomfortable. Someone was staring at her. She stared right back because the other lady sure looked funny. She laughted nervously. The other lady did, too. In fact all eight looked funny.

The painters had been working next to an intake fan pulling air in through a ventilator and into the driers.

Cannifton-Corbyville Home and School Assoc. Holds Tea and Bazaar

Wednesday last was the culmination of the work of a Summer, when the Cannifton-Corbyville Home and School Association held a tea and bazaar at the school from 2-6 p.m. The Junior classroom was very attractive, all the tables being spread with white cloth, and having masses of Summer flowers for decoration, while the room itself was garlanded with the school colors of orange, green and black.

The long tea table in the centre with a lace cloth, silver tea-services, candlesticks and silver basket of flowers as centrepiece, made a perfect setting for the many dainty sandwiches, tarts, cookies and relishes served from small tea tables arranged around it. The home-cooking table was the usual scene of much activity, the delicious pies, cakes, canned goods, even roasted chicken, testifying to the ability of the community cooks.

The large display of aprons made a colorful showing but the aprons soon disappeared. The children's wear table offered a wide choice of garments for children from the new baby to the child of six years. The beautiful crochet and knitted wear vieing with the pretty dresses and boys' suit in popularity. The novelty table had many lovely and original novelties, making one wonder "where people get their ideas". The Fish Pond was soon "fished out" by the large number of children who continued clamoring for more.

Guests Received

The guests were received by the President, Mrs. Ralph Plumpton, assisted by Mrs. D. Milton, general convener of the bazaar.

Those pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. H. Empson, Mrs. Walker, of Frankford, Mrs. J. Williams and Mrs. R. Plumpton.

Even the senior girls had a part as they entertained the children in school play ground while the mothers could enjoy a cup of tea. Those being "sitters" were, Misses Grace Furmidge, Peggy Plumpton, Audrey Archibald, Patsy Gilbert, Rosemarie Latchford, Arlie McPherson, Betty MacFarlane and Ada Vincent.

The Experts Say . . .

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 22. (CP)—Hot weather may usher in the sour milk season, but a pint of sour cream—or milk—still is worth its weight in appetizing food, if the housewife has on hand a number of good "sour cream" recipes.

Tea biscuits—ideal for the light Summer supper—are twice as fluffy and tasty when made with sour milk.

Ingredients: two cups flour; 2 2-3 teaspoons baking-powder; one-third teaspoon soda; two tablespoons sugar; one-half teaspoons salt; two tablespoons fat, crisco, butter, or beef dripping; two-third cup sour milk.

Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Cut in the fat with a knife. Add the milk slowly until a soft dough is formed. Turn on to a lightly-floured board, and knead three or four times before rolling out about one-quarter of an incn in thickness. Cut with a cutter. Bake in a hot oven.

Cookies

One and one-half cups sugar; one-shalf cup lard; one cup sour milk; two eggs; two rounded teaspoons baking powder one-half teaspoon soda; flavoring. Roll out and bake.

Almost every dinner is bound to be a success if started off with an appetizing soup. And if the cook has a special recipe up her sleeve—so much the better.

Almond Bouillon is just such a "special". While somewhat different from the usual dinner soup, it has a wonderful daintiness of flavor which rapidly is making it a favorite.

Cook together in double boiler, two pints of sweet milk with one tablespoon of butter mixed with one large tablespoon of flour. Add immediately one-half pint of almonds that have been blanched, browned and ground. Serve in bouillon cups with a bit of whipped cream on each. Plain salt crackers are the proper accompaniment to this soup.

Cream of Carrot Soup

Two cups water; two cups carrots; four slices of onion; two cups milk; two tablespoons butter four tablespoons flour; salt and pepper to taste. Cook carrots (chopped in small pieces) and onion in water until tender; press through strainer. Make sauce of butter, flour, milk, and seasonings.

Hints—A few drops of glycerine rubbed over the bathroom mirror will prevent the latter from steaming when hot water is run for shower or bath.

When making cherry-pie from home canned fruit, beat an egg and mix it with the sugar and one tablespoon flour.

Battle of Hemline In Full Swing At Fashion Shows

Toronto, Aug. 25 (CP) — The battle of the hemlines is in full swing at the 16 fashion shows on the daily program at the Canadian National Exhibition.

One group of designers authoritatively states that skirts should be 14 inches off the ground. Another group is just as insistent that skirts should be 15 inches from the floor and a third group has it scaled to 10 inches.

The battle has a fourth faction —the average woman who looks critically at the new fashions and then shakes her head in a vigorous "No!" The entire question has boiled down to whether women wish to be in style and hobble their walking habits or whether to be comfortable and look like last year's issue of vogue.

A consensus shows that the well-dressed woman this year will wear longer dresses with side-drape interest. Emphasis is on embroidered, sequined or quilted front and back and in some instances on one sleeve. Necklines vary between high and sweetheart styles with V-neck reserved for matrons. Sleeves generally are long with a few braclet-length types shown.

Striving for a round look, the days of rigid dieting are over with the return of the hippy silhouette. The hipless can buy attachable padded hips to wear under skirts while some designers have created the hippy effect with stand-out peplums and bustles.

Black still is the popular color for street wear with grey, a warm brown, a subdued shade of royal blue and new hue called beauvais green, next in popularity. Dark stockings are called for and shoes are being built up as skirt are being lowered. Studded bracelets at the wrist are the latest glove effect.

Evening dresses are on the exotic side. Skirts are full and draped with a curved slot in the front. Brilliants, sequins, studs and pearls are sewn on the material. A carry-over from last year is the bare shoulder and shawls.

A Salad is So Cool

A hostess that is cool, both figuratively and actually is always a social success. The Summer luncheon built around a salad is also successful, particularlyif the salad is made with crisp fresh vegetables or luscious fruits in season.

Salads may be every day fare or party specials, for with careful preparation, harmonious arrangement and appropriate dressing the plainest salad may be a culinary triumph. It may so easily be a limp, watery and even gritty plate of greens if the cook is careless. Several thorough washings assure freedom from foreign matter and refrigeration prevents waiting.

It is really a joy to create a salad that is beautiful to look at and a pleasure to eat.

Fruit salads are popular with the bridge club or the sewing circle. Cool, delicate, colorful fruit salads are ideal for main course if cottage or other cheese is used to make it more substantial. With a sweet dressing the fruit salad becomes a cool refreshing dessert to follow a souffle or cold meat plate.

Now is the time to make the most of thes fresh foods while the season is at its height. The Home Economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture suggest trying these three cool salads.

This is the way they bid it:

South	North
1 D	1 S
2 H	3 D
3 H	3 D
4 H	5 D
5 H	Pass

Any time you have a hand with nine tricks, start with a bid of two in a suit. You need not worry over the number of big cards you have. With nine tricks you will have enough.

The south hand here has ten; eight high cards (aces, kings and queens), two short cards in clubs. Such an opening is inviting a game. Also, a whopper chopper sure is worth a game try.

In answer to a bid of two in a suit, two no-trump denies a nine trick. So, with two spade response by north guarantees a nine trick. Also, it promises a bidable spade suit, of course.

With two suits of different lengths, first bid the longer. So south bids the shorter of his two suits on the second round. With that then shows support for the one he can assist.

Four no-trump is the convention signal for aces. There are many aces and kings he has. This signal is used when a player knows what will be trump and has advices of tricks enough.

In answer to four no-trump five diamonds is Kibitzer convention signal for showing all aces and no kings. Thus does south learn that agreed slam would be unwise. Opponents are known to-day one ace.

Hollywood, Aug. 25. (AP)—Film production in Hollywood this week hit the lowest point in many years as studios watched developments in the British tax situation before going ahead with future plans.

The doldrums are illustrated by the small number of pictures in work at the major lots. In contrast, Britain appears to be making more films than ever before.

Economy firings continue at several studios here and production chiefs are striving to reconcile to lighter budgets. Observers believe conditions won't return to normal until Fall, if then.

Opticals Take Dulmage Motors By 11-5 Score

American Optical came through with a neat 11-5 win over the Dulmage Motors in a Belleville Softball Association game scoring seven runs in the sixth inning to pull the pastime out of the fire.

Dulmage scored four runs in the third innings when they clouted five safeties off Dinnis, Optical hurler and appeared to have the game in the bag.

Opticals, however, went on a spitting out in the sixth when triples and doubles bounced off their war clubs to send seven runners scampering home.

Dulmage attempted another rally in the last innings but the best they could do was one run and that was that.

Female Ball Opticals' hit parade with three hits with Rawdon, Payne, Bulgi and Hickey getting two each. Clarke and Petters got two each for the losers.

Golfing is Simple Says Kirkwood Then He Shows it Is--for Him

"Golfing is simple." So says Joe Kirkwood who illustrated his point yesterday afternoon at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club by driving the ball away everything but a knife and fork.

He approached the tee for his exhibition of trick shooting with a golf bag that resembled a small pup tent. Then, after emptying a satchel full of balls on the turf, he proceeded to extract all manner of clubs from a plumber's plunger to a Cherokee gear shift from its cavernous innards.

Explaining that it is essential to keep your eye on the ball he lined up seven of the little golf balls and then hit everything but the one he was aiming at. How to get out of a bad lie, was expertly demonstrated by the golfing maestro as the proper way is back and sideslice a ball was shown, (there is a proper way?) and then Mr. Kirkwood called each shot with a cool confidence. High shots over trees and low shots for getting distance in a high wind were recited with unfailing precision.

It's All in Knowing How

Using a little primitive Mr. Kirkwood teed up one ball on another and proceeded to drive either the top or bottom one as his fancy suited. Practice balls were teed up vertically and the middle one was sent on its way leaving the others two behind, several duhs burst out sobbing. The solo became hair-raising drama as the performance was repeated with Joe standing carelessly on one foot.

Then starting foremost trick shot artist began to hit them from almost every conceivable location. One ball sitting on the sand wedged wringing down the fairway from such huckleby places as the shaft of a putter, the side of the golf bag, from the lower end of a swinging club and from under a gentleman's foot, and off the toe of the gentleman's shoe.

Then the golfing master told the crowd to stand well back as they might possibly be sprayed with flying glass. Then he teed up a ball on a golf watch that Gene had kindly donated by one of the spectators. The worried one was Clare Morgan, president of the Golf Club.

Waird Club Assortment

Then appeared the weirdest assortment of golf clubs. Clubs with rubber shafts wrapped themselves around the player's neck as he took aim. An iron came out that could bend itself into a frying pan. Finally to spare the feelings of the crowd he sent the ball off with a regulation driver and returned the watch to the delighted owner.

A series of impersonations followed. Out came the gallery in stitches. How a lady plays golf; the golf fanatic beginning early and ten, fifteen, twenty, thirty, and forty years later; and the Sunday morning golf maniac were all faithfully portrayed. The gear shift from a Cherokee car, was car will do, was used to show the golfer what to do when his driver breaks.

Then came a demonstration of skill and accuracy that was a delight to watch and a heart breaker to do. Two balls were teed on top of each another. The bottom one was driven away and the top one hopped up into Mr. Kirkwood's hand. Two others were driven down the fairway, one straight and the other hooked. Two balls were driven with two clubs and two were driven with one club. They bounded and sliced or rose and fell at the command of the veteran Mr. Kirkwood.

A long handled driver with a head that looked like a pine log was used to show golfers what is necessary to get distance on a long hole. A slow motion shot was shown and it was a study in co-ordination and timing.

Golf Simple Game

Becoming serious Mr. Kirkwood state that golf is a game which cannot be standardized, because every golfer is different from every other golfer. Relax, relax and then relax, are the ten odour mandments of golf, he continued. Do not overdo, select and swing freely and lastly using the arms and the wrist to get your drive. Common sense should govern your golf. After learning the fundamentals it is merely a matter of practice. Really golf is a simple game.

Prior to his pleasing exhibition Mr. Kirkwood bowed the course with five district pros. There scores are as follows: Joe Kirkwood 37; Charles Pilutti 37; Bill McIntosh 37; Jack Mitchell, 39; Dick Green 39; Joe Pilutti 40.

Strength on Bench Principal Reason Why Brooklyn Dodgers And Yankees Leading Leagues

Substitutes For Regulars on Both Teams Help to Win Games

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Strength on the bench, a "secret weapon" that helped win pennants for Casey Stengel and Leo Durocher, is one of the principal reasons why Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees are leading their respective leagues by comfortable margins.

The late John J. always said: "Have good, strong substitutes and I'll give any team a battle for the flag." He proved it by leading New York Giants to 10 championships within 21 years.

On Sunday it was the work of two bench-warmers, Eddie Miksis and Stan Rojek which established the Dodgers to defeat Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1.

Miksis and Rojek, filling in as a Keystone combination, drove in the winning runs and played errorless ball. Miksis got a seventh inning homer and a single in four times at bat. Rojek drove in Dixie Walker with a single in the first inning.

Aaron Robinson, Johnny Lindell Bobby Brown and Al Clark are the Yankee trouble shooters. Robinson filled in for Yogi Berra behind the plate Sunday and walloped a homer and two singles. He scored twice and drove in five runs to lead the Yanks to a 16-6 victory over Chicago White Sox. The Sox won the opener 3-2.

Come Back to Win

St. Louis Cardinals spotted Boston Braves four runs and then came back to win 9-5. Stan Musial led the birds with his 16th homer.

New York Giants blasted five homers in splitting with Chicago Cubs at the Polo Grounds. This mark set a National League team record of 173 homers in a season. The previous mark, held by the Cubs, was 171. In 1930, The Giants have 35 games left to which to better the National league major league record of 182, set in 1936.

Larry Jansen won his 15th game and eighth in a row as the Giants won the opener 4-3. Walker Cooper and Sid Gordon got home runs in this game but in the second, four-baggers by Johnny Mize, Ernie Lombardi and Buddy Kerr failed to stop the Cubs, who won 9-3.

Cincinnati and Philadelphia Phillies split a double-header. The Reds wining the opener 12-3 on a 10th inning nine-run rally. The Phillies won the second-inning nightcap 8-6.

Boston Red Sox and Cleveland split a doubleheader. Dave Ferris pitched Boston to an easy 11-4 victory in the opener but the Indians came back to nip the Red Sox 3-2 on Joe Gordon's two-run homer.

Detroit Tigers swept a double-header from Philadelphia Athletics in Detroit 6-3, 5-4, while Washington Senators split with St. Louis Browns.

The Browns won the opener 7-1, but Conny Priddy drove in five runs to help Washington take the nightcap 14-4.

Instead of bringing peace to Indonesia, "you have played into the hands of the extremists."

Meanwhile, the council seemed no nearer a solution of the Anglo-Egyptian case, in which Egypt is demanding withdrawal of British troops from Egyptian soil and administration of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

TORONTO INDIANS HAVE PROMISING TEAM RECRUITS

Plenty of Spirit in Squad And Boys Hope to Finish Strong

By WILLIAM H. DUMSDAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Aug. 28 (CP)—There's only a couple of things about Toronto Indians to distinguish them from other O.R.F.U. clubs as they pitch their wigwam this year.

They'll be the circuit's lightest outfit and its most advanced in training.

There was much talk that the Redmen would fold their football tepee last fall but John Stuart, their big white chief, came to the rescue and there's the talk that the horseman's output already has reached five fat figures.

Thanks to his race-track connections, Stuart wangled his charges into the Woodbine infield and fixed up posh quarters, for them in the jockey's house. There's no big names on the squad; there's no Grey cup talk as during the last two campaigns but there's plenty of spirit and the boys hope to finish "no worse than third."

Coach Given Credit

If this young club which last year finished in the eight-team comes through, a lot of credit will be due for a grey-thatched gent from the Canada Soo Soleno—who created football history at Syracuse University by reversing his centre.

Soleno will witness only the first two games of the league contest before he returns to his job at Springfield College but the Indians claim the quiet-spoken Oneida who has been mentoring for 26 years, knows more football than the rest of the coaches in the country lumped together.

The palfaces have been slugging away under Soleno's guidance for six weeks and they'll be repeats another Yeak, Bob Cosgrove will fill the coaching breach. Last year with Balmy Beach, the former University of Montana centre star, plans to use a special cast on his gimpy left ankle to lend support to a club he admits is "mighty green."

Gone from the squad through retirement or to other lineups are such big names as the Stukus brothers, Annis and Bill, Fred Klink, Jake Gaudaur, Doug Fyfe, Dick Tobin, Pete Jacobs, Bob Crowe, Harry Sonshine and Don Durnin.

Winner in Three Years

And the club heads are first to admit there's no great number of experienced replacements to fill the gaps. But there's a bunch of promising high-school grads on hand with some experience and Cosgrove sees "the making of a winning club in about three years."

From Balmy Beach, the Tribe nabbed Ralph Larue, a long-kicking half, and quarterback Ernie Becker, as well as three seasoned linesmen, Don Sinclair, Jake Edmiston and Bob McMillan. Other imports are two youngsters from Canisius College, Buffalo — 225-pound George Doyle, a pass-grabbing end, and Pietrie McCleary, a 200-pound blocking back.

Johnny Farmer, Vern Pickard and Bob McCullough all played and positions with the Redmen last year and veterans Ken George Art Burns, Jerry Pryke and Jan Sheridan are available again for the strength, supported by rookie newcomers such as Lorne Parkins, Steve Shives, Art Richards, Bill Berezoski and Dave Jenkins.

Due to their lack of poundage, Cosgrove says you'll see the Indians on the offensive most of the time. There will be a fair share of quick kicks and until the boss ses see how the forward passes of Ciotti and Belcher stand up in competition, the tribe will rely on a ground attack.

SPORT CHIPS

OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE E. CARVER, Sports Editor.

What should be a slugging match between Jimmy Bell and Al Hastings, Prince Edward county golfing champions, is unmatched with Harry Gus Rudolcil of Toronto, the Shamrock Golf club star, who will find a foeman worthy of his steel in Bell at Diamond Athletic club of which the popular Picton lad is one of the guiding lights.

And while on the subject of head-hunting, Manager Eddie Lee of the Belleville Athletic Club informs us that the card arranged for the Labor Day Exhibition Park here Wednesday afternoon, which includes Dugas, Colbourg, Canadian middle-weight champion, who has been indefinitely postponed. It seems that the boys ran up against a snag when they tried to secure a ring. Lee said efforts to secure the equipment met with no success and the show will be cancelled.

What was said to be one of the best baseball games seen in the village since "Smoke" Barfoot, the old pioneer played hide and seek with the Mohawks along the lakefront, took place in Wellington Friday night when Consecon "3" team of the village took the classy Gananoque "2" team of the village 2-1 score to get the nod in the first game of their two-of-three series.

The teams go back at it again on Wednesday afternoon in Gananoque. In the second bout of the series and the Thousand Islands club came under Don Carmichael will go all out to even the ledger. Should there be a series. The winners will meet Bancroft juniors in the second round.

Tonight in Belleville, the Carnien-Led Latta crew take on the Rheoman in their second game of the Belleville Baseball League semi-finals. Stats back the Latta crew to the other night by a 9-3 score, but the Latta gang are confident that they can even the score in the Rheoman backyard. If Napanee the Trenton, Flyers will attempt to make it a three-in-under way with the Gilbardville crew after several rainy setbacks. Both games start at six o'clock.

Oshawa Legionaires captured the city softball title and will represent the Motor City in the OASA Intermediate playdowns starting against Peterboro winners.

Under a blazing August sun the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club team won the Empire for Men Trophy on the home links before a large gallery that had gathered to view the battle. Joe Kirkwood de his links links. The B of Q 3s headed by Tommy Carruthers swept through to take the lead and match from the Belleville Golf. Trenton Golf and Country Club and the RCAF teams with a grand aggregation of 31½ points. Belleville Golfers held the lead right through the previous three matches by a presentable one point, but the B of Q team came through in grand style to take the title and the trophy.

According to reports from Kingston all is not well in management circles of the Senior Baseball League. The reports state that not one manager of the present six-team loop has been asked to sign a 1951 contract, while the loop grapevine has it that Barney Hearn, popular pilot of the Aurora Cayugas 'may be seen in a Ponies Uniform while Ben Leary, present master-mind of the Kingston loop is not a possible choice for either the Auburn or Genesee squads.

Frankie Zanovitch who was seen in action here with the Westerlown squad against the Cayugas as an established star, has been ruled ineligible and Manager Bob Shawkey of the Ponies has been fined $50 for allowing Zanovitch to play.

Chiplets: The matched race for $100,000 between Armed and Assault scheduled for next Saturday has been cancelled. The "clubfoot" colt pulled up lame during a workout on Saturday and the long-looked-for race between two of the fleetest mare in America was called off . . . Claude Keeley, Scottish professional representative in Canada has stated that his association has hurled a direct line the teeth of the British Ice Association regarding suspension of Canadian hockey players signed to play in the Scottish loop this winter . . . Substantiating this statement is the fact that a lot more of the Canadian junior players are willing to journey to Europe to follow later on . . . Legion team in Detroit Lakes pulled the old "loaded bat" gag in a game with another squad and were promptly chased off the field when the umpire got wise to the stunt. The history was loaded at right but some of the boys got it into the league game when it was their turn for practice purposes only . . .

Louis "Napoleon" (Lou) Tsoi, winner of one of the all-time records of the American League is joining the Philadelphia Eagles and will arrive in Belleville with the team in September.

The announcement that Trudel had been pursued by the Rockets from the Cleveland league was made by Peter A. Tyrrell, president and general manager of the team.

Known in hockey circles as "the player who has never had a poor season," Trudel has averaged 17 points per season for the last six campaigns. In 1944-45, when the Rockets won the American League and Calder Cup, Trudel was the leading point scorer with a total of 62 points, three more than Phil Hergsheimer's 2 which won scoring honors in the circuit's last year's individual scoring crown. . . . Trudel played the fourth best individual performance in the history of American League hockey.

A native of Salem, Mass., Lou learned his hockey in Western Canada and broke into pro circles with the Providence Reds of the old American League in 1933. He lasted one season there before he was grabbed by the Chicago Black Hawks in the National League with whom he played for five seasons before being traded to the Montreal Canadiens. He served four years with the Habitant sextet before he was joined New Haven and Washington Cleveland Barons bought him from the latter club in the 1943-44 season and he has played with the Barons ever since.

The Combined Service Darts teams will all under service station at the Church Street Armouries Tuesday night where a special meeting has been called to get things ready for winter under organized supervision. Five teams including the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans; Canadian Legion; Reserves and Prince Edward, the Argyll Light Infantry and C. N. R. Veterans have already joined the loop and are looking forward to a successful season in the good old English game.

The new executive will be composed of one member of each squad. Arrangements for a four quarter tournament have already been made and the schedule drawn up. The tournament will stretch over a five week period when quarter winners will play off for the association championship. Six-man teams will make the league and matches will consist of six singles of 301 points each, 3 doubles of 301, and two triples of 501. The tournament will get under way as soon as dates are set.

Lou Boudreau, Indians—Singled in three times at bat in the first game and singled in four times at bat in the second game; made one error in the latter game at the field.

Jackie Robinson, Dodgers—Lined out twice, tripled off the left centre field wall and was out on a fly ball in four times at bat.

Ted Williams, Red Sox—Failed to get a hit in four times at bat in the opener but drew three passes; got one of Boston's five hits in the nightcap off Allan Gettal of Cleveland, in three times at bat.

PETERBOROUGH WINS SERIES

Oshawa, Aug. 28 (CP) —In the second and as it turned out, deciding game of their Juvenile baseball series, Peterborough Y.M.C.A. eliminated Oshawa Maroons by winning 13-7 here Saturday afternoon.

The Peterborough squad fielded in much the better style and that was the winning edge in the game as both batters were hitting freely. Jeff McGrath, pitching for Oshawa, allowed 10 hits while Wade, the Peterboro hurler, allowed nine hits for seven runs. McGrath had eight strikeouts compared with Wade's six. Oshawa committed 10 errors, most of them by the batters, and gave Peterborough more chances than they could use to score the winning runs.

LOADED BAT USED IN PLAYOFF

Kirkland Lake, Aug. 28—(CP) —A Kirkland Lake softball team used a loaded bat in a playoff game, it was established yesterday at a special meeting of the Kirkland Lake Fastball League. The league ordered the team to re-play the game in which the overweight hickory helped Canadian Legion defeat Queen's 2-1 in the decisive encounter of a best-of-three final series.

Dan Giannini of the Legion team admitted the bat was loaded with a lead core weighing 1½ ounces but said it had been put to use in the playoffs purely by accident. The lead core had been installed for practice purposes only, he said.

BUFFALO GETS SCULLING TITLE AT EXHIBITION

Hamilton Leanders Second in Eight-Event Program Staged

Toronto, Aug. 25 (CP) — Buffalo Westside winners of the Canadian Henley Regatta last month, showed their superiority again Saturday night when they annexed the coveted club title at the Canadian National Exhibition regatta in easy fashion.

Westsides with four victories and three seconds in the eight-event program amassed a 20-point total to shead of their nearest rivals, Hamilton Leanders.

Young Billy Couch, son of Westsides' Coach Roy Couch, led the U. S. crew to two single victories in the 145-pound half mile event and quarter-mile sprint. In each event Bobby Williams of Hamilton was second, while Ray Barrett of St. Catharines Rowing Club placed third in the quarter run.

Leanders rowed a smooth race in the three-quarter mile Senior eights to win a 2-1-4-length victory over the Westsides, repeating the story they scored in the 145-pound eights earlier in the evening by one length over Buffalo crew.

Gaby Beaudry, Ottawa's crack singles oarsman, took a two-length mile sprint to cop that event in easy fashion. Don Platt of Toronto Dons was third. Earlier Beaudry rowed a good second to Joe Angeli of the new Athletic Club 145 pound champion of North America, who won the senior eights three-quarter mile event.

Ottawa Rowing Club finished third in the point standing with 11 on 5-3-1 basis. New York A.C. had five, Argyle and Toronto Dons each had three and St. Catharines finished with one.

In other Saturday sport features at the exhibition, Jerry W. Gorman of Parker Heights, Ohio was an easy winner in the Ontario mile swim championship, joining Bernice Looney of Warren, Ohio, who won the women's mile swim earlier.

Czech Davis Cup Players Defeat Quebec Squad

(By The Canadian Press)

Visiting Czech Davis Cup players made a clean sweep in exhibition matches Saturday at Quebec when Jaroslav Drobny defeated Marcel Bernier of Quebec and Ontario champion, 6-1, 6-2, and Czech doubles team of Paul Partoun, city and district champion 6-4, and the two teamed up to take Rauls and Turgeon 6-3 and 6-3. The Czechs were slated to start their Davis Cup play in Montreal recently by the Australian team.

Ted Horrocks of Hamilton, with a score of 70, spaced out Douglas Elliot of Welland Saturday at the Canadian National Exhibition to win the Toronto Anglers' and Hunters' Association 36-hole flycasting tournament.

A lawn bowling team from Western Ontario, making a good-will tour of Western Canada, lost the fourth match of their British Columbia schedule by a score of 28 shots to 109 at Vancouver. The team now is on the way to Winnipeg, where three matches have been arranged. On the whole tour, they have won seven and lost six matches.

Goalie Max Haunn, who has been with St. Catharines Falcons of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A circuit for the past three seasons, — this season will play with Stratford Nationals of the O.H.A. senior A bracket.

Eddie Robinson, Cleveland Indians' first baseman, is out for the rest of the season because of a fractured right ankle suffered in a game Saturday with New York Yankees.

A winner-take-all match race between the top-ranking American racehorses Armed and Assault, scheduled for Chicago's Washington Park next Saturday, has aroused all of Assault's developed a soreness in one foot after a workout.

BATTLE FOR HOME RUN CROWN STILL IN DOUBT

Sauer of Syracuse Leading Howie Moss of Baltimore By One Clout

(By the Associated Press)

The battle for the slugging crown may be all but decided in the International League, but the battle for the home run crown between Hank Sauer of Syracuse and Howie Moss of Baltimore promised today to remain doubt until the last day of the season.

Moss, a late starter due to his short hitch with Cleveland in the American League, slowly but surely has whittled Sauer's once imposing lead until he has moved within one of Sauer's total.

Including yesterday's games Sauer was still in the van with 27 blows, by virtue of the two circuit blasts against Jersey City in yesterday's split on the doubleheader between the Little Giants and Baltimore has 46.

Moss' bid was in each game, his first round tripper helping the Orioles win the first, while Hooks and Johnny Podajny field the Giants to five hits, Hooks rifling a single to center after scoring the first batter. Herb Andrews gained the relief belt to five blows in the second game.

Montreal retained its first place margin of three games by dividing a doubleheader with Rochester. The Red Wings won the first 9-8 with a late home-run barrage, but the Royals came back with the second game 12-7 inning to win the nightcap 6-3. Roy Campanella's three — run homer climaxed the rally. Tommy O'Brien's pinch hit homer in the ninth won the opener for Rochester.

Buffalo and Toronto halved their twin bill the Leafs rallying for four runs in the ninth to win the opener 6-5, while the Bisons clustered six runs in the first inning to take the night-cap 9-1.

Alex Mustakis, making his first appearance against Newark since being sold to Syracuse, pitched the Chiefs to a 4-3 nightcap victory over the Bears who had won the opener 4-3 in 10 innings.

LOTS OF STAMINA, NO LUCK

Atlanta, Aug. 25 (AP) — A young (Negro) convict, blessed with amazing stamina and no luck, literally outran two packs of bloodhounds for 22 miles across brush and wood country for 6 1-2 hours. At the end of the chase late yesterday, Stephen Johnson, 18-year-old fruity at a Fulton County prison camp, scaled a cliff and ran into the automobile occupied by Police Chief Neal Ellis.

NO RECORDS BROKEN

Oshawa, Ont., Aug. 25 (CP) — No records were broken at the all-Ontario track and field senior championships Saturday, but in spite of a howling sun, stars in most races bettered standards set for next year's Olympic team.

Toronto West End Y.M.C.A. took team honors with 44 points, nine more on London University Track Club, while Toronto Police were third with 20 points. Wally Brown, West End Y., took the individual championship with 11 points by winning the hop, step and jump and placing in the running broad jump and shot put.

Mummy Plays Hunch Beetle Pays $25

Ottawa, (CP)—Many unusual stories have been told about gamblers who play hunches when they bet on horses, but none so weird and wonderful as one that was told to Mrs. C. Condon, Cash Pack race track during the summer meet.

One woman took a tip from her six-year-old daughter and made a bet on a horse. The child said that there was a fly in the ointment. She couldn't quite tell her mother explain the matter to her husband, who doesn't tolerate gambling.

While the horses were parading to the post, the little girl spotted a horse she liked and said, "I wish that were mine, mummy". So, when mother saw a horse named "Mine" entered in the next race, what could she do but bet?

She did, buying five tickets on the nose, and "Mine" romped in to pay $65.50.

INDIANS OVERPOWERED

Toronto, Aug. 25 (CP)—It was no weather for football Saturday when the Big Four Ottawa Rough Riders overpowered the O.R.F.U.'s Toronto Indians 13-1, in an earliest-on-record exhibition opener before a shirt-sleeved crowd of 3,000 at Oakwood Stadium. Neither team could show its stuff in the near-90 degree temperature.

The Indians lost the services or two of their stars early in the first quarter when halfback Don McKelvey fractured his left hand and fullback Mike King required five stitches on a cut right eyebrow. Team officials said McKelvey will be out for at least a month.

CHAPTER 15.

Sherry said, "My blister."

Marcia made an effort to turn her head.

"That's what comes of wearing cheap, $12.50 shoes," she told her.

Sherry said, "Seventeen-fifty, you pikey."

She eased off her stockings and wriggled her hot toes and sighed. Then she hung her coat over the back of a chair and lay down on the chaise lounge.

She said, "Seventeen-fifty for a pair of shoes and I've got a blister. Everything's like that, Marcia. I could have bought a hundred things on the boulevard, but there wasn't any reason to buy them. Who'd I wear a new dress for?"

Marcia said, "Wake me up when you're finished, baby. Your introspections lull me."

Tony both lay quiet for a while and watched the dusk deepen.

Sherry was thinking it would be fun not to have any principles at all. Just to take what you wanted and never think about it.

She decided she would have a dozen men on the string, each for just one thing. She liked about him. At least there would be telephones ringing and flowers coming, and you'd have to think about how you looked every minute. You'd wear red for Tom, and yellow for Dick, and blue for Harry. And they'd flatter you and fight with you and love you.

She sighed and said, "Oh, why can't I really be like that!" under her breath. Then she thought. Well, that's a silly question, and got up and turned on the light.

Marcia said, "Nice to see you again. Have you got the world straightened out yet?"

Sherry said, "Go to the devil. I might as well—as well as you are, well, can't I?" and the telephone rang.

It was Elsie Hilary. She was sobbing.

She said, "Oh, my God, Sherry! Isn't it terrible!"

Sherry said, "What!" and her heart moved horridly.

"Jack and Peter and Stein and the others!" Elsie sobbed. "Haven't they told you?"

Sherry said, "No. Tell me," but she knew already.

Marcia was sitting up now. Elsie's hysterical voice could be heard across the room. She wept wildly as she talked. Sherry sat still and listened.

Peter had been shooting a game of hide jump from a plane into the ocean, and he and his assistant and Stein and Hilary were flying behind to behold the jumper's ship. Another camera-plane had been behind them, and somehow beside them, and somehow beside them into each other. They had met into flames in the air and blazed the hundreds of feet into the ocean.

"They're searching for the bodies now," Elsie sobbed, "and Jack said I had quarreled terribly."

Sherry said things somehow, and after a while she hung up.

Marcia was silent. Sherry dialed the studio.

She said, "This is Mrs. Peter Barton," very quietly. "From whom can I get the information about the accident?"

The girl did not answer right away.

Then she said, "Just a minute, please."

Sherry thought she waited a long time. Then another girl spoke to her.

She said, "Hello? Mrs. Barton? Mrs. Fell wants to speak to you."

Sherry waited again. She could hear people whispering.

The girl came back.

She said, "Are you at home, Mrs. Barton? Mr. Fell is coming out to see you."

So it was true then. There was no doubt about it.

Sherry said, "Please thank Mr. Fell, but tell him not to come—I know," and hung up.

Marcia said, "I'd rather—I went, wouldn't you?"

Sherry nodded.

"Yes—please."

"I'll be home whenever you call," Marcia told her, and got her hat; and after a while Sherry let the hall door close.

Peter was gone. She did not want to cry. She could feel queer instead.

There were long spaces of time when she did not seem to think at all. Her brain was numb and she felt a little sick.

She said, "This is worse than if you were madly in love with him. Then you could sob and cry and feel very sorry for yourself."

And then she knew that she had never forgiven him.

"You've got to," Sherry told herself.

She folded her hands and sat very still, and after a long while the darkness was gone.

Marcia had moved over to the chaise lounge. Sherry did not remember much about those days and nights. Sherry all ran together somehow in a dull, dry hurt.

There were telephone messages and well-meaning consolers from the studio.

Funeral parlors sent in bids like contractors on a new building, and declined nothing to make them sound cozy and desirable.

Some of the other widows, strangers to Sherry, called just to talk about it all, and insurance men appeared with papers to sign.

There was interest, of course. Sherry thought, This is horrible. Horrible! Like a three-ring circus.

An attorney announced that he was willing to handle her case against the studio, and talked in large round words about damages.

Sherry said, "Thank you, but I don't want to sue the studio," and didn't want to sue anybody.

The bank sent a man to Sherry's house to find out Peter's broker came, and a man from the chauffeur's office—at the studio.

Sherry listened to them all without hearing, and said, "Thank you."

Sorrow over the funeral was so that there is with Marcia's help, but Sherry kept thinking, This isn't true. It isn't really happening. I know I'm not thinking straight, but I don't want to realize it.

It was that night that she was frightened.

She was lying very still in bed, staring at nothing, thought the staring at nothing herself and Tony coming up into Hidden House that bot October night a long ago. She felt the thrill of that first real kiss, and how terribly much she had loved Tony there in his arms.

Suddenly Sherry knew what she was thinking. She sat up.

She said, "This is hideous! Thinking a thing like that now! You're a monster! Your heart's not working right," and she burst into tears for the first time.

Marcia moved in the other bed and Sherry wondered if she had spoken aloud.

Marcia said, "We'll pack up here tomorrow, and go off your keeping the apartment. Come over—to the court if you decide what you're going to do."

Sherry said, "I can't go back there very dully.

Marcia sighed.

She said, "All right, we'll hunt, up something else."

It rained the next day and for days after that.

Sherry wrote thank-you letters for flowers and condolences, and gratefully kept to herself alone.

She took her to business appointments, too, and all the while they were shopping for a place to live.

Marcia kept her busy, but Sherry did not mind. She knew her head was not clear, but it was too much effort to try to rise through the fog. Besides, she was getting used to it. Everything was easier like that.

Then Tony kept popping up, but she could not go on fighting Tony. When she was tired she thought of his shoulders and the way he held his strong, young arms. Or when she wanted something done she remembered how dependable he was and how practicably he went about things. When other people talked she knew what Tony would have answered, what he would have said to this and that.

The day they found the apartment the letter from Sandro came.

He was shocked at the accident and was dear and sympathetic. He praised Peter and lauded his virtues. He wept on about how good he had been to Sherry, and what splendid care he had taken of her, and how happy he had been her.

The letter was ironical.

Sherry felt ill. There was no bitterness for Peter, any more.

"I know how you must feel now," Sandro said. "But later, when you can think of someone else, will you be my wife, Sherry?"

Marcia said, "Are you going to think about it?" But Sherry shook her head.

Marcia mad some tea and Sherry lay on the chaise lounge with the letter in her lap.

They talked about the new place in the English Gardens, but all the while Sherry was thinking of Tony.

Sandro's letter had done something. She felt as if little flecks of light were penetrating her murky thoughts.

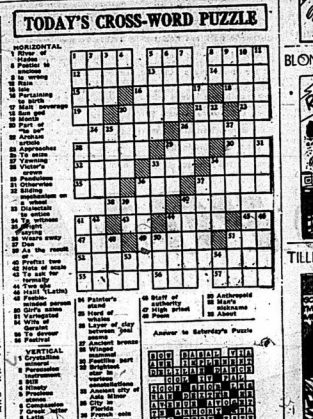
If that letter had been from Tony! If Tony had asked her to marry him! What would she have done? She'd have said "Yes! Oh, Tony, yes!" and have flown to the telephone to wire him. She'd have said, "Dear letter, Tony, now! I'm coming to New York!"

Suddenly the dark fullness fell away. She loved Tony. She always had! There had never been anyone else in her whole life!

Marcia said, "We can move in Friday."

Sherry said, "I'm going to New York."

She started telling Marcia about Tony. How he had been living in her thoughts for days and days. She talked about the Halloween she had first decided she loved him, and about the girls they took and the things he told her.



She went on about the evening at Hidden House when he had kissed her so differently than ever before; and about how she had suffered when Tony had told the boys he could not marry her.

She said, "I love Tony! Don't you see, Marcia, I've always loved him!"

Marcia said, "You don't have to build a case to me. I always thought you did."

FISH WITH BUILT-IN BI-FOCALS

Here is a fish with built-in bi-focals. Dead-eye Dick is Dr. Robert Miller, assistant curator of fishes, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, and he is showing how he captured the Guatemala cuatro-ojo (four-eyed fish) with a lamp to dazzle the insect and a pistol, firing a dust cartridge, to stun it. The fish, as you see through the magnifying glass, has two eyes at the top of its head, but these two eyes are divided into four half-eyes—yes, just like your bi-focals. A septum divides the eyes horizontally and the fish uses the top half to see when it swims on the surface while the lower half is used for submarine vision. The fish is seven inches long.

Ideal Color Scheme Seen So Soothing

By MARTA COLE

Dallas, Tex. (AP) —Take a grey-eyed blonde in a peach-colored dress sitting on a mahogany chair in a rose beige carpet in an office with pinky-grey walls, and you've got it.

Now take the case of the cantankerous business executive who came to our office," Smedley offered. "When the walls of his office were changed from an off-yellow color to a two-tone green, his disposition became as gentle as a lamb's.

One lady Smedley told about a putty-colored kitchen. Along came the painters, left the walls canary yellow, the lower cupboards, stove and refrigerator white, the breakfast nook set and the ceiling delphinium blue.

"That lady wrote us — unsolicited," Smedley emphasized, "that her husbands early morning grouch had disappeared."

Shortage of teachers in your schools? Children have that apathetic air in their work? Learning business?

Then school Smedley and his cohorts painted had Wedgewood blue on the walls, sunny yellow on the woodwork and asphalt tile cloakroom. The blackboards weren't black at all. They were cream-colored and were written upon with royal blue chalk. It's all there, in Lakewood, Ohio, Interest Zeoms.

"Teachers told me he noticed a definite pickup of interest among the boys and, in himself, too," Smedley added.

School and hospitals too, are getting away from that institutional look, he said. Green is becoming a favorite color for hospital rooms because it is restful and because it brings in that outdoor atmosphere.

Factories, too. The machinery of an aeronautics plant in Cleveland was painted a light ocean green. The working areas, parts the works had to watch closely were buff, and the switch and control levers orange.

Smedley came down to Dallas from a Cleveland paint company to tell the Council of Painting and Decorating Contractors of America meeting here that women were leading the parade in color.

Take the family automobile. Back in 1937, he said, 65 per cent of all cars were painted or dark blue. Today, black is running third in popularity with pastel shades of green in front. And the women are the one who select the color of the family car.

Washing machines and refrigerators are making tentative and timid appearances in green, but white is still undisputed favorite. Blue was tried on a washing machine but it reminded the women too much of Monday's.

BUILDING STRUCK

Toronto, Aug. 25 — (CP) — Lightning struck a home in suburban New Toronto at the height of a severe storm last night. It damaged roofing and the woodwork in a bedroom of the dwelling, occupied by Mrs. Beatrice Wells and her family, but did not set the house afire.

Charges Federal Government With "Mystification"

Ottawa, Aug. 25 — (CP) — Charging the federal government with "mystification," J. M. Macdonnell, president of the Progressive Conservative party and financial critic for the opposition last night called on the government to put its cards on the table" with respect to the dollar crisis, and to cease treating the Canadian people "as children."

Mr. MacDonnell, in a 600-word statement, said the seriousness of the dollar situation was not so apparent in Canada as in Britain, "but let no one doubt that we in Canada are gravely involved."

"Canada is this year buying from the United States about $1,000,000,000 more of goods than we are selling to them. Our stock of United States dollars has been rapidly diminishing, and we have been hoping to help the situation by receiving payment for half of our supplies to Britain in the form of American dollars supplied us by Britain out of the U.S. loan. The present crisis makes it clear that, unless some new arrangement is made between Britain and the United States, payment on this hoped-for arrangement.

"The British government has taken the British people into its confidence and imposed a clean breast of the whole situation. In addition, it has put up to the people for further effort and sacrifice, reminiscent of 1940 and the days of Dunkirk.

"What has happened in Canada? On Wednesday of this week the Minister of Finance gave a statement to the press regarding the visit of the fog-Officials of the Bank of Canada to Washington. We have view which made confusion worse confounded.

"Everyone knows that the present situation cannot continue. Yet Wednesday he is small piece of paper—a lottery ticket—provides a down-to-earth home.

"In three states— Queensland, Western Australia and New South Wales—lotteries are run by the governments. People in other states join in the fun by mail.

The ideal of a state lottery originated in New South Wales when J. T. Lang was premier. He recognized the gambling urge inherent in many people and decided a lottery was a pleasant way to raise money for hospitals. Since then lotteries have brought $50,000,000 to the hospitals.

In New South Wales, a lottery is considered "full" when $50,000 worth of tickets have been sold. Drawings are held usually three times a week in the Sydney hall under government supervision. Besides the presence of representatives of police, press and public, ticket numbers corresponding to numbers on wooden marbles placed in a revolving barrel. Marbles are lifted out with a wooden spoon and winning numbers announced.

1,259 Prizes

First prize is $16,000. The value of 1,258 other prizes falls in to $15, while tickets cost 83 cents. Lotteries have proved so successful that the state government has decided to increase both prizes and prize. Now a lottery ticket costs 90 cents and the top prize is $21,-000. In addition, the government plans to run a few lotteries with tickets costing $1.50 and a first prize of $40,000.

Besides the state lotteries, Australians try their luck in many charity-run lotteries known as Art Unions which offer houses or blocks of land as prizes.

Australia's lotteries have appeal. In a few Canadian Australian cu Quinlin, director of New South Wales State lotteries, says he receives applications for tickets from several hundred Canadians every year. He can recall any prize winners.

Officials rarely know what winners do with the money but assume it is used to pay off mortgages, buy cars and other comforts.

1933, two Sydney men won $72,-000 in a special "harbor bridge" lottery and now own the biggest pipe-lead industry in the city. Another man won $16,000, bought a milk bar and now owns several blocks of apartments. An ex-servicemen's club won $50,000, bought a fishing fleet which he successfully operates off Australia.

Paper Chit Fortune to Aussies

Written For The Canadian Press By LEONE KIRKWOOD

Sydney, (CP) — Foundation stone of many an Australian castle is the-be-it a small piece of paper—a lottery ticket—provides a down-to-earth home.

In three states— Queensland, Western Australia and New South Wales—lotteries are run by the governments. People in other states join in the fun by mail.

The ideal of a state lottery originated in New South Wales when J. T. Lang was premier. He recognized the gambling urge inherent in many people and decided a lottery was a pleasant way to raise money for hospitals. Since then lotteries have brought $50,000,000 to the hospitals.

In New South Wales, a lottery is considered "full" when $50,-000 worth of tickets have been sold. Drawings are held usually three times a week in the Sydney hall under government supervision. Besides the presence of representatives of police, press and public, ticket numbers correspond to numbers on wooden marbles placed in a revolving barrel. Marbles are lifted out with a wooden spoon and winning numbers announced.

1,259 Prizes

First prize is $16,000. The value of 1,258 other prizes falls in to $15, while tickets cost 83 cents. Lotteries have proved so successful that the state government has decided to increase both prizes and prize. Now a lottery ticket costs 90 cents and the top prize is $21,-000. In addition, the government plans to run a few lotteries with tickets costing $1.50 and a first prize of $40,000.

Besides the state lotteries, Australians try their luck in many charity-run lotteries known as Art Unions which offer houses or blocks of land as prizes.

Australia's lotteries have appeal. In a few Canadian Australian cu Quinlin, director of New South Wales State lotteries, says he receives applications for tickets from several hundred Canadians every year. He can recall any prize winners.

Officials rarely know what winners do with the money but assume it is used to pay off mortgages, buy cars and other comforts.

Antarctic Man Sails for Labrador

Halifax, (CP)—Admiral Richard Byrd's Antarctic expedition will leave New York this fall-ed the R.C.A.F. for a short time to carry supplies to a northern base.

One of the few term schooners remaining afloat, she has been loading equipment here for the air force base at Goose Bay, Labrador.

Previously, the job of carrying supplies to Goose Bay was handled by the R.C.A.F. ship, Beaver, lost in the Arctic last year, and Eskimo, which has been sold for scrap.

The City of New York was launched at Shelburne, N.S. yard in 1885 as the Samson. She saw years of sealing in northern waters before Byrd's ill-fated Antarctic expedition.

Later she was converted into a floating restaurant and was an attraction at the Chicago World's Fair in 1933.

She was fitted with diesel engines and was scheduled for Arctic duty during the early in the war but plans were changed and in 1943 was sent into the West Indies.

Life Probably Saved by Kicking Over Milk Bottle

Guelph, Aug. 25. (CP)—Kicking over and smashing a milk bottle may have saved Robert C. Cairns from gangland guns.

It was his car which two men police believe were Edward Irvine (Mickey) McDonald and Ulysses Simpson used in last Friday's $40,000 bank robbery at Windsor.

Cairns, who lives in the Eramosa Road on Guelph's northeastern outskirts, said yesterday he thought he heard his car horn blow early Friday. On his way to investigate he knocked over the milk bottle and now believes the noise of the breaking glass put the escaped convicts on the alert.

He tried the doors of his car, found them locked but could not see inside due to the darkness in the garage. The car disappeared during the night from the garage which is not far from the spot where the Kingston getaway car was found last night.

"I think now that the three fugitives, probably armed, were inside the car in the garage, ready to let me have it if I spotted them," Cairns said.

FORD RAISES PRICES

Detroit, Aug. 25 (AP) — President Henry Ford II announced yesterday that prices on "most models" of Ford Motor Company passenger cars and all truck models "are being raised from $20 to $97, effective immediately."

"This is an average increase of 4.3 per cent," the announcement said. "This action has been dictated by the simple necessity of keeping Ford Motor Company on a sound economic basis."

They telephoned John McKay, superintendent, at his home here. The connection was made through the Newfoundland postal telegraphs ship-to-shore radio telephone equipment.

U.K. War Mother Drops in on GI's

By HORACE B. WARD

Louisville, Ky. (AP) — When Miss Gladys L. Groves of London, England, arrived in Louisville, she was midway in her own private "international friendship pilgrimage."

The little, vivacious Englishwoman is making a 10,000-mile tour of the United States to visit each of the 17 former American soldiers who made her house near London's Hendon Airdrome their "second home" during the war.

She calls them "my American boys," but never "Yankees" — "I just don't like the word and never use it," she explains.

In Louisville she has been visiting Union B. Welch, Jr., who, like the majority of Miss Grove's Americans, was stationed at the United States army headquarters at Hendon.

As with all her boys Miss Groves already knew all about Webb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Union B. Welch, Sr., of Paris, the former Ruth Seger, his wartime fiancee. She kept up a regular correspondence with the families over here during the war and they have continued to write her.

The big surprise when the Webb's met her train in Cincinnati was three-months-old Donna Mae Welch. She was proudly looking to resemble anybody's grandmother, Miss Groves assumes a grandmotherly air toward all her boy's offspring.

Friend of Land

Asked to undertake her rather ambitious project, Miss Groves smiled.

"Well," she said "the boys always talked about their 'wonderful' country and told me I ought to see it. I told them that I intended to come and see them all.

"I had never known any Americans before I met these boys. It sounds awful to say, but it took a war to make me know the American people. Not one of my 17 has failed to remember me and invite me to visit him."

Miss Groves first met "her Americans" when she rented rooms to a few American officers who could find no accommodation at Hendon. Later, she invited them to bring their friends in for meals or to spend a free evening. Soon the group began to make her home their headquarters.

They knew there would always be a pot of tea and a bite to eat, a cot for a nap, a tub to take a "real bath," or an evening of quiet, homey comfort.

When bombs fell to close, she hurded them into a huge closet under the stairs.

Besides shepherding her young Americans she held down a full time office job, helped in rescue work and took her turn as a fire watcher.

"It was part of the war effort, that of thing," she said. "Everyone was doing it."

Col. Drew is seen chatting with John French, OBE, BEM, DCM and two bars, MM and three bars, Belgian Croix de Guerre and French Croix de Guerre. Sergeant French is a member of the Ontario Civil Service Veterans' Association.

Five other large 'lunge were reported taken from local waters this week. Catches of pickerel and bass are exceptionally good and fishermen state that not in many years have they enjoyed such excellent sport.

Scores of Forest Fires Flame Out Of Control at Rouyn

Miners and Settlers Join In Effort to Save Homes

By JOHN PATERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Rouyn, Que., Aug. 26 (CP) — Scores of separate forest fires flamed in the northwest section of Abitibi district today and miners, woodsmen, and their wives have joined in the day and night fight to keep the spreading flames from their homes and places of work.

Today the fires, confined at first to a 15 square mile area east of here, were still out of control and had spread to a considerably wider area although their full extent had not yet been determined.

The homes of many miners and colonists are threatened and fire-fighting has become the personal concern of these people and their families.

Mrs. Denis Grignon, wife of a store-keeper at Joannes, a settlement about eight miles southeast of here, told the Canadian Press she lost her home Sunday despite the efforts of herself and her husband.

"My dress and my husband's clothes caught fire as we tried to put out the flames," she said. "All I had was a broom and my husband had a hose. We had to soak one another with the hose to keep from being burned."

Last night the glow of fires around Rouyn was red from the glow of fires, a strong wind was blowing and it appeared as though only rain could bring the flames under control.

Lucien Castonguay, head of the Rouyn office of the provincial Lands and Forest Department, said late last night that the fires were "out of our control." A number of mining properties as well as scenic villages of Kinojevis were among the main trouble spots.

Kinojevis is evidently reported to Rouyn over a telephone line which ends "today" by the fires that the flames were a half-mile from the settlement's limits in all directions." It was the second time in 72 hours that the village had been endangered by the flames. On Saturday, residents turned back the flames by means of a shift in wind cause the fire to sweep towards the village again yesterday.

With the undertbrush extremely dry after a week of hot weather, those in charge of firefighting crews expect better luck. Rain was the only hope of quenching the dozen blazes in the tall Sunday but not enough to be of any great assistance.

Two mines—Elder and Hosco—had the fires within sight of the business section of Rouyn. A Hendersberger, manager of Elber, said that the flames were almost encircled by fires but that there was little fear to their mine buildings. It was known that the fires around Hosco were serious but that was not possible to reach the property by telephone from Rouyn yesterday.

Seven persons were injured seriously in the head-on crash of two cars on the highway some distance from Quebec. The injured were taken to hospital at Cadillac, about 30 miles from the scene, by phone communications with Cadillac was reserved and no reports could be obtained from there last night on the condition of the injured.

GRANTED LEAVE TO APPEAL

Toronto, Aug. 26 (CP)—The Supreme Court of Ontario today granted Ronald George Sears of Windsor serving a 12-year sentence for the attempted murder-knife murder of Joseph Celenscay in Windsor, May 19, 1946, leave to appeal his conviction. The appeal is subject to Sears supplying a transcript of evidence taken at his trial.

Weather Synopsis

Toronto — (CP) — Synopsis: Cooler air now covers all of Ontario and the southern limit of the cool air is along the international boundary and is not expected to move much further south. The heat wave that lasted unusually long for so late in the season is over, but the warm air still covers the eastern states. The intersection between the warm air and the cool air is expected to cause intermittent rain over extreme Southern Ontario today. Elsewhere in the province the cooler weather is indicated. On Wednesday the cool weather will continue. Skies will be clear in the northeastern half of the province but cloudy in the southwestern half.

Fanatic Douks Set Fire to Two Farm Buildings

Thrums, B.C., Aug. 26 (CP)—The red glow of flaming barns lit the pre-dawn sky over a group of Doukhobor settlement today as fanatical night raiders, striking without warning, put the torch to two farm buildings and were feared in an attempt to fire a third.

Damage estimated at more than $7,000 was caused in the two fires. Destroyed was part of valuable farm equipment, more than 50 tons of hay and a calf. Both barns were burned to the ground.

A fresh wave of terror swept across the West Kootenay district in the wake of the new attacks. Orthodox Doukhobors, nerves already stretched almost to the breaking point by the arson and violence in recent weeks, immediately launched new appeals for police protection and the hard-crazed firebugs.

Moving with well-organized precision, the raiders crept into the yards of four farmers here early today. After setting fire to the barn, they crept past two farm houses to the home of Wilson Soukeroff, less than a quarter of a mile from the Kendall farm. While flames from the blazing barn lighted the scene, they fired the Soukeroff stable.

They then moved another mile westward, where they kindled a gasoline-fed blaze in a pile of wood stacked against the William Hoodicoff big barn. Before this fire it was extinguished by an alert night watchman before it could catch a firm hold.

Police Search For Burwash Escapees

Sudbury, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Ontario Provincial Police were on the trail today for five men who have made good their escape from the Burwash Industrial farm since Saturday morning.

The five escapees were is James Henry Moran, 36, serving nine to 12 months on a non - support conviction in Ottawa, who disappeared from a road gang with three Toronto youths from the farm yesterday.

Police already had been on the lookout for Eugene Plante and Alcide J. Beaudette, both from Montreal and for Claude G. Lemarche and Harry St. Denis, who broke the jail Saturday.

BOYS GET LARGE TROUT

Collingwood, Aug. 26 — (CP) — With a shirt as a net, two schoolboys, Jimmy Hewitt and Robert Scrimer, yesterday bagged a 23-inch two-pound speckled trout from the Pretty River. It was the largest fish taken out of the stream this year.

Sons of Freedom Live Peacefully Many Have More Than One Wife

Shoreacres, B.C., Aug. 26 (CP) —Slim blonde Marie Shukoff, 20, brought up as an Orthodox Doukhobor, today had proclaimed herself a member of the rebel Sons of Freedom branch of the sect and the simultaneous wife of three of its members.

The comely girl, who worked as a nurses' aide in Nelson, B.C., for the past 18 months until her "conversion" two years ago said she had abandoned the life of a Sons of Freedom because she "loved to be free." She was proud of the fact she had three husbands.

"I admit that it is hard for anyone to understand our beliefs and ideals," she said. "My main reason for joining is my love of freedom. Now I can discuss it freely. I feel shamed without robe (a type of feminine embarrassment. God intended that we should be free. I enjoy here all I have that freedom.

"We do not lead an easy life here. It is hard but we enjoy it because we are striving for a right life. We do not want to possess anything. Possessions are the evils why we can never possess a husband in the normal sense. I have three husbands yet I would never try, or want, to hold any one of them against their wishes.

"To me life is more christian—and much happier—than when I was a child in the Canadian girl."

Her declaration made while she had abandoned the life of a Doukhobor, was in contrast to her earlier career in the sect's history.

Multiplicity of wives or husbands seldom is found among the Orthodox members, largest section of the 17,000 Doukhobors. A woman having more than one husband is not common even among the Sons of Freedom although some of the male members have more than one wife.

PRICE OF WHEAT MAY BE RAISED 30 CTS. BUSHEL

Not Known Whether Boost Would Apply To Wheat Sold For Domestic Use

Ottawa, Aug. 26 (CP) — The Federal government will recommend to parliament at the next session that the initial wheat payment to western producers of $1.55 a bushel be given another boost, The Canadian Press learned authoritatively today.

The increase of 30 cents, which will apply to No. 1 Northern wheat basis Fort William-Port Arthur or Vancouver, was not immediately known but it is expected to as much as 30 cents a bushel.

Nor was it immediately known whether the boost would apply to wheat sold for domestic consumption.

Announcement of this decision is taken by the cabinet within the last few days, will be made shortly, possibly later today.

The initiative in making the recommendation to parliament likely will be taken by Trade Minister MacKinnon, the Minister in charge of the Canadian Wheat Board, which operated body which handles Canadian wheat sales at home and abroad.

Another jump in the $1.55 initial payment for wheat will boost that price above the fixed $1.55 being received by Canadian farmers purchased for the first two years of the four-year Anglo-Canadian wheat contract Go Beyond Contract

High government sources said that the government was able to go beyond the contract price in Hongkong, a dominion producer because of the substantial profits piling up in the wheat board operations from sales of wheat made thus far to Britain and other countries.

When the increase is approved by parliament, it likely will be made retroactive for the whole of the 1947-48 crop year, which began Aug. 1 this year. This would mean a substantial rebate for western producers on wheat already delivered up to the time parliament gives it sanction.

The original plan was to place the wheat board profits in a special fund and disburse the money to the producers at the end of that period, sometime after 1950.

Profits Substantial

However, the profits were becoming so substantial that the government felt it could increase the initial payment right away, leaving the profits over a longer period, and still make a final payment when the four-year pact ends.

This will be the third jump in the initial wheat price in two years.

The first rates in that period came in July, 1946, when a 10-cent boost from $1.25 to $1.35 was announced, retroactive to the whole of the 1945-46 crop year. The price later was increased to $1.55

Greece May be Powder Keg That Explodes Into World War III—Eaton

Washington, Aug. 26. (AP)—Chairman Charles A. Eaton (Rep.-N.J.) of the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs committee declared today that Greece may be the "powder keg that explodes into World War III."

Taking a gloomy view of world conditions, the Canadian-born representative who helped draft the United Nations Charter, told reporters the United States is not afford to 40 permit Russia to dominate Greece.

Such a Russian conquest would be the beginning of a drive on Turkey and Iran, Eaton said, thereby giving the Mediterranean and "from there, they could go on to an attempt at conquest of the world."

Eaton was a leading proponent of the administration's $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish aid program designed to keep those two countries from falling prey to Communist penetration.

"We are right down to bedrock in Greece," Eaton said. "Both sides have served notice that they will back their position to the limit. If neither backs down the consequences will be disastrous.

"The situation is as bad as primeval chaos could be. Nobody is there in charge of any cooperation bringing the nations together to solve the common problems of all the world.

The policy of the United States would be based on a genuine desire to maintain world peace, but Russia on the other hand is pressing a philosophy "utterly alien to our way of thinking."

"Russia does not mind seeing the world in rubble because then they could rule over the rubble.

"The Greek situation contains all the elements for touching off a major war. Perhaps we will be able to avert the crisis. If we can surmount enough crises, perhaps some day we will even have a permanent and stable peace."

BANK MANAGER SHOT IN HOLD-UP, NO MONEY TAKEN

Man's Coat and Vest Found on Lonely Road; Police Use Bloodhounds

Vancouver, Aug. 26 (CP)—Vancouver police today threw all the department's resources into a search for a would-be holdup man who shot and fatally wounded Sydney S. Petrie, 53, manager of the Burnaby branch of the Bank of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for the last 20 years.

The gunman's holdup—the man, described as about 30, dressed in blue and bolding a newspaper before his face, fled after firing one shot—was the second in Canada during the day. Three bandits escaped from the Long Branch, Ont., branch of the same bank with approximately $3,000 in cash.

Police reports were brought into use for a time last night after police found a man's coat and vest on a lonely road near the English Bay shore line, not far from the scene of the shooting. He covered a full clip of ammunition. It was believed the fugitive would be able to lead them to the owner of the clothing.

Mr. Petrie, a bank employee for 30 years, was shot in the abdomen after he carried a heavy file over from the bank's vault to his car on the bandit and fled died in hospital about an hour later. The attempted holdup took place just before closing time.

Roman Catholic Priest Found Slain in Rome

Rome, Aug. 26 — (AP)—Police said today a Roman Catholic priest had been found slain on the Via Appia near here early this morning.

They said the priest had a large wound in the forehead. He was killed to speculate whether he had been killed by bandits, by enemies or for robbery.

In the Trastevere area, mobs identified by Italian catholic authorities there as pro-Yugoslav killed a priest Sunday and severely wounded two others, while a third was found murdered to death in a field.

Newspaper accounts said the priest's pockets had been turned inside out and that "Slav documents addressed to a Polish army commander" were found on his body. The dead man was described as between 30 and 32 years old, but was not identified by name or nationality. There was no sign of false beard and a loaf of bread were found near the body.

There was no immediate comment from the Vatican.

TURKEY BUYS FARM MACHINERY

Toronto, Aug. 26 — (CP) — The Turkish government has placed an order for combines with the west — handling machinery to the value of 5,000,000 Turkish liras — about $2,000,000 with the Massey - Harris Company, Lorne Massey, president of the company, said today.

He said the order was obtained during a recent visit to Turkey by a New York representative of the Canadian machinery firm.

DAMAGE EXPECTED TO REACH THREE MILLION DOLLARS

Govt. Assembly Warehouse, Wharf at Alberton, B.C. and Britain - Bound Lumber Burned

Port Alberni, B. C., Aug. 26—(CP)—Damage was expected to rise as high as $3,000,000 here today as firemen continued to play streams of water on the charred ruins of the $1,500,000 government Assembly warehouse and wharf, which out in the harbor stream, the S.S. Samspel, 10,000-ton British freighter lay low in the water almost completely destroyed.

Fire Chief Ernie Fire marshal's office still were attempting to uncover the cause of the blaze which razed through 800 tons of plywood in the warehouse and on the wharf, and plied in dock preparatory for delivery to lumber-hungry Britain.

The fire was jumped, quickly to the 800,000 board feet aboard the Samspel, which was about half loading. Six small tugs towed the listing vessel, which was to have anchors dragging and no steam in her boilers, out to-sea for the night.

Two firemen, James McGregor and John Kelly, were taken to hospital with injuries suffered during the battle which brought the fire under control. Both are Northern Vancouver Island firefighting equipment.

John Gibson, Independent member of parliament for Comox-Alberni, Ont., and Telephone Fourier, Federal Public Works Minister, were among the immediate investigation.

Destroyed on the wharf were three freight cars, a Canadian Railway gondola cars, one loaded with lumber and a valuable electric dock crane.

Price Adjustments In 3 G.M. Lines Noted at Oshawa

Oshawa, Aug. 26 (CP)—Upward price adjustments of 1-4 per cent to six per cent on prices of Oldsmobile, Pontiac and Chevrolet automobiles has been in effect since Aug. 19, it was learned here today from car dealers. No official statement was forthcoming from General Motors of Canada Limited, manufacturers of the vehicles.

Price boosts here showed $83 increase for a Six Pontiac, the cheapest listed, and $66 on a Fleetmaster Chevrolet, the highest, and $67 for an Oldsmobile fourdoor sedan.

In explaining the price adjustments to its dealers, General Motors said these had been on general price increase since December, 1946, but later and material costs had jumped upwards steeply. The latest price adjustment covered only a portion of the increased production costs.

BROOKE CLAXTON WANTS POSITIVE, DYNAMIC PEACE

Commonwealth Group On Pacific Problems Opens at Canberra Behind Closed Doors

Canberra, Aug. 25 — (CP) — After a short formal opening session, the Commonwealth Conference on Pacific problems settled down behind locked doors today to the business of shaping the British Commonwealth's plans for the Pacific peace.

At the formal opening session, Canadian delegate Brooke Claxton called for a "positive and dynamic" peace with equality between countries as between individuals.

Prime Minister Chifley opened the conference on the assumption the peace settlement with all delegations present except the Burmese, expected tonight.

Dr. V. Evatt, Australian External Affairs Minister, was elected chairman. New Zealand, Pakistan and Burma were to be represented.

Claxton said holding the conference here was "appropriate" in the part played by Australia in the Pacific war.

"Canada's strategic position as a Pacific power — we have a long Pacific coastline — and our interest in foreign trade as the United States nation in the world make the establishment of peace in the Pacific absolutely vital to the Far East vital to us.

"We must be sure ourselves to be misled into thinking that a continuation of a divided peace, of power politics, enmities and friendships and alliances, those who can threaten peace, will ever lead to anything but depression and poverty and unemployment at home with fear and insecurity stalking abroad.

Must Be Security

"The settlement we are working at here means tackling the problem of catching up with the tragic delay in getting out once more into the world. Peace must be positive and dynamic and bring prosperity and prosperity with surpluses of goods and people with being exchanged in an open air of freedom with equality between nations as between persons.

"We could see no reason why the peace treaty terms should not be ready for signature by next year. Gen. MacArthur had been established in Japan as the occupation and demilitarization in Japan and Canada welcomed American participation.

New Zealand's prime minister, Peter Fraser, said the Pacific decision made by the conference depended on the "maintenance of prosperity and security of Australia and New Zealand."

Arctic Ice Gives Supply-Ship Crews Tough Time in Race Against Freeze-Up

Edmonton, Aug. 26 (CP) — Arctic ice floes were battling unusual bad ice and weather conditions in the ice-strewn Arctic seaway north of the Canadian mainland today as only one thing in mind these days—they hope to make at least one epic voyage before the early freeze sets in another season.

Northern transportation officials here say that the situation has left the Arctic navigation season in a "poor state" and that while Arctic summers are usually short and storm and storm to beat the freeze-up with their freight ships, the Arctic summer this year already are talking of an early freeze.

Regardless of conditions and predictions the crews are hoping against hope as Lady Franklin, one of one vessel which recently saw a happy ending to a dangerous Arctic voyage.

Several weeks ago the Roman Catholic Mission steamer Bishop Lady of the Lourdes, left Tuktoyaktuk, northeast of Aklavik, Arctic Coast, for Coronation Gulf, about a 700-mile voyage to Cape Lady. Hudson's Bay Company's Fort Ross and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police vessel St. Roch. The "Lady" ran into ice about halfway to Coppermine.

The heavier Fort Ross and St. Roch plowed their respective ways stolidly through the ice, but the "Lady" was forced to spend about 35 tons — found herself "grounded" on ice.

The ship's company of 18 men, wives and children, remained on board the ship for 10 days. And, when she was finally freed, she had only enough fuel to reach Coppermine, the Fort Ross was able to give close enough to pass a hawser and haul her off the ice into water again.

Undaunted, the "Lady" completed her voyage to Coppermine by her own power, after leaving the lead of the Fort Ross.

When the three vessels reached Coppermine, they were just beginning their season's work. They had not completed the first part of the first voyage of the season.

From Coppermine the St. Roch was scheduled to attempt an epic voyage to Winter Harbor on the southern shore of Melville Island, about 600 air miles north of Coppermine, where Canada is establishing a new polar weather station.

The St. Roch visited Winter Harbor once before in 1944 when she was negotiating the northwest passage from east to west.

Macdonald Asks Special Session To Ratify Agreement

Nova Scotia Will Receive $10,900,000 For Five Years

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Aug. 26 — (CP)—Premier Angus L. Macdonald asked a special session of the Nova Scotia legislature today to ratify a five-year Dominion-Provincial financial agreement which he said offered his province a minimum of $10,900,000 annually.

But still not satisfied with the Dominion's approach, he repeated his previous declaration that the agreement was temporary and "purely financial."

He also repeated his demand for a national Dominion-Provincial conferences and used this opportunity to suggest the provinces should be consulted in the current Canadian-Newfoundland Confederation discussions.

Finally he gave some hint of how the province was going to spend its revenue which he said would be higher "than if we did not sign an agreement." He could not say how much.

Increased Grants

Health and welfare services would get increased grants, and the "large share" would be spent on highways, departments of industry, publicity, lands, forests and mines would expand their scope and activity.

However, the Dominion had guaranteed Nova Scotia had at large a share of the Social Security program as it had first proposed.

"In other words," said the Premier, "while the Dominion gives us more money with one hand it takes it by our back with the other and if the plans of the Dominion Government must make up the difference."

He introduced three bills which would give effect to the agreement and it was taken for granted the legislature's 28-2 Liberal majority would assure passage of the measures in two or three days.

Ratification of the agreement by the Nova Scotia house would leave only Ontario and Quebec without financial agreements with the Dominion. The others all have signed and already given legislative effect to their agreements. Premier Macdonald described in a brief interview as "similar" to the agreement" to the Nova Scotia agreement.

Agreement Detailed

Reviewing his province's longstanding dispute with the Dominion, the Premier said, the Federal government in 1942 offered to increase the per capita grant from $12 to $15 a head. The province the subsidies it had formerly received.

3. Abandon the gasoline tax field.

4. Vacate the amusement and per-mutuel field.

5. Recognize the principle that certain fields of revenue should be left exclusively to the provinces.

6. To hold a general conference with the provincial premiers at least once year previous to the termination of the proposed agreement.

Mr. Macdonald said: "All these proposals except the first were concessions except the first were only partially by the Dominion after a hard struggle by the provinces. The situation today is that is more satisfactory than it was in the early stages but it is still not entirely satisfactory."

Praises Report

He still thought the Sirois commission offered a much sounder approach to the problem of Dominion-Provincial relations than did the report submitted by the Federal government in 1945.

Details of legislation which would give effect to the agreement, Mr. Macdonald said, the annual payment of $10,870,140 was made up of $6,000,000 from July 1, 1947, to Nova Scotians at $15 a head, and $2,005,140 in statutory subsidies and interest on debt allowances.

The $10,000,000 figure was the minimum.

"We are assured," he said, "of at least that much money for every one of the five Dominion fiscal years, commencing April 1, 1947 and continuing up to March 1, 1952."

Nova Scotia promises that during the term of agreement province will not increase taxation facilities, corporation taxes or succession duties.

An act which compliments the Dominion Government's corporation income tax of five percent be imposed on such part of the income of corporations as is attributable to their operations in Nova Scotia.

MAXINE HULL BOOKS 36-POUND PICKEREL IN BAY OF QUINTE

That's fish in them that are! says Jack, in the song of several years ago, but Maxine Hull, a little girl near you has been anything but good. To prove how fibby she is, direct in their assumption, Bob Hull of Picton, Ont., set out on the rod and reel in the company and returned with the indisputable evidence.

Last evening he and his ten-year-old daughter, Maxine, went out on the Bay, enjoying the breeze and hoping for a bite. Suddenly the youngster's line began to sing out through the reel and in heaved Maxine, when Mr. Hull came to the assistance of the one and landed the plant. It was a thirty-pound muskie, measuring 49 inches in length.

This is the second beauty for Mr. Hull this year. Earlier in the season he landed a 16 pound channel cat.

Tenders Being Received for New Bakelite Plant

Tenders for the construction of the new Bakelite plant to be erected in Thurlow township are out of Belleville are now being received by purchasing department of the New York office of the company, according to a notice in the Daily Commercial News, Toronto.

Tenders for the construction of the plant will be received for an unstated time but work is expected to be started on the project in September. City May Be Distributing Point For Propane Gas

If the volume of business warrants it, the Esso-tane Division of Imperial Oil Limited will open a large distributing centre for propane gas in Belleville, company officials declared here yesterday.

"This is not a definite promise," H. C. Hamilton, Ontario sales supervisor of the division told His Worship Mayor Frank Follwell and city officials here yesterday, "but I am safe in saying that if the sales warrant it, we shall definitely place a distributing centre here."

Distributing centres have already been established in Maple, Ont., and Hamilton, Ont., serving the large intermediate area. Belleville is the logical point, geographically, it was pointed out if another distributing centre is necessary.

Definitely interested in the proposal was Mayor Follwell decision qu. the part of property owners of the city to close the gas utility here, Mayor Follwell discussed the matter at some length with the Imperial Oil officials.

He learned that the company's plant and property would be available here early in 1938. Stove manufacturers are turning out gas stoves especially adapted to the propane gas, and that production would be in full swing at the turn of the year.

A demonstration of the propane gas in the new type of stoves will be held in the city, it was stated by the company officials, with the general public invited. A survey of present equipment will be made by an expert. Conversion of present gas stoves, if they are in good condition, could be made for a reasonable sum. It was intimated that the cost of the gas would be much cheaper than that of the city manufactured product.

Exhausted Man Lands at Pt. Traverse After Drifting Across Lake in Rowboat

Point Traverse, Ont. (Special) —Exhausted and in a famished condition, John Patrick Carnig, of Oswego, N.Y., reached Point Traverse shore here from a thirteen-foot boat on Monday with a drapetic log of 65 miles behind him from Ontario for upwards of nine hours.

Carnig's pitiful condition stunned men of his harrowing experiences on the lake, drifting on the haze-enveloped water with no food except a sandwich, and no oar or motor. The small row boat contained a pail of cocoa.

At one time, he stated the boat partially filled with water and in his attempts to bail it out, he fell overboard but managed to get back in the craft. He had no compass and could not get his bearings as to how to head home.

Carnig was given food and clothing at the hospital at the lighthouse off here and again by commercial fishermen when he came ashore at this point.

Acted Suspiciously

Two days in mid August, Provincial Police and County Constable James Lovelace and Chief of Police Percy Wright of Picton were notified.

Constables Carnig got away to Timber Island where they were apprehended by the police officers as he was attempting to get a boat under way in the lake.

Provincial Officer Lovelace Carnig admitted he had been under observation at a United States Immigration station, having arrived from the institution. He said he left Rochester, N.Y., on Thursday and had been drifting helplessly on Lake Ontario since. He had become lost and finally landed at a lighthouse where he was given food. He again set out and again became lost, eventually landing at this port. Carnig is being held on a vagrancy charge by police. Police intend to return him to Rochester.

$300,000 Fire At Vancouver

Vancouver, Aug. 26. (CP)— Five fire-blackened buildings, containing a million-worth of heat-twisted machinery today were all that was left of two Fraser River saw mill products firms, ravaged by a $300,000 fire late last night.

The blaze started when A. T. Clare, night watchman at viaduct duty Kilby, threw a match still into a hopper, which blew back sending flames licking at the ceiling It quickly spread to the nearby Spring Ling Lumber Ltd. where damage was estimated at $200,000. Damage to the dry kiln company was set at $100,000.

No one was injured, but firefighters were badly hampered by the inaccessibility of hydrants, having to run reels of hose through an adjoining rail yard.

A stiff breeze fanning the flames toward the B. N. Electric gas storage tank plus the explosion of combustible materials inside the buildings added to the hazard.

Flier Lived On Squirrel, Fish Diet in Wilds

Goose Bay, Labrador, Aug. 21. (Delayed)—(CP)— How he lived "in the wild North country store for eight days without food except for squirrel, rabbit and fish he caught with his bare hands, was told today by a Pickering, Ont., flier from his hospital bed here.

The pilot, Jack B. Mutton, was flying a light Fairchild 71 plane on a photographic mission off of Rapide Lake, Que., Aug. 16, when he landed on a small nameless lake 80 miles south of this huge air base.

Taking off next morning, one pontoon was punctured and started to fill with water. The aircraft tilted and a gust of wind tossed it over.

Mutton swam ashore through the icy water.

The plane, battered and overturned, landed ashore later.

He managed to start a small tin of matches from the wreckage. But again his spirits fell when he found the matches had got wet in flight. He tried to ignite some gunpowder, but this, too, failed.

For food he found a squirrel and one fish caught with bare hands from the cold waters of the lake.

But it was another piece of wreckage which Mutton believes saved his life.

"I found a shiny sheet aeroplane, fishing that saved me," he said, "was a sheet of aluminum, used for emergency repairs on pontoons with which I signalled to the Catalina flying boat which performed the rescue."

The Catalina, an American aircraft searching for Mutton, sighted the wreckage on Friday last, Aug. 19 and landed on the lake. Mutton was flown here to hospital.

During his 10 nerve-wracking days on the bleak lake shore, Mutton said he saw "several aircraft pass over, but his attempts to attract attention were in vain,

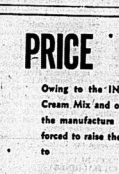
Six Persons Riding in Buggy Struck by Car



Six persons riding in a buggy on No 2 highway two miles west of Deseronto escaped what might have been serious injury Monday night when their buggy was struck in the rear by an auto with passengers being tossed out onto the highway as the vehicle was overturned.

Injured were Mrs. Helen Foster and Carl Zacharia, aged 11 years, both persons being attended by Dr. H. Boyce of Deseronto. Other passengers in the buggy were Mrs. Foster's two little daughters to knees and arms as they were thrown from the vehicle.

Driver of the car which struck the buggy was P. J. Muhlke, of Bloomfield, Illinois, who, apparently had failed to see the buggy. He managed to swerve his car but failed to avoid the buggy and thus avoiding a full collision, only part of the impact tore the harness from the horse, being smashed and mattress and bedding transferred to the buggy broke the fall of some of the passengers as they were tossed from the vehicle.

Holmes Family Holds Successful Annual Picnic

The Holmes family gathered at Tweed Memorial Park, Aug. 16th, for the twenty-third annual reunion and picnic. Seventy-five relatives partook of a delicious noon-hour chicken dinner provided by the ladies, following which Mr. Ken Holmes of Madoc, in the absence of the president, took charge for a short business meeting. After expressing a cordial welcome to everyone, especially to cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fontyne, from Farewell, Mich., who have not been with the family for several years, he asked that the minutes of the 1946 reunion be read. They were approved as read.

No deaths, two marriages, (namely Mary Helen Fluhrer to Elwin Pitts, and Thelma Fluher to Lorne Holmes), four births, (Billie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Holmes, of Cooper; Harold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bailey of Cooper; Sharon Rita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Holmes, Trenton; and Donald Everett, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lowe of Tweed, Ont.) were reported.

Officers elected were as follows: President, Arthur Holmes of Queensboro; Vice-pres. Gordon Holmes of Cooper; 2nd. Vice-president, Kenneth Holmes, of Madoc; Secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Fred Fluhrer of Madoc.

Sports committee: Diana Holmes, Fay Fleming, Kenneth Holmes and Bill McCoy.

It was decided to hold the 1948 re-union at Crystal Beach, Madoc, on the second Wednesday of August. It was agreed to send a remembrance to Mrs. George Holmes, Queensboro, who is the oldest member of the family and who was unable to attend the reunion this year.

The following prizes were given: To the oldest member present,—Mr. Edmund Groves of Madoc; the one coming the longest distance.— Mr. and Mrs. Fontyne, of Farewell, Mich.; to the most recent bride, Mrs. Lorne Holmes.

Members of eight branches of the family were present, and a representative from each was called upon to speak briefly, after which a one-minutes silence was observed in remembrance of members who have passed on since the last gathering.

Due to the heat sports were cancelled, but the younger members enjoyed a swim in the lake, while the older members visited. As the gathering dispersed in the late afternoon, everyone expressed a desire to be present at next year's re-union.

BEGIN NEW TALKS ON GERMAN INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT

Anglo-U.S.-French discussions on increased industrial output in Germany are considered highly important to the future of Europe. The map, left, shows location of the German Ruhr district. Charts indicate amounts of iron, coal and steel produced in Germany and France. The big question is whether to revive the Ruhr as a steel centre, as it was before the war, or to concentrate the making of steel elsewhere. Previously, the Ruhr steel mills obtained their coal on the spot and much of their iron ore from northeast France. The French mills imported Ruhr coal, but their steel output was far below that of Germany. Already, three U.S. representatives to the discussions at London impress their policy. Left to right, Gen. Clay, Lewis Douglas and Mr. Murphy.

Player Succumbs After Colliding With Teammate

Loudon, Ont., Aug. 26 (CP)— While more than 500 spectators at a Holy Name League baseball game at Sunshine Park watched in hushed silence last night, the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church were administered to Peter Kenny, 17, who later succumbed in hospital without regaining consciousness.

Kenny was the victim of an unusual accident. In the sixth inning of a tilt with MacGal Club, he rushed in from his centre field position to try to catch a high pop fly. With a terrific thud, he collided with shortstop Gillies Sandford striking his head against the shortstop's knee knee as he dove. Kenny died 2½ hours later.

PORTUGAL'S WORST TRAIN WRECK

These railway cars were reduced to kindling when a train passing the station in Vila Franca De Xira, Portugal, at full speed jumped the rails, killing 16 persons and injuring 90. A broken main axle on one of the coaches was given as the cause of the disaster, described as the biggest train wreck in Portugal's history.

Call on Holland And Indonesia To Quit Fighting

Lake Success, Aug. 26. (AP)— The Security Council called on Holland and the Indonesians today for the second time to cease fire in the East Indies hostilities. The vote 10 to 0 with Britain abstaining.

The action was taken as a result of violations of the original United Nations cease-fire requested Aug. 1 and ordered into effect by both parties at midnight Aug. 4.

Two other colonial powers — France and Belgium—had joined Britain in abstaining on the Aug. 1 request for a cessation of fighting.

REVERSE PROCEDURE

London, Aug. 26 (CP)—From now on it's going to cost less to become a father in London—at least for members of the London Rotary Club. In the past the club "fined" each member 25 cents on the birth of a child. This week, however, it decided to reverse the procedure and present a new father with 25 cents as a gift for the child.

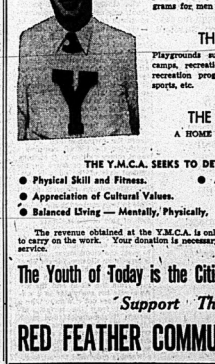
Rothstein, known by the nicknames of "Slow Motion," and the woman were arrested early Saturday in a theatre district hotel.



Judge Wallace turned the pair over to Chief of Detectives John Nimmo of Toronto, who said he would leave immediately for the Canadian city with his prisoners.

Two others wanted for questioning in connection with the rifling of safety deposit boxes in the Dundas and Chestnut branch of the Royal Bank, Paul Esplanchi, 33, and his brother, 31, were held in the Federal House of Detention for immigration authorities who picked them up for illegal entry.

The brothers were arrested in the same hotel as Rothstein and the Lilman woman. All four had registered at the hotel last Tuesday, giving Buffalo, N. Y., as their address.

They'll Be Missed

The departure from the city this week of Mr. Justice Charles A. Cameron, Mrs. Cameron and their family for Ottawa where they will reside will leave a big gap in the ranks of their many friends throughout Belleville and the district. The appointment of Justice Cameron to the Exchequer Court has made it necessary for the family to move to the Capital.

Both Justice and Mrs. Cameron have occupied a prominent place in public life of the city for many years, and their leaving the city will leave a vacancy in many organizations that will be difficult to fill. During the war years and after, Justice Cameron has had to be away from Belleville for extended periods of time because of duties given him by the Government. Before that, he shouldered his full share of the duties connected with civic and political life, almost from the time he came here to take over the law practice of the late Frank Wallbridge, shortly after World War 1.

For many years prior to his appointment as County Judge succeeding Judge Deroche, Justice Cameron enjoyed one of the largest law practices in the city. He eventually entered political life and was elected Member of Parliament for Hastings South but did not seek re-election for his second term. Last September he was appointed to the Exchequer Court and for that reason finds it necessary to move his home closer to his work.

Mrs. Cameron, as well, has been particularly active in civic welfare organizations for many years. She never refused a call for assistance no matter what it might be nor what it might mean to her at the expense of health and comfort. A wide circle of younger people will, also, miss the companionship of the junior members of this fine Canadian family.

There is one comfort in the fact that they are not going too far away and we can hope they will all find time to return as often as the duties may permit them. A warm welcome will always await them whenever they chose to come. Along with a host of their friends this paper joins in wishing them much happiness in their new home and glad it is only au revoir and not goodbye.

Steaks Will be Rare

This year's short grain crop on the prairies doesn't mean that Canadians will have to become vegetarians next year—but it would help. There's going to be a scarcity of meat in 1948 because of the sharp drop in feed production.

Seriousness of the prospect is not underestimated on the prairies. The Lethbridge Herald foresees a rush this fall to liquidate cattle because the East is short of feed and the West has little more than enough to meet its own requirements. Cancellation of meatless days for restaurants is timed to coincide with the rush.

Estimates of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics confirm the prophecy. For example, production of oats in 1947 is placed at 291 million bushels by comparison with 440 million in 1946 and barley is down more than 5 million bushels below last year, comments the Vancouver Sun.

Weather is to blame. It was too wet during the normal planting season in the East to seed millions of acres that would normally have been sown to feed grains. In the West, seeding was so late that crops withered under the July heat wave. The Saskatchewan Government is said to be planning to ship a certain amount of feed into the Prince Albert district which normally raises a surplus of coarse grains for shipment elsewhere.

All of this adds up to a poor outlook for lovers of steaks and pork chops.

Harsher Measures Needed

Some 150 chanting and nude Doukhobor terrorists and arsonists for days past have waged virtually a civil war against the more conservative element of their sect. Fanaticism, in fact, has gone rampant and from all Canadian Press reports, only a few police, the normal patrol, are on the scene. The implication is very strong that British Columbia authorities are utterly indifferent what the Douks do or don't do. They live in hope that the whole colony will be picked up bag and baggage and removed from Canada. The excuse for no direct action is that the trouble has been going on for years and will continue as long as there are Douks left in Canada.

In commenting on the situation the St. Catharines Standard states it is the negation of everything Canadians call government, charged with law and order, to permit this terrorism, whether it is religious frenzy like that in the Punjab in India or not. In small communities, the ultimatum is issued by the extremist Sons of Freedom "Join up, or the torch will be put to your home." And it already has been put in many instances. Industrious Douks working for lumber companies have left their jobs in hundreds to go home and protect if they can their families.

On the basis of the overnight report from Vancouver, one might call it a travesty on everything Canadian for peaceful Douks to be told, when seeking police protection that "it was their own quarrel and must seek their own solution." That isn't very good encouragement for the salvaging of these people, some of whom no doubt have potential citizenship of the right kind.

It may be very true that there can be no appeasement with the fanatics and extremists. But extremism could be salutory and justified, too, in putting an end to the terrorism. Why not rocksalt or buckshot on the nether limbs, with the first and special target, that nude women who led 75 others in the middle of the night in a raid on a small community? In fact, they all parade nude; what would birdshot do to break it up?

A Little Butter Please

This newspaper has received lately from local farmers a large assortment of outsized vegetables, brought into the office as items of local interest. We eagerly anticipate being able to inform our readers of an out-sized pound of butter which has been produced locally at the same price.—Brockville Recorder and Times.

Inconsistency of People

There are few people who will knowingly and deliberately sit in a draught. They are afraid they will catch cold.

They won't enter a room occupied by a patient suffering from smallpox, diphtheria or typhoid fever. They are afraid of contagion.

They won't venture out on a stormy lake in a small boat when the wind is blowing forty miles an hour. They are afraid of drowning.

They won't eat certain foods when they know their systems rebel against them. They are afraid of illness.

They won't carelessly bump into pedestrians on the streets. They are afraid of being considered discourteous.

They won't even pass down a street, where a high-powered electric wire has been blown down by a strom. They are afraid of electrocution.

They won't sit with wet feet. They are afraid of pneumonia.

But hundreds—yes, thousands— of these same people will enter a motor car and drive at a pace they know to be dangerous. —Chatham News.

Many folks still have faith in the age-old belief that it is a forerunner of good luck to hear a cricket chirping in the house in the summer. But this has been nullified by the Department of Agriculture, as a result of studies which show that the cricket eats its own weight in food in 18 hours. And much of the damage to carpets blamed on moths has in reality been done by crickets. So housewives have another problem now, to keep the crickets out in the open where they belong, says Boston Post.

Toronto clergymen are "going to the mat" with professional wrestling as a so-called sport. They naturally hold that wrestling with the Devil is enough for anybody in this age and generation, Stratford Beacon Herald notes.

The best hearts are the bravest.—Swift.

ANSWERING THE GOSSIPS

They say much graver I should be,
But on my way to town
If some sweet maiden smiles at me
Am I supposed to frown?

They tell me: "Grandpa be your age!
Your hair is silver gray
And you have reached the somber stage,
And solemn you should stay."

But what has age to do with this,
I'll never understand;
Must I with scorn the maid dismiss
Who offers me her hand?

I'm not too old a smile to see,
Nor is my blood too cold
Buyer of bubble gum to be
For some sweet six-year-old.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Are waterspouts composed of fresh or salt water?

Waterspouts at sea are composed chiefly of fresh water, not salt water, as commonly supposed.

There are at least two types of waterspouts. One is generally small and starts at the water surface, somewhat like dust whirls on hot, dry plains.

The other, the typical waterspout, originates in the upper atmosphere and is set in motion by a conflict of winds of different temperatures. It starts at a cloud level and burrows down. Such an aerial vortex is essentially a tornado over water, although generally less violent than the average tornado over land. It occurs as a rapidly whirling, funnel-shaped column of air, extending from a storm cloud to the water level, the axis being visible as a column of water or water vapor.

A strong upward indraft beneath the base of the cloud produces the formation and the air supplying the indraft acquires a rapid rotary motion as it ascends. A decided low pressure in the central axis of the eddy is produced and the rising air flowing into the column expands as it passes into places of low pressure. This in turn causes the air to cool and become visible by condensation of part of the moisture.

A waterspout usually agitates the water surface violently and appears to draw columns of water to meet the cloud above, but this is largely an illusion, for the chief part of the visible column is not composed of sea water, but moisture from the cloud and the air. As a rule the sea water in a waterspout does not rise more than a few feet from the surface, although it sometimes rises much higher. When a ship runs into the typical waterspout it is generally drenched with fresh rather than with salt water, and salt spray is noticeable only near the surface.

Waterspouts of this type range in diameter from a few inches to hundreds of feet and in height from hundreds to thousands of feet. One estimated to be 5,000 feet high was observed off New South Wales in 1894. When conditions are favorable many waterspouts may occur in the same region. They move rapidly and are generally short-lived. Waterspouts occur over lakes, rivers and other inland waters as well as over the sea. Their lifting power is considerable and it appears to be a well established fact that such whirling winds have "sucked up" and carried away the entire contents of small ponds and pools.

Formerly seamen regarded waterspouts with terror and it is still popularly supposed that the water in waterspouts is dangerous to large vessels, but the "column of water," which is largely imaginary, is actually dangerous only to boats and small craft. The chief danger from waterspouts lies in the wind. Sailing ships have been wrecked by waterspouts and they are still a hazard to aircraft and vessels. During the Middle Ages mariners tried to frighten waterspouts away with various incentations, and later it was erroneously believed that they could be broken up and caused to collapse by firing muskets and cannon at them.

COAL UP IN PRICE

London, Aug. 26 (Reuters) — British coal, including supplies shipped as cargo or bunkers, will go up four shillings (about 80 cents) a ton in price from midnight next Sunday, the National Coal Board announced last night. Further increases in coal prices will be made when rail freight charges go up in October. Chief cause of the present increase is the beginning of the miners' 5 day week, the board said.

Political Axes Being Sharpened For By-election

Ottawa, Aug. 26. (CP)—Political axes were sharpened today with the battle-centre the Federal New Brunswick constituency of York-Sunbury, scene of the next by-election.

Announcement of the date—Oct. 20—was made by Prime Minister Mackenzie King following a Cabinet meeting yesterday, and interest was heightened by the arrival here of Premier J. B. McNair of New Brunswick, who has been mentioned in capital speculation as a possible successor to the late Fisheries Minister, Hon. H. F. G. Bridges, whose death a fortnight ago left the seat vacant.

Mr. McNair, who on his arrival yesterday immediately went to the office of Prime Minister King, said in an interview last night he was in Ottawa on a purely private trip, and that he was not "particularly interested" in the Fisheries portfolio. He declined to confirm or deny the portfolio had been offered him.

Mr. McNair represents provincially the York-Sunbury seat which has been left vacant federally. Choice of a New Brunswick man for the post is considered likely because Mr. Bridges was the lone cabinet representative for the province.

The prime ministerial announcement was expected to lend an edge to the speaking tour of John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, who left the capital for the Maritimes some days ago.

The New Brunswick seat was formerly held for many years by Hon. R. B. Hanson, former Progressive Conservative leader in the Commons who was first elected in 1921.

Only remaining vacancy in the 245-seat Commons, the contest will be the only off-session test of political strength in view at present.

Standing of the Commons now is: Liberals, 126; Progressive Conservatives, 67; C.C.F., 28; Social Credit, 13; Independent, four; Bloc Populaire, two Independent Liberal, one; Independent Progressive Conservative, one; Independent C.C.F., one, and Union Des Electeurs, one.

Kiddies Set Up All-Time Record At Exhibition

Toronto, Aug. 26. (CP)—There were little kids, big kids, thin kids and fat kids—and for most of them yesterday was the realization of countless stories they had heard for the last six years about the Canadian National Exhibition.

The thousands who flocked to the "Ex" from early morning until late at night didn't add up to a record attendance, but the youngsters did set one all-time record. The two kindly women who run the Lost Children department reported at the end of the long day that 2,710 youngsters managed to get lost through the day.

The previous mark of 2,579 lost children was set on Children's Day at the last exhibition in 1941. Yesterday's attendance was announced as 167,000 which compared with 156,000 in 1941.

The three-day attendance at the C.N.E. stands at 542,500.

Honored as well as the children were their holders—the teachers of the province. Guest speaker at the directors' luncheon was Dr. J. G. Althouse, Ontario Director of Education, while other guests included prominent educationists.

Today the emphasis was on automobiles. In the Automotive Building, manufacturers were giving special attention to their shiny new models, despite the fact few actually have cars to sell. Curiosity focussed on makes of cars which hadn't been on pre-war markets and there was one second-hand car on view which once belonged to a man named Adolph Hitler.

VITAMIN B COMPLEX

The more carbohydrate an individual consumes the more vitamin B Complex, particularly B1 (thiamine), the individual requires to prevent disease manifestations.

What are these manifestations? Well, I can't bring myself to offer symptoms or signs for a try-on here. Suffice that the manifestations of B complex deficiency are so vague and yet so familiar that most Yankee Wiseacres thoroughly grounded in Doctor Horsefeather's Almanac pathology, and full of pills, vegetable dope and yarbs, would ignore them as having no bearing on your case anyway.

The more carbohydrate and the less vitamin B complex an individual consumes, the more food the individual craves or takes to satisfy—not hunger, not appetite, but the instinctive sense of well being that a full stomach gives. There is an explanation for this, which should interest every individual who, in spite of his or her own good intentions, takes an excess of this or that carbohyrate either every day or in pediodical sprees of candy, cake, ice cream or, in some instances, potato gorging. The explanation is that vitamin B complex, particularly B1, maintains the "tone" vigor, elasticity, firmness of the muscle coat of stomach and intestine, as well as the tone or vigor of the heart muscle. Prolonged lack of vitamin B or insufficient intake inevitably results in loss or impairment of the tone of the stomach, intestine and heart. It takes less food to fill comfortably a stomach that is firm, of good tone, elastic, than it does to fill one that is of poor tone, flabby, like an old bag.

Of the thirty million or more persons in the United States who are potential diabetics at least ten million are doing what they can to convert the potentiality into the disease in these three ways:

1. Overeating, especially of refined carbohydrates.
2. Avoiding daily exercise, physical work or play.
3. Accumulating slacker flesh, excess weight.

To all who have the potentiality I recommend these fundamental rules:

1. Satisfy hunger but let appetite wait.
2. Eat a large salad—that is, a dish of raw leafy or root vegetables with or without fresh fruits —as the first course of every dinner or as a main part of every lunch.
3 Take no dessert, except fresh fruit in season.
4. As a matter of pride and good common sense, keep all teeth in good functional condition — your own or your dentists—and use them to chew your food instead of having it chewed by machinery.
5. Invest in an annual physical examination — that is if you think your health is worth the money.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Black Tongue

Son consulted two doctors about odd complaint. His tongue turned black and gums became tender as though he had been eating charcoal. Sulfa drugs didn't help. Lately son bought sunflower seed and ate them. Black tongue and sore gums cleared up in a few days. (E. LeB).

Answer — Sunflower seeds are a good source of niacin (formerly called nicotinic acid), deficiency of which in diet is probably main factor of pellagra and the condition, not uncommon in animals called "blacktongue."

It Was Stupid

When I read your pamphlet that word stupid first offended me but on thinking it over ... and one treatment has made me a new person. I know now just what you mean by stupid. Thank you for showing me the light. (Mrs. W. H.)

Answer — Other stupid people take notice. On written request, if you provide stamped envelope bearing your address I'll send you the pamphlet. It is Stupid to Suffer From Piles. I will not send it in reply to a clipipng.

SHOES FOR DOBBIN

Another item for the "Swords-to-Plowshares" department is the program underway at Hammerau, Germany, where thousands of gas shells, made with malice aforethought, are now being used to provide shoes for German horses and oxen. The work is being done in a big foundry, and by the time the great dump of shells is exhausted, there will be enough horse shoes made to shod every horse in Germany. Here are two workers starting the shells on their conversion journey. The men are former prisoners of war.

Social Welfare Vital Concern Of Community W. Dewar Tells Rotary Luncheon Members

One of the greatest services in Canada today is that which voluntary organizations are doing to see that adequate provision is made for the needy and that funds are distributed according to the need of the various services doing this work, W. H. Dewar, of the Toronto Community Chest Association told the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon on Monday.

"The important thing," Mr. Dewar said, "is to get away from the old idea of individual heads where organizations sought funds 'on their own.' The united idea is in line with the trend of modern things and social welfare should be one of the vital concerns of a community.

"The individual attitude is rapidly passing away, the speaker asserted, and Rotary and other service clubs should unite with other organizations in the effort until the total needs are met.

On Behalf of Service

Mr. Dewar, speaking on behalf of the Belleville Community Chest whose drive for $12,000 gets under way next week and which will aid the YMCA; the Victorian Order of Nurses and the Children's Aid Society, said that in greater Boston, 35 community chests are in operation all of which are united in the same functions.

W. H. DEWAR

In Toronto, he went on, 107 agencies are members of the Community Chest with only 66 deriving benefit from public subscriptions. The balance raises money on their own or are government-subsidized.

In large cities many boards are made up entirely of women. And these women have proven far more able administrators of the business they the men. "It is a great thing to be able to call on women of the responsibility of raising money for their endeavors. This is made possible through the Community Chest."

Budgets this year have been greatly affected, by price increases, Mr. Dewar said. "Everything that has to be purchased for the needy has gone up in price and it is very important item."

Actually the amount, $12,000 to be raised locally is not the greatest sum to the community of one repeater criminal. A recent government report revealed that it cost the public nearly $25,000 for the administration of one hardened repeat criminal.

"Why not then spend your money to develop the life of the community. It means the difference between mediocrity and good citizenship. Then you are doing something."

One of the things said about the Community Chest idea is that it is getting as big as to become impersonal. "This is not the case," Mr. Dewar said, and people in the areas are studied and their needs investigated. There is nothing impersonal about it. There is no overlooking and no overlapping in the provision of services."

Not Possible For One

It is not possible for the individual to do what he wants to do for these needy people. Social services stand ready to do the work and it is unwise for any one person to attempt it while there are agencies of good people to carry on the work.

He urged the chairman to remember the ability and willingness of the many workers in these services. "It is a splendid thing to have a group of people provide the means of organization and do this thing for the community on a co-operative basis so that the needs of all are provided for."

"Let us not think of the Community Chest in terms of money alone but rather of a change in the life of the community which gives its citizens the opportunity to get that richer fuller life of which the Master spoke", Mr. Dewar concluded.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Joe Shortt while Club appreciation was voiced by Rotarian Howard Clarke. President Alex Nathan was in the chair.

Armed Police Raid Cottages in Hunt For Fugitives

Windsor, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Scores of persons watched breathlessly last night as six members of a provincial police force surrounded a string of cottages at Emery's Beach, 15 miles east of here, and began a room-to-room search for Ulysses Lauzon and Donald (Mickey) McDonald.

City, provincial and R. C. M. P. officers raced from Windsor at speeds of up to 75 miles an hour in a swift new move, resulting from an anonymous tip that the escaped convicts were hiding in the Lake St. Clair resort.

Lauzon, 26-year-old Windsor criminal, and McDonald, 40, of Toronto, escaped from Kingston penitentiary Aug. 13 and have been linked with last Friday's $40,000 bank holdup here.

The raid turned up no clue to the fugitives' whereabouts.

Added excitement as the cottage search was conducted was a brief scuffle between Roger Lauzon, the convict's brother, and Barney Gloster, a free-lance Windsor photographer.

Asked about the brush with Gloster, Lauzon said only: "He had no right taking any pictures." He refused to comment further.

A high police official said Lauzon apparently was driving near the route of the police cars or saw the cruisers speeding by—and decided to follow.

Neither Lauzon nor Gloster was injured.

Before the short-lived fight, which police broke up, Lauzon had run from cottage to cottage calling "Ully," his nickname for Ulysses. He asked police to "give me a chance to talk to him" if the wanted man was found.

Four other raids were made by police during the night, none producing any clue.

But police here continued to work on the assumption that the wanted pair is holed up in Windsor. Reports that the men were believed seen in other parts of the province recently were discounted.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

An ace is considered so foulish against a little slam. It makes me look so foolish. My gosh. Perhaps I am.

I pride myself on having ample grout for every error in bridge. But some why I always lead an ace against a slam and you've got here. It is no foundation for me to stand on.

When my ace is led against a slam, it may be the only lead that permits declarer to make his contract. He trumps my ace and his king in the other hand is good for the setting trick.

Let me refrain from an ace lead against slam and it may be the only reason declarer makes his contract. It happens to be in the cards when partner could help me take two tricks.

Being a poor guesser, it is my policy to stick to one method. My choice is to lead an ace against a slam. So, I make this a rule. That policy it is best. But because I know no better.

During a lecture demonstration with random hands, out came this deal.

South reached a contract of six diamonds with smooth bidding. During the bidding, a north reply indicated an ace and no kings there.

Showing my west hand to the kibitzers, I explained: "My opinion is that the lead of my ace in this case is wrong. But my rule is to lead ace not against a slam. So, here goes."

As you can see, it picked off the stiff king in the south hand and kept declarer from taking 12 tricks. It surprised me more than anyone else there, I believe. At any rate, the audience seemed very pleased with the result.

But no one can prove the rule. Nor does this. Nor will it ever be known except by a player with a long neck. This incident only reminds me that someone once said: "With a mind like yours, do not let your opinion influence your judgment."

The Movie Column

Hollywood, Aug. 26 (AP) — It is common knowledge that many ones who chooses the acting life face a Gypsy existence and a feature act uncertain as that of a soprano. But here is one exception.

He is Roland Winters, who just started work as Charlie Chan in "Dangerous Years." Although his name with Monogram calls for five pictures, however, starring, he probably has selected a life career. No other actor can make that statement.

Both of the previous Charlies died in the middle of their reign. Warner Oland, a round-faced Swede. His death landed him temporarily in the history books, for, when died last February after switching his Hat Chan, Toler was widely known in Halifax and the Maritimes. A wide search for a successor followed. Winters, a radio actor who appeared on such shows as Henry Morgan's, Kay Kyser's and the Aldrich family.

I caught glimpses and words from Winters between takes of his first picture. He is a 42-year-old Bostonian who looks in his makeup just as the omniscient Oriental should. I asked him if he was content to accept his life sentence as Charlie.

"I should be very happy to play him for the next 5 years," he said, "provided I can do other things as well. Actually I'd do not look like him without makeup. When I came in this morning, the assistant director gave me the least effort until he realized who I was. I was happy he did, because I realized not everyone would think of me as Charlie Chan."

Winters has played in only one other picture, "13 Rue Madeleine." He was discovered by Charlie through a test for "The Big Clock," a role which the film's actor Charles Laughton later played. He is also considered for another role of Laughton-probably will get. But Roland is not worried. Laughton can only play his roles once and then he has to find another. Roland will always have Charlie.

AT THE McCARTHY — Joan Bennett getting the rush act from two screen experts in "The Housekeeper's Daughter," coming tomorrow to the McCarthy Theatre.

BATA SHOEMEN OUST LATTA IN PLAYOFFS

Win Second Straight Game 9-4 in Semi-Final Series. Now Await Flyers-Napanee Winners

Bata Shoemen roared into the finals of the Belleville Baseball Association playoffs in their home park last night with a slugging heck the Latta team 9-4 for their second straight win of the best two-of-three semi-finals series. The Shoemen defeated the same squad 8-3 in their first meeting.

Bill Easton's gang now awaits the winners of the Napanee-Trenton Flyers semi-finals series to get the nod to be decided. After that they will take on the Flyers in the first round of the Quinte Baseball Association Intermediate "A" series.

The Shoemen put the game on ice in the first innings of last night's joust shoving over five runners before the lads-mates settled down. They pounded Lefty Weeks, Latta starting hurler for three hits, which sided and abetted by two Latta errors sent the quintet of markers across the plate.

Dunning started on the mound for the Shoemen but he lasted only two innings when Jim Latta relieved. He allowed two runs on as many clouts. Ace Goody Moffitt went to the rescue and after allowing the fce scors two runs in the third innings he came within striking distance settled down to mark the carrier settled down to mark the carrier settled for the remainder of the pastime.

Bata exploded with another barrage of hits and runs in the sixth. Four safeties rattled off their wake and as many runners crossed the plate to clinch the game.

Tall Ken Peacock led the Bata hit parade with two solid clouts while Goody Moffitt hit himself a couple. Leo Geyer and Red Carson got doubles with the scorer-top also getting a single.

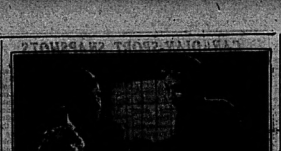
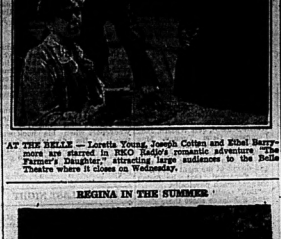
U.S. Navy Doubly Sure it Owns Fastest Aircraft in the World

Munroe, Calif., Aug. 26-1 (AP)—The United States Navy is doubly sure that it has the fastest aircraft in the world — a snarling, snorting and bellowing plane that spun itself a 650.8-mile-an-hour international speed record in level passes over a three-kilometre course on this desert waste yesterday.



The blood-red Douglas jet-propelled Skystreak, with a long tubular fuselage and just enough wings to keep it in the air, was built by the Douglas Aircraft Co. at Santa Monica, Calif., and is officially controlled in a hush-hush fashion which didn't look large enough for a man half his size.

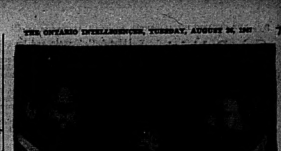
In so doing, the Skystreak broke its own world speed record registered only last Wednesday.



In accordance with regulations of the International Aeronautical Federation, the Skystreak made four runs over the three-kilometre (1.863 miles) course. The time for the four runs in miles an hour were 653.642, 649.358, 653.370 and 648.780.

At that, Cmdr. Turner F. Caldwell last week made one run faster than Carl's best mark yesterday. The Commander's average was 640.7, but he was clocked on one pass at 653.6.

The other part of the whole thing was that this craft would streak past without apparent audible sound. The noise was trailing it by several hundred yards and the pilot would be almost out of sight before you heard the bellowing, roaring crescendo of its mighty turbo-jet engines.



AT THE BELLE — Loretta Young, Joseph Cotten and Ethel Barrymore are starred in RKO Radio's romantic adventure "The Farmer's Daughter," attracting large audiences to the Belle Theatre where it closes on Wednesday.

REGINA IN THE SUMMER

Here is visible evidence of the storm that raked Regina last week, pelting the city with hail and rain. This photo shows drifts of hailstones being swept out of Victoria park nearly 16 hours after the storm.

Little Benny's Note Book

Me and Puds Simkins and Shorty Judge were talking at Mary Wilson on her front steps, me and Puds bragging about different things to make her think we're even greater than we really are, me claiming I could throw a lasso as good as some cowboys and Puds claiming he could eat twice as many pancakes at one time than any 2 other people in his family, and Shorty just sitting there talking about the splinter in his little finger, saying, Good night it's herting worse instead of better, I better go home and have it took out.

Aw, cant you forget that splinter, it isnt the first splinter you ever had! I said, and Puds said, Do you feel sorry for the first guy ever had a splinter!

You ought to be ashamed of yourself making fun of anybody that's wounded, Mary Wilson said, and Shorty said, G, Mary, you ought to be a nurse, then you could take it out for me.

I can take it out for you anyway, I'm going into in and get a needle, Mary said.

Which she quick went in and did and started to take Shorty's splinter out, taking her a fierce long time, and Shorty made faces to himself as if he wishes he had went and asked his mother to do it, and Mary Watkins said, There, it's out, did I hert you much?

I didn't even feel it, Shorty said. I told you you ought to be a nurse, he said, and she said, Oh go on, you're just flattering.

I am not, you ought to be a dawty looking nurse with a white uniform, Shorty said, and she said, Well I think that's very nice of you to say, and maybe I will some day.

The result being me and Puds getting mad at Shorty and telling me saying, Aw heck, all that talk about a bum little splinter, and Puds saying, I wish I had a dollar for every splinter I've had and never even mentioned them.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By JOE McGOVERN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Aug. 26 — (CP) — A mixed bag of sports with a touch of grits, wrestling, arms and amputation fest strutted the colorful pages of the sporting world while men and all gassed respectfully. Here's the way it comes, Joe Press Alleged:

Alex (Halifax Herald) Hickman was played a bit too, in a nostalgic sort of way, and then retired to bed tonight content to take it easy with his public.

There are only a handful of men alive today," said Nick "who after their signatures can write the "former heavyweight boxing champion" and the oldest is the pill hale and hearty James J. Griffin. The youngest is the celebrated Broadway playboy and night club entertainer, Max Baer. The others are: Tommy Burns (Noah Brusso), Jess Willard, Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey, Primo Carnera, and James J. Braddock.

Nick also discussed the rise-and-downs of the giant from Italy and remarked that he hadn't changed much physically.

"Huh," continued Nick, "He can't read a balance sheet these days. When Primo Carnera finally retires to Italy he will be able to live the way an ex-champion should. For Da Preem, no longer cut by half a dozen managers, demands and gets forty per cent of the gate every time he wrestles."

Wrong Hole

Howard MacInnes of Charlottetown was a victim of one of those fitting-the-shoe-in-the-wrong-foot-when-in-a-hurry jobs in one of the Canadian Professional Golfers' tournaments. The description thing happened when MacInnes sliced off the first tee into the ball marked at the 185th hole. It was the first time a hole in one of any kind ever happened around at the annual tournament, which was held at the Riverside Club, near Saint John, N. B.

Big Game Fish

Tuna fishermen — post-graduate in the Izaak Walton game — are sure mackerel for bait, are not inclined to get panicky at affy time, but Irving Friendman of New York was somewhat startled when he hooked a shark off the Nova Scotia coast the other day.

Victor over several giant tuna this season, the American angler was fishing the tide-rips off Wedgeport when his hook was struck by the huge white shark. Following a hectic half-hour battle the shark was brought to gaff and, when hung up, scaled 645 pounds.

OTTAWA TROJANS TEAM TO WATCH IN THE O.R.F.U.

By E. D. HODGSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 26 (CP) — Ottawa Trojans are in the Ontario Rugby Football union this season for the first time since last year's team of the same name will be strictly coincidental.

Last year, the Ottawa O.R.F.U. entry, tweaked as a no-win, bottom-run season, drew crowds by the handful and had to watch Hamilton Tigers, Toronto Argonaut Riders, attract the fans with the money. Last spring, in choosing Wally Masters as coach, they threw down the gauntlet to the senior team's popularity.

Ottawa has had a soft spot in its heart for amateur ever since, playing with Rough Riders in 1922 as one of the first Americans to come to Canada, he insisted a 120 yard touchdown run.

The capital has never quite forgotten that play, and remembers how it fell following two years when Masters coached a weak Rider team to creditable records.

Since then Wally quarterbacked (in 1939) the Chicago Cardinals, A top-notch athlete, he doubles as a baseball pitcher, and in 1941 was named on a good performance for Ottawa National Tommy Gorman's new and winning entry in the border league.

Acquire Five Americans

Trojans have acquired five Americans, a reversal of last year's policy of Canadian players only.

The Americans include Jo Dickerson, who won all-American rating with University of Pennsylvania's team in 1945 and 1946. A stocky 27-year-old at 215 pounds, Joe doubles as line coach.

Dick Tuckey, at 230 pounds the heaviest man on the new team, is a powerful-passing quarter who played formerly with Washington Red Skins Cleveland Rams and Springfield, other Americans are Joe Farley, a former U.S. Navy end and Dave Petrilas and Al Anderson, plunging halves.

With 30 players to carry —the O.R.F.U. this year has expanded the limit from 24 — Trojans will have approximately 15 new faces. Best of last year's crowd will be Arnie McWatters, who coached the team in 1946. Highest man on the team at a trim 150 pounds, he will help with quarterback chores.

Other last-year Trojans will be Ted McLarty, one of the fleetest, Jim McFaul, George Gilmour, a quarterback, kicker Rocky Robillard, Jerry Lefebvre, and Bob Gillan, lineman.

Canadian newcomers will include two Rough Rider regulars of last year — Moe Segal, a lineman, and Jeff Moynahan, centre. Ace Ugacioni, a Tiger Cubs last year, Tom Glenn, regular Argo centre in 1945 and Jackie McLean, hockey player who played flying wing with Toronto Indians three years ago.

There will be three Smiley's all related. Brothers Rod (last year's Argos end) and Doug (1946 Alouette) and Dr. Rod, a cousin, who played with Rough Riders two years ago.

Sports Roundup

By JOHN D HAMILTON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York Aug. 26 —(CP) — Bobby Locke, the South African golf star, has United States sports writers in a dither because of his "professionalism"... The polished linksman was received cordially when he arrived here several months ago but since then there has been a cooling off because he is frankly out to make money ... It's said that Locke's tiff with the press started when an interviewer asked him what made him so effective ... "Sorry old boy," Bobby is alleged to have replied. "That comes under professional information and will cost you $100."

The Vampires

The vicious, money-hungry vampires who infect professional boxing are excellently portrayed in Bud Schulberg's new novel, "The Harder They Fall," which takes the career of Primo Carnera and analyses the history of a gentle giant in the prize ring ... like Carnera, the Argentine hero of "The Harder They Fall" — "El Toro Molina" — is paralyzed by American gangsters in to the big-time ... then he is discarded callously without a dime.

On The Side

Johnny Greco, the Canadian welterweight champion, used to be the star attraction at Madison Square Garden .... but he has skidded so far down the United States boxing ladder that tonight he meets Joe Persits in Norwalk, Conn... a couple of years ago, Johnny's management would have scorned a small-change fight like that... but as Dan (N.Y. Daily Mirror) Parker says, Greco hasn't been suspended like Rocky Graziano but he might as well be as far as interest in matching him in New York goes...

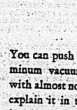
Canada's Finest — IN THE SERVICE OF THE PUBLIC



THE GROCER

A smile, a friendly greeting; friendship, service, confidence—from the early hours of the day until the dimness of evening these qualities distinguish The Grocer to the people he serves. So ingrained, so modestly regarded are these attributes that only on the rarest of occasions are they brought to our attention.

Men like this, some of Canada's finest, are in the public's service—at your service...

DAWES BLACK HORSE BREWERY

One of a series of advertisements in tribute to those Canadians in the service of the public.

You can push a modern, lightweight aluminum vacuum cleaner back and forth with almost no effort. (An engineer would explain it in terms of low inertia.) And inertia is important in a piston, which must reverse its direction every split second. The less force needed to stop it and head it the other way is that much power saved to drive plane or motor car with that much greater pep and speed.

EVEN at normal cruising speed, the pistons of your car take a cruel licking. With each explosion one of them gets smacked down with pile-driver force —pressure runs more than a ton and a half. Heat builds up to 600° and higher. And the pistons take this hours on end—one thousand smacks and more every minute.

Aluminum pistons are made to stand this sort of punishment, and more. That's why they are used in airplane engines, too.

Another reason is their lightness, which in turn means power economy. Here's why:

New alloys — new applications

Aluminium Laboratories Limited, our associated company, is continually working on new alloys for new uses, this is but a small part of the 28-room research which metallurgists, chemists and engineers carry on in the largest commercial research laboratory in Canada. Their efforts are of direct benefit to Canadian manufacturers, supplying answers to a thousand scientific and production problems. You benefit too—in new products, better products, less expensive products made with aluminum.

If Munger Could Pitch in Day Like He Does at Night Cards Would be Leading League

Boasts Season Record of 11 Victories, Nine of Which Won Under Lights

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

If George (Red) Munger, unpredictable St. Louis starting hurler, could pitch as well in the daytime as he does at night, the Cardinals today would be leading the National League instead of trailing Brooklyn Dodgers by six games.

Munger, who boasts a season record of 11 victories and 4 defeats, has been almost unbeatable under the lights. He is starless at night, he has won nine and lost only one.

In daylight games he's dropped three games out of seven and failed to go the route in nine of 11 starts.

He gained his ninth night victory last night when he pitched a five-hitter as the Cards defeated the Braves in Boston 5-2. Stan Musial's 17th homer with one man aboard gave Red Rochdale's thir third t'wo game against Lefty Warren Spahn in the first inning.

The Cards, however, failed to gain ground on the Dodgers, who won a three-hitting game from Pittsburgh Pirates at Ebbets' Field 11-10.

The Dodgers with an 11-5 lead after six innings, were forced to stave off a determined Bee rally in the ninth which just fell short.

Billy Jurges slammed a 10th-inning home run with one man on to enable Chicago Cubs to defeat New York Giants 6-7. Six batsmen were used by the Cubs, Paco Pafko, Phil Cavarretta and Bob Scheffing tabloping for the Cubs in addition to Jurges. Bobby Thompson and Willard Marshall who bit into the 'nose for the Giants. Cincinnati Red whipped the Phillies in Philadelphia 5-3 in a night game. Bucky Walters posted his seventh win of the season and 19th of his major league career.

Chicago White Sox nipped New York Yankees in Chicago 5-4, it was their 30th victory by a single run margin.

Three walks with the bases loaded forced in three Cleveland runs and enabled the Indians to defeat Boston Red Sox 12-6.

Philadelphia Athletics defeated Detroit Tigers 7-3 and Lefty Bess Zoldak won a pitchers' battle from Rae Scarborough of St. Lolus Browns 3-2 in 10 thriller from Washington Senators.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Ted Williams, Red Sox — Collected two singles, a double and walked in five times at bat.

Jackie Robinson, Dodgers — Grounded out, walked, beat out a bunt, tripled into the right field corner, was hit by a pitched ball, stole second and doubled out at six times at bat.

Lou Boudreau, Indians — Doubled twice and singled twice in five flings at bat, batted in two runs.

Johnny Mize, Giants — Popped out, singled to right, lined to first, grounded out and popped out.

Joe Ditmargio, Yankees — Failed to hit safely in four trips to the plate against Frank Papish and Pete Gabrian of the White Sox.

Stan Musial, Cardinals — Started the Cards to a 5-2 win by belting his 17th home run with one man on in the first, then filled on three times.

Oshawa B'nai Brith Wallops Petes 5-1

Oshawa, Aug. 26 (CP) — Playing an inspired game Oshawa B'Nai Brith, walloped Peterborough Rotary 5-1 here at Alexandra Park to take the Lakeshore Junior Baseball league semi-finals in two straight games. B'Nai Brith will now meet the Lakeshore League leaders Oshawa Kiwni Club for the Lakeshore title.

Bunny Degree, on the mound for the B'Nai Brith limited the Rotarians to six hits. Jacquith and Loucks shared the hill for Peterborough and though they built Oshawa in check for the early innings, B'Nai Brith slapped home five runs in three innings to win the game.

Peterborough scored the first run in the first of the fourth on a walk singlet and an error. Oshawa meanwhile were getting men on bass only to have a couple of forceouts end the inning.

Oshawa tied the score in the last of the sixth on a towering homer, to deep right field by "Beefy" Bathe. B'Nai Brith went on to score two runs in the last of the seventh on two singles and two more runs in the last of the eighth on some wild mound work by the liff lock city pitcher.

Peterborough tried hard to get on even terms after these rallies by Oshawa, but were handcuffed as Legree got hot and whittled down their batters in quick time.

Sports Shorts from Britain

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 26. (CP)—The battle of the sexes broke out at Christ Church parish in Ramsgate and the women defeated—but failed—to settle the argument on the cricket field.

Just how the discussion arose is uncertain, but the women challenged the men to a cricket match, and the challenge was accepted.

The Vicar, the Rev. R. H. Wayland, led his buckos onto the field and as confident of victory were the men they offered to bat left-handed and bowl underarm.

But the women, led by Amazon Peggy Palmer, cut loose a fierce collection of rockers, googlies, inswingers and leg-breaks and had the men all out for the scanty total of 65 runs.

Then the women batted. They scored —65 runs.

An added score exists in the parish while the two sides think up a new contest to settle the issue.

Polo, a sport that had lost its way in Britain, found a new pilot in Mr. Peter Cobb, Lor. Alan Roberts who won the D.F.C. while serving in Bomber Command.

The famed polo grounds at Ranelagh and Hurlingham have been sold and no polo was played at Roehampton while military clubs in which the game flourished before the war have become inactive.

But Roberts has bought a club at Henley, on the banks of the Thames and stages polo matches there three nights a week. Wealthy horsemen have returned to the new colors and the game shows signs of a real revival.

A little farther along the Thames, at Bisham Abbey, Marlow, the Central Council of Physical Recreation has established a summer camp where it is hoped will be found some likely Olympic talent for next year's games.

Charge for a week's holiday at the camp is £3 (.13) a week and men and women between 18 and 35 are welcome.

Among sports who have volunteered their services as coaches are miler Sydney Wooderson and tennis ace Mrs. Kay Stammers Mendez. The week's "courses" are for football, track and field, rowing, swimming, fencing and wrestling.

Jack Rowe, 77-year-old professional at the Royal Ashdown Forest Golf Club, is retiring after 50 years there with what he believes is an all-time record. Jack has scored nine holes-in-one.

PLAYERS SUSPENDED

Hamilton, Aug. 26 (CP) — Suspension of two Whitby players was announced yesterday by Frank Fenwick, secretary of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association. Suspended for an indefinite period are Leonard Tuffi, Whitby junior, for playing in an interleague game under an assumed name, and Albert Samaan, Whitby intermediate player-manager, for allowing the substitution.

TREATED WITH BRUISES

New York, Aug. 26 (AP)—A dozen vehicles, including two ambulances and police and fire equipment, converged on a west side dwelling after a "catastrophe call" was flashed.

In the apartment basement the rescue squad found a dentist with one hand caught in a washing machine. He was treated for bruises.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE E. CARTER

Frank Mahon Starts the "Ball" Rolling . . . over 40 out in his annual golf tournament for sides in Canada. Date is what fits 20th option or the court wants.

A friend of ours, whose taste runs to the grander forms of tennis, and golf, recently invaded late taking a look at the recent international tennis matches at Montreal. After watching the lads and Dawn Under ley whiz our Canadian talent for half an hour or so he turned to his companion and said: "If that Kerrer had any morals he'd stop this thing and call it 'No Contest'; in fact I think he'd tell the promoters to give the folks their dough back, too."

Which is undoubtedly deplorable language to use regarding a genteel sport like tennis; and of course, it may have been as sad as that. That is to say, the folks who paid to witness the contest enjoyed because they knew in advance pretty much what to expect . . . Still, it isn't exactly soothing to national pride to watch Canada represented by athletes who had about as much chance as Gene Tunney, or old Jack Dempsey would have, right today, in a bout with Joe Louis.

The fact is that we just haven't got any talent that betokens in the slightest, post, top tennis circles; and until we have, we should stay out of international contests. If our boys and girls just want the benefit of high-class competition, by all means encourage them to do so, but don't make of those who have to read the piffle, that they can do it as private individuals, not as official representatives of a great Dominion.

Jack Carson's Latts crew bowed out of the Belleville Baseball Association playoff picture last night at Batawa when the Batawans tackled the second straight defeat at the "country" boys in their own back yard. Batawa reared back to an impressive five run lead in the first innings and the game was in the bag. After that it was a ball game with both sides going down easily until the sixth when the Batawan unleashed another five-run attack to put the issue beyond doubt. Batawa's Jim Fitzgerald was the victim of the eight runs and nine hits. Fitzgerald, however, was relieved in the fifth with the score 13-5 and with 15 runs against them defeats ended the team batting average of Ken Se. Fryers with .364.

NEW PRICES ANNOUNCED

Toronto, Aug. 26 (CP) — New prices for Chevrolet and Oldsmobile automobiles, ranging from $61 to $282 higher went into effect Aug. 14, General Motors dealers said here yesterday. Increased cost of production is the reason given.

During the season with a fistful averages of .400 or better. The other hitter to reach the four hundred mark was Ken Fraser, Parkdale, who came through with an average of .400 in seven games played. Eight players batted for .364 which is a solid record for the league.

Tonight at Ole Jupe Pluvius has no objection, Trenton Flyers will again attempt to get their semi finals series started with Keystone down in Gilhardsville. The teams have been reorganized by the weathermen thus far but perhaps they'll get their issue settled before hockey starts.

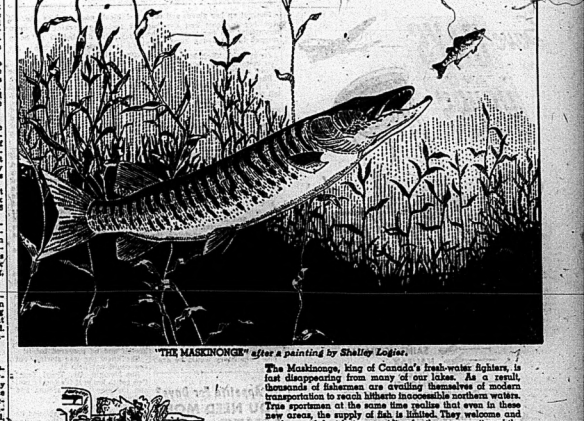
Glen Bufee's flailing fists failed to stop Lawrence Ashwell, Dixon Athletic Club ace from going the distance Wednesday when he's romping Jerry Downie, however, pounded his way to a decision over Fraser Cartwell, highly rated scrapper from Memorial. Downie is a relay player and if he keeps in the condition he's now in he'll be seen his ears, is liable to be up there with the big fellows in time.

Point Anne Leafs go into the first round of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association playoffs next Friday when they will be hosts to the winners of the Kingston Senior Softball League. Kingston has yet to decide a winner but it is expected that they'll meet on Friday night. The teams play back in Belleville for the second, September 2. Winners of the series meet the victors of the Oshawa-Peterborough joust.

Point Anne Wings are also in the hunt for the Intermediate crown and will tackle the fast Picton Army team in two straight games and now meet Parham, conquerors of Tweed in the second round. The squads play at Parham tonight and are back in Point Anne on Thursday.

According to statistics released today by that dennie statistician of the Belleville Baseball Association, "Red" Pyrenard, big Vern Geyer was the cream of the hitters

Moss Clouts Pair Of Round Trippers To Help Sauer



Howie Moss took the home run lead of the International League yesterday.

The Baltimore outfielder clouted a pair of round trippers last night to increase his total for the season to 46, one more than Hank Sauer of Syracuse.

Despite Moss' two clouts, the Orioles were beaten by Jersey City Giants 12-4 as the Little Giants clouted three hurlers for 18 hits.

Montreal Royals increased their first-place lead over Jersey to 3½ games by winning a pair from Rochester Red Wings 5-2 and 6-4. The second game went 13 innings.

"THE MASKINONGE" after a painting by Shelley Logier.

The Maskinonge, king of Canada's fresh-water fighters, is fast disappearing from most of our lakes. As a result, thousands of fishermen are availing themselves of modern transportation to reach hitherto inaccessible northern waters. True sportsmen at the same time realize that even in these new areas, the supply of fish is limited. They welcome and conform with legislation providing for the conservation of the "muskie".

"Boatmen and boatmen, hotel-keepers and guides feel the pinch when the fishermen drives further north because he can catch nothing but perch and sunfish in the lake that used to teem with bass and maskinonge."

Take the Laughter

CHAPTER 14.

"I can't write him," Sherry told her. "I've got to see him. I can tell by his face if he . . . Oh, he must love me, Marcia! He must!"

The plane was leaving at four.

Marcia was coming at three. Sherry was ready at two!

The day was warm and bright and the apartment looked queer with all her personal things out of it.

Sherry wished Marcia would come earlier. She put on her hat. She put on a glove. No, that was silly. She took it off again.

The telephone rang. Marcia perhaps.

It was Elsie-Hilary.

"How are you dear?" she wanted to know, without being really interested. "I just got in this morning, had to make that rotten trip to New York to settle up Jack's affairs. Don't ever take the plane! You look like a fright when you get off."

She told Sherry about the trip and the weather in New York, and she satisfied a bit about Jack now and then.

She said: "And by the way, I saw your friend, Tony Dietrich, at the studio. He hadn't heard a thing about the accident and was shocked. He's writing you right away. Of course everybody had been talking about it, but he'd been away on his honeymoon."

Sherry said, "His what?" very quietly

"Oh, he's married," Elsie told her "About a month ago. She's a writer at the studio, and the funny part of it is, she's so amazingly like you! You'll be surprised when you see her, really—some height and build and coloring—just your type Honestly you could be sisters!"

That letter had been the hardest thing she had ever written. It had had to sound happy about Tony's marriage, while she was sad about Peter. Well, it had.

Tony had written back a lot about Joyce and how anxious she was for them to meet, and how well they would like each other. He was coming back to Hollywood in about two months, but summer had come and gone and Sherry had read in a trade paper that he had been given another picture in the East.

Those awful days had been got through somehow. Funnily enough all her emotion had been transferred to Peter then. When she had cried it had been about him, and after a while that had worn off too.

Then she and Marcia had busied themselves about the new house in the English gardens that they had taken together. There were pale, knotty-pine panelled walls and chintz — covered furniture. They found pewter tankards and old prints with wide mats that fitted into the atmosphere of the place.

After the house and their home routine had been systematically arranged, Sherry had felt a need for activity. She had found herself an agent and he had gotten her assigned as script-writer on her own story. Her salary was $600 a week.

Now as she adjusted her small self hat, she smiled at herself in the mirror.

She said, "Yes, you look the smart successful woman—everything that you wanted to be. Well, how do you like it?"

She put on her gloves and carried her fur coat and handbag downstairs. On her way—out, she stopped to tell Jenny about dinner.

Jenny said, "Yes, Miss Barton. You better stay in tonight and go to bed early."

Sherry laughed.

"I remember when you used to tell me I stayed home too much."

She slipped on her coat and went out. The morning was colder than it looked.

Sherry walked down the next brick path, and turned at the hedge to go to the garages.

Yes, she went out often. So what? There were always people at the studio and people she had known before, and those people had those people. But it took so many of them to make up for one you really wanted.

Sherry reached the studio gates and said good morning to the gateman and drove in. She went directly to her private office and spent the morning doing the brain sequence in her newest script. She went to bring it to Owen definite top before the dissolve.

It was 12:45 before she was hungry and went to the commissary for lunch. She had her own table now with a reserved sign on it.

When she got back to the office she felt moody and depressed. The afternoon dragged and she didn't seem to accomplish much. By four she decided she'd better have some tea.

The commissary would be dead and bleak now, besides she did not feel like working any more today. She decided to go home and stop somewhere when she crossed the boulevard.

Her nose felt red from the wind when she got to Conti's, but the restaurant was warm and quiet. There were not many people and the indirect lighting was relaxing.

The waiter said, "Black tea, Miss Barton?" and Sherry smiled yes, and slipped off her coat and studied the clever caricatures of famous people that decorated the walls.

There were two girls near her who were exchanging confidences in quietly excited voices, and there was a man three booths away sitting alone. Sherry could see his back and part of one side and that he was reading a trade paper. She glanced at him and watched a pretty woman and her escort going into the cocktail room, but she was thinking there was something familiar about the man sitting alone.

Tony!

Those were Tony's shoulders and his face, and the back of Tony's head.

Sherry could feel herself pale and her head swam dizzily. Then the blood rushed to her face again and throbbed at her temples.

No! It couldn't be Tony! She couldn't see him just all of a sudden like that! She had to control herself and be prepared for it!

She knew she was staring, but she could not help it.

She thought, Oh, Tony! Tony! I've got to know if it's you or not, and the man turned around and looked at her.

It was Tony.

His face lit with delight and he got up quickly, but the waiter was coming with his highball and Tony had to tell him he was changing tables.

Sherry's automatic smile was frozen on her face. She clenches her hands hard and tried to breathe naturally.

British Doctors Seem Powerless To Stop Spread of Infantile Paralysis

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The United Kingdom this summer is threatened with a new outbreak of infantile paralysis on a scale heretofore unknown and doctors confess they have no power-less to do much to check it.

Fortunately, most cases have been mild, perhaps because of prompt attention, and "deaths have been few." But combined they exceed 2,000 so far this year as compared with a previous record of 2,462 in 1938.

Most of the victims have been aged between eight and 16 years with the remainder divided equally between children below this age group and young adults.

Medical health officers in many districts have conferred on measures of prevention, and treatment. At a recent meeting in London a group of them concluded that swimming pools need not be closed but that paddling pools should be.

They recommended that schools should re-open on the usual date although nursery schools and day nurseries should remain closed where there had been two or more cases. They said Saturday worship services that refer to children need not be discontinued.

Doctors also urged that efforts be made to reduce flies and said garbage tins should have tight-fitting lids and be emptied often.

The Ministry of Health has made a short movie dealing with early diagnosis of the disease for circulation among general practitioners, and special units for treatment have been opened in 12 London hospitals.

There is considerable disagreement among doctors as to whether swimming should be forbidden but most seem to feel that dirty water should be avoided.

"I feel there are grave dangers of infection from canals and other foul waters," said Dr. Hugh Spence, Medical Officer of Health for Ecclesall, Lancs, where there has been a severe outbreak.

"Children must be kept away from canals for their own safety".

The British Medical Journal, in a leading article, said it was alarmed by the possibility of contracting the disease in swimming baths and there was no concrete evidence that they contributed to the spread of the disease and that if the certain conditions were observed baths were unlikely to be more dangerous than streets where children played together.

The Journal also warned against panic, saying that public anxiety is "out of proportion to the low morbidity and mortality rates among those infected." It said there might be cases in which hysteria would produce the symptoms of the disease.

In discussing the disease's outbreak the Journal said it was "theoretically possible" that the virus might be disseminated by flies, and infected food and drink.

"The present widespread distribution of cases in this country does not, however," suggest any dissemination by food or water and little evidence exists that this method has ever been important elsewhere in the world," the Journal said.

HEARING DATE SET

Cochrane, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Preliminary hearing of murder charges against Rocco Slaco and Roger Gauthier of Cochrane in the red belt slaying of Valair Vandebelt, Toronto nurse, will be held Sept. 12, it was decided yesterday.

The 22-year-old nurse who worked at Cochrane's Lady Minto Hospital was found dead last June 23 in the bush at Silver Queen Lake 15 miles north of here. A coroner's jury July 17 found death due to strangulation and a fractured skull. Slaco and Gauthier were arrested Aug. 1.

LANDSLIDE FOLLOWS HURRICANE WHICH KILLED 40 PERSONS

Clearing away rocks and earth, workers dig to open up a section of the Pan-American highway near Jacola, Mexico, after a cloudburst had caused a number of landslides in the area. Forty persons in the town of Tamal lost their lives in a furious hurricane which was followed by 40 hours of rain.

57 to 60 Cents Dozen for Eggs

Toronto, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Egg prices, which last week hit a peak of 68 cents a dozen here, are not likely to fall below the present level in Toronto of 57 to 60 cents a dozen for grade A large, a distributor predicted last night.

Present egg prices are based on a price to wholesalers of 49 cents a dozen — a rate corresponding to that to be paid for eggs for shipment to the United Kingdom after Sept. 1, and the spread allowed the retailer brings the cost to the consumer up to between 57 and 60 cents a dozen.

Indian Children Wonder at Bicycle As it Passes By

The Pas, Man., Aug. 26 (CP)—Airplanes, railway trains, automobiles and even the snow-shoers of civilization pale before the bicycle in the estimation of 10 Cree Indian children who left this northern Manitoba town today for a trapline camp, a school farther south.

The children — four boys and six girls ranging in age from 8 to 10 years — are in the care of Mrs. Hughes-Calder, wife of an Anglican missionary in the north. Because he is known to the elder Indians as "The Praying Man," she is known to theagchildren as "The Praying Woman."

She met them at various stations along the Hudson Bay Railway to which their parents had brought them — not without tears despite the traditional stoicism of the Indian. All four boys wept when they stepped off the train at The Pas and saw a crowd at the station. Only when they became fascinated at automobile windshield wipers in operation did their tears stop.

They gaze wide-eyed at many sights — the four boys refused to let go each other's hands when they walk down The Pas streets —but a bicycle astounds them, Mrs. Hughes-Caley said. For one thing they can't understand why a bicycle stands upright when a boy or girl is riding it and it won't when no one is seated upon it.

Regularly, one of the group calls "astum (come back)" when another ventures a few feet out in the street to stare after a bicycle which has sped by.

Beaches Searched For Two Convicts

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 26 — (CP) — Acting on a tip from an unidentified man, police last night searched a row of cottages at the Lake St. Clair resort of Emery Beach, 15 miles east of here, in a new attempt to find the hideaway of Ulysses Lauzon and Donald (Mickey) McDonald.

Six earloads of heavily-armed city, provincial and R. C. M. P. officers raced out along the lakeshore to surround the area and make a thorough search, apparently turned out no clue to the whereabouts of the two criminals who staged a $40,000 bank robbery here last Friday, four days after escaping from Kingston penitentiary.

The raid was the latest development in an intensive scouring of suspected hideouts in the city and suburbs. Having obtained extra supplies of tear gas from neighboring Detroit as "a precaution," all available police remained at the alert following Chief Constable Claude Renaud's re-assertion of his belief that the escaped convicts are in Windsor.

OLD STEAMER TO BE SCRAPPED

Hamilton, Aug. 25 (CP)—Once a queen of the Great Lakes passenger fleets, the 46-year-old steamship Toronto has made her last trip to Hamilton and today awaits the wreckers' torches. Pride of the Canada Steamship Lines fleet when launched in 1899, she operated for many years between Toronto and Prescott with calls at Rochester and Clayton, N.Y., Kingston and Brockville. She has been purchased by the Steel Company of Canada for scrap.

Flier and Wife "Darn Lucky" To Be Rescued

Winnipeg, Aug. 26 — (CP) — Technical Sergeant J. R. Nelles, 30, of the United States Army Engineers, and his wife rested in Winnipeg today after one of the most spectacular and "darn lucky" — air rescues in the annals of western Canadian flying.

The light plane in which the Gary, Ind., serviceman and Mrs. Nelles took off from Chicago for his station at Churchill, Man., was forced down Friday at Water Hen Lake, 192 miles north of Winnipeg, when it ran into a storm.

From then until late Sunday, when a R.C.A.F. search craft sighted the upside-down plane and summoned its Dakota, which dropped supplies, the Nelles, neither of whom was injured, lived a "pretty miserable existence." They had only a blanket and their clothes to keep them warm.

"I think if it hadn't been for that dog, we'd have frozen to death," Nelles said.

A R.C.A.F. Norseman landed on the lake yesterday, took off the four and the dog and transferred them to a Dakota which brought them to Winnipeg last night.

R.C.A.F. officers said it was "darn lucky" they had spotted Nelles' plane.

3,000 PACKERS SWIFT CANADIAN PLANT ON STRIKE

Shops Across Country Will Feel Pinch By Beginning of Next Week

Toronto, Aug. 27 (CP)—The United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), denying charges by the Swift Canadian Company of a worker "slowdown" and in turn charging the company with a "lockout," today called 3,000 employees out on strike from Swift plants across Canada.

H. H. Stedman, general superintendent of the company charged the union with a "slowdown" in production. But P. J. Dowling, national director of the U.P.W.A. denied this and said excessive heat in some areas retarded production in Ontario.

In announcing the strike today, Dowling made it clear that it was precluded by company action in laying off employees at its New Westminster, B.C., plant and other workers in Toronto. He said the company had "suspended" these employees even while the union was "investigating the company's charges of slowdown activities."

The company's "slowdown" charge and the union's counter-charge of a "lockout" came while the union and company were negotiating for a new contract. The union sought wage increases to bring the Canadian basic rate to 92 cents an hour. In most of the plants the increase would be approximately 15 cents.

Union officials said the strike was precipitated when they termed a "lockout" yesterday at 126 company B.C. and Westminster plant and alleged suspension of 15 union officers and shop stewards at the plant in Toronto.

W. O. Pearson, general superintendent of the New Westminster plant, denied the workers had been locked out. He said they refused to work. Picket lines were thrown around the plant at noon yesterday.

In Toronto, A. E. Millard, Swift vice-president, said he had no comment on the strike call and added:

"As far as the company is concerned, it is business as usual operations."

A meeting had been scheduled for today between company and union officials.

The union spokesman said he estimated the strike would cut Canadian meat supplies 10 per cent per quarter within a week. He predicted that in favor of strike at butcher shops across the country will feel the pinch by the beginning of next week. Swifts is Canada's second largest meat packing company.

The other two members of the "Big Three" in the meat packing industry — Canada Packers and Burns and Co. — have reached terms with the union.

The U. P. W. A. policy committee also called a strike against Swift Canadian after union members voted in favor of strike at the company failed to meet union demands for a 40-hour week. The old contract expires Aug. 31.

Truck deliveries of meat to retail stores in Vancouver and New Westminster were suspended and loading of shipments for Great Britain halted yesterday, the union said.

N.S. RATIFIES TAX AGREEMENT WITH DOMINION

Legislature Prorogues After Giving Final Reading to Three Bills On the Question

Halifax, Aug. 27 (CP)—The Nova Scotia legislature prorogued its 1947 session today after giving final reading to three bills ratifying a $120,000,000 annual tax agreement with the Dominion.

In fewer than 25 minutes of the second day of a special sitting called to ratify the financial agreement, the bills pertaining to the agreement were given third reading.

The newly-appointed Lieutenant-Governor, J. A. D. McCurdy, pioneer airman from Baddeck, N.S., entered the chambers and gave his first short throne speech.

He congratulated the members for their attention during the session. His speech recalled that a new provincial labor code to remedy "conditions which arose during the war years" had been passed along with amendments to the old age pensions act, the elections act and the fisheries federation act.

His throne speech for the five-year agreement, which will give the province an estimated $3,000,000-$4,000,000 more annually than it would have without such a pact, was interrupted by applause as a special sitting of the 1947 session began.

Coincidentally, Attorney General J. H. MacQuarrie introduced the Meat Ration Reduced, Gas Restricted as in Wartime, Foreign Travel Curtailed

Compile List Of Imports Which May be Restricted

Ottawa, Aug 27 (CP)—Trade department officials have practically completed a list of imports which might be restricted from the United States should the government decide to impose restrictions as a means of conserving dwindling American dollar reserves, it was learned yesterday. One source said that motor cars made in the United States was one of the things which could probably count some under any import ban the government might decide to impose. All types of luxury goods as well could be affected.

Mother and Young Son Die of Gas Poisoning

Toronto, Aug. 27 (CP), —Mrs. Margaret Stage and her six-year-old son, Robert, were found dead in their home yesterday, victims of gas poisoning.

Double tragedy was discovered by the woman's husband, Charles, on his return from work. Police said Mrs. Stage, who had been in poor health for several years, turned on the four gas burners of a kitchen range and went back upstairs to her bedroom, taking her son from a cot and placing him in bed with her.

British Govt. Action Aimed At Saving $912,000,000

London, Aug. 27 (Reuters)—The British government tonight announced drastic economies in food, foreign travel and gasoline to save imports worth £228,000,000 ($912,000,000) annually.

The basic gasoline ration will be abolished altogether which means that use of automobiles will be possible, only, as it was during wartime, for essential purposes.

The meat ration will be reduced from one shilling two pence (24 cents) worth a person a week to one shilling (20 cents) worth. The £1 ration will not be raised above the present reduced level. Ration books must be surrendered after two nights in a hotel instead of four nights, restaurant supplies will be substantially cut and public dinners and luncheons will be curtailed.

Foreign travel restrictions, previously announced to take effect from Oct. 1, will be effective immediately and the business mens allowance for trips abroad of £10 ($40) a day will be brought down to £8 ($32) in certain countries.

Ordinary travellers will be restricted to £35 ($140) during the next 14 months instead of £75 ($300).

Importing of certain luxury items will be prohibited and a detailed list will be issued shortly.

No exchange will be available for travel outside the sterling area after Oct. 1 except for purposes explicitly approved by the exchange control.

Countries Cannot Spend Way To Prosperity Agriculture Minister Claims at Parley

By JAMES McCOOK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Geneva, Aug. 27 (CP) —Agriculture Minister Gardiner of Canada said in a blunt speech before the Food and Agriculture Organization Commission reviewing the world food situation today that he was out of sympathy with suggestions that countries could spend their way to prosperity.

He praised the United Kingdom assembly program.

"I think many things are being produced and money spent on them that we would be as well off without," the Minister said.

"We should have more money spent for food production and less spent for luxuries. Our essentials are food, clothing and shelter. We should consider them first, with defence taken into account shortly after.

"It would do us no harm if we were to spend more time reading the sermons of Knox and Calvin and not accept the talk of spending ourselves into prosperity as has been suggested several times here.

"The United Kingdom has tried to follow some of these lessons. It accepts austerity right here, instead of having some spending prosperity following and more austerity."

The minister said Canada supports F.A.O. proposals to increase world food production.

"I am strongly of the opinion that if we are to get greater production over the necessary period, we must guarantee the producers a reasonable return. If the consumers are to use the food we produce, we must provide it for a reasonable return rather than a higher return."

Pressed By Conditions

Mr. Gardiner spoke of the sparse Canadian population in farm areas adjacent to high-price markets in the United States. He said he "would visit the United Kingdom and European countries on the continent before returning to Canada and see the areas where Canada hopes to get immigrants she needs."

He said Canada dealt with outside countries in different

British Customs Thoroughly Search Liner Passengers

Southampton, Aug. 27. (AP) — British customs officials, invoking the government's new currency and jewelry regulations on travellers, methodically searched the luggage of 2,437 persons boarding the Queen Elizabeth yesterday and shattered precedent by searching several women passengers.

The strict examinations were the result of an order issued last week by the dollar-conserving government forbidding travellers from taking more than personal jewelry out of Britain without export licenses and limiting them to £5 ($20) in British money and £10 in other currency.

Twenty-two of the 24 indicted men were in the dock today. Max Brueggman, secretary of Farbens board of directors, was seriously ill with a heart ailment and Karl Wurster, a director, was recuperating from an operation. NIGHT RAIDERS PUT TORCH TO SMALL COTTAGE

Woman Who Turned in Alarm Refuses to Give Name For Fear of Reprisals

Nelson, B.C., Aug. 27 (CP)—Daring, defiant night raiders swooped down on the outskirts of this picturesque city on the shores of narrow Lake Kootenay late Monday and put the torch to a small room cottage to the ground.

The cottage, roughly finished on the outside with tar paper, had been untenanted for about two weeks. Owned by Louis Ferraro, the building was razed to the ground with a small quantity of furniture. Loss was about $1,000. It was the 24-hour fire total soaring above the $100,000 mark.

The alarm was turned in by an elderly lady who refused to give her name for fear of reprisals.

Standing well back under the trees, she told how a group of men she pleaded with newspaper reporters "please don't put my name in the paper."

"I certainly do not want to get picked up in this stuff. I have to go to hospital in November and I don't want to go earlier. Please—oh, please, do not use my name."

The lady said she came only two miles south of the centre of Nelson—believed to be one of the closest to the scene—in the 20-odd years of this mystifying, terror-ridden sect war.

The woman said that she was not able to see anyone at the scene of the fire. Like the three attacks earlier yesterday, there were no reports of the fleshy raiders being spotted.

The latest attack lent fresh emphasis to the intensive police investigation which has followed rejection of arson attacks that is holding the entire West Kootenay district in a state of tension.

Deputy B.C. Police Commissioner John Shirras conducted conferences with top police officials here later today, to review the situation following Monday's outbreak. He arrived here last night on a special report to the situation to Attorney General Gordon Wismer.

DRIVE RESULTS IN CLOSING OF 34 RESTAURANTS

Public Eating Places in Toronto Found to be in Unsanitary Condition

Toronto, Aug. 27 (CP)—Toronto's campaign to clean up the city's 900-odd public eating places got results today with the closing of 34 restaurants for unsanitary conditions and prosecutions against 38 others and focussed public attention on a problem which has also caused concern by provincial health authorities.

The problem is how to ensure that restaurant operators keep their premises clean as is humanly possible in kitchens, back yards and washrooms as well as "front window" sections. While the Ontario Department of Health has been working on a new set of regulations for restaurants, this city's health department has only five weeks of a "clean up or shut up" campaign with its restaurants safe for patrons.

The first move in the drive was the publication of articles in the Toronto Globe and Mail—was a quick action by restaurants by 30 nurses sent out by Mayor Robert H. Saunders. One-third of places inspected were found unsatisfactory. As a result, 72 of the 34 closed for inspection's was transferred to "other duties" and the inspection system suddenly tightened up.

Regulations under consideration include yesterday's announcement that from now on inspectors will be moved into districts every three months, and a recent request by Mayor Saunders for a law requiring establishments closed for unsanitariness to post a notice to that effect. A number of restaurants closed have merely hung up signs reading "Closed for a few days," or "Will open under new management."

Main target when the drive began was not condition of waste rooms many of which were dirty and neglected, but with a dozen times every aspect of catering came under scrutiny.

Inspectors now check washrooms, stoves, ventilators and garage facilities and see that walls and floors everywhere are clean. They must not take swabs of plates and cutlery in their war on germs but they carefully check dishwashing methods on the theory that clean water means clean dishes. Under a special report to the minister who has a cracked dish in the house.

Believes Japan Will Eventually Seek to Embark on Another War

Ottawa, Aug 27 (CP)—Belief that Japan eventually will seek to embark on another war was expressed today by Hon. A. A. Calwell, Australian Minister of Immigration.

"I think the black dragon will rise again," he told reporters. "I believe that five years' occupation won't be enough to make the Japanese forget what I believe the greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere will be tried again by the Japanese.

"I feel Japan could easily refashion her war machine and once the war lords get control again, there is more likely to go that way than any other."

Mr. Calwell, in shopping for immigration purposes, Mr. Calwell said a Canadian Steamship Company had agreed to make ships available in 1948 for a period of not less than three years for immigration between the United States and Australia.

Australia's objective was to receive 70,000 immigrants in the present 7,500,000 to 30,000,000 in the next 15 years, he explained, but she was not in the market for Asiatics.

"It would be improper for me," he said, "to try to induce people to go from one under-populated Dominion to another.

"I just would like to join in helping Canada get people from the United Kingdom."

Mr. Calwell said he would see Prime Minister King about now bringing immigrants from the United Kingdom by air, later this week.

CHILD IS BITTEN ON FACE BY DOG

Two-year-old Lawrence Cain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Cain, 142 Station Street, suffered a nasty bite on his face over the weekend when he was attacked by a Labrador Retriever owned by a friend of his. The little lad was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital where he received 30 stitches in the wound.

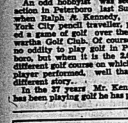
The dog was taken up by the city poundkeeper Thomas Thorne and after examination by a veterinary will be held under observation for nine days to determine if the dog is suffering from rabies.

This is the second child which the above dog is alleged to have bitten within the past few days as the other complaint dealt with a lad received a minor bite while playing in Memorial Park.

START ANGLING CAREERS EARLY

Apparently they believe in starting their angling careers early in life out around Marmora, according to reports of some anglers in those parts. Everyone knows old Jackie Black of that village recently landed a huge muskellunge and not to be outdone 14-year-old Douglas Snapp, also of Marmora, hooked and landed an eleven-pound muskie, thus proving that father can actually land 'em when they're biting.

GOLFER HAS PLAYED ON 2,638 COURSES



An odd golfer was seen in action in Peterboro last Sunday when Ralph A. Kennedy, New York City golfer, travelling, played a game of golf over the Kawartha Golf Club. Of course it's no oddity to play golf in Peterboro, but what is the 2,638th different golf course on which the player performed, well that's a different story.

In the 37 years Mr. Kennedy has been playing golf he has played over 3,638 different courses, the Kawartha course being his 2,638th. He has also had more than 500,000 or about 510,000 golf strokes to his credit, estimated on occasions in Robert Ripley's "believe it or not" category.

Algae Conditions at Purification Plant Worst Since 1934-36

Literally billions of microscopic algae organisms—some of which reproduce one million for each ounce are seeping through intakes at the Belleville Water Purification Plant, into the sand bottoms of filters and causing the clogging of thousands of gallons of water per hour through the filter beds, it was disclosed this week by Water Superintendent Ernest Stafford.

Mr. Stafford said that the condition of algae in the water is the worst since July 1934 and 1936. Yesterday 711,500 gallons of water were used to clean the four filters of the obstruction. Thirty-six hours backwashing was necessary, or nearly ten per filter during the 24 hours. The average run of the filters was 2.4 hours between the back washes.

This necessitated a heavy drain on the emergency water resources which total 3,000,000 gallons but 321,300 gallons were used from this source, still leaving adequate reserve to the city. Water level in the reservoir dropped from 14 feet to 12 feet during this period.

The plant capacity is not sufficient to take care of the city needs at the present time without resorting to reservoir supplies, Mr. Stafford explained, and there is no relief in sight, as yet, apparent, Steve Gallenagh.

The plant was built in 1932 and in the city yesterday was 3,118,000 gallons, which with the 700,000 gallons used by Trenton and Frankford, totalled 3,818,000 gallons. Power, through the total gallonage to go through the plant was 4,518,000.

It is believed, however, that the condition is at its peak at the present time. The last occurrence of trouble was in August 19th when 10 back washes of filters were required. On August 20th the number had increased to 18 and the next day to 31. Plant officials stated that the condition would probably exist for the next two weeks, but no permanent relief.

Comparative figures revealed that in the month of August when the water is clear only two backwashes daily are necessary with a gallonage of 65,000 used for the purpose.

Industrial Conditions

Presence of the organisms in increased quantities in the plant officials believe, to the abnormal water temperatures, high temperature of the water which has been hovering in the vicinity of 75 degrees for some time, and the presence of food, especially sewage, for the algae.

Lot of Milk Being Produced At Exhibition

Toronto, Aug. 27 — (CP) — There's a lot of milk being produced in the livestock building at the Canadian National Exhibition but the only benefactors are the offspring of the producers themselves. Now with most of the dairy herds drying off for the C.N.E. judging competition moved into the grounds, milk production has reached a peak.

Feeding the milk to young calves is different from the days of the last "Ex" in 1941 and before. That was the time when a cash customer could walk into the livestock building with an empty bottle, glass or pail for container, milking time and pick up as much milk as they wanted.

And now if the calves can't drink all the milk their mothers produce, the balance is tested and pasteurized and then is sold to the dairy of the herd-owner's choice.

By last night nearly all of the 1,200 cattle entered in the judging had arrived at their stalls in the huge livestock building. Dairy classes judging is slated for Thursday and Friday, while other cattle classes will be judged Aug. 29, and Sept. 3.

Beef cattle are nearly all arrived and contrary to the custom has seen more than 1,000,000 Ibs. of straw purchased and strewn in the stalls.

Dog Found Alive After Being Without Food, Water for 15 Days

The old adage of it being an ill wind which blows no one good goes double for Mr. Ernest Lang, 90 Catherine Street, residing in Quinte Heights who this week had a lost dog returned by reason of the family clothes being washed.

More than two weeks ago Mr. Lang's fine Airedale, Mr. Bruce Bell terrier disappeared with a number of other family and neighbors failing to bring any light as to the dog's whereabouts. A description appeared in the local newspaper also was fruitless and as time went on the family despaired of the pet being returned.

But over the weekend the Lang clothesline broke and in the process of repairing the line the dog was discovered caught by a trailing rope between a garage and another building at the rear of the Lang property. "Although missing for 15 days and without food or water the dog was still alive but in a pitifully weak condition.

In order to keep the dog off the street it had been necessary to tie him to the verandah with a rope. The rope apparently had been caught when the dog later been caught between the two buildings.

The mystery of the whole thing is that the dog's owners were not heard, commented a neighbor this morning as he related the incident. The dog was only a very short distance from the house and barking or no noise was heard."

Now arrangements for special foods the Lang dog is fully expected to recover from his accidental imprisonment.

Television Popular At the Exhibition

Toronto, Aug. 27 (CP)—Canadians are enthusiastic about television in the opinion of television experts at the Canadian National Exhibition to show the public that television is on the daily entertainment stage. Visitors to the "Ex" are getting their first taste of "real television" right from the exposition grounds.

A major manufacturer has a truck-sending set-up which is telephoning major events results and other attractions. Receivers on the front of everyone's exhibit are the centre of constant attention.

Asked what he meant by "real television," the expert said the transmitter and receivers were not hooked up by wires as was the case in the other television exhibits in Canada previously.

"This is the first time television has been so transmitted in Canada," the radio company official said, "and the purpose of this exhibit is to keep the public informed as to the state of television today and prove that it is definitely out of laboratory stages."

With no commercial licences in Canada, there are no television programs and hence no receivers for sale in the country. However, there are about 200,000 Canadians living within receiving range of Detroit stations and there is no embargo or importing receiving sets.

Offers $500,000 Reward For Ogopogo's Capture

Kelowna, B.C., Aug. 27—(CP) Unofficially a lot of money — $500,000 would give a lot of money, they say, for one good look at Ogopogo, the Okanagan Valley's famed sea monster.

Officially James Edgar, owner-manager of the Sparks Circus yesterday offered $500,000 reward — not for a look at the elusive hump-backed, hairy headed creature but for his capture or information leading to his capture alive.

Sketchy tales about "Ogopogo being seen making headway in Lake Okanagan have tantalized valley residents and tourists for years. If and when he is handed over, the circus plans to exhibit him in its menagerie.

Premier Drew Announces New Training Course

Toronto, Aug. 27. (CP)—Premier Drew as Minister of Education announced last night that a course to be known as physical education and citizenship for boys will replace the cadet training courses throughout Ontario schools for boys.

The Premier said that the revision was necessitated by a reduction in the cadet training program of the Department of National Defence.

The girls' course in physical and health education in Ontario schools will remain unchanged and the time allotment for the new course for boys will be the same as the present cadet and citizenship corps training will replace the cadet training course.

The Premier said that schools may continue to conduct cadet corps but in the cadet training will of necessity be limited to a voluntary activity outside of school hours. Membership in a cadet corps will exempt pupils from participation in the course of citizenship corps training.

The decision to set up the new course followed discussions by legislation between the province and the Defence Department which began with an Ottawa announcement that Ontario henceforth would have only 6,000 cadets. Strength of the cadet movement in the province totalled 30,000.

Premier Drew recently announced his intention to re-establish cadet training in Ontario Secondary Schools on the same scale as in the last year, despite the federal curtailment order.

Britain May Resume Talks On Trade Pact

London, Aug. 27 (AP) — The Daily Express said today the British government is "planning to resume talks for a trade pact with Russia."

Soviet diplomats have revealed to the Swedish delegation now in Moscow that Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Soviet talks will start up again soon," the newspaper said.

The paper said Sir Stafford Cripps, President of the Board of Trade, advised British manufacturers "to build up a 'pool' of goods for Russia" so that Britain could speak with more authority about the prospects of delivering the heavy goods Russia wants in payment for wheat, timber and canned fish she is selling the Soviet fruitless Moscow talks.

After the Moscow talks broke down, Harold Wilson, chief British negotiator, said the failure was caused by excessive Soviet demands for scaling down British and Western credits. But the Moscow radio said the talks failed because the British could not promise the delivery of goods.

19 American Republics Join In Defence Treaty

Quitandinha, Brazil, Aug. 29 — (AP)—Brazilian authorities whipped up plans today for the formal signing ceremony Friday in Rio de Janeiro's glittering Itamaraty Palace of an inter-American defense treaty under which 19 American republics will agree to fight jointly against any aggression in the western hemisphere.

A high Brazilian government source said the inter-American Defense Board meeting of Ministers at this resort was expected to wind up next Monday.

Conference committees yesterday approved more than two-thirds of the body of the projected defence treaty, which calls for mutual assistance to put down aggression in a vast "security region" stretching from the Antarctic to the Arctic and from Hawaii to the Falklands.

The security zone includes Alaska and Greenland as well as Canada, Brazil, Argentina, Chile and the United States. It specifies that Canada might later join as a signatory of the treaty. The way was open for her to do so.

Creation of a joint military mechanism was undertaken at Bogota next January, when the American Republics meet again to broaden and strengthen the inter-American system of peace co-operation. Only a bolstered hemisphere economic system will be sought in a special conference late in 1958.

All of the American Republics except Nicaragua, which was not invited to this conference, and Ecuador, whose status here is in doubt because of a weekend revolution at Quito, approved last night the United States sponsored proposals for a treaty making binding each of the nations to join in fighting aggression in the western hemisphere's "security zone."

Happy Days Are Comming, Children! School Opens Next Tuesday at 9

Every school student in the city will be happy to know that the boredom of holidays will be over for them on Tuesday September 2, at 9.00 a.m., when the cheery notes of the school bell will herald another term, through the kindness of officials in the Department of Education, school is starting on the earliest date possible so that every pupil will have ample opportunity to enjoy the benefits of a full year of study and hard work.

Pupils in the elementary schools will find the curriculum scarcely changed from former years. Two new classrooms have been added to the Queen Mary School and two additional teachers have been employed. There will be another teacher added to the staff of the Queen Victoria school.

Higher Enrollment

Thirty pupils who are living on the air station grounds at Mt. View will be accommodated in city schools this year. The total enrollment for elementary schools in the city is up over last year. School officials state that although there will be no crowding in the classes all facilities will be utilized and the schools full.

More than nine hundred students are expected to enroll at the Belleville Collegiate—setting a record enrollment. Forty-two students are expected to register from North Thurlow, most of them in the Industrial and Agricultural courses. They will be transported to the school each day by special bus.

Those registering for the Commercial course will find many changes. Business machines, dictaphone, calculator, and others, have been, or will be, installed. A course of instruction in the operation of the machines will be given as an extra. A commercial course in salesmanship has been added to the Commercial School.

Two Grade 9 Classes

The grade 9 Commercial class which was opened last year has to be expanded. This year there will be two grade 9 classes.

In the general course for matriculation, geography has been stipulated as an option for French. This option will not entitle the student to university entrance but it will give him a matriculation certificate.

Anticipating the large registration, school officials have employed another teacher and if sufficient warrant a second addition to the staff will be made. Two new classrooms have been opened. One is the room formerly used as the staff room and the other was the former Board of Education room. The Board is now located in the King George School.

Better Supplies Reported

School supplies, such as pencils, note paper, erasers, and milk shakes — are in good supply, report local merchants. The price of books has risen approximately 12% but the supply is the best since the balmy days of 1939. B.S. (before shortages).

ways, a policy often forced by conditions. Practical international policies to cover multilateral trade arrangements still had to be developed. Canada had to consider the possibility of surpluses along with increased production. Many surpluses had been due to dependence on the chance of higher prices, a system which often left the producers worse off after the harvest than if they had never produced at all.

Want Returns Stabilized

"We are not asking higher returns but we want some arrangement to stabilize our returns over a considerable period, either by increased population at home—we think we have room for a population double the present within a period of, say, 10 years —or by entering multilateral agreements like those contemplated by F.A.O."

Proposals for multilateral agreements would be received favorably in Canada, he said, as it was thought that arrangements of that kind would ensure producers being able to market their products at reasonable prices for a reasonable time.

But Canada had been compelled to follow another method. The Dominion was closely associated with the United Kingdom.

"And we hope we always will be," he added.

Apart from historical associations, Canada felt the United Kingdom gave a secure market for Canadian products under bilateral agreements through which Canada sold food for long-term periods, often at prices lower than could be obtained in the United States.

N.S. RATIFIES

a bill with the cumbersome title: "An act respecting the delegation of jurisdiction from the parliament of Canada to the legislature of Nova Scotia and vice versa."

Mr. MacQuarrie asked that the bill, which might settle questions where divided authority now existed in matters such as taxation, labor and marketing, be allowed to stand pending a test of its validity in the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia.

Emphasizing that the Dominion-Provincial pact, reached after 11 months of negotiation, was temporary and "purely financial," Premier Angus L. Macdonald said the money it provided would be spread over the various governmental services and sums placed in a contingency reserve.

No Premise Given

Neither the Premier nor the Attorney General who also is Municipal Affairs Minister gave any premise how the municipalities might share in the deal but a resolution by municipal governments for a "general discussion" was forecast for the near future.

Mr. MacQuarrie stressed the point that the question of distributing money should not be the main matter at the conference. The matter of which government could best serve the citizens should be paramount.

The Attorney General did not explain in the House the bill by which he hoped to get a definite "yes" or "no" from the courts whether the delegation of power from the parliament of Canada to the legislature of the province or vice versa is permissible under the B.N.A. Act.

But at a press conference later he recalled that during the depression "remedial action on the part of the Dominion and Provinces was severely handicapped by the rigidity of the Canadian constitution."

His bill, if moved valid in the courts, would enable the Dominion and Nova Scotia—and all the other provinces if accepted by them—to exchange authority in certain matters as between provinces and Dominion when and where it was deemed advisable by mutual consent.

The Battle of The Hemline

Down in Dallas, Texas, they are having a spot of trouble. It seems that 1,300 Texas women are so proud of their legs they are ready to rebel against the longer skirt fad. Anyway they have organized themselves into a group known as the "Little below the Knees Club", the President of which is Mrs. Warren J. Woodard, a Dallas housewife. Mrs. Woodard is a young attractive woman and dotes on the fashion style. It can be imagined the husbands of many of these married "rebels" will applaud their wives' action and it will not be all from an economic standpoint either. We leave it to our male readers which they would prefer—skirts reaching well to the ground or leave them as they have been for the past several years (nearly) or better, those who asked this question in the news room. We like expert opinion and knew we could get it promptly from those masters on questions of the day—the gentlemen who devote you the day-to-day happenings in the world of sport—and we got the answer we expected. Kill the fashion leaders who dare to change the happy state of affairs. Shorten their skirts indeed, the rather glancing after without any thought that all good things generally come to an end sometime.

Little did we suspect what new foolishness was being cooked up in the fashion centres of Paris and New York nor what it would mean to us as an economic matter. Most women, after all, are only human and being unlike that group in Texas would rather be caught dead than wearing clothing that is definitely dated. So now what are they going to do? They are likely to cut down on their food bills, amusements, and maybe even cut down their contributions to their favorite welfare organizations just so they may be able to buy the clothing. Skirts and coats of which, will reach within ten inches of the ground. It's hard to say that ramifications the new styles will lead to unless something is done to halt the trend.

What would we do? Well, an imaginary one-sided conversation in any man's home might go like this: "So that's your new outfit is it, dear? . . . It seems a little short to me but then I don't know much about such things. I rather liked that little number you had on last night. It sure seemed more graceful . . . you don't intend to be out of style when all your friends are wearing the new styles . . . oh well, in that case perhaps it is just as what you should have . . . oh, you've bought it. I guess there isn't much use of my saying anything more. You look swell."

We fear the ladies in Dallas are fighting a losing battle.

Mr. Drew Started Something

When Ontario's Premier George Drew, stepping over Federal red tape and indecision, arranged on his own to fly British immigrants to Canada, there was tendency in some quarters to sneer at the scheme. Mr. Drew was going to get his fingers burned in something he didn't understand.

Well, Mr. Drew has brought and is bringing immigrants to Ontario, and the energetic example he has set has stirred Ottawa out of its lethargy. As any rate, we have Reconstruction Minister Howe coming back from Europe to announce that several thousands of displaced persons will shortly be brought here, with some of them coming by plane, and that efforts to get other immigrants will be stepped up sharply.

Here's hoping that the Ottawa Journal that the "mopping up" will be in charge of Mr. Howe, who is this newspaper's nomination for our immigration job—this whether as a part of the task of reconstruction, which it has become necessary already, or under action that would see him as Minister of Resources. As a politician, Mr. Howe may have his shortcomings, but he seems to have the "know-how" of practical action, with no one denying his great heart and vigor for Canada.

"It Was Our Privilege"

Citizens of Memphis, Tenn., who picked up their copies of the daily Commercial Appeal a few days ago found the leading editorial devoted to a tribute to a Negro.

It was no eulogy of a Carver or a Booker Washington—just a simple obituary to a fellow citizen whom many of its readers had known. It was headed: Alonzo Locke, Friend. And its words of commemoration were the kind that makes the heart glow . . . and linger.

Alonzo Locke, it seems, had long been head waiter at one of Memphis's hotels. As "Alonzo of the Peabody" he was known. He had learned early, said the editorial, "what too many never seem to learn—that any work is honorable . . . He served without losing servile . . . His success was not attained at sacrifice of human dignity."

After paying high praise of his contributions to better race relations, the obituary closed with that highest tribute of them all: "It was our privilege to have long known and called him friend."

There may be many outside the South who will be puzzled that the same region out of which can come such injustices to Negroes as the Greenville mob acquittals and the Georgia road camp massacre can also produce so touching an epitaph to a Negro as the feature of a metropolitan newspaper's editorial page. Southerners will understand a little better. But those who will stop to think may be a bit puzzled too. For the fact of the matter is, the whole fabric of the American nation is woven in two-tone, with contradictions of group frictions and personal regards.

That there could be an Alonzo Locke with his multitude of white friends is a heartening thing. But such mutuality of affection and respect across the color line is no isolated phenomenon. Many a Southern community can cite parallels. In this one fact lies much of the hope for the future. —(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

A Tall, Straight Tree

A news story from Halifax records the arrival there of a tall, straight British Columbia fir tree. It arrived loaded on three flat cars, to make the new flagpole for the City Hall.

The story did not say whether the timber was sawn, or still in the log, and we are left to guess at the dimensions. It is safe to guess that this is a very tall, straight stick.

But not necessarily of a prodigious girth. For a flagpole you especially need a tree that holds its diameter well, a tree well grown in company, where the competition is mainly upwards towards the sun.

It is getting on towards evening of the day of the tall timbers. But there are still active loggers who can remember when it was not very unusual to find fir timbers 36 inches through, and taller by 150 feet.

They used to load them on the Fraser, on the old windjammers, through a hole cut in the bows of the ship. They went to Europe to provide the keelsons of the last of the wooden ships.

Still, that 128-ft. flagpole for Halifax City Hall would hardly have been cut out of less than 200-ft. tree, a fine, straight tree, a very wonderful thing—Vancouver Daily Province.

BEDLAM

They say that bedlam is a place where reason seems to fall
And riotous confusion and destruction wild prevail.
The word describes a madhouse, but I know a happier case
Where from breakfast unto bedtime riot fairly fills the place.
For be bedlam noise and shrieking, then it's music when I should say
That is in a summer cottage on a cold and rainy day.

When the rain beats at the windows and the wind in anger roars
And the mother tells the children they must spend the day indoors,
There's no madhouse time can equal the confusion and the noise
And the screaming and the laughter of a pack of girls and boys.
And if bedlam be confusion, though it's only done in play,
That's what happens in a cottage on a cold and rainy day.

I wonder who the Briton was who gave us such a word,
And what was his experience when first the thought occurred?
Did it happen in a madhouse, as the dictionaries state?
If it did, I know a dwelling where the clamor's just as great.

Bedlam fills a summer cottage till in bed they're tucked away
When the mother tells the children they must stay indoors to play.

"The stones couldn't have been much — everybody is conscientious her on being jilted."

Three Missing Tugboat Men Are Rescued

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 27—(AP) — Three missing tugboat men were rescued from Lake Huron late yesterday about two hours after their skipper was found dead in the same area.

The bodies ended a wide-spread water and aerial search by private craft, the United States coast guard, Air fliers from the army's Selfridge Field air base.

After the big operation Charles Dickenson, 45, of Alpena, Mich., state of near-exhaustion by C. J. Fridell, 23, and James L. Bauer, 17, a student, nearby residents of crip-crossed the area in small boats in search of the missing crew members.

Seven-a four - year - old Alex Arieel and his grandson. James Warren, 15 were found by Harold Fridell, father of the first rescuer, and Anton Nielson. The fourth member of the crew, Clayton Scell, 40 was found by the life preserver about 200 yards distant.

Unable to take all three aboard due to the size of their small outboard motor cost, Nielson and Fridell returned Arieel and his grandson to the boat and paddled rode but and rescued Scell.

Nielson and Arieel were slumped over a dozen or so life preservers which the rescued men had tied together before their craft sank early yesterday.

Warren was clinging to the preservers with one hand and holding his grandfather's head above the carious perch with the other.

"Grandpa was worried but I knew we'd be rescued," Warren declared. He and the whole crew had been within sight of shore all day westerday but were unable to attract attention.

The quartet embarked in the tug Monday, bent on towing a cotton steel scow to St. Ignace. Heavy seas caused the weighty scow to pull the back of the tug.

Warren said "the waves finally dented in somebody." The group first used a dozen life preservers together, to wave its clinging points and each donned an individual life preserver.

Negro Committed For Trial On Murder Charge

Kingston, Aug. 27. (CP) — Leon Stafford Clifford Harper, Ga., Negro, was committed for trial by Magistrate J. B. Garvin yesterday on a charge of murdering Lena Harrison, 22-year-old Kingston and Toronto man, who died of a stab-wound in the heart following a dice game in Lake Ontario Park here, Aug. 3rd.

Testimony showed that a fight followed the game.

Ida Harrison of Kingston, sister-in-law of the victim, testified that Harper became angry when Stafford, who had been winning, refused to leave the game.

She said Harrison hit Stafford and knocked him to the ground and then led a group of men in chasing the Negro and a companion, John Harrison of Talladega, Fla., and Alexandria Bay, N.Y.

Harrison, witness said, caught up with Stafford and knocked him to the ground twice more as he was walking toward the Negro a third time when he suddenly stumbled, stepped several steps and collapsed.

Prospects Good For Fall Flow Of Amber Honey

Shelburne, Ont., Aug. 27. — (CP)—Close on the heels of a prediction by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that Canada's 1947 honey production will reach an all-time high of 41,862,000 pounds comes more cheering news from this hub-producing district where apiarists say the Fall flow of amber honey will be excellent.

And amber honey—often called "buckwheat"—has been gaining in popularity, the beekeepers say. Once considered the chaff of fare, the humble buckwheat now is preferred by many, claim those who should know—the men who produce and market it.

Experimental colleges have found buckwheat honey, with its high mineral content, more nutritious than the clear variety. And many doctors, in their prescriptions claim, it's actually a boon to hay fever victims. Medical research has discovered, they say, that hay fever sufferers who take a small spoonful daily throughout the Fall and Winter generally find their ailment much relieved, because the body has managed to build up immunity through the nectar in its manufacture.

The present widespread popularity of honey is largely attributed to war-time restrictions which hit hardest the refined sugar "sweet tooth". Honey sales boomed during the war, when people turned to honey as a temporary substitute for sugar—now are consuming it as a habit.

Speaking of sugar, bees are not a big problem to farmers in Winter. A colony, which may number from 50,000 to 100,000 bees, gobbles up 15 to 20 pounds in the winky months and then is ready in the Spring with upward of 300 colonies must buy some three tons of sugar to keep their bees from starving to death during their long winter sleep.

But in return the busy beesbuilt up summer stores which are not a "normal" production pace of 100 pounds of honey to the colony. The 100 pounders are a plus over what the colony needs to feed its own members.

May Add Whaling To Manitoba's List Of Industries

Winnipeg, Aug. 27 (CP)—Whaling may be added to Manitoba's list of industries if a scheme now currently being conducted at a Winnipeg packinghouse proves successful.

The experiment involves 16 cubic feet of whale meat, 16 feet in length—brought here in special cars from Prince Rupert, Churchill, Man. They had been harvested in the waters of Hudson Bay, Churchill River, where the icy waters of the northern stream flow into Hudson Bay.

The packinghouse company (Canada Packers) is testing the mammals for their oil. Officials say the meat is also edible, and as high grade oil for lubricating purposes, for soaps, paints and watches, while the blubber can be utilized in the manufacture of glue.

The residue of the whales probably will be used for fertilizer, although with treatment it could be used for human consumption as has been done recently in Britain, it is claimed. Officials say the whale meat, in taste and appearance, is similar to beef, while Churchill Mar., resembles mushrooms somewhat in taste, in flavor, although the latter could be obtained.

Although the packinghouse company officials have not said that they will commercialize the product if necessarily meant a steady flow of the fish, a pound flow of the fish, a pound Hudson Bay" to Winnipeg it is believed that if the experiment is successful they will prove successful attempts will be made to develop a whaling industry here.

Fake too Much For Mayor Cox

Port Arthur, Aug. 27 (CP) — When Mayor Cox "shot the iron lung" got up and went downtown for a steak dinner it was too much for Mayor Toronto Jones, who assailed midway shows at the recent Northwestern Canadian Exhibition of 1947 in a speech before the Port Arthur council Monday night.

The alleged stage-setting activities of midway features in an "iron lung" display at the fair was the target of Mayor Toronto Jones' attack. Mayor Cox. People could see a genuine "iron lung" at the local hospital which worked without the accompanying "thunder" of the midway models. And the conduct of the midway in general, he declared, was "disgraceful."

Ald. George Wardrope, President of the Exhibition Board defended the midway. Adults, he said weren't fooled by the fun of the fair.

AFTER ALL, YOU DON'T KNOW HOW TO LIVE

The fake education provided in school and college is not the teacher's fault. It is the fault of educators, superintendents, members of school boards and the like. In some instances they are to blame for failure to understand the value and importance of education in fields beyond their own limited vision.

For the life of me I can't see any justification for the cost of the public schools towards teaching parents such vitally essential things as embryology, maternity, maternity, childbirth and care of the baby.

What good is education anyway, if it doesn't even try to teach you how to live?

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

So It Hurt to Grow?

My children, aged five and seven, both complain a lot and sometimes cry at night with leg pains. Is it because they are growing pains. Must they just endure them?—Mrs. W. J. W.

Answer—It never hurts to grow and rapid growth may forewarn disease or illness. Common cause of the trouble is taking food stamps or envelope bearing your address, for pamphlet "Growing Pains." In elderly adults the condition is more common in the legs at night.

MILK

Troubled with chronic bronchitis for many years. I read of milk, but drugless doctor advises milk forms mucus and therefore should be excluded. (B. K.)

Answer—In your place I'd continue drinking all the milk I wanted. If you have any trouble about it, play, omitting it from your diet for a week or two weeks and see whether you are better without it.

REST AND SLEEP

Too many elderly persons retire to bed at the first intimation they remain in bed ten hours—and think of it—twenty hours—of sleep is enough.——(M. D.)

Answer—Quite right. I think six hours of sleep is enough for most people past sixty, and some can get along with less. But if they do much physical work, they need more sleep.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP.

It is by no means easy some times to distinguish between, say, the professions of the farm, between professions and other callings by reference to the earn living. Nowadays we speak of the teaching staff, the military, and theatrical profession, and even the diplomacy of the world, but we still refer to the oldest profession in the world" as that what entitles a person to be called a "professor" is hard to say. In Canada the term "professor" is generally restricted to teachers of the highest grade who have been paid to colleges and universities and who hold rank as professors in the department or school and above that of "assistant professor." All such ranks are designated and formally conferred by the college authorities on common parlance however, the title is applied loosely to any person who has attained rank. Even a country schoolmaster, by virtue of his teaching, is called "professor". The title is applied also, more or less humorously, to magicians.

Community Service Stressed By Rev. Raymond McCleary To Members of Kiwanis Club

The value of community service work in assisting to mould and direct the lives of today's young people who are destined to be tomorrow's citizens was emphasized to members of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville when at their regular weekly luncheon meeting at Bridge's Cafeteria they were addressed by Rev. Raymond McCleary of Woodsview United Church of Toronto.

A native of Ireland, Mr. McCleary was educated in Canada and for nineteen years Woodsview United Church has taken a keen interest in the development of the Woodbine Community Centre which will see its official opening this autumn.

All his life having taken an interest in summer camp and community work, Mr. McCleary stated he had had his first bicycle into camp life under the Scout section of the Y.M.C.A. secretary at Belleville. This had been back in 1922 when he had worked at Pine Grove Camp, 25 miles from Toronto, under the direction of Mr. Sherrit. He paid tribute to Mr. Sherrit as a hard worker and a man who had shown him the worth of camp work in moulding the lives of future citizens.

Must Give Wide Viewpoint

The necessity of learning to live with one's neighbors and with other people in the community, was stressed by the speaker.

"The way might have been tough, but the peace is tougher still," he said. "We must learn to live with our neighbors. All this talk of a brand new world is just so much rotten misery unless we can occur ourselves to live with each other."

He talk about the Russian iron curtain, but we have iron curtains in our own communities We have our own packs and groups opposed to each other's interests. Talking of a new and better world is the world's worst form of hypocrisy if we cannot have one Belleville, or one neighborhood."

Groundwork Necessary

Proper groundwork was necessary if young people were to grow up with the right ideas of community spirit and with the right ideas of life.

"And if you want to put an idea across you must start with the young people. Hitler was smart in this respect. He placed full emphasis on training youth in the Nazi doctrine."

The speaker referred briefly to the Woodbine Community Centre project, where facilities for the entire family were planned. Through their own initiative residents of the area had raised $200,000 to go into the district, this to be matched by $100,000 city funds, in the area where the centre is being built there were playgrounds, swimming pool facilities to serve a population of 15,000 people.

Walter Zeaton, Kiwanis Camp supervisor at Roblin Lake gave a report of camp activities during the summer showing that over 900 boys and girls had enjoyed camp facilities during the holiday. Suggestions for the betterment of the camp and for increasing its accommodation and service were forwarded by the camp supervisor.

Commendable Job

"The Kiwanis Club should be justly proud of what it is doing at Roblin Lake," he said. "Their objective in showing young boys and girls a better way of living is a commendable job."

The guest speaker was introduced by Taylor Franklin with club appreciation being given by Mark Vanner. President Jack White was in the chair.

During the meeting Jack Marsh reported on the hope chest project, expressing appreciation to all who had worked for its success, while Harry Trepanier, as general chairman of the Kiwanis Carnival expressed his appreciation to members and others who contributed to the success of this project.

New Soapless VEL Speeds Baby's Laundry

by Frances Thompson
noted homemaking authority

Here's good news for mothers! The new soapless VEL helps speed the daily job of washing baby clothes. Why?—because it quickly lifts out dirt and if you don't use too much (rather than you would of soap), it makes rinsing easier, as the soapy residue is irritate tender skin.

VEL IS MILD AND GENTLE

VEL is so mild and gentle it is safe to use for all babies' garments regardless of fabric. Unlike soap, VEL contains no alkali so it is kind to your hands. Its very slight perfume keeps baby clothes fresh and sweet.

VEL FOR BABY'S WOOLENS

Right from the start use VEL for baby's woolens. You'll be delighted how soft and fluffy they keep. Always wash and rinse woolens in mild-soapy warm water. Don't rub or twist, just squeeze. A mere whip agitation in the care of infants' woolies. VEL is long granuled, lifting over for washing baby clothes. It leaves no soap film to irritate baby's skin. Use VEL for washing and rinsing time. It saves

Flavor you can't be without

DIFFERENT FROM SOAP

Don't expect VEL to act like soap—it is not, soap but does an equally good job—better job of cleansing. Always put VEL into lukewarm water before you add the water over it. You'll probably find that the baby's hands will not remain but every drop of your clear VEL solution has amazing cleaning power. VEL dissolves completely even in lukewarm water and it's easy! You'll never go back to using soaps again."

napkins as white and soft, woolens as fluffy as when new, and clothes as sweet as sunshine. Try VEL

Food Parcels To Britain Approach Wartime Heights

Ottawa, Aug. 27 (CP)—Bolstering private parcel shipments to United Kingdom friends of Canadians, the flow of food parcels to austerity-hampered Britain has undergone a "recruiting" drive, nearing wartime heights, post office department officials said yesterday.

While total figures are not available the weight of food and gift parcels mailed so far this year has outstripped the 1946 figure of 18,000,000 pounds, and the department is expecting further increases. The 1946 figure was itself a sharp increase over normal business of pre-war years.

Representations were made some time ago to the United Kingdom for a further reduction in parcel post rates, an official said. The British government however could not see its way clear to make reductions because it felt this would be subsidizing postage for the privileged few who send parcels. Postal authorities here said today that the next move is up to the United Kingdom.

Latest statistics show that during the year 1944—the last full year of shipments to overseas overseas—the Canadian postal corps handled a record volume of over 58,500,000 letters. More than 10,500,000 parcels were sent to prisoners of war along with 1,400,000 pounds of news.

Regarding present rates, as compared with those of the last few years, there has been an appreciable reduction in parcel post charges from Canada to the United Kingdom.

The previous rate up to Jan. 1, 1947, was 8 cents for the first pound. After that, up to 10 pounds the charge was 18 cents. From 10 to 15 pounds the rate had been $2.50 per parcel and from 15 to 20 pounds, $3 a parcel.

present parcel post rates are 25 for the first pound with a 15 cent rise up to nine pounds. The 10th pound costs an additional five cents. Thus, for a 10-pound parcel the shipper pays $2.30.

On parcels over 10 pounds and up to 15 pounds the cost now is $2.00. Over 15 pounds and up to 20 pounds, the rate has been reduced to $2.50.

NATHMAN—CHAPTEN

Cosens—Century old Trinity Anglican Church, Consecon, was beautifully decorated with pink and white gladioli on the altar, and with white gladioli on the altar, for the wedding, on Wednesday afternoon, of Miss Dorothy Margaret Frances Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Taylor, Consecon, and Mr. Harold Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fowler, of Rodney, (formerly of Napanee), with Rev. Stanley H. Coleman officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was becomingly gowned in white brocaded nylon, fashioned on long lines with a sweetheart neckline and short sleeves, with long lace gloves. DECLARED CHAMPIONS

Kirkland Lake, Aug. 27—(CP)—The Canadian Legion team, charged last week with using a loaded bat in a final playoff game, has been declared new champion of the Kirkland District Men's Fastball League.

After team representatives admitted in an executive session of the league that the bat was loaded — they said it was a practice output that had been introduced into the playoff by mistake—the game was awarded Rapids.

The league executive yesterday reversed its decision on the grounds that the umpire did not examine the bats before the final game got under way.

Free-For-All At Malton When Woman Arrives

Toronto, Aug. 27 — (CP) — A free-for-all broke out at nearby Malton airport last night following the arrival by plane of Mrs. Lillian Boyd, a blonde Mary Lilman, 35, of Toronto, who was released after being held for investigation in New York with three suspects concerning last week's robbery of $200,000 from a Royal Bank of Canada branch there.

When a photographer stepped forward to take a picture of Mrs. Boyd on the steps of the aviation plane, a man waiting to meet her kicked the camera from the photographer's hand. A free-for-all followed.

Toronto police said later charges had been laid against the woman.

Yesterday Miss Lilman and Sidney Ronald Louis Rothstein of Toronto were turned over in New York to the Inspector of Detectives John Nimmo of Toronto in connection with the theft.

Two other Toronto men, Paul Zaplacinski, 33, and John Zapiachinski, 31, are being held by immigration authorities in New York on a warrant charging illegal entry.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Expert

Consider the plight of Expert C. Tight whose bridge rules are now on the blink. He hasn't been a thing to which he can cling. And much less with which he can think.

Of the billions of little hands, new and old, on the brink of something, it may be propounded, now, may be disaster. It may be too strong for a lefter bid or bid weak for a higher bid.

In such cases Expert would be usually best. Why? Because it is the best. If this general rule is doomed, declares should be adopt and the opposition — well, for pleasure.

Look into this deal:

North
♠ 9 8 6 2
♥ 8 5 3
♦ Q 6 5 4
♣ A J 10 9 3

West — East
♠ K Q 7 5 — ♠ 10 3
♥ K 10 9 — ♥ 7 6 5 4 2
♦ J 10 7 — ♦ 9 2
♣ 8 — ♣ K 7 6 4

South
♠ A 5 4
♥ A J
♦ A K 8
♣ Q 5 2

South opened with 2 bid of two no-trump and north correspondent with three no-trump. Was this bidding correct? No. The north hand has not quite enough for a two no-trump opening.

An opening of two no-trump promises eight high cards in a hand that holds four tricks, seven high may be enough. But with only six high, a bid of one should apply.

To be correct here, south should have opened with a bid of one club. North should respond with two clubs even if west sticks in a bid of one spade. South can then hop to three no-trump.

When a player has a biddable suit, he should not start with a no-trump bid—if the hand engages — but should see that they will sit there in due course by correct bidding.

The north-immediate response should be two high cards among his tricks. With six high, south then has eight. With only nine tricks among them, eight high should attempt a game. Not enough.

West spoils it all with the contract in sight. Rather than a few little fips calls to make sure of the bid, he makes no bid. That's the way.

The Movie Column

By ROB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 11 (CP)—Shirley Temple, 10-year-old screen prodigy, thinks she should be allowed the rest of her natural days working money for herself.

"Why not?" she asked. "Others work for themselves. There's no reason why I should not."

Shirley's mother and father had to take small roles to help working. There would be no fun in that for Shirley.

Shirley indicated she was willing to continue to work as she has been going; she has no ambition to form her own company and produce films. But she prefers to be directed, rather than to have any female directors (or pictures in general) made about her.

"That should'n't be," she complained. "Women should be good directors. They have more imagination than men. They are better stars."

Shirley isn't worried about career interruptions, such as having babies. "Look at Crawford," she pointed out, "and Garbo. Others didn't hurt her. She's more popular than she ever was."

Of this Shirley didn't remember. Take Mary Pickford. I have never heard that she has retired, but I certainly be interested in seeing her playing Juliet.

And look at the Temple comeback, said Shirley.

"Aha!" she corrected. "That's where people are wrong. They tell me I made a comeback when actually I was never away. It was Fox's fault that I quit films for a time. They said I was retiring from the screen.

"But at 12 I made "Kathleen" for MGM and at 13 I made "Miss Annie Rooney" for Eddie Small. Neither of these was any good. Neither of them "killed" me at 14. I signed with Selznick and made "Little Fox Next Door" at 15."

So apparently we have another distinction for Shirley. She is the one person who has been a money earner all but the first three years of her life.

Today I'll List:

A severed without a horse—1910—James Stewart playing a lad instead of a wholesale butcher. A murder mystery that didn't gather the suspects in one room at the final reel. A small time picture which will show the inhabitants as hicks and rubes (2). A movie in which the star is cleared of the cosing attraction was only mediocre New Brunswick—born Walter Pidgeon as some-thing besides a stodgy character. A feature-length which the critics failed to find success on Broadway and had to go back home.

Humphrey Bogart in a comedy.

AT THE DELUX — Loretta Young, Joseph Cotton and Ethel Barrymore star in the happy comedy, "The Person's Daughter" closing a highly successful engagement at the Delux Theatre tonight.

AT THE McCARTHY — Having saved them all from "taking a ride" Joan Bennett thanks Menjou and the boys in "The Housekeeper's Daughter," now at the McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL — Star Lee Gorsey is a cub reporter in Monogram's Bowery Boys comedy, "News Hounds," playing tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program is Technicolor, "California," starring Ray Milland.

R.C.A.F. FLYERS DEFEAT NAPANEE IN FIRST GAME

Dick Fitzpatrick Batting Hero With Double and Two Singles in 4to 2 Win

Behind tall Al. Wade's fine three-hit hurling and some timely hitting by the rest of the team, Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers back at full strength, threw all their power at Napanee last night in the latter's town and sent the homesters down to a 4-3 defeat in the first of their two-of-three semi-finals series in the Belleville and District baseball playoffs.

The teams clash in the second game at the Exhibition Park tomorrow (Thursday) night under the floodlights, the game getting away at 8.30.

Superb fielding and clutch hitting on the part of the Flyers was the secret of their success. Wade while allowing but three hits only struck out two and this evidences the fielding effort on the part of the Flyer squad. By the same token Napanee also contributed some spectacular work afield. McTaggart, right-hander on the mound, walked only three, and walked two. Wade issued three free tickets.

Fitzpatrick Gets Three

Dicky Fitzpatrick and Jocko stood out the Napanee lights at second base for their respective teams. Fitz garnered a hero's role with his outstanding handling of scorching line drives and ground balls, also donating three of his squad's ten hits.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle all the way through with the issue in doubt until the last two Napanee batters till the last ditch but Flyers clung tenaciously to that slim lead and not per the game away comfortably until the last innings.

Flyers drew first blood in the third innings when Holdsworth lashed out a single and Marietta sang likewise. The first batter was forced at third on Fitz's grounder and Gerow bobbled Stroud's bid for a fielder's choice, Marietta crossing the plate.

Napanee drew the lead in the third innings when they sent over two runs off one hit, and a space of Flyer errors.

Even the Count

Flyers came right back and evened the count in the fifth when four singles rallied to the spirit of the Napanee squad restricted Flyers to one run. They scored the lead in the eighth when Dunning's scorching two-bagger down in Bridgeman who had singled ahead of him.

Fitzpatrick drove in his third hit, a streaming double, in the ninth. Deane and galloped home while Flyers clinching run when McTaggart succeeded a wild pitch after walking two men in the heat.

As was said before Fitzpatrick led the Flyers attack with a double and two singles with Jocko, team-mates getting singles. Hayes, Brennan and McTaggart after walking Napanee hitters to clout the ball successfully off the Napanee hurler.

Reno, Nev., Aug. 27 (AP) — Freshly divorced, actress Pat Dane Dorsey set out eagerly for Los Angeles today for a date with ex-husband Tommy Dorsey. Rangoon, Aug. 27 - (Reuters)—Heavy floods in the central plains of Burma were reported here today to have submerged nearly 100 villages and caused damage to rice crops and property. The total loss cannot be estimated. The Pangoon-Mandalay main line train service was suspended today as the line was breached in several places.

COMMERCIAL LOOP HAVING RACE FOR PLAYOFF SPOT

Latest statistics on the Commercial Softball League as issued by League officials show that the Quinte Dry Beverage team is currently holding down first place. There is a possibility, that they may be ousted before the season is over, however, because the runner-up Bourgeau Garage nine has two games in hand. In all season is comprised of twelve games.

League standing is as follows:

Team	GP	W	L	Pts
Quinte Dry	12	10	2	20
Bourgeau Garage	10	9	1	18
Sheridan's Billiards	11	7	4	14
American Optical	12	5	7	10
Bankers	10	4	6	8
Dulmage Motors	11	1	10	2

The race for the fourth playoff spot is a three-way dead heat with the American Optical team currently residing in the coveted slot. They have played a complete season, however, and must now sit back and see how the other teams make out. Their nearest rivals are the Bankers, who are one game back but have two in hand. The Dulmage Motors could tie the Optical nine if they win their last game. It looks from here that a three-way tie for 4th place isn't out of the question by any means. The complexion of the race will be definitely known before the week is out.

Last evening the Bankers team kept the Optical crew within striking distance by whipping them 5-2 in extra innings in the scheduled game at the Alemite Field. The score was 5-5 at the end of regular time and it took two extra innings before the Bankers could push across the winning tally.

Batteries for the teams were: Bankers, Britbin and Bailey; Optical, Farmer and Hughes. Line-up for the Optical would have clashed fourth place.

On Friday, August 20, Dulmage Motors vs. Bourgeau's Garage in the last scheduled game of the year. Two postponed games are yet to be played: Bankers vs. Bourgeau and Sheridans vs. Bankers.

Hamilton Wildcats to Depend On Speed and More Speed In O.R.F.U. Race this Season

Frank Gnup, Coach of Squad Places Accent on Youth, in Bid For Pennant

(Written for The Canadian Press By Tommy Morrison, Hamilton Spectator)

Hamilton, Aug. 27 — (CP) — Frank Gnup, former Manhattan College star who skipped Hamilton Wildcats into the of the best-drilled football squads in the east last fall has placed the accent on youth as he points his tables towards their O.R.F.U. opener here Sept. 6 against Toronto Rockets.

Of the sparkling young team which bowed out to Bishop Beach in the playoffs last season, Gnup has lost such stellar performers as Louie DiFrancisco, Len Wright and Bob McKay but he's added five Utilities and a few who'll see as the cream of Hamilton junior ranks.

Gnup has been telling his charges of the need for speed and still more speed in the current race and indications are that he will have a fast-moving backfield. Gord Miller, Don Toma, Bill Murphy, Charles Harrison and Don Dyack will all be available again for duty.

Newcomers in the backfield will include Ralph Bartolini, last year with Mahony Bears Juniors here; Joe Moretto of Niagara Falls, NY; Tony LaRocque of Tonawanda, N. Y. who played a standout game against Regina Roughriders last Saturday night; Earl Valquette from Smooth Rock Falls, Ont.; Vick Ott of Saskatoon, Sask. and George Kopolus, St. Jerome's College star in 1945.

Lawson's Return

Mel Lawson and his brother Gordon, last year with the University of Toronto, have returned to the Tiger Cubs and Mac will probably fill the quarterback position along with Ginny Sellan (Jr.) will play end. Jn centre will be Jack Campbell who finished Intermediate ball in that berth last year and Fred Gabriel of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Ken Martin and Art Augustine have been assigned to tackle wing berths and middle wing duties will be shared by Reg Bovlard, Lem Wheeler and Jack Strachan.

Ed Rusinski, who gained most of his football experience in the U. S. Army, and Ted Kowalski, both position along with Doug Good of Hamilton Cubs will form last year's club for line jobs are Rip Martin, Frank Morro, Frank O'Hara, Jimmy Stewart, Doug McLennan and Ken Black.

Members of Hamilton Tigers of the Big Four last year, Paul Pelyo, Charlie Harrison and Don Irwin, an end will wear Wildcat livery. A crop of 10-second men Bob Westlake and Don Camin, high school grads may add speed to the backfield.

Two former Hamilton boys who played with Queen's University at Kingston last season, Dave Robertson and Elton Hemingway, have returned to the Wildcats fold. Rounding is a quarterback and Hemingway at end will probably team up with his twin brother, Ron.

NEGRO HURLER NOT SUCCESSFUL IN FIRST TRY

Don Bankhead, Pitching For Dodgers Says Mental Strain Too Much

Brooklyn, N.Y., Aug. 27 (AP) — Dreams and hopes of baseball fame rudely crossed too much for Negro hurler Don Bankhead as the Brooklyn Dodgers against Pittsburgh Pirates as a relief pitcher.

The 26-year-old ace from Birmingham, Ala., pitched 3 1-2 innings against the Pirates and was walloped for ten hits and eight runs as Brooklyn lost 16-3.

Dodger Manager Burt Shotton, however, said he "not at all disappointed" and added that he wanted another look at Bankhead before he formed an opinion on him one way or another." The comment among Brooklyn players was "give him time".

Bankhead, obviously nervous over his first test that he was the first Negro pitcher to face a big league batter, relieved Hal Gregg in the second inning. He fanned two, walked one and hit a batter. Then he also hit a two-run home-run.

"I admit the boy didn't look good," Shotton said. "But he certainly showed me he knows how to pitch. He has speed, a good curve and control. His delivery could be improved upon. The boys were calling all his pitches before they were made. His motion is too slow with men on bases."

In Bankhead's introduction to the major Monday Dodger president Branch Rickey said he was not worried about his ability, but feared that the mental strain might prove too much of a handicap.

Bankhead himself, had no excuse to offer except to say that he "felt tired".

"It was just one of those days," he said. "I want to recover and be right. I'm quite a bit overworked. Sometimes, we'd play three games in the Negro American League, and I'd work in all three."

"I'm no stiff," however, he added. "They certainly had their hitting clothes on."

"In a couple of days, I'll get the feel of it and I'll be O.K. I'd like another crack at the Pirates."

Pt. Anne Wings Defeat Parham 3-2 In 1st Game

Point Anne Wings took a one-game lead in the second round of the OASA Intermediate playdowns last night, defeating the smart Parham team 3-2 on the latter's diamond.

The game was a nip and tuck affair all the way through with the lead in doubt up to the last inning.

The teams play the second game at Point Anne on Thursday night, the game starting at 6 o'clock.

Final Statistics, Records, Belleville Baseball League

Latest statistics issued by Homer (Red) Townsend, official statistician, show that the Napanee entry in the Belleville baseball League copped the title championship with 32 victories, 11 defeats and a tie for a percentage of .730.

Team	W.	L.	T.	Average

R.C.A.F.	27	15	0	.643
Latta	7	9	0	.467
Kiwanis	6	10	0	.375
Swaco	1	14	0	.067

Team batting honors went to the R.C.A.F. nine with an average of .324 for 16 games. Team batting averages were as follows:

Team	Games	A.B.	R.	H.	Average

Swaco	15	419	31	74	.178

Individual batting honors went to Vern "Jumbo" Goyer of the Latta squad who had a lusty .406 average. These figures are based on the number of hits which a player made in the course of ten or more games.

Three batters each from the Latta, Bata, and R.C.A.F. teams, and one from the Napanee squad are represented in the best ten. The top ten batters in the League over the past season are as follows:

Name	Team	Games	A.B.	R.	H.	Average
1. W. Goyer	Latta	10	37	7	15	.405
2. Fitzpatrick	R.C.A.F.	11	45	8	18	.400

9. Somers	Bata	15	59	14	21	.356
10. Whitman	Latta	15	52	12	18	.346

Besides being the best pitcher in the League, Fitzpatrick of Napanee was also the hardest worker having pitched ten of his team's 16 games. Tied for first place with Fitzpatrick's nine victories was other Napanee chucker, Hooper, who won four of the five games which he pitched for the Napanee squad. Watson of Bata also won four of his decisions for the R.C.A.F. who tied for first place as well with four wins and one loss.

The following is a list of the League leading pitchers. The figures take into account only those pitchers who have thrown five or more games.

THREE HURLERS LIKELY TO GO UP FROM ROCHESTER

Surkont, Yochim and Mikan Account For 40 Victories of 61 Games Won

(By The Associated Press)

Rochester Red Wings have a slim chance of winding up in the first division of the International League this season but it appears certain that righthanders Max Surkont and Ken Yochim and southpaw Johnny Mikan will receive a chance to hurl for a major league team in 1948.

At the moment the Wings are in 5th position in the fourth place Buffalo Bisons with only 15 games to play.

The St. Louis Cardinal-owned farm club has won 61 games with Yochim, Surkont and Mikan accounting for 40 victories.

Surkont and Yochim, both 25 years old, each gained their 13th victory last night by pitching the Wings to a double decision over the league-leading Montreal Royals, Mikan tops the team in victories, with 14.

The Wings won the opener 2-1 with Surkont holding the Royals to five hits while Yochim yielded six hits in capturing the nightcap, 4-1.

Three of the Wings' runs off Jack Banta in the nightcap were unearned. Banta, who leads the loop in strikeouts, had a no-hitter until Yochim singled during a two-run sixth-inning rally. It was the third time the Wings have beaten Banta who now has a 14-5 won-lost record.

The win setbacks cut the Royals lead over the second-place Jersey City Giants to 2 1-2 games.

The Giants' scheduled game with Baltimore Orioles was postponed because of rain as was the Syracuse-Newark encounter. Toronto Maple Leafs and Buffalo Bisons were idle.

May Looney Picked To Win C.N.E. Swim

Toronto, Aug. 27 (CP)—May Looney admits to being 37 years old and the records show that she's being doing long distance swimming for 17 years—but the swim-wise are picking the Warren Ohlo veteran to top Sunday's first in today's five-mile swim feature of the Canadian National Exhibition.

To back their argument, they list figures to show that May's time in the C.N.E. marathon of the past Was over the five-mile length. In Aug. 1934, first time the women competed for the $5,000 prize money at the distance, May crawled through Lake Ontario in two hours, 28 minutes and nine seconds, fully five minutes ahead of her nearest competition.

Ages of today's entrants range from 18 to the mid-30s. June V. Courchesne, 18, a young Port Perry, Ont., lz youngest in the try while veteran Eva May Davies of Detroit, admits to being 35, and is oldest.

Other entries include Ann Mundigel of Vancouver, Margaret Thompson and Margaretta Cox of Hamilton.

Five miles is an increase of two over the distance the last time the swim was held. First prize is $2,500, with $1,000 to the second place winner. The balance of the prize money is divided between third, fourth, fifth and sixth place winners.

Regina, Aug. 27 — (CP) — Every year about this time the hockey scout comes out of hibernation, and Heaven help a puckster at a time like this — especially if he's a junior with a future.

It lasts for several weeks. During that time the kid is flooded with promises of a college education, a lavish expense account and a try-out with any pro team he desires. In fact he is offered anything his little heart desires for his signature.

The public prints report him as signed to almost-signed with at least six different teams, and unable to resist, the kid finally leaves home and mother for the Podunkville Panthers.

This sort of thing, suggests Dave (Regina Leader-Post) Dryburgh, must stop.

It's not in the midst of a discussion between Moose Jaw, Regina and Brandon about who was going to play where that Dave stood up and hollered: "Hands off the juniors!"

"Let the seniors roam the country, shop for the best price for their hockey services and bleed the promoters for every dime they can lay a finger on," he said. "All hands in that game should know the score.

"But for Heaven's sake let's not mix up the youngsters in such business. Let's give them a chance to finish their education in reasonable close-to-home surroundings and develop as hockey players without the almighty Collar standing in front of their school books."

But he doesn't blame the kids for a minute, Dryburgh hastens to point out.

Dryburgh also suggests it might be a good idea if the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association took a look at some of the educational facilities offered players by certain clubs.

"What a few clubs have pulled under the guise of education has hardly," he says, "been on the up-and-up."

Cards Lose Chance to Shave Brooklyn Lead When Voiselle Of Braves Hurls Three-Hitter

Johnny Mize Ahead of Ruth's 1927 Home Run Record at Present Writing

By GAIL FOWLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The talk in the National League day by day, is about Brooklyn and Billy Southworth and Boston fans haven't given up hope yet.

Manager Billy Southworth of the Braves is squeezing his material to the limit. He has two top-notch pitchers in Johnny Sain and lefty Warren Spahn.

"But he hasn't enough pitchers," Brave detractors contend, and for awhile it seemed as if it looked that way as the St. Louis Cardinals walloped Sain and Spahn in successive starts.

But Tuesday night Southworth couldn't have asked for Bill Voiselle, the fugitive from New York Giants who came to the Braves in a deal for Manager Mort Cooper.

Voiselle had only won one and lost four with the Giants, but he's won five and lost three since joining the Braves, his latest being the flossy three-hitter he threw at the Cardinals last night as Boston won 5-1.

The Dodgers, hard-pressed for pitchers, saw three of their —including Dan Bankhead, first Negro shoulderman ever to filter in the majors, take a 20-hit mauling from the seventh-place Pittsburgh Pirates, who collected a 16-3 victory.

The big eight-hander was treated cavalierly on the mound, but in his first trip to a big league platter, he got his own homer into the left field stands.

Miss Thanked for Win

New York Giants, hard-pressed for pitchers, with only seven flingers currently available, thanks big Johnny Mize for yesterday's 4-2 win over Chicago Cubs.

Mize drove in five runs, including the winning one in the last of the ninth, hit two singles and his 41st and 42nd home runs of the campaign, to go 4 games and two days ahead of Babe Ruth's 1927 record when the Bambino collected his big 60.

In the American League Phil Marchildon of the amazing Philadelphia Athletics hurled a perfect game in hand against Cleveland Indians for seven innings, then the Indians tied the count 1-1.

The right-hander from Penetanguishene, Ont., had charge not only with his pitching arm but with his bat in the 12th when his lone double drove in Pete Suder with the winning run, as he gallantly stretched the prolonged 3-1 decision.

It was his 16th victory of the season against seven defeats.

The American League leading New York Yanks trailed most of the game and tied it up at 2-2 on the sixth only to lose to St. Louis Browns come back to take it in their bats' 4-2.

Both Red Sox and Detroit Tigers traded blow during the afternoon, the Tigers lambasting the Sox for a 12-1 victory in the first game of a doubleheader for a temporary advantage. But Tex Hughson threw a four-hitter at them in the after-piece as the Red Sox avenged themselves with a 9-1 triumph to regain the second perch.

By GEORGE E. CARTER, Sports Editor

Bill (Deacon Brother Lid) Messer, whose big heart is all it's cracked up to be, the guy who has been batting Old Man Illness at his home for the past month, has been sent out to grab the phone and answer the call for a spieler. One of Bill's ventricles is undisciplined and refuses to settle and the rest of it is heavy, especially where Lee Chandler are concerned.

It seems that a gasket on one of the Mountain pump valves is a little the worse for wear, and the sawbill Bill has been ordered by his physician to let the job go to hang, his blood to boil, and let the rest of the world go by. This, Bill has done to the extent of wearing dejectedly, but try and take his beloved pump away from him and the wars are on.

From his sorrie in his sunny bedroom, Bill reads, analyses and expounds on the world of sport as it passes before him in radio and press parade. Sometimes he gets hot under his collar, then becomes the Duke's orders, shrugs his shoulders, mutters the Moorish equivalent of "wotta-ell" then grabs a phone and quietly commences to pelt with a sports pal.

• • •

He's a walking or at the present moment prostrate, we might wrote lying encyclopedia. Ask him what Dizzy Dean's lifetime batting and he'll answer pronto. He knows the last Canadian team from Frank Selke's shoe lights to "Pop" Keesler's favorite cuss word. He can tell you more about their records than their addition. Him and dislikes than any sports expert we've known. He's proud of the he has travelled miles with the team and is very popular nay with its members, despite the fact that he lives closer to Toronto than mayrall.

• • •

He's got more inside dope on the squad than a terrible in an old verandah, and can spill plenty of amateur anecdotes. In the summer when the old cardiac is not kicking over the traces Bill renews his acquaintances with the Montreal Royal Canadian Club (a familiar expat to local Ontario). If we had Bill, we predicted in our hearing, last spring that the Terrie Boland would not be with the Royals this year and that the proud Montrealers would not be in the World's Series because of injuries received. If Bill ever gets on his feet, and we hope he will be soon, we're going to rush him to the nearest race track.

• • •

Right now, he is watching with keen interest the diamond antics of the Kitchener baseball teams all three of which are in the championship running with the senior Panthers looking like Ontario champions, if as Bill says, their pitching holds up. According to him, the gentle folk up around Kitchener way take their baseball seriously. At a recent game between the always-feuding Waterloo Tigers and the Panthers no less than 4,000 fans clicked at the turnstiles and brother if that's not a mob, then Ozark Ike will never clout that home run.

• • •

The figure established as all time record for the Kitchener Park, and incidentally the Panthers' home park, is 6,000 when the Tigers in three straight games and now meet Galt or Guelph in the next round. Last year the Galt-Waterloo-Kitchener (remember the scary French-Canadian who dunked over up-and-coming Kiwanis Juniors in the Ontario semi-finals?) who met the Kitchener Juniors in the finals and won the title over 4,100 fans in the park.

• • •

Trenton Flyers and the Batawa Sheemen go to the baseball mat on Friday night in the first game of their intersectional "A" first round playdowns. The game gets under way at the Exhibition Grounds at 8.30 under the klieg, and with the Flyers equal to it at full strength for the first time in a month the fireworks should be worth glimpsing.

• • •

Sarge Kelly, who has fully recovered from a two-weeks furlough spent in the shadow of the Peace Tower in Prime Minister King's ballywick has had his charges out practicing unfailingly on the big event. The second game of the series will be played at Batawa at a date to be decided upon.

• • •

Tall Al Wade may be the hurling choice of the lads in blue while ace Gordy Muffitt will likely be the starting choice of the Bata clan. The last time the squads met at the Big Grounds, Flyers nudged the Batawans by a 5-3 score in the best game of the season, and Friday's tussle will likely be a repeat dose of that thing of diamond pastimes.

• • •

It looks like the Canadian Legion team in Kingston to represent that city in the intermediate "A" OBA playdowns which get under way at Point Anne on Friday night starting at 8.15. The Kingston Legion-aires posed by their ace hurler Vinny Tallon, and the city sawbill Bill. The third game was played last night and if the veterans come through then they'll be the Ox Point guests' come flish day.

• • •

Tallon cavorted as iron-man role on the mound for the Legionnaires and came through handsomely with a nice display of wine. He mastered the Legion, with eight hits in the opener and allowed seven in the nightcap. Kingston opened on paper to be a well-balanced team and Frank Gaherty Pelaster will have to be on their toes. The Legion however will be out in full strength and the tussle should be a typical Belleville - Kingston softball battle.

• • •

Tomorrow night the Parham softball squad will be the guests of the Belleville Lions Wings in the second game of their intermediate "C" softball playdowns. The game also gets under way at 8.15.

• • •

Trenton Flyers evidenced last night in no uncertain fashion that they are not to be trifled with when the playoff chips are down. Back at full strength again, the lads in blue roared back into the pictures with a neat 4-3 victory over the league-leading Napanee nines in the first game of their semi-finals series. The Flyers fashioned a neat game from the batter down to the pitcher boy and sent the steeve Gibbsville gang back against the wall with the second game coming up at the Fair Grounds here tomorrow night at 8.15 under the klieg.

• • •

Dick Fitzpatrick was the hero of the game, as the Flyers' southpaw pitching ace turned in a neat job on the mound and came through with a timely double in the 7th inning to drive in the winning run. Fitz also got a playoff double-header record when he struck out the last seven batters he was facing here and in the same breathless inning it under his belt even to say the manner of the plate by a giant's breath. It was basketball at its best.

• • •

The clit was good playdown calibre, and tomorrow night's game should be a neat eyeful for the faithful. Napanee is far from being out of the running although they must win the second tilt if they are to remain contenders. On the other hand, Trenton is anxious to sweep the series in two straight, and thereby hangs a battle.

• • •

Fitzpatrick's stop of Gerow's grazing line drive in a backhand manner had even the Napanee supporters cheering for him. A couple of innings later the second baseman made a fine throw to Sweetman's scorcher in the same manner.

Take the looks of it. The looks of something really good and able—broad, deep-chested, solid in its footing, a performer if there ever was one.

Take the sweeping lines. Clean—fresh—eye-winning wherever you go. Smart now and smart for years to come—because it's plainly the pattern that calls the turn for many a season.

Lift the bonnet. Fill your eyes on that spacious compartment filled to its brim with the makings of thrilling, singing, winging power.

Take the Laughter

By Karen De Woll

CHAPTER IT

"You're glad to see him, of course," she told herself desperately, "but you can't swoon in his arms, you fool!"

When Tony was saying, "I just had to get you on the telephone! Jenny-Lelle, now you're working! and he kissed her and set down.

Sherry said, "Yes, I'm working. How well you're looking! Did you like Virginia? How's Joyce?"

She thought, That's it! Make a blithering idiot of yourself.

Tony seemed to be excited, too, and they both tried to speak at once and laughed.

He said, "We're acting like a pair of lovers! People'll be looking for us. I only got in this morning. How—is business conference on a new contract. I'm leaving by train tonight."

Sherry's heart turned sickeningly.

She said, "Oh, no, Tony! Not so soon!" without meaning to say it, and they caught each other's hands.

Well, that was all right, she told herself, they always said.

Tony said, "I should have wired, but I wanted to surprise you."

She said, "Oh, what a shame!" because it was the thing to say.

"I called you the instant I was through," he told her. "How do you like working? Tell me all about it."

Sherry talked about the studios and the people they knew and about each other's work. They talked about Peter and the accident and why Tony had not written sooner.

Sherry had another cup of tea and Tony smoked a lot of cigarettes. He had been given a check for his first big picture, and a grand new contract.

"We'll celebrate tonight!" he told her. "What a rotten shame we haven't Henri's!"

Sherry agreed with him, but she was thinking, "I can't stand it. I can't stand it. I can't talk about old times and Joyce in a restaurant."

Tony was looking puzzledly around.

"This is Henri's!" he said, "isn't it? I mean where Henri's used to be?"

Sherry had hoped he would not think of that. The realization made her want to cry. She had to say something quickly so as to take their bright-colored caps making direct splashes amidst all the whiteness.

Sherry thought it might be fun to go down and practice. Tony knew teaching her to ice skate and it would be nice to surprise him by her improvement, but then nothing was really fun without Tony. It was nicer to stay indoors and daydream about what their life would be like after they were married; and Tony, too, Kris might come any day now.

Maybe Peter had written that he was in Hollywood, a flying visit on a big picture deal, and that she was in a spot.

"What should I tell him?" she had wanted to know, and Sherry had written back, "The truth! He must stop and see us on his way through New York." And Tony had agreed with her.

Tony's picture was progressing splendidly. Sherry had read the script over and over and thought up bits of business and interesting shots, and changed lines here and there. They said at the studio that Dietrich was showing unexpected genius."

Now she just had another idea. She decided to read the script again, and reached toward the table. There was a knock and Sherry called, "Come," and turned to the door.

It opened slowly and a girl came in. Sherry knew who she was. She was very pale and wore a mink coat. She closed the door behind her and stood still.

She said, "I'm Joyce. I told them downstairs that you expected me. I'm sorry."

Sherry said, "I know," and then, "it was better this way."

Joyce walked on slowly. She held her handbag tightly and was trying to keep her teeth from chattering; you could see that.

Sherry said, "You're cold. Sit by the fire."

Joyce tried to smile.

"I don't think it's that kind of cold," but she sat down on the edge of the chair and pushed her self back twice until she could lean against it. She kept her elbows tight at her sides, and her eyes were blue.

She said, "You look just like I thought."

Sherry said, "You do too."

They were quiet for a minute. Joyce sucked in her breath between clenched teeth and Sherry got up and poured her a drink.

She said, "I suppose you want me to go."

Joyce tried another smile and failed.

"Yes—I want Tony. He'd be silly to divorce me, but he's—he's mine. He told me that before we were married. It was because I was like you that I knew."

She swallowed hard and looked at the fire for her throbbing. Then she raised her chin a little and turned back.

"I came about the divorce, Sherry. There won't anyone else to help me what to do. You—you know Tony better than I do—and I can't seem to think any more."

Joyce stopped suddenly and looked at Sherry instead of her she was leaning back with her eyes closed and her face was like wax. Sherry had never seen anyone look so sick.

She said, "Are you ill?" She wanted to know, and got up and went toward her.

Joyce said, "I—shouldn't have come in this condition. I was sick in the morning."

Sherry leaned forward and laid her head on the arm of the davenport and breathed deeply for a moment. Joyce had not moved.

The room swirled around Sherry. She kept trying to think clearly. At that moment she was as sick as Joyce. She stopped herself and slipped off Joyce's coat and took off her hat, and laid one of her cold hands on the girl's damp forehead. She said, "You're pregnant, aren't you?" very evenly. And Joyce said, "yes."

"I won't give him up." Sherry told herself, "not for anything—ever" and she went over to the window and locked down at the white park and the skaters in their bright caps.

Joyce was talking about the divorce now. How she couldn't get it on grounds Sherry as corespondent, and drag them both through that. They were all in—portion up to people with money.

Sherry thought, So Joyce had been thinking of herself and Tony.

Joyce told her about attorneys and the different laws in different states and how a quiet California divorce on desertion would make it years before Sherry and Tony could marry. They wouldn't like that, would they?

"Then be baby," Joyce was saying. "Should Tony know now and get used to it? Or would you rather tell him after he's born? You see it's up to you to decide.

"You're really Tony's wife—I'm the 'other woman' You'll forgive me, won't you?"

Sherry kept looking out of the window. She did not see the skaters now. She saw the dull leaden sky that filled the city over the park.

Tony's child coming into the world without his knowledge! No, he had to know. A girl, his wife really returning herself through lonely hours and going so glad through it, to struggle with motherhood.

Could Tony bear that? she wondered. But she knew really, Joyce was a quitter, shirk. Tony couldn't shirk responsibility. Tony would have to care for Joyce and little Joyce, and he not. He would have to because he couldn't help himself. Sherry knew that Joyce would mean more and more until it.

Sherry knew that her calls were cutting her palms, but it felt better like that, with her hands clenched and her body stiff.

She turned slowly to Joyce.

"I'm a dream," Sherry told her. "You're one of Tony's dreams."

Joyce got up slowly.

She said, "You can't, Sherry! You can't! We've got to think of Tony! He loves you; he'd be miserable with me! Oh, don't you see? He'd hate me!

Paint and Brick Bring London Back to Former Beautiful City

By STUART UNDERHILL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Aug. 27 — (CP) — Oceans of paint and mountains of brick distributed here and there over vast, battered London at last are beginning to make themselves noticed.

Mostly they only pock the surface of the crumbling city with each new storefront or renovated house attracting attention to the shabbiness of its neighbors. But people who have succeeded in freshening up or repairing their buildings after years of waiting are triumphantly happy.

For example, there is Frank Towers, who, with his aged but spry mother and a middle-aged sister, runs a vegetable store in North London. Thirty-one months ago, on a chill morning, the three of them tumbled from their beds above the store and were buried in falling plaster by an explosion which rocked the neighborhood.

Daylight showed that a flying bomb had landed at an intersection 150 yards away, wiping out a police station, a restaurant, two stores and a couple of hostels. Several other buildings, besides the Towers' home, were made uninhabitable.

Frank managed to find a store a short distance away where he carried on business but always hankered to get to the old stand. The store was one of several in the block and gradually repair workers crept toward it.

Structure Whole Again

There were only a few men on the job and, even to Frank's resigned eye, they seemed to take their time. A basket of bricks was hauled up, then there was a pause for a pipe. A row of bricks was laid, then time out for tea.

But at last the structure was whole again. And after a few more months fixtures were installed and paint slapped on the interior. All that was left then were the plate glass for the window. After a week's more delay, it arrived and was installed while Frank hopped excitedly on the sidewalk.

Now Frank, his mother and sister bustle about the store in self-important happiness. He still finds lots to grouse about but at least he can put it in words.

Mrs. Morris, at the bakery two doors along, has a new window too, after more than 30 months selling her bread in semi-gloom behind boards nailed up when the bomb fell. At the grocery store, also, the girls are used to working in daylight again; for a while they felt like goldfish.

Some stores are still waiting, however. Dark windows, boarded in to replace bomb-shattered glass by a tobacconist's store, now is beginning to peel. A shoe repair shop is in similar plight.

The shop can wait a while longer. Old Dick the cobbler had to leave his door open a crack during last winter's cold spell and final crisis in order to get a bit of light at his work. He died of pneumonia in April and his widow, while still living at the back of the building, doesn't need the shop.

Bill to Dissolve Agrarian Party Is Introduced

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 27—(AP) — A bill to dissolve the Agrarian party, chief opposition to the Communist-dominated Fatherland front government, was introduced Tuesday in parliament. The party is headed by Nikola Petkov, now under sentence of death on charges of plotting against the government.

(The British Foreign Office announced in London that Soviet Russia has rejected a British-American request for consultation on Petkov's death sentence, holding that such consultation would be "interference in Bulgarian internal affairs."

(A foreign office spokesman, commenting on reports that the Bulgarian Agrarians would be outlawed, said "it would seem to be a good example of the "Gleichschaltung" (foreign into line) technique, of which there have been several examples in Germany since 1933.")

Parliament Monday night approved unanimously the Bulgarian peace treaty drafted at Paris, although both government and opposition speakers called it "hard and unjust."

The treaty assessed Bulgaria $70,000,000 in reparations, $45,000,000 to Greece and $25,000,000 to Yugoslavia. She loses no territory by the treaty, despite earnest Greek demands at the peace table, but her armed forces are limited to 65,000 men, 7,250 tons of warships and 90 airplanes.

Bulgaria is required to withdraw her occupation troops from Rumania 90 days after ratification, but Russia has not yet ratified the treaty.

3rd Hillier

3rd Hillier — Miss Joy Benway has returned home from her visit with friends and relatives in Kingston and Smiths Falls.

Mrs. Bob Wood attended the meeting of the Hillier Institute, at the home of Mrs. Edgar Matthews on Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Wilbur Collier, Mrs. Chas. Benway also attended with Mrs. Wood.

Mrs. O. Flint and daughter, of Toronto, are visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Beer, Miss June Benway, Miss Greta Benway of Belleville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Will Benway.

Tomatoes are ripening on most of the patches. The factories expect to start canning this week.

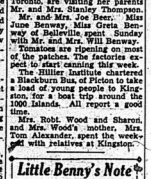
The Hillier Institute chartered a Blackburn Bus of Picton to take a load of young people to Kingston, for a boat trip around the 1000 Islands. All report a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Wood and Sharon, and Mrs. Wood's mother, Mrs. Tom Alexander, spent the week-end with relatives at Kingston.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was drinking his coffee behind his newspaper this morning, and ma said, William, I had the queerest dream last night.

You must tell me about it some time, pop said. The trubble in China is practically just beginning, according to this article, he said and ma said, it was one of the most involved dreems I ever experienced, but I'll see if I can remember the details in their proper order.



Yes, think it over and I'll remind you about it this evening, pop said. It doesn't look as if they'd ever get the peace treaties signed, but maybe that's a good thing, because you can't very well blame a treaty until you sign it, he said, and ma said, I remember exactly how my dreem started. I was standing on a narrow ledge with one shoe on and one shoe off, and the strange part is, I didn't seem to mind it in the least, although there was nothing below me but a sheer drop and nothing above me but the sheer sky, and directly in front of me an enormus sign said "Visitors will fall at their own risk." At least I'm almost sure that was how it started, ma said.

Maybe that's how it ended, pop said. The weather man expects a clear, hot, sultry day suitable only for insects and water fowl. Let's hope he'll be the only one to be disappointed, he said, and ma said, Just then a great tremendous herd with false eyelashes came swooping out of nowhere.

Meaning in her dreem, and pop quick looked at his watch, saying, By gollies I ought to be at the office rite now.

And he hurry up folded his paper and went, and I said, G, ma, what came next?

Oh, I didn't really have an actual dreem, ma said. It was very important for your father to be at his office erly this morning, and I knew if I reminded him it would just make him dawdle all the more, but he hates to listen to peoples dreems, so I just started to make one up, she said.

35 KILLED IN CRASH OF NORWEGIAN PLANE

ACROSS CONTINENT IN $500 PLANE

George Begardus, 32-year-old aircraft mechanic of Trout-dale, Oregon, is shown after he flew from the Pacific to the Atlantic in a plane which he built himself. Begardus' flight was believed to be the first trans-continental flight ever made in a home-made airplane. He made three stops for food and fuel, and used 110 gallons of gasoline on the trip. Begardus said the plane, a two-winged single-seater, was pep-ped with a 65-horsepower engine, was built in one year at a cost of $500.

Truman and Pope Pius Exchange Letters Pledging Efforts for True Peace

Rome, Aug. 28 (AP)—The Vatican said the efforts of Myron Taylor, personal representative of President Truman to Pope Pius released today an exchange of letters between the president and the pontiff.

Truman's letter, dated Aug. 6 declared:

"Unless the moral forces of the world now join their strength discouraging events will continue to deepen, and the strength and effectiveness which they would be lost by these moral forces would be gained by those forces which oppose and seek to destroy them."

The Pope's letter, dated Aug. 26 from the pontifical summer residence at Castel Gandolfo, said:

"We hasten to express our satisfaction and thanks for this latest testimony to the desire and determination of a great and free people to labor, in every field in the noble task of that peace for which all people of the earth are longing."

"The munificent charity shown by the American people to the suffering and oppressed in every part of the world . . . is a fair token of their sincere desire for universal peace and prosperity. The vast majority of the peoples of the world, we are sure, always that desire, even in countries where free expression is smothered.

"God grant their forces may be united towards its realization."

The president, declaring that the tasks now confronting us are formidable, said:

"I am ready to pledge full faith to you once again to work with your holiness and with every agency of good the world over for an enduring peace."

"An enduring peace," Truman asserted, "can be built only upon foundations laid by those who the Lord built the house, they labor in vain who built it.

"As a Christian I declare that our earnest desire is . . . to banish forever from our war torn world the world. . . I believe that the greatest need of the world today . . . is a renewal of faith. I seek to encourage renewed faith in the dignity and worth of the human person in all lands. The times demand faith that is strong enough for action. I need it now for the right."

The Pontiff replied:

"Once the state, to the exclusion of God, makes itself the source of the rights of the human person, man is forthwith reduced to the condition of a slave of a mere public commodity . . . the order of God is overturned; and history, as it makes it clear that the inevitable result of the subversion of order between people is war."

Nearly Five Million Canadians Have Jobs Labor Survey Shows

Ottawa, Aug. 28 (CP) — The number of persons working in Canada is approaching five million, Dominion's population, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today in a survey covering the task week in May.

At last, employment reached 4,621,000, an increase of about 150,000 over the last week, it said. Farming and nearly 130,000 higher than the same week a year before. Women made up more than 30 per cent of the total.

The civilian labor force which includes persons at work, with jobs but not working for various reasons, totalled 4,813,000. Unemployment figures stood at 192,000 in the week of May 3-9 since the end of February when 352,000 looking for jobs in the end of May, 1946.

Labor authorities were the result of the largest sample survey ever taken in Canada, the bureau said. The survey, carried out in June, covered a scientifically-selected cross-section of about two per cent of the civilian population in Canada living outside of institutions. More than 50,000 house-holders were interviewed.

NEW AUSTERITY PROGRAM AIMED TO BREACH GAP

Cuts in Food, Gasoline To Slash Imports And Travel Intended $912 Million Annually

London, Aug. 28 — (CP)—The government's increased austerity program aimed to enable Britain to bridge the gap between exports and imports was before the country's hard-bitten 46,000,000 population today. And more was expected.

Cuts in food, gasoline and travel were intended to slash imports by £ 228,000,000 ($912,000,000) annually — more than one-third of the $2,500,000,000 foreign expenditure.

A statement from 10 Downing St. enumerated the new economies and roundabouts:

"Further measures of this kind may be required — but by themselves they will not suffice."

The statement said the "positive side of the program" for expanding exports included development of industrial resources, the licensing of, for trade, which "is of even greater importance" still be operated during the second week in September.

Disappointment at the absence of a long-term plan aroused flaring hope of regaining prosperity was all almost unanimous in British newspapers today.

The Times hailed the program for test," said the independent Times of London. "Never has a ministry fallen so far short of pep-up expectations on so many successive occasions as the present government . . . The sanguineous feature is another disappointment."

Papers Critical

The liberal Manchester Guardian said the news cuts "described only a few faltering steps toward the lowering of our standards of living that must follow the exhaustion of the American loan." What must be decided immediately was how far these steps would be adjusted and the government's policy on the "home side."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph said the "latest instalment of hardships is still all too vague and heartening. . . . The government themselves admit that their measures will not be the last instalment: it is indeed manifest that they barely touch the fringe."

The Liberal News Chronicle called on the government to "give the people something to work for, they can look forward . . . the people are ready to buckle down full in the dark. If they are expected to do so they must be told why and with understanding they should be given the promise of light."

The Daily Herald, Labor, declared: "The new measures do not go far enough. They are clear-cut as a fresh summons to hard work and more slavery. It is expected the need for ever-increasing production was greater than ever before."

The Daily Express, published by Lord Beaverbrook, opened an attack on the new plans with the heading: "Planned poverty leaps ahead."

Authorities Prepared to Use Compulsion if Jews Refuse To Leave Ships at Hamburg

Hamburg, Aug. 28 (AP)—British official said today British authorities were prepared to use three divisions to accomplish if the 4,400 Jews of the Exodus 1947 refused to leave the three British transports bringing them to Germany.

The official said these degrees were:

1. Manhandling.
2. Ship's hosepipes.
3. Tear gas.

He added that compulsion would be used only as "an absolute last resort."

British authorities estimated it would take 24 hours under ordinary conditions to disembark the Jews, being shipped here from French waters after their unsuccessful attempt to run the Palestine blockade. If they resisted, it said, the job might take 72 hours.

Kenya & Gibraltar

Gibraltar, Aug. 28 (Reuters)—The three British ships carrying Jewish refugees to Hamburg under Navy escort returned to Gibraltar harbor today, shortly after they had set sail for Hamburg, because of engine trouble aboard the transport Ocean Vigour.

It was expected the breakdown would take at least 24 hours to repair.

The refugee ships had docked Tuesday to take on coal.

When orders were sent earlier to take of expectant mothers this morning, it was stated that none wished to come ashore.

Most refugees were on the last lap of their journey from France to Hamburg, where they were expected to arrive in about six days.

90 BUSH FIRES FLARE ACROSS NORTH ONTARIO

Many Rage Out of Control And 4 Towns Timber Stands in Danger

Toronto, Aug. 28 — (CP)—Attributed chiefly to lightning which added from a sultry summer sky and set trees ablaze, 90 bush fires flared today across under - dry Northern Ontario like a chain of beacons from the Quebec border almost to the Manitoba boundary.

In the North Bay area fire-fighters battled the district's worst blaze this year, a 10,000 acre driven blaze that licked through 700 acres of slash and timber between Gowganda and Latchford. Bush-fires decked the distance of the flames but it was feared a change of wind would send the fire racing through the heavy stand of dry pine.

At least four blazed Lake in the Port Arthur district raged out of control in an area of 500 and 900 acres of bushland. Showers in the area discouraged any fresh outbreaks.

Forest sections of the north country have had only one good week: The section between North Bay and Sudbury was extremely dry during recent hot weather.

"Success in the fight against a 35-acre blaze in Norther township, north of Englehart appeared in hand. Bush roads on two sides of the fire, which was threatening the flames to scrub growth on sandy soil.

The Lands and Forests Department said: "Every extra man to help its Rangers can get to the fires in the Kirkland Lake area, have been rushed there from the staffs at the Rangers' assistance."

Sleeping Giant Park was the fire in Nordica township in the Thunder Bay district. At one time threatened summer cottages on Whitebeach Lake. The Sudbury district reported 24 fires, two of them a settlement, and the Sault Ste. Marie district reported 15 fires, all being fought today.

It was announced here that a helicopter owned by Photographic Survey Company of Toronto would be used to detect forest fires in the Port Arthur area for the next six weeks. The help spot new fires and to transport men and equipment to fire zones.

CANNING SUGAR RATION EXTENDED BY THREE POUNDS

No Indication of Abandonment of Rationing in The Near Future

Ottawa, Aug. 28 — (CP)—Continuing improvement in the production of home canning sugar was promised the Prices Board to date by the announcement today that three pounds of individual canning sugar to ration-ed consumers.

The Board announcement last night lifted the canning sugar ration to 25 pounds per person current year, and said coupons Y-11, Y-12 and Y-13 in ration books are valid at once. Each coupon is good for a pound of sugar.

The announcement will be able to use the extra quota in canning more than last season.

The increase brought the total sugar ration, including tea, coffee and table sugar, to about 45 pounds for this year, but there was no indication of abandonment of the ration in the near future, it was said, "but still short world sugar supply."

Prime Minister Abbott, under whose department the Prices Board operates, was also quoted by John Veiglin, secretary of the Canadian Sugar Institute, as saying Christ, was due to reach Vancouver late today en route to Victoria where he will confer with and demand the cutting of the Sons of Freedom activities in Doukhobor communities.

A conference meeting of the police commission at Trail, B.C., was scheduled today following reports that the Sons of Freedom group had been filtering into the area.

Last night police chief John Leland said he was powerless to prevent spread of the wave of violence and arson to the interior B. C. mining centre of 12,000.

DOUKHOBOR SECT WAR THREATENS OTHER CENTRES

Two Narrowly Escape Being Burned in One of Two Overnight Fires

Nelson, B. C., Aug. 28 — (CP) — Two people narrowly escaped being burned to death today in two of four overnight fires which added new fuel to the Doukhobor sect war creating an almost unprecedented state of terror in British Columbia's rich West Kootenay district.

The fires — one at Glade late last night and the second at Castlegar early today and the total damage estimate of six properties destroyed or severely damaged past the $25,000 mark in three straight days of mysterious blazes. Glade is about 20 miles west of Nelson and Castlegar about 30 miles west.

Meanwhile police were alerted after a midnight meeting of the police commission scheduled at Trail, B. C., today following reports that members of the radical Sons of Freedom sect faction had been filtering into the city. The Sons are generally blamed for the incendiary depredations terrorizing the valley.

Mrs. Peter Ogilvie, 70, and Mrs. William Rigby to flee their home a few minutes before it was in flames. Also lost were the dead. The other were all Norwegians.

The Castlegar fire was discovered by Mrs. Rigby, roused from her bed by the crackling flames racing up her bedroom wall and raced to safety with her husband. Loss of the Rigby home and its furnishings, the only thing saved being the clothes the couple were wearing Loss was estimated at $4,000.

"I am absolutely certain that the fire was set," Mr. Rigby said. Mr. Rigby is retired manager of the Memorial Society of Canada. He said the "police" are carefully looking for any who might have responsible for the blaze.

Meanwhile a delegation of orthodox Doukhobors headed by John Vesigin, secretary of the Union of Christian Doukhobors of Christ, was due to reach Vancouver late today en route to Victoria where they will confer and demand the cutting of the Sons of Freedom activities in Doukhobor communities.

The delegation, to meet with Attorney General Gordon Wismer and other government officials in Victoria Friday, is expected to demand greatly improved police protection from the provincial government action to segregate the Sons of Freedom faction from other Doukhobor communities.

A conference meeting of the police commission at Trail, B.C., was scheduled today following reports that members of the radical group had been filtering into the area.

Last night police chief John Leland said he was powerless to prevent spread of the wave of violence and arson to the interior B. C. mining centre of 12,000.

Demilitarization, Total Disarmament Of Japan Favored by Conference

Canberra, Australia, Aug. 28 — (CP)—Representatives of the British commonwealth countries today recommended to their governments favor total disarmament and demilitarization of Japan, a conference report said today.

"The discussion of disarmament and demilitarization of Japan was completed at the morning session of the Canberra conference," the report stated. "The delegates expressed the view that Japan should be totally disarmed and demilitarized; that all military establishments should be forbidden and that internal order should be maintained by a non-military police force."

The conference examined in detail "measures that might be necessary to ensure that the Japanese should not be permitted at present to conduct research in the field of atomic energy, or to develop or use atomic energy."

The report also said the delegates suggested Japan should renounce all rights and interests, both public and private, located outside Japan.

The conference also discussed Shinto, Japanese Emperor worship, and concluded that "it was evident that the pre-war system of providing state subsidies for Shinto shrines and clergy organizations must not be resumed after the treaty."

Reuters in Canberra said a leading Australian authoritative that the British commonwealth nations intend to maintain a mission as a unit with Japan to the United Nations Commission there.

Reuters said it learned from a reliable source that Australia clashed with other commonwealth delegations over the future of Japan's civil airways and the composition of its police force.

Opposing proposals that Japan should be allowed her own civil aviation fleet, Australia, nearest commonwealth land to Japan, pointed out that such a fleet would provide the nucleus of an air force, the source stated.

Oslo, Aug. 28. (AP)—A Norwegian Airlines flying boat crashed in the Lofoten Mountains today, killing all 35 persons aboard, the company announced.

The Sandringham flying boat carried 27 passengers and a crew of eight. It was en route to Stavanger from Tromsoe when the crash occurred.

The chief pilot, Capt. Buer, was a distinguished Norwegian airman. Among the victims was the company's chief inspector, Jarle Ebbesen.

The big plane burned for several hours after it crashed.

Eye-witnesses said they heard an explosion echoing through the mountains as the plane plummeted through the fog and rain.

The airline said one American citizen, identified so far only as Mrs. Jess, was among those killed.

Premier, Highway Minister, Open Red Lake Road

Red Lake, Ont., Aug. 28—(CP)—Premier Drew of Ontario and Highways Minister Doucett yesterday officially opened the 107-mile Red Lake highway before thousands of Indians, Prey and Kenora district residents.

The two ministers unveiled a plaque near the banks of Perrault Falls that declared the new road, which stretches from Red Lake, Canada highway in the south to the Ontario-Manitoba border in the north, now open to public transportation.

Mr. Doucett, exhibiting skill with the axe, later chopped through a heavy tree stretching across the gravel surface. He then presented the axe to the chief as a memento of the occasion.

In a brief address Premier Drew said the new highway represented a great achievement on the part of Mr. Doucett and the surveyors, engineers and contractors who had worked through seven months to give Red Lake its first highway link with the outside world.

He said the Red Lake road was the first major highway built in Ontario since the end of the war and that it had been built faster than any other comparable project in the province.

Company, Union Officials to Confer On Labor Dispute

Toronto, Aug. 28 (CP)—Swift Canadian Company officials were scheduled to meet today with representatives of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.) in an effort to write a new agreement which would end the strike that strike now in its second day.

The strike involving close to 4,000 workers in Moncton, N.B., Toronto, St. Boniface, Man., Moose Jaw, Sask.; Edmonton and New Westminster, B.C., was called when negotiations of a new master agreement providing for higher wage rates broke down.

It was expected that if the strike continued it would reduce meat supplies across the country cut down butter stocks and possibly affect Canadian meat shipments to Britain, Union officials said.

Packing Company officials in London, Ont., declared that their meat supplies there would dwindle to one-third of normal if the strike lasted until Saturday. Meat now in transit from the west would help the situation, it was said.

The Union seeks a wage increase of 15 cents an hour in the Toronto plant and 20 cents an hour in the west. Rates during the basic rate to 92 cents an hour. Other issues include a union shop and a guaranteed week. The present guaranteed 37 1-2-hour work week.

The U.P.W.A. called the walkout after charging a "lockout" by the Canadian Packers Association of Union Stewards in Toronto. The company said the workers "locked out" New Westminster employees had refused to work a shortened week allowed by the Toronto suspension. In Toronto the Union denied the slowdown charge and said production had fallen off during the recent heat wave.

Meantime negotiations with Canada Packers and Dominion Company continued. Union publicity director John Leaglet said last night talks were proceeding "satisfactorily" with those firms.

Hero of Campaign Likely Candidate To Head Govt.

Athens, Aug. 28 — (AP)—Generalissimo Alexander Papagos, hero of the Greek-Italian campaign in 1941, was mentioned increasingly today as the probable party candidate to head a "neutral" coalition Greek government to end a cabinet crisis now in its sixth day.

Premier-designate Constantin Tsaldaris, thwarted in his efforts to organize a government, calculated a meeting today with political leaders who participated in the cabinet of Demetrios Maximos, which fell last week, to examine the possibility of forming a new coalition.

The Ioanninia correspondent for the Athens newspaper Kathimerini reported that well-equipped Greek rifle force of more than 3000 men moving southeastward toward Agrafa had been engaged in a major battle.

This apparently was a portion of the force which the guerrilla radio said had been attacked by 100 villages and over 350 square miles of Greek territory in the north.

GROUNDS DISTINCT CREDIT TO STAFF OF PUBLIC INSTITUTION

One of the most favorable immediate impressions that visitors to the Belleville Institution for the Feeble Minded at Rossmore, on the Bloomfield road, receive is that of the grounds. Green, sloping, well-kept lawns form an attractive background to the buildings, and there is a pleasing touch of color to the scene in the flower beds which are scattered here and there on the lawns between the buildings. The way between the plant and the flowers, the green lawns, the trees and gleaming brass of the power cars and the white wings of graceful birds, all combine to give the deep greens of the lawns and the shadowy bases of wooded banks across the bay.

Institution Plant officials yesterday intimated that in the not too distant future the hill on the south side of the bay, where the grounds may be removed and the whole scene will be changed. The present appearance of the grounds is a distinct credit to the staff of the "waterworks department" stationed at the plant.

The reason for ducks opens on September 15, the hunting season for partridge this year can be judged a critterion, then Donald Duck is in for plenty of action.

Mrs. E. J. Murray, 228 Charles Street, Belleville, was the lucky winner of the 4.8 horsepower outboard motor at the draw held in the sports hanger at the Trenton Air Station last evening.

Strangely enough Mrs. Murray did not buy the ticket herself. It was purchased in her name by her sister, Mrs. J. H. Little, 14 Lloyd of Charles Street. Mrs. Murray intends to use the motor herself and she is a keen boating enthusiast.

POLICE COURT

Tourists Fined For Not Having Fishing Licences

Three American tourists contributed $15 to the county coffers and in addition had their fishing tackle confiscated when they were apprehended by Game Warden Fred MacIlroy in Point Anne, for failure to produce a non-resident fishing licence.

Two of the tourists were fined for failure to produce a fishing licence, while the third was fined $10 for having in his possession illegal fish, small mouth bass less than ten inches in length.

Court proceedings were of short duration, considering the quality of traffic cases settled out of court.

Albert Haines, Desoronto, appeared on a charge of illegal possession of liquor, and an additional charge of attempting to supply an Indian with intoxicating liquors. Charges were laid last May but police were unable to locate the accused. Haines pleaded not guilty to both charges and was remanded in custody for one week to give him the opportunity to secure services of counsel.

Ice Situation Not Drastic In City Say Local Dealers

Despite abnormally hot weather throughout August, Belleville ice dealers say that there is a plentiful supply of ice supplies and the shortage will not be felt in this city.

A check with the two local ice dealers revealed that the situation would be relieved within a few days. Both dealers stated that they were not at all concerned over the situation and that they had a plentiful supply on hand. Cutting will begin September 1st and will begin in earnest by the middle of September. The ice is now 18 inches thick on the Moira River and 12 inches on the Bay and a week's run will cut all the ice needed.

The principality in the increase in population for requirements in Belleville this year is the 10 percent greater than at the start of the war; according to one dealer. On the other hand the other dealer stated that there was a shortage of ice but the supply of ice was plentiful. Both dealers agreed that there were more ice dealers in the city than the city needed.

The quality of ice this year is the best in years, both dealers declared. The cold weather has been partly responsible for the quality of the ice and the ample supply of water.

Ice dealers in other cities are difficult when from Toronto or Lake Simcoe district, but this is likely to be the last year as the Belleville dealers are planning to go to these two centres.

Picton dealers are rounding short of ice, at least one dealer from that centre sought Belleville local supplies from a few days ago.

Helicopter Gives Good Demonstration Of Everything a Plane Shouldn't Do

We've seen a den blotto after pecking away at mash from a still.

We've witnessed the dumbie story staggering under a load after inhaling a copious draught of the same mixture.

We've seen a parrot gawking raucously with bleary look in his eye after a particularly jokey sailor had deposited a tot of rum in its lower beak.

Everything at the Trenton Air Station was the first time we've ever seen an aircraft acting suspiciously. The craft, a helicopter, under the management of Flight Lieutenant Pat Clarke gave an excellent imitation of a blotto on a binge.

The elongated machine with its whirling wings, introduced in 1942 by a considered magnit, Mr. Thomas said, and many have been sold as were during the entire season last year.

Claims High Nazis Directing Campaign Against the Allies

Nuernberg, Germany, Aug. 28 —(AP)— High Nazis, operating from a secret hideout, a conviction was confirmed today in directing a campaign by turn the German people against the allies and back to the ideology of Adolph Hitler.

The story comes from Dr. Karl Gebhardt, personal physician to Heinrich Himmler, who has been sentenced to hang with Karl Brandt, Hitler's chief surgeon, others convicted of torturing thousands of victims in experiments.

The hatchet-faced Gebhardt gave only a stoney silence, but declared he had been in secret communication with the organization.

Who is in it, how many, how it is financed and how it operates, he declined to say, but he did say that it functioned "out of Switzerland."

American interrogators said they believed they concealed the true location.

Gebhardt said the group insured him he would work to show the German people the true spirit of the trials and "not war criminals.

The interrogators said enough one-time scientists still remain at large to make such an intellectual underground highly formidable. The top preacher of the West creed, Martin Bormann, deputy to Hitler, never has been found.

There was a large attendance Sunday evening last at Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, when Mr. Arnold Campbell, of Belleville was the speaker, and the soloist was Mr. Alfred Bunnett of Burnbrae, a former Mt. Pleasant boy, whose singing was much enjoyed.

The service, sponsored by the Mt. Pleasant W.M.S., was in charge of Mr. Orro Sharpe, president, and Mrs. Anderson of Rawdon, Que., who is convener of Nat. Conv.

An enjoyable singsong of hymns from the Canadian Hymnal preceded the regular service, with Mrs. Malcolm Sharp at the piano. Mrs. Burton Sharp read the Bible lesson.

Mr. Campbell based his remarks on the theme, "Life, and the Opportunities It Brings," and emphasized the fact that individual Christians should pattern their lives according to the principals of Christ, "For," he said, "in no other way can the Kingdom of God be established on earth. Today so called Christian people in our land are exploiting other people in foreign countries." The speaker illustrated the power of prayer, and said, "Very few people realize the good that can be done through prayer."

Before closing the service Mr. Sharpe thanked the speaker for his timely message.

Germans Requested To Put Down All Disorderly Incidents

Berlin, Aug. 28 — (AP) — The Nazi military administration, through its official newspaper, today sharply warned the Germans that street disorders such as those in Berlin represented a resurgence of Bolshevism "must be put down by the Germans or it will be done again by foreign powers."

The newspaper, Tangliche Rundschau cited the recent incidents as the smashing of a monument to Field Marshal von Hindenburg, the desecration of Jewish cemeteries, the tearing down of placards posted by the German-controlled Socialist Unity party and a demonstration at which a group of Germans were reported to have sung the "Horst Wessel" song.

"Such evil folks," the paper observed.

"It is the task of the Germans themselves to nip in the bud this new fascist threat. It would be a greatest misfortune for Germany if foreign powers were required to do the job again."

Calithumpian Parade, Air Show And Sports Main Features At R.C.A.F. Annual Field Day

Vivid aeroplane sky and in the weather aside to offer the part of the Trenton Air station their thirteenth annual sports day and air show, the event was held yesterday afternoon and evening, and was attended by thousands of persons from this city and district.

The program got away with a monster calithumpian parade which was staged at 2.30 o'clock. The various units, with the Trenton Military Band in the lead, marched around the aerodrome, circling the sports field and grandstand, and then proceeded to the hangar where the parade was disbanded.

Following the parade the sports and air show got under way, with the 100 yd. dash, F.-Lt. Currie, ACS Spooner and AC2 Soden, ACS Cowan and ACS Soden, LAC King, Cpl Doherty, and LAC Smith, Medical Section, competing.

At the conclusion of the parade Group Captain H. H. C. Rutledge, O.B.E., officially opened the sports day and event by event. The athletic program commenced with, so many individual events taking place, that the program it was hard to see them all. Warrant Officer John Silver was at the microphone calling off the various events for the information of the spectators.

The athletic interest strained and perspired for dear old alma mater an air show was in progress over the field. Flying Officer Gray did flips and slow rolls, climbed and dived, much to the admiration of the great delight of the spectators. After the athletic program, during which fifty or more young men competed for the honor at the same time—came the helicopter.

Weird, Wonderful Machine

It is a weird and wonderful machine, and proved the field several times and then stopped right in the air. As if stopping wasn't the right habit began to fly the delivery plane backwards, sideways, straight up and straight down. When the wonder was at its peak, he brought the machine in front and to side. Several spectators reached into their hip pockets for their cameras, but apparently contained murmuring something about the danger of the photographic qualities of the plane were shown in its entirety. Eventually when a dummy was hauled up from the ground into the aluminum interior. The machine, literally, spun in tight circles, spun in slow circles, and then finally landed on its rotors.

All during the sports program and the helicopter exhibition model airplanes flew overhead. Almost a dozen planes were watching the antics of the midget planes. There were speed, pylon, and stunt classes. The little planes were wound their propellers by means of cords which operated the tail flaps. Many climbed to great heights, and displayed their larger counterparts.

Aquatic Program

After some delay the aquatic program got under way with a splash. Several well tanned young men, and a beautiful girl began to float through the air with the abandon of the birds. Then in the water they resembled nothing so much as a school of fish. They were triphibious creatures in the true sense of the word.

The 50 yard life style swim was won by the representative from No. 6 R.C.A.F. Station, Aerodrey Corps Cpl. Alboda won by a finger. The 75-yard team medley was won by No. 6 R.D.U. team.

Sergeant Monaco, as the best dressed clown in swimming, beat moths of the Trenton Air Station swimming pool, coaching, pulled the first prize for the straight drawers, from the Picton Armory around. They were the former W.D., now Miss Stewart, and Miss Hall, and the two were the only twenty-five ward nurses in the district to win the women's novelty race.

Many Pleasure Boats Visit City

Despite high water, the influx of pleasure craft this year to Belleville has been one of the best in the city's history, an authorative source said today.

From the palatial Rochester, N.Y., yacht, "Widgeon" to small sailing craft, a large number of nautical holiday seekers put into the bay here during the summer season.

Craft of all descriptions were included in the vacation invasion. From Toronto and even Buffalo they came, while some salt-water craft were also included.

At one time there were fifteen boats of all descriptions anchored here while over them standing silent guard was the veteran freighter "Glen Allan".

HOLE IN ROADWAY CAUSES CAR TO GO OUT OF CONTROL

Fender and body damage resulted to an auto owned by Arthur Wesley, manager of J. J. Cash Company when as the vehicle was parked in front of the plant on Grier Street it was sidewiped by a passing vehicle.

James Gray, Kingston, was driving along Grier Street, when his car dropped into a hole in the road throwing the vehicle momentarily out of control and causing it to swerve into the side of the Wesley car.

The hole in the road was stated to have been caused by the fill in a sewer excavation sinking below the roadway. Public works department had excavated for a sewer and had filled in the trench.

Two other minor accidents were reported to police, both resulted in but damage to headlights or fenders.

Disappearance of radios from stores during shopping hours is getting to be a habit in the city. The radio had apparently been picked up and carried out of the store unknown to clerks.

Garratt Island at West Lake Shakes As 12½-Pound Pickerel Landed

Veteran fishermen of Wellington, Ont., who have been scratching their heads in wonderment at a strange freak of nature, are now happy and satisfied.

For the mystery of the sudden movement of Garratt's Island in West Lake at least three feet from its original site, has been solved.

A short time ago, local Isaak Waltons delving into the waters of the lake stared in awe at mysterious shakings of the island. It dipped first one way—then the other. Tall trees bowed in courtly grace. Stony beaches flipped pebbles three feet in the air.

Boats on the placid surface of the lake rocked gently as the island veered to and fro.

But now the mystery has been cleared up.

It seems that a well-known Belleville Rotarian, was indulging in some painless pickerel extraction from a powered boat near the island.

Moving slowly through the thick weed beds, he felt his line ... This continued for some forty minutes.

"Wait a minute," he said, "I've every weed in this blankety-blank lake on my hook." He started to pull on the line. He alternately pulled and tugged for the next half-hour. The island began to rock in a strange manner. His hook apparently had snapped on one of its supports. Finally a friend came to his aid. And again began the strange tug-of-war.

Finally, nearly exhausted, the friend handed the line to its owner. Again he pulled, slowly the line came in. The island settled down on its base with a mighty sigh, and the fishermen nearly fell out of the boat in amazement when they saw what they had hooked.

The big fish came nearer. The Rotarian's friend made ready with a large net. He stood on his feet, poised like an ancient gladiator. Slowly the fish drew closer. It came near the boat. Came a mighty swish as the net described a large arc through the air.

But near disaster fell. The net failed to envelope the fish but struck it, knocking it loose from the hook.

Quick as a flash, the Rotarian's friend acted. Raising the net again he made a desperate lunge at the fish—free in the water.

He came up with it—a handsome pickerel which tilted the scales at 12 1-2 pounds.

Dutch War Bride Helping Homeland

The Pas, Man., Aug. 28 (CP)—A Dutch war bride who, as a nurse and member of the underground, saw at first hand the poverty and distress the Second World War brought to the thrifty Netherlands is helping her homeland from this northern Manitoba town.

Mrs. Joseph Boschler, born Guutrke Welples of Amesterdam and now the wife of a truck driver here, is operating a nursery for Canadian children in her spare time. From the money she obtains she purcheses food parcels for needy Dutch, and already has sent more than a dozen to widows in Amsterdam, Zaamdam and other cities.

Along with the food she sends blankets and clothing, much of it donations from The Pas families who sympathize with her work.

She opened the nursery a few weeks ago more as a spare-time hobby than anything and because she likes children. Then she found more and more parents entrusting their children to her, sometimes for as long as two days and these parents insisted upon paying her. From this sprang her idea of helping the needy in her home land.

Food Resources Hard to Gauge Due To Black Market

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP) — Black market operations make it "difficult, if not impossible," for European countries to survey their food resources accurately, a United States agriculture department report contends.

The document, bearing a "confidential" label, was prepared for a congressional investigating committee which sailed for Europe yesterday to make a first-hand study of foreign needs. A copy of the 97-page report was made available to a reporter.

It provides a country-by-country summary of food and agriculture conditions throughout western Europe based on "the latest information available."

The foreword, however, says the report has been classed as confidential because "the production figures ... for some countries will not agree with the official estimates supplied by the Minister of Agriculture."

No countries in this category were listed by name. But the report itself says that throughout Europe "government intervention is general, in the production collection and distribution of most agricultural products.

"This intervention has been linked with a system of compulsory farm collections and fixed prices to farmers....

"Because of the shortage of food, this system of distribution has made it profitable for farmers in most countries to market any surplus products through black markets.

"It has encouraged farmers to understate their production in order to reduce the quantities which they must deliver to the government and leave them additional quantities which they can dispose of more profitibly."

The Stoical British

The British Government's action yesterday slashing funds for travel to foreign countries as well as reducing the meat rationing and further restricting use of gasoline to the former wartime basis must make Britons ask anew "who was the bloomin war anyhow?".

It had been thought that they were at the irrifuchible limit of their patience with intolerably food monotony, shortages of almost everything they wanted and the everlasting queues. Now once again they are being asked for further sacrifices which we presume they will accept without too much protest.

Canadians who have visited the Old Country within the past few months are unanimous regarding the rather grim situation of food. They stress the lack of the fresh fruits, as we know them, too little meat and the small quantity of clothing available to those of a nation which produces some of the finest in the world. We wonder what other free nation would carry out the edicts of the government with as little internal disturbance as the British people have. Apparently the best of their factory production that they may get the raw materials in return to keep the workers employed.

Add to this the knowledge that Britain's trade is bound to drop further now that India is no longer part of the Empire, the continuing trouble in Palestine, withdrawal from Egypt and continually plagued by monetary and material shortages, the attraction of Russian unfriendly policy until it may be asked how much longer can the British carry the load without cracking.

We have no hesitation in believing they will beat these adverse factors but it is going to take years until they can accumulate the reserves they need. Apparently government circumstances leave them no other way of getting a breathing space as it were, except by practising the utmost in economies in national spending both by the government and by the people themselves. We believe the British know this and will accept the latest restrictions with the same fortitude they have accepted greater perils in the past but they always came out winners at the end.

Tin Shortage Looms

There appears to be some apprehension in trade circles of a shortage of tin in Canada for canning purposes, according to a Canadian Press despatch. Just how soon this may be felt is rather problematical but it may come some time this Fall.

From the world allocation of tin, Canada will need to draw in the last half of the year more than 5,000 tons of what she got in the first six months if essential stocks for current needs are going to be kept up. No doubt when this sad news gets around a lot of Canadian husbands will begin to feel abused. However, it may have its compensations for many a housewife may have to trade in her can-opener for a cookbook if the "great crisis" is the worst.

In this new-whirlwind against Canadian male's digestive equilibrium really develops, he can blame tin for submitting him to three of those home-cooked meals a day. But the future in the stomach ulcer department isn't as dark as that sounds. For Canada stands to get, in the last six months of this year, considerably more than she received in the opening half of the year, and how much she will get, though, is still very much of a question.

In the first six months the Dominion got 1,040 tons out of the world pool. For the last half she needs 2,500 tons to keep up with requirements. These are in addition to some 400 tons she turns out herself.

"While this quantity may not be received," says Canada's Trade Department, "production is increasing rapidly." Second half allocations it says should be "much larger" than the earlier half. Nevertheless, it cautions optimistic makes, until world production jumps, the unrestricted use of tin will continue to be out in Canada.

In other words, the question of what's on the table after the wife's afternoon bridge game depends on what's cooking down in Malaya.

Full Exchange Disclosure Needed

The Government would do well to heed the emphatic demand from Mr. J. M. Macdonnell, prominent financial critic, for fuller, franker disclosure of Canada's predicament in regard to the sterling-dollar pool. Countless Canadians undoubtedly share Mr. Macdonnell's belief that they are being "treated as children," and left mystified and confused as to where Canada stands in an ominous financial situation.

Mr. Macdonnell also properly urges not only forthright declaration of the precise dangers involving Canada, but action to forestall them through which all is not direct and open, rather than indirect and inexplicable, says the Montreal Gazette. There is no reason why Canadians generally, confronted with a far-reaching problem of national import, should be left in the dark as to its development or the means taken to grapple with it.

The explanatory statement issued a few days ago by Hon. D. C. Abbott, Finance Minister, was definite enough as far as it went. But it merely clarified two relatively secondary aspects of Canada's foreign exchange position, and in effect assured only the preservation of the status quo for the time being in regard to three two points. It failed to give any comprehensive exposition of Canada's exchange dilemma, the effect upon it of Britain's acute shortage of U.S. dollars, or what the Dominion Government proposes to do.

The strain on Canada's exchange resources and trade position is reflected in the swelling of our adverse trade balance with the U.S. to nearly $500 millions in the first half of this year. At the same time, the heavy run by North American and other countries to convert sterling into U.S. dollars has forced Britain to suspend the convertibility privilege and to halt further drawings from the $3½ billion loan, putting a basic overhauling of her trade and fiscal relations with the U.S., the Gazette comments.

Mr. Abbott has stated that Britain has not suspended her undertaking to pay part of her adverse trade balance with Canada in U.S. dollars, which hitherto have been transferred to some extent from U.S. loan credits. But it is not definitely clear as to whether Britain intends or will be able to continue this arrangement, or otherwise how Canada can meet her own deficiency of U.S. dollars.

In view of the prospective heavy strain this year on Canada's reserves of gold and U.S. dollars, these are questions which should be answered as fully and as promptly as possible.

Corn on the Cob Treat of the Season

The rich, yellow sweet corn is one of the greatest joys of the harvest season, as hundreds of thousands of Canada and the United States will readily testify at the present time. In Canada, however, its full richness is somewhat stifled by motherly and wifely warnings of "go easy on the butter," that necessity to the full flavor of the treat having soared in price again recently. Across the border a substitute allows for healthy indulgence.

Sweet corn is one of the continent's oldest treats, although more or less "young" by comparison to other members of its family. A member, rather a scion, of the oldest cereal family on the North American continent, sweet corn itself is said to have been introduced to white man only about two centuries ago. The Indians are reported to have called it peqqum, either due to its youth in comparison with the old white, yellow, red and blue strains of maize, grown here down through unknown centuries, or because it was formerly given to the puppooses to help in cutting their teeth. Recent hybridization has introduced many new strains, which the seed houses claim, rightly or wrongly, to be sweeter and extra early, as well as larger on the cob. Their claims may be right; but, as our memory serves us, that old sweet favorite, golden bantam, of small cob, but with big juicy kernels, can not be surpassed for flavor by the newcomers.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

Since she came into service last October the queen Elizabeth has established the leading position in trans-Atlantic travel. According to a survey just published in New York, during the first five months of this year she carried 49,232 passengers, far more than achieved by any other liner. This total was also greater than that carried by all aircraft of the seven International airlines between Europe and the U.S.A. during the first six months of 1946.

THE BLESSING

"The Lord has given and called away."
So does the verse of Scripture run.
But it takes faith sublime to say
Ungrudgingly: "Thy will be done."

So sharp the sting when hurt appears!
So deep the sigh, so loud the moan!
Forgotten seem the happy years
And all the blessings we have known.

Of every joy that we receive
Loss is the measure and the test,
For just as truly as we grieve
Time was as truly we were blest.

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

How do an heir apparent and presumptive differ?

Strictly speaking, no person has an heir apparent unless he may have heirs apparent and heirs presumptive.

An heir apparent (the term means nothing else) is evidently a person whose degree of relationship will make him the heir in the natural course of law provided he outlives the ancestor or possessor. His right to the inheritance is indefeasible, and if he lives long enough he will inherit without question.

An heir presumptive, on the other hand, has no such indefeasible right. He is one who is at present next in the line of succession and who would inherit if the ancestor or possessor should die immediately, but whose future expectation or hope is liable to be cut off by the birth of a person more closely related or by some other event or contingency. In other words, there is only for the time being a presumption in favor of his becoming the heir-at-law.

For instance, the eldest son of a hereditary king is an heir apparent, because he will automatically succeed to the crown if he outlives the father; but the brother of such a king who is childless would be only heir presumptive, because he may be supplanted in the line of succession by a child born to the king.

King Edward VIII automatically succeeded his father, George V, to the throne of England. His brother, the Duke of York, was only heir presumptive, because if Edward VIII had remained on the throne, he and his direct descendants line the Duke of York's right of succession would have been removed.

There seems to be no foundation for the theory that "apparent" in this connection is not the ordinary adjective "apparent" but is derived either from "parvunt" or "parvent," from "to appear, separate," related.

Formerly "apparent" was used as a noun in the sense of heir apparent and this obsolete usage occurs in Shakespeare's III King Henry VI when Edward, the Prince of Wales, says that he will draw his sword "as apparent to the crown."

WANT HEMLINES UP

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 28 — (AP) — Shouting "Keep prices down and hemlines up," Louisville's "Little Below the Knee Club" staged a downtown rally last night and, with a men's auxiliary, declared war on new fashions which call for longer skirts.

A cheering, whistling crowd listened to speakers who advanced several arguments for maintaining present hemline heights.

Mrs. Belle Evans, club chairman, had this to say about long skirts: "You can't walk in them. Also, they take too darn long to iron."

Former German Prison Camp Now Newest Jail Farm

Monteith, Ont., Aug. 28 (CP) — A camp which once housed as many as 5,000 German prisoners of war is taking on a new significance as Ontario's newest industrial jail farm.

Short-term prisoners from Cochrane and Timiskaming districts are working eight hours a day on the 1,000-acre farm which it is estimated will take a year to complete. The program calls for the removal of 46 of the 76 buildings scattered over 800 acres near this northern community on the Transcontinental highway about 40 miles north of Kirkland Lake.

Already four big dormitory buildings have been dismantled and sent to the provincial farm at Burwash near Sudbury. Another has gone to a government office in the Red Lake mining area in northwestern Ontario.

The huts, which housed the Nazis are to be torn down by Reconstruction Minister Slated to go, too, are the 12 guard towers, the double rows of barbed wire, the electrically-charged fence and the closely-grouped floodlights. Byproduct lumber cut field may cover military roads, construction of drainage pipes, fences and even the secret tunnels burrowed by the prisoners.

A new career has begun for the Monteith establishment which Major D. H. Ross, Germans observed successively as an agricultural college and a church for Russian Doukhobors, and it now follows the "open custody" system.

The work of converting the camp to peacetime use was less onerous than was expected, officials said. Besides the new jail farm says The Germans left the huts unmarked and windows unbroken.

But they destroyed personal and public property. Plumbing and pipes, instruments they could not take with them, money to equip two fine bands. Before leaving, the Germans carried in other camps, they also dump and burned grain in a mighty bonfire.

Exhibition Means Fine Horses, Cows To Canadians

Toronto, Aug. 28 — (CP)—To some, the exhibition means dazzling girly shapes, candy floss, hamburgers and holiday days, but to rural Canadians the Canadian National Exhibition means horses and cows and fine grain and winning vegetables.

With interest in the livestock buildings getting under way, today is the opening session of the "Ex" for the countless people from rural communities who have left the farms.

The 6,300 stalls house sleek cattle, big wigs, wooly sheep, fine horses with flowing manes and clean-cut tails, contented pigs who wallow in fresh straw a foot deep. One prize herd proudly wears coverings of purple and gold.

Everywhere there is last minute grooming, fussing, primping, trimming and pedicuring.

The exhibition includes the most curiosity is a display of West Highland white Grigtishly from the Scottish Highlands. Proudly are their rugged heritage in short, shaggy coats, their heads with bushy brows hair, they have long, curved horns, 18 to 24 inches long.

The pride of the agriculture department this year is the horse parade. More than 1,100 entries have been received for the show and some 350 horses are entered in the breeding classes.

"This is the greatest all-Canadian show of horse-flesh ever held," manager Sam Foster said. Entries in the entries are from Ontario and Quebec — 99 per cent Canadian.

Harness classes are the most gratifying this year, with nine classes drawing as many as 18 entries.

THE HEART MUSCLE

From the queries I receive it is apparent that many people confuse the heart muscle with voluntary muscle or muscles in the arms.

The heart muscle is the heart. Aside from involuntary hollow muscle, the heart is composed of lining membranes (endocardium), which lines all the chambers and is continuous with the lining membrane of the arteries and veins and with the covering of the four valves—mitral, aortic, pulmonary and tri-cuspid. Then heart is covered by a separate membranous cloak we called the pericardium.

In the booklet CVD (about heart and artery troubles) you will find more detailed but not harmful information. Send for the booklet send twenty-five cents stamped self addressed envelope).

Here suffice to say that, in my opinion—and there are many—I guess, that I am no specialist or authority but I am a practising garden variety of doctor—in my opinion the long continued calcium deficiency through the years of growing childhood, youth and adult life is the underlying cause of the excessive incidence or prevalence of coronary thrombosis (CVD), which we so frequently encounter in professional and other responsibilities—phobony. Calcium deficiency is the underlying cause of rickets, tooth decay, pyorrhea, etc. Vitamin D and other essentials I eat with lunch or with breakfast cereal, and supplement wise everybody—children, youths and adults—to eat every day as a supplement to the nutritionally inadequate modern American diet. Essentials are calcium, phosphorus and iodine, together with D and vitamin B1 (riboflavin) and vitamin D.

The ordinary mixed diet of American does not supply the deficient in calcium that in any other essentials and vitamins except possibly vitamin B complex (particularly thiamine and riboflavin), because most people do not consume enough milk and milk products and do not choose the richest food sources of calcium. Therefore, we should all sufficiently expose themselves to sunshine or other source to manufacture enough vitamin D to insure good metabolism, utilization and retention of the calcium they do get in food or medicine or food supplements. The only natural food sources of vitamin D are mass-milk, cream, butter, egg yolk oysters, and other sea-food fish such as salmon—hardly supply enough vitamin D because of these foods in the ordinary diet. Adequate amounts of vitamin D are required for good assimilation and utilization of calcium.

Adequate daily intake of calcium is required not only to maintain normal growth and repair but to regulate the stability of nerve fibres and nerve centres and maintain vigorous contraction of the heart muscle. These are physiological facts, not theory. Any one who thinks opinion or belief that calcium advantage is an important factor of heart disease, stroke, breakdown in Yankeeland is mine.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Dope Habit

My sister takes as many as half a dozen (shots of dope dispensed in effervescent form at any soda fountain) a day. She says it keeps her going when she would have to give up from sheer exhaustion without it. I worry about it.

(Mrs. C. F. M.

Answer—Well you may. Your sister is headed for disaster. Each dose of the nostrum contains a large amount of sodium-bicarbonate (common baking soda) a blood destroyer, heart stopper, and your sister under medical care. Send twenty-five cents for booklet here asked and envelope for pamphlet CVD (about heart and artery troubles). It contains a chapter on the acidosis-alkalosis habit.

The Old Man's Curse

Isn't there an injection method or an electrical method for bladder trouble from enlarge prostrate? Some fellow here tells to know only about operation, and certainly I don't intend (C. A. J.)

Answer—There were two men, both boat Dr. Both had prostratic obstruction. One operated by the doctor's advice, submitted to operation, and in a month was right back in fine fettle. The other, like yourself, certainly did not, intend etc., went from bad to worse. You might make your own choice. Send stamped self addressed envelope for pamphlet on prostatic obstruction. In some cases, if taken early, transurethalic resection, or surgical removal or permanent relief—this generally requires only a week or less in hospital.

German Girl Wants Wedding But George Balks

Potchefstroom, South African (CP) — George, a young South African ax-soldier whom a German girl, Marianne Buchal of Munich, wants to marry, has retraced to a spot near here. But George denies that he was ever engaged to her.

Marianne wrote to the Sunday Times from the United States zone in Germany appealing "out of a saddened heart" for help in tracing a former South African officer whom she had helped while he was a prisoner of war. She had lost her pocketbook and could only remember that his name was George and that he lived somewhere near Johannesburg.

"I love him dearly," she wrote in the letter that was published on the front page of the Sunday Times, "and want to become his wife as we agreed.

"I don't know whether she fell in love with me," said George, "but I never gave her the impression that I was in love with her because I was not."

It all began when George was on a working party in Bremen employed as a bandsman for a bricklayer on constructing air raid shelters.

George admits the friendship saying: "In November, 1945, I met this girl. I and my bricklayer were at the time converting the basement of a business place into an air raid shelter. Some valuable documents belonging to the firm were looted in a store room in the basement. Marianne used to fetch some of the documents every morning. That is where we met and started talking to each other. The acquaintanceship developed into very friendly terms."

Swift's Meats for Babies

Meat gives your baby a better chance for his best growth and development!

MOTHER! Here's why Swift's Meats for Babies meet the exacting requirements of infant feeding

1 Good nutrition—for growth

Your baby grows so fast he needs three to four times more protein, proportionately, than you do! He gets complete high-quality protein in Swift's Meats for Babies—important vitamins and iron, too, for good red blood! Remember, a small amount of meat is a mixture of foods does not meet baby's big protein need. Be sure—feed Swift's Meats for Babies . . . they're all meat.

2 Compact nourishment—baby's stomach is small

Your baby is so tiny he can eat only a small amount of food each day—yet he is building his body for life! Every day he needs the nutrients meat provides so abundantly. No other food is added to Swift's Meats for Babies. They furnish the body-building goodness of meat in compact form.

3 Controlled feeding—for individual needs

Ready-mixed food combinations may be all right for one baby—wrong for your baby. That's why doctors recommend feeding baby's foods separately . . . so you can control and balance the amounts easily. Swift's Strained and Diced Meats make it easy for you to feed your baby the exact amount of meat that's right for him.

4 Variety—to form good eating habits

Your baby needs a variety of tastes and textures in his diet, to help form nutritionally sound eating habits. Try feeding baby's foods separately—not all mixed together—so you can know the individual flavours of a variety of foods. Swift's Meats for Babies acquaint your baby with six wholesome, distinctive flavours of meats he will be eating all his life.

Ask your doctor what is a correct diet for baby at home! Doctors — or Swift's Diced Meats. Your nearby food store has them now.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Is This Girl Really in Love?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going with a young man for a year and a half, and he is 24 and I am 19. We expect to be married very soon. He has never been married, but has been trying her best to break up us. She knows that he is in love with me and that he is not handsome. She says I could do much better.

Do you think I should listen to her and continue with him, or that I love very much?

"Worried"

Dear "Worried":

If you are so uncertain of your feelings that you are willing to listen to what others say about your sweetheart, you had better take a good, long time about making up your mind whether you really love him or not. You tell me you love him very much, but that seems hard to believe when you can be swayed so easily by opposition. If I were you, I'd be willing to be sure just how to have him myself, but I'd bring to you to let him go so as to have a clear field.

After going with a man for a year and a half, you certainly should get to know the sort of person he is. If you've found him congenial all that time and honest, dependable and kind and generally in love with you, into the bargain—what more do you want for heaven's sake? If that isn't enough, I'm sure I don't know what is. If it's not, then you're certainly not ready to be engaged to him, let alone marry the man.

"Much Ado About Nothing".

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been going steadily with a boy of my own age for the last three years. We are very much in love with each other.

There is another boy who is a friend of mine. Before I started going steady, I had lots of chances to go with him, but he was very good friends and he found we could never make a go of it. My girl friends think that I love this boy, but my own boy friend knows that I do not. Even though my friends think this is because, when I don't see him other times, I never mention him, or think about him until I see him again.

Just recently I went out with him much when he is not around with my own boy friend, but I don't like the one I had when my brother, he signed up during the war and was overseas.

I told my friends I was going to break up with my own boy friend, but I'm not sure yet. I'm afraid I'll be sorry if I do. Please help me to see the right way about it.

"A Faithful Reader".

Dear "Faithful Reader":

Since it seems to be of such importance to you to please your friends that I answer this letter, I will do so, but my own opinion is that this is a case of "Much ado about nothing". If you and your boy friend understand each other, it seems very silly to me that you should pay any attention to what your friends say about somebody else.

It is perfectly possible that your feeling about this second boy is of the same type that you might have for a brother. If your friends are of that opinion, my views on this subject, you have been there.

A Little Discretion Needed Here

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I met a very nice fellow recently and have seen him about four times since then and I've come to like him very much.

One of my girl friends told me I shouldn't go out with him because he is not the one for me. She said he is a nice fellow some time ago and that the girls in his neighborhood won't go out with him.

Now this fellow has told me all about the trouble and the accident that occurred. He has said that he is not going to drink any more again, regardless of what my girl friends say or do?

"Bewildered".

Dear "Bewildered":

Since you do not give me any clue whatever as to the trouble this fellow got into, e.g., form no opinion about whether or not you should go out with him. That is for you. Your girl friends may be right or they may be wrong, but that is not the sort of person with whom you should be seen, you will have to find that whether or not you take anybody's word for it. Personally, I think you could not be anything but broad-minded about the boy in the neighborhood who will not be a party to drinking.

I can hardly advise you without information on the subject, but I suggest that you use a little discretion in your relations with him.

It Would Be Wise to Wait Awhile

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 17 and very much in love with a boy of 22. We have been going for a while, but only for a year and have a great deal in common. About five months ago, he asked me to marry him, but we thought we were too young and I want to very much. We see each other only every other week-end, as he is in the Navy. But he expects to be discharged soon.

My folks have known about us for the past three months, but they told me to forget him because he lives too far away—he is in the Navy—a distant state—and because he is Protestant and I am Catholic. Otherwise they think he is a swell fellow.

He has told me that he is willing to change his religion. Should I disregard what my folks say? He said that after his discharge from the Navy, he would come to New York from his home to see me every other week. I think it is too much trouble for such a short time but I don't want to hurt his feelings or anything. Shouldn't he make it one a month instead?

"Mixed-Up".

Dear "Mixed-Up":

Your problem seems to be a rather confused mixture of small factors and large ones, and you had better get sorted out in your mind which the important things are and which the unimportant.

For instance, the point your parents raise about this young man's home being far away from yours does not seem to me very important. On the other hand, the fact of your difference in religion is an extremely important matter and not one to brush aside. It is something that should be given very serious consideration indeed before two young people decided to marry. There are many different questions that should be definitely settled in advance before any decisive steps are taken.

Frankly, you seem to me far too young to be thinking of marriage anyhow. At 17, a girl is hardly ready to undertake the adjustments necessary in marriage, particularly under the circumstances you describe. I suggest that you be a bit more cautious and that you do not let your feelings run away with you. Be friendly with this young man; if you wish to do so, let him come ago and that the girls in his neighborhood won't go out with him.

Now this fellow has told me all about the trouble and the accident that occurred. He has said that he is not going to drink any more again, regardless of what my girl friends say or do?

"Mixed-Up".

I think about all you can do now is to wait and see. Your boy friend ought to be out very soon and then you will see whether or not he continues to behave as he does now. As matters now stand, it seems to me that you are unnecessarily acting in a way that is not fair to him and that you are giving him no chance to show that you may be wasting temporarily your time of their affections. I am sure they will be glad to trust your judgment on your good sense of judgment.

Fashion Flashes

ON THE WING with a hooded trench coat makes for comfort. Pale beige rayon twill is used for a good travel coat with flared back that, when worn, has no shoulders, has a big collar look. Matching hood is worn for bad weather and front closing outline. Narrow sleeve cuff cuffs on moderate sleeves.

GENEROUS STOCKS of separate blouses and skirts are being ordered for fall. A nice daytime skirt is of black wool crepe, cut with flared back that opens over a contrasting panel down one side that needs a side hem slit.

SEASON AFTER SEASON the tricorne appears in almost every important collection. For fall, one designer shows a small tricorne of black velvet, but the upturned brim showing an underbrim of black velvet, with tiny black velvet bows at the corners. Lacy black veil is loosely draped.

INDISPENSIBLE is what most of us consider the well-handled black fable suit. A new model has a double-breasted, tuxedo jacket with double pocket flaps over the hip-line and jacket fullness at the sides below the waist to give a rounded look. It has tailored collar and cuffs are braid-edged.

IMPORTANT, indeed — much more so than the dressy dress is the little frock that is worn every day, day in, noon in night, for all but scheduled events. Fine wool jersey in the luxurious brown is used for a neat frock that features the long torso line with a full skirt. Self-tie belt that is bow-tied at one side. Revere collar, and three-quarter skirt. Small white pique collar.

LUXURY PLUS is how best to describe some of the new evening fashions now being ordered by store buyers. A most original model is of snowy ermine, a sleeveless wrap with short, ruffled cap sleeves, that is worn over a fitted metal brocade waistcoat with long, slim ermine sleeves.

The reeve thanked the club for having assisted such fine rest rooms, which are fully equipped with chesterfield and easy chairs, and he expressed his desire that the public will assist in keeping them fine. Mr. West said in part, "As mayor of this village I personally am very proud of such quarters, and I doubt very much if any village in Hastings county can boast of having anything better." Applause followed.

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

Ours Today— the POWER of a hundred million men!

TODAY CANADA is producing far more electrical power than ever. Water power installations are 25% greater than before the war! Now they total over 10 million h.p.—furnishing energy equal to that of more than 100,000,000 workers.

Our development of that power—in which we rank second in the world—made it possible for us to become one of the most important of manufacturing countries, with vastly increased opportunities in every field of activity.

Yet our present installations, (tremendous as they are, represent only 20% of our recorded resources!

With long distance transmission of electricity, water power became a dominant influence on Canadian development. The 15-mile line between St. Narcisse and Three Rivers in 1897 was the first high-tension transmission line in the British Empire.

After the turn of the century the advance was rapid. Greatest industries pulp and paper. Water power was the basis of its tremendous development, as it became Canada's greatest peace-time industry.

With the war, aluminum became the biggest user; taking one-quarter of all electric energy generated in Canada. Greatest wartime development was mighty Shipshaw on the Saguenay, where the power generated is greater than that at Boulder Dam.

"UNSURPASSED OPPORTUNITIES"

KNOWLES BAILEY, after becoming thoroughly experienced in the wholesale tobacco business, started his own firm in a Toronto basement with one helper, twelve years ago. By his organizing ability, enthusiasm and plenty of hard work, he has built up a four-million-dollar business with 100 employees, 4 warehouses, sales offices throughout Canada and two factories.

MR. BAILEY says: "Twelve years ago I was sure there was no better place than Canada to start a business. I'm sure than ever today. Today, more than ever before, Canada offers unsurpassed opportunities for young men to turn their energy and enthusiasm into successful careers."

These offenses are becoming far too frequent to afford suspended sentences," declared Magistrate Wills in sentencing Burke to 18 months in Welland jail, Holland to eight months and Doyle and Burke to 12 months each.

Dramatic Plea

During the course of the hearing, the grandmother of Doyle made a dramatic plea on his behalf. With feeling, she said Mrs. Doyle was the first time this a Doyle name has ever appeared on the papers. With a plea for leniency, the grandmother declared, Herbert is a good boy at heart and has repented for his sins. She assured the young man around Trenton and asked that Doyle was the only one with a previous record. He admitted being under suspended sentence for having taken tins of soup from Trenton cold storage plant when he was employed there. "I had not been involved in breaking occurring since April," he said. I figured I was in the wrong. I quit going with the Magistrate, asserting when the Magistrate commented "You got cold feet after the April arrests!"

Burke, speaking on his own behalf said, "On each occasion we were quite drunk and didn't know what we were doing."

Charged of breaking and entering were in connection with those at Mitchell's Food Market at Amelissburg on March 9; at Rosamore service station and store, March 19; at the Lockwood store, Bridgeton, on Feb. 26; Chalmers' service station, Trent road, March 9; Reuben Tiffin Carrying Place, April 25; at a Carrying Place store and Trenton Cold Storage plant, Aug. 7; Shannon garage near Wellington and Brumnell service station, Bloomfield, August 17. Loot included $30 in cash, along with various kindsof merchandise.

Hungary's Labor Leader Becomes Sensation of Politics in E. Europe

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Budapest, Aug. 28 (AP)—The No. 1 labor leader of Hungary vows he never will wear a Communist collar.

He may be the next Prime Minister, if the Social Democrats win a plurality of parliamentary seats in the National election Aug. 31, but he'll be damned if he'll bend his party than a government.

He started in life as a stonecutter, but he has been writing poetry for 40 years.

Grey, bespectacled Arpad Szakasits now has become a sensation in the politics of eastern Europe.

Of all the stump orators heard by Magyars this summer, the most grizzling bits have not been exchanged between the left and right, but within the left, as Szakasits indignantly rejected an appeal by the shrewd comintern veteran, Matyas Rakosi, to fuse Social Democrats and Communists in one big party.

"Our members are not a flock of sheep," he says. "The democratic traditions of our party are too old and deep for it to be dragged unwillingly into another course."

Szakasits, has been a trade union official since 1903. Turning from hewing stone to more menial pursuits he became a contributor of poetry and then an editor of workers' publications in the fading years of the Austro-Hungarian empire. His books include "The Battle Between Capital and Labor."

Not Aware of Molotov Plan

"The fate of Europe has been agreed and that the Social Democrats are completely in the Communist party's pocket," I remarked. "The truth is that the Social Democratic Party and the Soviet Union is the result of an inner conviction and a free decision. If force were ever used, we would immediately become unbending."

I asked his opinion on the so-called Molotov plan, he replied that he didn't know it either.

He was emphatic in his praise of the Soviet Union, asserting Hungarian trade delegates in Moscow recently had been "treated as if the peace had already been signed."

He said all of Hungary had "welcomed with great joy" the Russo-Hungarian trade agreement with Great Britain and "we are nourishing great hopes that we will go far in this direction."

His comment on the United States was curt.

"We would be glad to get foreign loans from any country, particularly from America, but there should be no political conditions attached. We have built up vital country out of the ruins of the war, from Molotov or Marshall plan."

An oldtime journalist himself, Szakasits said he had only one wish to express to a foreign colleague: "May the world press maintain objectivity toward my country."

Toronto, Aug. 28 — (CP)—The Toronto Board of Control is to seek an immediate conference with federal and provincial officials on district housing problems which Mayor R. H. Saunders and Controller J. E. K. McCallum said yesterday had been aggravated by the recent arrival of groups of immigrants from Great Britain.

The Board, by resolution, called for the conference to determine a "clear policy" on immigration and to ensure that immigrant families will not land on Toronto's doorstep."

Since Aug. 1 approximately 600 British immigrants have arrived in Ontario under an immigration plan which was arranged by the provincial government. Some 6,000 more are due to arrive within the next few weeks. The only persons accepted under the scheme have been single men and women, for whom accommodation is usually not difficult to obtain, and married couples for whom housing has been arranged by friends or relatives in Ontario.

The decision was precipitated by the appearance before the Board of Mcllarye, Chasis, 47, who came to Canada a few days ago by ocean liner and brought his nine children with him. Chasis criticized the air immigration scheme in view of the housing shortage and said he wanted to do everything in his power to advise families back home that they should stay away from (Canada's) big cities."

Chasis, a salesman, said he was informed in England that, while the housing situation in Canada was acute, his family would have "little difficulty" in finding some sort of accommodation. Since his arrival in Toronto, he had been paying $5 a night for each room.

Later Planning Minister Dana Port issued a statement saying that Chasis came to Canada by ocean liner and "without any arrangements whatsoever with the provincial government."

HARD TO EAT THREE MEALS

Kitchener, Aug. 28 (CP)—After living on a diet of corn beef and cabbage during war years Jean McIntyre, one of 26 exchange teachers coming to Canada from Scotland finds she can not eat three full meals a day. She never realized until she arrived here that Canadian food would vary so much from British rations, she said.

46 NEW INDUSTRIES

Chatham, Aug. 28 (CP)—Industrial construction completed here in the last three years or now in progress is valued at $12-000,000 city officials said yesterday. Since 1944 some 46 new primary industries have established plants here and many small secondary firms have sprung up.

Work Proceeding Satisfactorily At Memorial Arena

The full quota of pipe for the artificial ice plant at Memorial Arena is now here, the last consignments arriving yesterday.

Work on the installation is proceeding satisfactorily, Manager Welter Gerow said today. Welding is going on apace under the competent hands of Mr. Harry Williams and the job of joining the ninety-foot lengths into ones of 300 feet is expected to be completed this week.

Crossite sleepers are now in position and some of the sixty foot lengths are already in place, ready for welding to outlets.

Backwards are being removed for the accommodation of certain sections of the piping.

All necessary sand is now in the arena, and the total area between the sleepers is covered with a heavy coating. Later, sand will be placed between the pipes level with the upper surface. Pipes will be laid approximately three inches apart.

ANOTHER CAFE CLOSED

Toronto, Aug. 28 (CP) — Another restaurant was ordered closed last night in the city's five-week-old "clean up or shut up" campaign, bring the total closed to date to 35. The restaurant, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Holland on Main St., in East Toronto, was found in a dirty condition.

ABANDON EFFORTS

Seattle, Aug. 28 (AP)—United States navy authorities announced abandonment yesterday of further hazardous efforts to retrieve the bodies of 22 marines from a 10,000-foot High Mountain glacier where they perished in an air transport crash last December. The navy announced the decision after receiving a letter from several of the victims' parents, suggesting that the recovery efforts be dropped because of the extreme hazards involved.

RADIOACTIVE CLOUDS SEEN NEW WEAPON

Some Savants See Rains Bearing Death Rays In Cities If Skies Could be Atom-Bombed

By FRANK CAREY

Washington, (AP) — Despite unofficial talk of new, improved atomic bombs and possibilities of developing other forms of atomic warfare, the official word on the subject—two years after Hiroshima—is still this:

The United States can manufacture atomic bombs.

It still is "working" on the military application of atomic energy.

It is carrying on "research and development work on improved atomic weapons."

David E. Lilienthal, America's atom chief, says that one of the objectives of the United States atomic energy commission is to "increase" this country's preeminence in the field of atomic weapons—but he doesn't say how.

However, Lilienthal did say this in a recent speech:

"The atomic bombs thus far used are . . . only a beginning, perhaps a crude beginning, when compared with what further research and development may produce . . . But in fact only a beginning has been made in the destructive potentialities of nuclear weapons."

Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago, where the A-bomb was pioneered, asserted unofficially in an article in the publication "Common Cause":

"The Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombs are now obsolete. American science and technology have produced a stockpile of new and improved bombs large enough, according to usually conservative sources, to destroy every large city on earth."

Hutchins did not identify the sources of his information.

New Experiments

Glenn Martin, airplane manufacturer, referred to work on a "radio-active cloud" while addressing a Senate commerce subcommittee.

Martin is quoted in a publication put out by his company as having told the Senators: "I am wondering if the army and navy are going to use many atomic shells because they now are experimenting with the effects of radioactive clouds."

Further reference to the possibility of producing non-exploding atomic weapons was made in a document prepared by a group of army general staff officers for the Library of Congress.

This document says:

"Such weapons might make use of the radioactive effects of particles (containing radioactivity) dispersed by means other than an explosion, thus providing the radiation effects without the accompanying blast and heat effects."

Some scientists are thinking along still another line:

Whether it would be possible to explode an atomic bomb in the midst of storm clouds and have the radioactivity borne to earth in the rain.

Such a concept was outlined in an Associated Press interview by experts who said that the advantage of such a technique—if demonstrated—would be that a city far inland could be drenched with radioactivity without exploding a bomb under water as was done at Bikini.

Dr. Edward Teller, one of the scientists who worked on the A-bomb believes that future atomic bombs may be 1,000 times more powerful than those used on Japan. He set forth such a belief in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists.

Border Smuggling Hilarious in '80s

Detroit, (CP)—Walter Griffith, 76-year-old Canadian-born toolmaker, says the petty smuggling of 50 years ago—before the days of the Detroit-Windsor tunnel and the Ambassador bridge—was a whole lot funnier than today's hitech border traffic. And more prevalent, too.

"Yes, sir," he said, "we had many a laugh as we went back and forth on the ferry in those days."

"One of our neighbors would carry two large hams suspended from her waist, under her clothing. She had to step very easy when passing the customs house or the darn things would swing and give her away."

Then, as now, Canadian whisky was a popular commodity in Detroit, said Griffith, who was born in Windsor and remembers that city when there was a cricket field in the heart of its tiny "business section".

In the '90's, he said, there was many a novel way to smuggle the whisky.

"The most ingenious method was used by two men who were seen to cross the river with a large sycamore log on a logging wagon. They came so often that the customs officer got to recognize every knot in that log.

They checked with other officers and found it returned by way of the Walkerville ferry, upstream a bit, so the next trip they made the officer stopped them.

"The log was found to be hollow with apiece of wood fitted in the butt end. An old buffalo robe was thrown over the end of the log—presumably for the driver to sit on. That log was filled with Canadian whisky."

And then there was the woman smuggling an eight-day clock, Griffith recalled.

"Just as she got abreast of the custom house, it struck -2."

INDIAN FIREFIGHTER GETS WARM RECEPTION

Halifax, (CP)—When Deputy Chief Officer M. G. Pradham of the Bombay fire department came to Halifax to look over the city's fire-fighting organization the department here was able to put on a realistic demonstration for him. He watched firemen extinguish a blaze in the School for the Deaf.

Deputy Chief Pradham said he was impressed by the equipment of Canadian fire departments but he thought English aerial ladders and methods of hose handling were superior.

Long Skirts Here to Stay Stylists Say

By DOROTHY ROE

New York, (AP)—Despite parades, placards and grocery complaining the return of long skirts women will wear 'em as they like 'em this Fall, an Associated Press survey of stores, stylists and fashioneers indicates.

Oblivious to such organized resistance as the "Little Below the Knee Club" in Dallas and leagues demonstrations in other parts of the country, store executives from New Orleans to Minneapolis and from Seattle to New York report almost unanimously that the new longer-skirted Fall fashions are selling like hot cakes. This at a time when some informal polls indicate women dislike them now.

Dave F. Hahn, manager of the ready-to-wear group of the National Retail Dry Goods Association says:

"Acceptance of longer skirts is good throughout the country. To every action there is a reaction, and the present objectors to long skirts are going through the stage the importance of the trend. In some quarters they may not be immediately accepted, but in general the public will go for longer dresses."

Merchandising consultants to stores throughout the country report:

Longer skirts already have been accepted. Even college girls are buying them. The mass acceptance, however, of hose for extreme lengths, but for those approximately 14 to 15 inches from the floor.

Other comment gathered from various points:

St. Louis—Stores reported utmost unanimous acceptance of the new trend, but a check of women in the street produced conflicting opinion, two out of three reporting emphatic dislike for longer skirts.

Boston— A poll found 45 per cents of all individuals interviewed disliked longer dresses, 39 per cent favored them and 16 per cent were undecided.

Most Want Them

Louisville—Women interviewed at random generally expressed opposition to longer skirts, but said if they probably would wear them.

Minneapolis—Opinion of women in the street is divided, but a local buyer reports longer skirts are selling well, even to the college crowd.

New Orleans— Many women are taking to the new styles avidly and even exaggerating the trend toward longer skirts. Others, principally business women, say they find the new skirt lengths impractical, but probably will buy "one or two".

Denver—Department store customers have accepted the new styles "very gracefully".

Kansas City—Store buyers and stylists report almost unanimous acceptance.

Seattle— Stylists and buyers report successful sales of longer dresses, but men in the street turned thumbs down on leg-

Bikinis Needed

A sense of humor is a great quality in happy marriage, but Constance Bennett says that it is needed to laugh off minor irritations. "Man is a perpetual source of humor, so stay and laugh," writes another bride.

A pretty, well-planned and followed list of all things to be avoided. "Quarrels are inevitable but never habitual," writes one. "I was the wanting of a Toronto bride, "if we quarrels to occur they should be smoothed over at the end of the day."

After marriage a woman must retain every ounce of femininity and delightful which was the means of catching her mate.

Moderation in all things is suggested by one bride who considers that even sentimentalities and attitudes, if carried to the extreme, become unbearable.

Marry at 17? It's Natural

London, (CP)—Seventeen is the natural age to marry, Dr. J. Macalister Brew, 54-year-old woman physician, told London youth group leaders "but today it is not the thing."

"Our Victorian great-great-grandparents married early and had five bundles of children and they were happy," the doctor said.

"The best age, physiologically, for girls to have babies is between 19 and 21. . . ."

5 Rules Help To Keep Hubby Happy Brides Find

Toronto, (CP)—Hoyle to keep a man happy though firmness is the problem of every wife, but many Canadian brides have come through with five rules they hope will lead to marital bliss. They submitted rules for a happy marriage for judging in the bride's budget competition of the Canadian National Exhibition.

A generous serving of food and flattery is the formula of most entrants. It took them only a short time to discover that man's first instinct moves him towards mother's cooking. They find a word of praise accomplishes more than criticism. One Ontario girl learned that a nagging wife creates an antagonistic attitude on the part of her husband.

"When I was first married I thought Bill was perfection itself," confides another bride, in her entry. "But after recognizing his faults I am conditioning myself to overlook them."

Let's Eat More Peaches

Fruits always boost "appetite appeal", because of their color and flavor. Peaches, perhaps, the luscious ripe peach with its soft pink cheek has this quality more than any other.

Peaches, eaten from the hand or sliced and served with cream cannot be beaten as a dessert, but there are many other ways in which they may be served, both raw and cooked.

Canned peaches are a standby in winter but on account of their tendency to discolor they require care in preparation for canning.

To prevent the peaches turning brown before they are packed in the sealers, drop the fruit, as it is peeled, in a brine bath. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, recommend 1 teaspoon of salt to each quart of water for this bath and they say that only sufficient fruit to fill two or three sealers should be prepared at one time. Long standing in the brine bath will give the peaches a salty taste.

For an easy way to can peaches for use later in pies, puddings and frozen desserts, the experts recommend the Solid Pack Method. The peaches may be canned by this method either with or without sugar. Many homemakers will be preparing peaches for freezing, so the following directions should prove of interest. Even if one hasn't storage space for canned or frozen peaches, there is usually some place to store a few jars of delicious peach jam.

PEACH JAM

12 cups peaches cut in pieces
6 cups sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice

Wash, blanch 15 to 60 seconds and cold dip. Remove peaches, remove skins, cut and cut in pieces. Measure fruit and add sugar. Let stand 1 hour. Add vinegar or lemon juice. Bring to boil and cook, stirred, to 10 drops jelly or chill jam stage is reached. Yield 6 pints or 12 cups jam.

Peaches make a better jam if extra acid is added, that is why the following combination recommends this jam recipe.

FREEZING PEACHES

Choose firm, ripe fruit, blanch 30-60 seconds, dip in cold water, remove skins and pits. Slice fruit directly into syrup in containers. Use cold, moderately thin syrup (1 cup sugar to 1 1-2 cups water) to cover. Ascorbic acid added to the syrup is effective in preventing such discoloration; 200 milligrams to 1 cup of syrup is considered a sufficient quantity. The tablets should be crushed and the powder added to the cold syrup. This adds to the cost but helps to retain the clear natural color.

SOLID PACKED PEACHES

Blanch peaches to loosen skins, and cold dip. Halve, peel, remove pits, and drop in brine bath (1 teaspoon salt to 1 quart water), remove from brine, drain and slice. Place in kettle and heat slowly until the juice starts to steam (do not boil) adding a little water to prevent scorching if necessary. Pack into clean hot sealers, crushing the fruit down slightly until covered with juice. Leave half an inch headspace. Adjust rubber rings and tops. Process in the boiling water bath 20 minutes for pints and 25 minutes for quarts.

If desired the solid pack peaches may be sweetened. Add 2-3 to 3-4 cup sugar per quart, sprinkling it between layers of peaches as they are packed.

Berlin's Airport Equals World Best

By WILLIAM HAMSHER

Berlin, (Reuters)—At least one of Hitler's dreams for Germany has come true—his desire that Berlin should have a fine airport ranking, at least in all normal conditions, with any other in the world. But the Americans not the Nazis have fulfilled it.

Tempelhof, where every United States airplane into Berlin touches down, today is in the luxury class of airports. It began with one big advantage, a central site. This means that to take off from Tempelhof airfield, whether for a trans-Atlantic flight, or on a short "hop" to Frankfurt-on-Main, a great time saving for the traveller.

On arrival at Tempelhof even the biggest of four-engined civil planes drops down in the midst of houses on to the great airport and runs into a covered forecourt. Alighting passengers have only a few steps to walk, protected from wind and weather, to reach checking-in offices, and baggage and rest rooms. A few steps more take them to taxis and buses awaiting on the highway outside. All this is done in less than 100 yards.

Survived Bombings

Except for the modern types of planes, there is little at Tempelhof that was not envisaged in Hitler's original design— and practically nine-tenths of all the installations survived unscathed, the bombing of Berlin and the final onslaught on the city.

Traces of shellfire are still visible, though only on close inspection. Since the absence of concrete runways made Tempelhof unsuitable for German airforce combat operations, Allied bombers never made the airfield a target for "obliteration" bombing.

So Tempelhof, with its office accommodation of some 4,000 rooms, was usable soon after the Red Army drove out the last of the Luftwaffe reservists who stayed there for the final battle.

In spite of an epidemic of leaking which left Tempelhof not only windowless but lacking frames for window spaces, the airport was made serviceable enough by the time the Potsdam conference convened to rank as the chief entry terminal for conference equipment and personnel.

Nail Hammered Into Skull At Prison Camp

Denver, Aug. 28. (AP)—Virgil Chavez, 37, lay listlessly in a ward bed at Fort Logan Veterans' hospital recently, awaiting a surgeon's decision on removal of a nail apparently hammered into his skull while he lay unconscious in a Japanese prison camp.

Chavez, taken prisoner after the fall of Bataan, has been reluctant to risk the delicate operation after living through four years imprisonment. But a week ago headaches and a weakening of his right leg and arm made further medical study imperative.

Dietsch said the two-inch nail was driven between hemispheres of the brain and that the present trouble may come from contraction of scar tissue. If they operate, which one surgeon said was probable, they plan to do so within ten days.

Chutists Jump At 43,962 Feet

London, Aug. 28. (Reuters)—Three Russian parachutists have beaten an international record by jumping from the stratosphere at heights of up to 43,962 feet, Moscow radio reports.

The previous record was set 10 years ago, Moscow radio said by a Capt. Kaltanov, who jumped from 36,218 feet.

The three parachutists, dropped in the Volga region, opened their parachutes on leaving the plane.

The best jump was made by a Col. Romaniuk at 43,962 feet, followed by a Capt. Patskevich at 41,016 and a Capt. Gladkov at 40,338.

WEST'S BEAUTY AWES FILMDOM'S BIG TIME STARS

On Location in Alberta, Hollywood Actors "Stunned" by Grandeur of Canadian Rockies

By ENID NEMY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Calgary, (CP)— Joan Leslie was born in Detroit, Jack Oakie in Oklahoma, and James Craig in Texas but they all have one thing in common—ability to entertain the public.

Their names are household words to millions of people throughout the world, their private lives are public property and their salaries look like sweepstakes numbers, but they have retained their sense of balance.

During their stay here, filming the Eagle-Lion picture, "Northwest Stampede", they were deluged by fans, celebrity seekers and the merely curious but their years of training stood them in good stead—there was no sign of annoyance or brusqueness.

They don't work at being stars —they prefer living like average people. And like other visitors, their first desire was to see whatever sights they could.

The Calgary Stampede impressed them as much as it did any other tourist. Jack Oakie enjoyed the colorful costumes, James Craig noted the horsemanship and Joan Leslie thought the entire spectacle was "unforgetable".

Their work keeps them busy most of the day but they try to find time to do some exploring on their own. Joan and her mother attend church on Sunday, James Craig likes staying out at the ranch where the picture is being filmed to get in some fishing, Jack Oakie and his fiancee, Vicky Horne, somehow proud themselves when they found that Calgary's Bowness Hill was given that name because residents could look down on the route without paying.

They admitted they were stunned at the beauty of the Canadian Rockies.

"We didn't think anything could be as lovely as California but this is it."

As for returning at some future date, they'd prefer coming not interfere with just "looking back on vacation when work did

A WORTHY APPEAL!

AUG. 28th, 1947

TO THE CITIZENS OF BELLEVILLE—

MANY DEMANDS are made on us all in support of worthy causes, but we should give special consideration to the Community Service Fund, which makes it possible for three worthy organizations, The Children's Aid Society, The Young Men's Christian Association, and the Victorian Order of Nurses, to carry on their work.

EACH OF these three organizations have to depend on voluntary contributions above revenue derived, and especially in these days of Industrial Expansion in Belleville, the welfare work of The Children's Aid, the Y.M.C.A., and the V.O.N. will render a vital service that will aid in readjustment of our city life, due to expansions, and accomplish much that is beyond the scope of civic action.

THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE appreciates that these Community Service Organizations save the taxpayers thousands of dollars each year by their welfare work. Full public participation in these drives places the responsibility more evenly than as though the funds were raised by taxing the property owners alone. For these reasons I heartily endorse the Belleville Red Feather Community Service Fund and commend the workers and organizers for the public spirit. Many citizens have in the past urged a co-operative effort in our community charities and I feel that the Red Feather Compaign will receive a hearty welcome from the residents of Belleville.

THE CAMPAIGN opens Tuesday, September 2nd., and I strongly urged that you make every effort to have your donation ready when the canvasser calls.

Frank S. Follwell

MAYOR, CITY OF BELLEVILLE

West started out with an opening lead of the spade king. South went with the ace only after waiting until the third round of that suit. By then he was sure that east was out of diggers.

If a club finesse fails, declarer still has seven more cinch tricks before danger of being defeated. They are three clubs, three tops in diamonds, and the ace of hearts.

Where will he look for his ninth trick? The fourth diamond in dummy may be good. If not, he must depend on heart queen jack. He needs one or the other of these before west cashes more spades.

So he took the club finesse and it lost to the east king. East led back a heart. Here is where declarer used part of his bean. To prevent west from geting in, up went the heart ace.

Three clubs were cashed right here. Then the diamond ace took a trick. As this was going on, west was being squeezed. Having no more clubs, west had to throw cards from other suits.

On the clubs, west dare not give up a diamond. If he did, the dummy would have a good fourth diamond. Therefore he let go of a heart and both his remaining spades.

West had already shown out of clubs. His spades were not thrown away. So, he can have no more black cards. This told south that it was now safe to give up a heart trick. That he did. Right now.

West won with the heart king, of course. His diamond return gave declarer the rest with good diamonds, with or without heart jack.

A plan to win when nothing else kin.

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 28. (AP)—Despite the current crisis in international film relations, George Raft is going ahead with a deal which will set a precedent in movie making.

This Fall Raft and his independent company plan to jurney to North Africa where they will film location shots for "Outpost in Morocco," a French Foreign Legion story. Simultaneously, they will make a French version with Fernand Gravet stepping in for Raft.

George is now making "Race Street" for RKO and he says it will be his last at a major studio.

Colorcuts

Color films are a casualty of the British Tax bite. Studios are re-examining their future schedules to determine if films slated for color treatment can be handled in less expensive black-and-white without too much loss of production value . . . John Wayne returns to Republic after "War Party" and he'll do the sea story, "Wake of the Red Witch". After that he gets back into production for himself with an original story about an early French colony in the South. . . .

Character Calls

Charles Laughton and Victor McLaglen are being called for the massive "Joan of Lorraine" . . . for that matter, so are most of the better character actors in Hollywood. . . . Dennis O'Keefe will take his wife along when he goes to Australia this Winter to star in "In My Arms Again" for a down under company. . . .

Apt Title

Paralyzed Susan Peters, (injured in a hunting accident)) is writing a book of her experiences in recent years and is calling it, aptly "Chin Up" . . . From Paris comes a report that Michele Morgan is back in her native land and expects to resume her film career there. She has no intention of returning here.

Esther Williams says she isn't sore at Florida, even if she did comment on the heat during her "On An Island With You" location. . . .

Opps, a Faux Pas!

There were a lot of laughs on a Republic set when a well-known Western star was demonstrating tricks with his horse. The nag misinterpreted a signal and removed the cowboy's hat. Also removed was the star's toupee, of which the rest of the company was not aware. . .

Argonauts Sign U.S. Player "Sight Unseen"

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Argonauts, winners last year for the second straight time of the Dominion Football Championship, have signed their first United States player "sight unseen." He is Bate Ford, 185-pound former Alabama State University lineman. Ford will turn out at an Argo practice tonight and Coach Tedder Morris said he would be given every opportunity to make a berth on the team. Bates is the second American to try for Argos this season. The first, Bob Meyers, left for Philadelphia Quakers after a trial.

In the 24 year history of Dade Park, a small Kentucky track, only one person has ever hit a daily double of more than $7,000, and he did it last night. An unidentified man picked the right $7,711.20.

A touring team of Western Ontario Lawn Bowlers lost four of six games played with members of the Assinboine Lawn Bowling Club of Winnipeg. After playing in the Prairie provinces and British Columbia they returned to Winnipeg where they are scheduled to play two more clubs before coming home.

Johnny Greco of Montreal, Canadian welterweight boxing champion, meets Joey Peralta of New York City, tonight at Norwalk, Conn., in a 10-rounder scheduled for last night but postponed by rain.

The State of New York has banned importation within its limits any racehorses that have had or have been exposed to "swamp fever". The order followed an outbreak of the disease, resembling infectious anemia, at Rockingham Park, Salem, N.H., last Saturday. More than 900 thoroughbred racehorses were quarantined by the epidemic.

New York Giants have purchased Ray Poat, 29, right-handed pitcher of the Baltimore Orioles, International League. The 6 foot, 2 inch, 220-pounder will report to his new club today and may see action soon. He won 12 and lost seven with the last-place Orioles.

Picton Believe Man Victim Of Hallucinations

By FRED KERNER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Picton, Aug. 28 — Mystery shrouding 38-year-old John Patrick Carney, United States war veteran, who was found at Point Traverse after he claimed he had rowed and drifted across Lake Ontario from Rochester, appear to have been solved. Authorities further investigating the strange circumstances of the 90-hour trip across the 80-miles of lake water in a 12-foot boat, believe the young American to be the victim of halucinations, but but could offer no explanation for his presence here.

Crown Attorney G. T. Walmsley K.C. succeeded in contacting Carney's sister near Chicago yesterday. It was learned that he had been in a mental hospital near that city. This was borne out by the fact that the socks he wore were numbered. A series of memoes were also found on his person including 'vanish by cut through yards to boulevard,' get taxi to market,' and 'then get taxi to —nights out of sight.'

Carney will be turned over to United States Inmigration authorities.

During her visit, the princess unveiled a plaque and gave a speech thanking the South Africans whose donations keep the school going.

Buffalo Bisons Announce Buying Of Paul Bibeault

(By The Canadian Press)

Russian scientists are latest addition to the country's training plans for the coming Olympic Games in London, the Soviet news agency reports that the laboratory boys are working with test-tube microscope to get Russ Athletes into form. Special attention is being given to oxygen consumption. One of the leading researchers claimed that a marathon team covered 26 miles in three hours without any sign of fatigue, due to "the proper selection of runners," and to their rational training diet, based on studies of the Moscow Physical Culture Research Institute."

Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League have announced the purchase from Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League of goal-tender Paul Bibeault, who has also played for N.H.L. clubs in Boston, Toronto and Chicago.

Bob Osborne, director of Athletics at the University of British Columbia, says there is a "definite possibility" that a new year's day football game between U.B.C. and the University of Toronto. Plans for a game last New Year's day had to be dished due to shortage of covered seats at Toronto University Stadium.

"G.M." Fraser, Canadian manager of Ducks Unlimited, said at Medicine Hat, Alta., that a favorable growing season and an abundance of water-filled slough in southern Alberta and Saskatchewan have produced a record number of wild ducks this year.

When Russel Miller's dividend won the pacing division and a $3,000 purse at Toronto's Dufferin Park yesterday, it marked the first time that the same owner has won both the two-year-old and the three-year-old pacer in the same year. Millgy's David Diolion, won the two-year-old last Wednesday, and on both occasions the driver was Joey Hodgins.

Jackstarco of California scored an impressive tennis victory over Vladimer Cerik of Czechoslovakia winning three straight sets, 6-2,6-4, last night in the Toronto Cricket Club's Invitation Tourney.

In the second match, Gardnar Larned of Virginia lost to Jaroslav Drobny of Czechoslovakia, 6-4, 6-4.

In a hard driving doubles match, Drobny and Cernik teamed up to defeat the American duo of Larned and Tuero 6-4, 6-2.

AMERICAN DAVIS CUP TENNIS TEAM FAVORED TO WIN

New York, Aug. 28. (AP) The history of Davis Cup play shows all too clearly why the American team, headed by Jack Kramer on its side, will be a heavy favorite to defeat the Australians in challenge round at Forest Hills.

The simple fact has come to be recognized that the country which has one really great amateur tennis player is just about a cinch to hold the trophy.

Going back to Bill Tilden's time, starting in 1920, when he and "Little Bill" Johnston brought the cup back from Australia the rule has held without exception.

It virtually is impossible to spot a team two singles victories in the challenge round and make up the deficit.

At long as Tilden was the giant of the world's courts, the United States held the cup. Then, in 1927, the French came up with not one, but two, of the game's greatest singles players in Lacoste and Henri Cochet, and they were off on a long rule.

Perry Top Figure

In 1933 Fred Perry of Great Britain developed almost overnight into the game's top figure, and from then until 1937, after Perry had turned professional, Britain had an unbeatable one-two battleground at Wimbledon and Forest Hills.

With Don Budge beating the daylights out of all he faced the United States scored an easy victory in 1937 and had no difficulty defending against Australia in '38. But then the terrific redhead turned money player and again the cup was on the move.

Kramer was only starting to show symptoms of his present stature on the court's when he began a long hitch in the United States Navy.

So far this season Kramer has lost only two sets, winning only on grass. The latter was to Dinny Pails of Australia at Wimbledon. The Aussies admit frankly that they have no hope of holding the Cup if he is either of his singles matches this weekend.

That means, of course, that to take the glittering cup back home the Challenging squad have to beat Ted Schroeder — and then meet Jack in itself—and capture the doubles, where they almost certainly will run into Kramer again. It is a large order.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE E. CARVER, Sports Editor.

"Sure, and it will be matin' the thing for Sunday," said a kindergarten carousel, will it not be?" Thus murmured Shillalagh Sean, the Kilkenny Kut-up, gently raising the team-lipped stein to his black mouthpiece from a bucket of suds.

"Right, and it will," agreed his bosom pal, Pat Malone, with the light o' day on the shores of Killarney.

The two odd follies from the green of Ireland were discussing the Sunday's softball fidal scheduled for New York on September 14.

• • •

....Tis a quaint game, this Gaelic fillm. Tis a cross between basketball, football and rugby with a dash of soccer thrown in. It has the kicking of soccer, the passing and dribbling of basketball and the delectable tracess of rugby. The passing by hand, however, is done not by throwing the ball but by pounding it with a fists And show me an Irisher who is not adept at that art.

His pal raised questioning eyes. "Sure, and wasn't me cold great-grandfather a minsber of one of the Irish teams that Oireland iver produced. We are descinded from the St. Patrick clan and me dad's birth mark of a bhoy ould St. Pat himself leaves all the snakes out of the land through his ability with the ball. In this clime the hounds was much faster 'than they are today, but we puts relatives would outrun their hedgehoppin, rabbit - chasing pooches like they was standing still."

Sean quaffed deeply from his beaker of foaming brew. "Tis a fact that I'm not belittlin' yer relations. Paddy, but me great grandfather, Sir Jabers, was one of the blat pasaers in the bustpens. One game I remember he hit the ball fist out so hard that it went clean through the hall, they got another and what happened. Out shot the ball man's fist again. And again it went clean through the leather. At the end of the game he had seven footballs on that argn and they had to remove the lot to make room for new ones."

• • •

"Twas but a pink tea compared wid was goin on between ancient and honorable grandfather pid vers me brother's team of them omadhauns o'- Eaglehaven. There was so many people there they had to float long piers in the North Sea to get over to the Emerald Isle and in the Irish Sea on Friday, to let fresh stood on one side of the field and the Britishers on the other. The score was forty to wun at half time and the Irish lasphoens jumped and yelled so hard that Ireland tilted at least three feet out of the sea on the Atlantic side."

"Paddy, me lad," quoth the Sean, knocking the dottle from his huge clay pipe, "Sure and they may be a lot to truth in what ye say, but if the good St. Pat is prosecuting attorney when ye face the Great Court they ye'll be doin' fifty years less a day, and that's the antieenth of Ireland in Lucifer's lock-up."

• • •

"But," the fiery whiskered son of Kilkenny added, "I'll agree wid yez, that the game is anything but a powder puff affair. This Canadian football, lacrosse, hockey etc., when they get felined if they spill a drop of a spalpeen's gore, is just stary stuff compared to the ould game at home."

• • •

"I remember in the big all-star game between in Kilkenny Cats and the Cork Cement-mixers that everyone carried a shillalagh in the hip pocket of their playin' shorts. Big wans, too they were. Wid the score three-three near the ind of the game, some wan called me grandfather a name that me grandmither wouldn't relish —and the war was on. He drew his shillalagh and clouted one of the lnimy sending him over the fifty feet in the air. He landed on the cross - bar of the goal sixty yards away, and glory be, iverybody got in it, spectators and all. When me ould grandfather came to in County Kilkenny hospital some two hours later, he still clutched the arm of a Cork player, but the body was not attached. The ould fella had swung him so hard he tore the arm loose and from that time on, he used it as a shillalagh."

• • •

"Sure," agreed Paddy, "I remember that game. And the last time I saw me dad he could sod a few weeks ago was usually as rough. Iverybody over here was awondertin' where those flyin' saucers were coming from. Had they been able to get hould of wan, they would have seen that it had red hair, was barrel-chested, spoke Irish and wore the shamrock nails of an Oirish football player. 'Twas only the bhoys gittin' warmed up for the big game at the Polo Grounds next month."

What should be a pair of softball classics take place at Point Ange tonight and Friday night. Tonight the starry Parham team meets the Fairly Wings in the second game of their second round intermediate "C" series, and Friday night the Lads take on a Kingston squad, possibly the Canadian Legion in their first game of the Intermediate "A" first-round playdowns.

• • •

Reports from the Point yesterday stated that the Parham Wings game played in Parham Tuesday night was a honey, but the little red book. The game was closer than a foundation garment, and was in doubt until the final out was made. Parham apparently are no pushovers and tonight's squabble should produce some outstanding mushballing.

• • •

Likewise tomorrow night when the Leafs meet their arsenal foes from Kingston. If the opposition proves to be the Canadian Legion, or for that matter any team that which team represents the limestone village, twill be a blitter battle to the end. Both games start at 8 at thereabouts and softball enthusiasts shouldn't miss either.

• • •

And there'll be floodlight baseball dessert for those who care to take in two games on either tonight or Friday night. This evening, under the arcs, Trenton Flyers meet Napanee in the second game of the City Baseball League semi-finals with the Gibbard-ville crew facing elimination. Tomorrow night the Flyers are right back at Batawa Shoemen in their first game of the OBA Intermediate "A" playdowns. Both games start at 8:30.

The Buffalo Harlem Giants colored stars of the softball and baseball diamonds will be in Trenton on Saturday afternoon and evening where they will play a double-header with an all-star Trenton softball squad. The colored gents from the place where people are supposed to shuffle off from, are stars in their own right and enjoy an International reputation. The game is creating a lot of interest here and in Trenton and it is likely quite a number of fans will safari to the friendly town to the west to watch the squads in action. The afternoon game is called at 2:30 and the teams go back at it under the floodlights at 8 of the same night. The evening. Don't miss it.

London, Aug. 28. (CP)—No foolin' fellows, Korea wants to join the International Ice Hockey Federation.

A letter arrived the other day at the office of C. (Bunny) Ahearne, general secretary of the Federation from Jung Yun Kim, asking what he should do about getting membership.

Jung Kim briefly outlined the aims of his association—the Ice Hockey Association of Korea with headquarters at Seoul—showing a membership of 3,213 clubs and "approximately" 200,000 skaters in the country.

Object of the Korean Association is to 'control amateur speed ice skating, figure skating and ice hockey and to promote its sound development, to improve the physical culture of the Korean people." The Association, says Chairman Jung Kim, was organized Sept. 25, 1945.

Ahearne following the matter up and if Korea is accepted, it will increase Federation membership to 21.

Jung Kim didn't mention anything about Canadian coaches or players, but there should be lots of scope, if anyone is interested.

Solway, a Derby hope of five years ago, has retired. And he made his last appearance on the track a winner—his first.

Reg Robson of Escomb, Northumberland, bought him five years ago from Lord Derby, and he did not consider it backing to the £2,000 ($8,000) spent in his keep until he ran at Ayr, Scotland and romped home first to win more than £1,000.

Robson said the horse broke down soon after he got him and was put out to grass for two years. "Now he is one of the family. I can't say he has had the best of everything. If any horse had to go without during the war, it was always poor old Solway."

Thomas Doggett, an Irish Comedian who has been turning over in his grave since 1929, came thankfully to rest the other day when 12 young oarsmen drove their skiffs up the Thames in a contest for the oldest trophy est. known to sculling. It was their first contest in eight years.

"Doggett's Coat and Badge", the first of which is scarlet and the second silver, came into being in 1715 under the terms of the comedian's will. Only Thames apprentices in their qualifying year as pilots or lightermen or passenger craft may compete for the award over a 4 1-2-mile course between London Bridge and Chelsea at the tide's strongest ebb.

War interrupted the event, but the 1940-43 classes competed in the first two-day event, followed by the 1944-47 apprentices.

Southpaw Joe Page's Stellar Relief Hurling Keeps Yanks Going in American League

Works in Seven Games of The 11-Game Western Swing

By FAIR, FOWLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

With a healthy 13½-game lead and an unhealthy pitching staff, manager Joseph (Shotgun) Haley of New York Yankees would like to hurry along to the finish line, even if it's a page like Letty Joe Page.

The statistician-at-the-Yankee-bullpen wound up a busy road trip with the Yanks at St. Louis yesterday, saving Bump Hadley's seventh game of the 11-game western swing.

He took over in the ninth inning with the score tied and held the Browns to three singles and no runs the rest of the way as the Yanks stifled the Mound City victory-in-11 invasion tries 7-6 in 10 innings.

It gave him 11 victories against six defeats and 14 appearances in relief with the American League pacemakers, and it was the third time this season — the first for the Yanks.

His dependability in relief chores is one reason the Yanks aren't feeling the loss of pitchers Frank Shea, Spud Chandler and Allie Reynolds as much as they might. All three are out with arm ailments.

Another reason is that the closest — but still far-distant contenders — the defending champions Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers, have been too busy knocking each other's brains out this week to take much advantage of the Yankees' woes.

Divide Twin Bill

At Detroit the Red Sox and Tigers were dividing their second straight twin bill and taking turns keeping second place. The Tigers seconded after beating Lefty Earl Johnson, 7-2, in the first game. The Red Sox came back in the nightcap to win 5-4 and resume second place, with ex-Tiger Birdie Tebbetts scoring once and batting in two more.

Home runs accounted for all the scoring at Cleveland as the Indians and Bob Feller triumphed over Philadelphia Athletics 2-1. Both Feller, winning his 16th game, and loser Dick Fowler of Toronto dealt out six hits.

Mike Candini's relief pitching gave Washington a 6-5 victory over Chicago White Sox in the remaining American League contest.

These developments highlighted National League play:

1. Brooklyn, St. Louis and Boston, the three top clubs, all were beaten.

2. Johnny Mize cracked his 43rd home run of the year to go five games and four days ahead of Babe Ruth's 1927 circuit smashing schedule.

3. Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati became the first major leaguer this year to win 20 games.

Left Gate Wide Open

For the second straight day Brooklyn left the gate wide open for the purring Cardinals. But for the second straight day the Cards obliged by losing.

Chicago Cubs broke one hex and kept another one alive as they beat Dodgers 6-3, running their string to four straight over the loop leaders. Negro hurler Dan Bankhead saw his batting average shrink to .200 as he grounded out as a pinch hitter. He'd hit a homer in his only other major league time at bat Tuesday.

Mize's 43rd homer shared honors with Ripper Collins, ex-Cleveland righthander purchased by New York Giants this week from seventh-place Baltimore of the International League. Feast was thrown in against the Cards' Harry (The Cat) Brecheen in the second game and with it wound up the finish after flinging eight-hit ball and hitting a triple and homer, while Brecheen was shelled out in the seventh. The Giants won 6-4.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Aug. 28 (AP) — No one would suspect Ted Schroeder of shilling for professional tennis, even though it is generally expected that big pal, Jack Kramer, will turn pro before another season . . . Ted is so amateur that he plans to hurry home after the Davis Cup matches this weekend without waiting for the United States Singles championships. He has his refrigeration business and his family all waiting in California . . . nevertheless Schroeder figures now is the time for the pros to get set on sound basis." "The basis of really good tennis is international competition and there hasn't been any for several years," Ted explains. "Fellows like Jake and myself are getting older and most of the younger players coming along haven't had the benefit of international play. This would be the time for the pros to stop deprecating amateur tennis and to show how well they can play."—As for the matches against Australia: Ted shows just the proper amount of conviction . . . "Those fellows didn't play well at Longwood, but they lost there in 1938, then went to Germantown and beat Budge and Mako. Kramer, of course, is a great player. I have to concede him two points on his service alone and two points is a lot in any game."

BERNIECE LOONEY WINS C.N.E. SWIM IN RECORD TIME

Clips Minute and Two Seconds Off Mark Set by Aunt, May Looney in 1934

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP) — A pretty, 16-year-old blue-eyed blonde today holds the five-mile professional swimming championship of the world—and in doing so she managed to uphold a family tradition in the Canadian National Exhibition swims on her first try.

Making her debut in the money ranks, smiling Berniece Looney of Warren, Ohio, romped through the five miles yesterday to record the time of two hours, 37 minutes and seven seconds to clip one minute and two seconds from the mark set by her aunt—May Looney — in 1934.

Beaming broadly at her own victory, Berniece was just as happy when her veteran aunt pulled up at the finish line in third place, just behind 21-year-old Winnie Roach of Toronto. The new champion, literally propelled her 37-year-old aunt out of the water with a hug and kiss.

"Gee," she exclaimed as she was handed first prize cheque for $2,800, "that's the most money I've ever had." Mrs. Roach won $1,200 and Looney $600.

Name Spelled Wrong

Then she looked closer and noticed that her name had been spelled "Berniece" on the cheque instead of "Bernice." She frowned for a moment, then said: "I guess I can cash it anyway!"

Winner of her last amateur start last Tuesday when she copped the 10-mile title in the C.N.E. Berniece showed her determination to equal Boyd De Lancey's name by grabbing a lead from the starting gun and extending it until she was more than 13 minutes ahead of her nearest competitor.

Dozen Swimmers Started

An even dozen swimmers started in the race after 12th entry Juno Cruchemeau of South Porcupine withdrew at the last minute and only one—35-year-old Eva May Davies of Detroit—dropped out during the race.

Claiming to be a newcomer to distance swims, the elderly Detroit entry started out at a slow breast stroke and continued to crawl after one mile. But by the time she had completed two miles a lifeguard following her suggested she head for shore.

"He pestered so much, I didn't know what I was doing," she explained later. "So I just headed to the dressing room. Doctors who examined me said my physical condition was perfect physical condition after the stopped racing."

Berniece Looney and she were the only women entered to try to hold her own near Par.

During all spells to her aunt May for her victory, she posed with her swimming costume with the C.N.E. in the background for the fireside distance in 1934. May Looney was also a winner of one of the distance swims of 1926, '32, '33, '35, '36 and '37. Another aunt of Berniece's, Mona Looney, joined her sister May in the money in 1934 and '35.

PITCHING & BATTING STARS

(By The Associated Press)

Batting: George Stirnweiss, Yankees — Hit half of his season's total output of four home runs in Yanks' 7-6 10-inning victory over Browns. Hit first one on first ball pitched of the game, and last one broke 6-6 tie in the 10th.

Pitching, Ewell Blackwell, Reds, and Ray Post Giants — Blackwell became year's first 20-game winner by taking 10-inning game against Braves . . . although he retired in 10th after his team went ahead. Post, up from Baltimore, hit a triple and his pinch-hitting homer and gave Cardinals eight hits as Giants won 8-4.

Vancouver, Aug. 31. (CP) — Jimmy Rice, Australian golfing star, greeted Australia in the Davis Cup Tennis contests in Montreal this week, still sees overseeing here.

The Bobby Locke and Jimmy Demaret may play more consistently," says Jimmy, "but give Stan just half their tournament experience and he'd be right up there with them. When Stan hooks up with Bobby Locke next month, it should be one of the best golf offerings in years."

"Locke, the smoothest swinger of our present day golfers and Leonard, the best hitter Canadian golf has ever produced."

CHAPTER 18.

Sherry could hear her voice somewhere outside of her.

She said, "Yes. It'll be hard at first, harder for you than any of us. He'll want me and he'll feel you came between us; he'll try not to show it but you'll know. Then after a while the things like me in you will grow and he'll accept them gradually. Little by little his love will be transferred. Trust me, Joyce," she said, "I know."

After Joyce was gone Sherry stood alone.

"Don't think," she told herself, "don't think."

She bathed and dressed and made up carefully. Then she began to pack. She wrapped bottles in tissue and hung things so they wouldn't wrinkle, and went methodically through the rooms to be sure that nothing was left.

Some men came for the trunk and asked her where it was going. Sherry had not thought of that before.

She said, "Take it down now. I'll tell you later," and they took the trunk and went away.

"Don't think," she told herself again, "don't think," and she took her hat over to the mirror to put it on.

There was a knock at the door. She thought it was the boy for the bags.

It was Kris.

Sherry had forgotten about him. She could not speak.

He said, "My lovely one." Then, "I can't tell you how glad I am that you're happy."

Sherry said, "Happy? Oh, yes—happy. That's what I am."

She started to laugh.

"Happiness! That's what matters, isn't it? That's what people look for. We were going to be so happy, Kris! We were going to have everything! I love Tony and he loves me! He married Joyce because she was like me."

She knew her voice was rising, but she had to talk above that strangled sound.

"She's going to have a baby! Tony's baby! She came today and told me! He couldn't stand it, could he, Kris? He loves me, but you know he couldn't stand it!"

Her voice was hurting her now and she started to sob but she could not stop laughing. She was in Kris's arms and he was saying, "Stop it, Sherry! Stop it this instant!" and shaking her, but she could not stop.

She went on about Tony and the ice skating and Joyce and Tony's feature picture. She had to say it whether she was laughing and crying or not, and suddenly Kris slapped her face.

She stopped then. She was surprised and stung, and burst into fresh sobs that were easier.

Then Kris was holding her in his arms on the davenport. He was stroking her hair and saying, "Now cry all you want," very tenderly, and Sherry clung to him.

She cried until she was exhausted. Then she started to talk. She knew it was not coherent, but she had to. She told him about loving Tony and marrying Peter, and about Lilly and the ache and the loneliness, and all the while Kris cradled her and said, "Poor little girl. Poor little girl."

She might have known it would be like this. Kris understood. Kris always understood.

"You'll be all right," he told her. "You won't forget Tony, but it'll stop hurting. We'll go everywhere in the world and you'll see new things and meet new people. We'll go in for so much excitement that you won't have time to think, and I'll take such good care of you, my lovely one."

Sherry realized what he was saying. She pulled away a little and looked up at Kris and he smiled and stroked her cheek.

He said, "Sherry . . . mine now, Sherry, by every holy right. I didn't get married, so we'll talk about that later."

He kissed her forehead and then leaned back to look at her.

"You'll make a lovely countess, sable and all."

Sherry said, "You can't marry me, Kris."

He laughed.

"Oh, can't I just!" Then he leaned forward and spoke seriously. "You have very plain and there's a long dark span ahead to fill. Wouldn't it be a little easier with me?"

A wave of warmth and gratitude flooded her. Sherry, but she said, "You can't! I won't! It isn't fair."

Kris shrugged.

"Why not? I always planned to marry you. Don't you remember—at Hidden House?"

He got her coat and helped her into it. Then he picked up the bags and took them out.

Sherry powdered her nose and put on her hat and gloves. She followed Kris out the door.

Had Bad Stomach; Throbbing Headaches -- Praises Syntona

Now Eats Food That Formerly Caused Gas, Sour Acidity and Heartburn. Nerves Calm, Sleeps Better.

"For a whole year I suffered with a badly disordered stomach and it is a real pleasure to tell you how much Syntona has meant to me," said Mrs. Irene Brown, 933 Elias St., London, Ont. In a recent interview.

"Before I began using Syntona I had a poor appetite and dared not eat foods I couldn't eat, because I had so much gas and heartburn afterward. Sour liquids came up in my throat and I had a distressed, full, heavy feeling that made me feel short of breath. I was troubled with dizzy spells and I was subject to throbbing headaches which often made my nerves so on edge I could not sleep for hours after getting to bed at night.

"A friend told me to take a friend's advice and get some Syntona and it's really marvellous how different I feel. It was only about 10 days when my stomach began to act better and as I continued with it my appetite returned until now, I can eat almost anything I want without suffering from gas, sourness, or heartburn. I sleep fine, feel fine all the time and keeping free of those awful headaches down too, and so I sleep better and feel so much better when I awaken in the mornings. I am very happy to recommend this medicine to others."

Syntona is made from the pure fluid extracts of 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. It acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels . . . aids in the elimination of excess acids and impurities from the system and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Seed, Not Soil Treated to Stamp Out Root Rot

Chatham, Aug. 28 (CP)— A contribution to scientific agriculture expected to aid farmers the world over and especially benefit hungry Europe was reported from this rich farmland district yesterday. It is a method of controlling the fungi which cause black root rot, or "black leg," in vegetable crops.

Described as "revoutionary," the new and inexpensive method treats the surrounding soil instad of the plant itself. It consists of mixing a chemical substance known commercially as Arasan — and called by scientists tetramethal Thiuramisulfide or "TT" — with topsoil three pounds to the acre.

Developed through three years of research initiated by a larger sugar company to check the disease in beet field, it is applicable to all vegetable crops, tomatoes meons and tobacco, according to its discoverers.

"The fungicide is put in the ground at the time as fertilizer and seed," says Homer Fletcher who directed research. "Only the area around the seed is protected for about five weeks, long enough to allow the seedling to build up resistance to the rot.

"Results this year have been highly satisfactory. Private farmers treated 200 acres of soil at a cost of $3.50 an acre, while the sugar firm treated another 100 acres." Mr. Fletcher predicts widespread use of the chemical next year.

TAX PAYERS PLEASE TAKE NOTICE

The last day for the payment of the Third Instalment of 1947 Taxes without penalty being imposed will be Wednesday, September 3rd., 1947.

Payment earlier than the above mentioned date would be greatly appreciated.

50,000 Tons Artificial Fertilizer Would Provide Extra 1,000,000 Tons of Wheat, Rice to Feed World

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Dunfermline, Scotland, Aug. 23 — (CP) — Dr. William Gammie Ogg, director since 1943 of Rothamsted Experimental Farm at Harpenden, Herts., Eng., says an additional 50,000 tons of nitrogen used as artificial fertilizer would provide an extra 1,000,000 tons of wheat or rice to feed the hungry world.

Addressing the "Swords into Plowshares" convention of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, the 55-year-old Scot said careful research work proved that use of artificial fertilizers does not reduce the value of crops as human food.

"Probably more can be done for the improvement of health in the world today by providing ample supplies of food than in any other way, and the propagation of unfounded beliefs about the harmful effects of fertilizers is deterimental to the interests of the whole community," he said.

"There are huge tracts of land in various parts of Australia, Africa and India, for instance, where, on account of acute phosphate deficiency, only the most meagre crops can be grown and the provision of greatly increased supplies of synthetic nitrogen and other fertilizers is one of the most obvious means of combatting the present, widespread famine.

"Fifty thousand tons of additional nitrogen properly distributed would give an extra million tons of wheat or rice."

Can Be Overcome

Dr. Ogg, who several times has visited Canada, and the United States to make soil studies, said agriculture suffers "very great" losses from the deleterious effects on plant and animal health of "mineral deficiencies and excesses" in the soil. But he said these soil conditions can be overcome just as well with artificial as with organic fertilizers, such as barnyard manure.

"The charge is often made that those who use (artificial) fertilizers are exploiting the fertility of their land, using up its organic matter and leaving it in an impoverished condition. The reverse is, in fact, the case. "Fertilizers properly used build up fertility, making good what is taken out in crops or by stock and what is lost through drainage."

Careful tests had shown that application of inorganic fertilizers has no deleterious effect on the soil micro-population, essential to plant growth.

WINDSOR ROCKETS WELL-FITTED FOR O.R.F.U. GRIND

Team Starting Third Season in Loop Shooting For Play-off Spot

By GEORGE RONALD
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Windsor, Ont., Aug. 28. (CP) —Take it from coach Art Massucci—his Windsor Rockets will be as well conditioned and as fit and "as anybody else in the O.R.F.U."

But that's the only prediction Massucci makes this year.

Even his first-string lineup is far from settled and Massucci says it will remain that way probably until the eve of the Rockets' opener with Toronto Indians in Toronto Sept. 1.

Rockets, starting their third season in the league, will be shooting for their first playoff berth. The club finished sixth and last in 1945 and climbed to the fifth spot last year.

Massucci, a stickler for team spirit and good social condition, has been leading his 40-odd charges through a tough training routine since mid-July—some—most of it in 90-degree weather.

It is Massucci's second year as coach of a Windsor team. The former University of Detroit star handled the old Windsor Greyhounds in 1931 before going to Sarnia, where he led the Imperials to six O.R.F.U. titles and two Canadian championships. He joined Hamilton Tigers in 1940, spent five seasons coaching high school outfits in Detroit, and returned to the Tigers last year.

His chief assistant this year is Mike Hedgewick, veteran halfback who won fame with the Imperials. He was with Hamilton Tigers in 1945 and with the Rockets last season. Although Hedgewick's capacity is nominally that of non-playing assistant coach, there's a possibility he'll stand and take over at quarterback.

If Hedgewick sticks to full-time coaching, the first-string quarter likely will be Bob Thomson, up from Windsor A.K.O. of the Junior O.R.F.U. Thomson, Young and comparatively inexperienced, makes up for it with the lean-spirited drive on which Massucci insists.

Bill Addis, a former Detroit Conder Athletic Association backfielder, eased Massucci's kicking worries when he joined the Rockets a few weeks ago. Addis' arrival freed Leo Camlis, who was with the team last year, for other backfield duties.

The team as it stands now includes 13 two-year Rocket veterans: halfbacks Gord Willes, Joe Scislowski, Delmar Willick, Gerry Dawson and Joe Lesinksy; snaps Val Dow and Al Carson; and linemen Elcro Ghetti, Hank Chaplinski, Sid Lyvinec, Bill Sykes, Joe Pinco and Sam Sasso, who was signed early last fall season.

One-year Rockets back with the team are snapback Earl Kennedy who was with the R.C.A.F. Hurricanes in 1942; linemen Jack Morneau, Balfour McKenzie, Leo Herbert, Paul Piazza and Mike Prestianski; halfbacks Len Camlis and Buck Brazeau.

From last year's Hamilton Tigers, Massucci has brought Steve Chamko, top-notch middle, and Julius Gall, an outside. Both were with the all-star Rockets in 1945.

Joe Tanghetti, a star inside, was all but lost to the team when he suffered a fractured right ankle in a practice scrimmage about 10 days ago. Doctors said then he'd be out for at least eight weeks.

ROYALS INCREASE LEADING MARGIN TO THREE GAMES

Ed Heusser Turns in 17th Victory in Defeating Toronto Leafs

(By The Associated Press)

The pitching of big Ed Heusser, Montreal's veteran right-hander contributed the highlight the Royals' drive for their third consecutive International League pennant.

Heusser turned in his 17th win as against two defeats last night in pitching the Royals to a 5-2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs.

The former major leaguer also drove in what proved to be the winning run by belting a two-run homer in the third inning. Heusser's batterymate, Roy Campanella, slammed his 13th homer in the fifth to account for the Royals' final run.

Heusser's triumph enabled the Royals to increase their first-place margin over the runner-up Jersey City Giants to three games.

The Giants divided a double-header with Baltimore Orioles winning the opener 13-0 behind the five hit pitching of Gene Thompson and losing the finale 10-7.

Syracuse Chiefs took both ends of a twin bill from Newark's 7-3, and 4-1, to pull to within 1-2 games of the Giants.

Howie Pollet limited the Bears to three hits in posting his 27th victory in the opener. Hank Sauer belied his 45th homer to start the Chiefs rolling in the nightcap.

A Buffalo's fourth-place Bisons split a doubleheader with the Rochester Red Wings, copping the opener 4-0 and losing the windup 9-8.

Alouettes Easily Defeat Regina 22-7

Montreal, Aug. 28. (CP)—It has almost come to be axiomatic that football teams coached by Lew Hayman are good—and the 1947 edition of Montreal Alouettes apparently is no exception.

The Alouettes, a mixture of hometowners, American stars and players from different parts of Canada, gave every indication of being powerladen last night as they trampled over Saskatchewan Roughriders 22-7 in an exhibition sponsored by the Kiwanis with proceeds to go to the care of underprivileged children.

Although imports like Gabe Paltierano and Virgil Wagner gave a good account of themselves it was Montreal-born Tommy Massawsky who starred as the most imposing scoring record in the uneven contest. Massawsky, a fast-breaking half-back husky, knocked over the rider-goal-line for two touchdowns.

Tommy Cates and Wagner, the latter the Al's leading scorer last season, also accounted for touchdowns against the Riders.

REMEMBER WHEN

One of the great right-handers of baseball, Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, was recalled by Chicago Cubs of the National League, seven years ago today. Dean, who went to the Chicago Nat. St. Louis Cardinals for $185,000, didn't stay long and turned from playing baseball to radio announcing.

FRANK FILCHOCK LEADS HAMILTON TIGERS TO WIN

Former N. Y. Player in All Five Touchdowns Made By Team

Hamilton, Aug. 28 — (CP) — Centre of a controversy over whether he should be allowed to play football for Hamilton Tigers this year, Frank Filchock last night made an impressive debut into Canadian football as he led the Tigers to a 32-0 exhibition victory over Toronto Balmy Beach.

The former New York Giants fullback, suspended from the United States National Football League for failing to report a bribe offer immediately, handled the Tigers from quarterback and was on the field for four of Tigers' five converted touchdowns. His passes led to the Hamilton team's major scores.

Filchock on whom all clubs of the interprovincial Rugby Football Union except Hamilton turned thumbs down when asked for expression of opinion on whether he should be allowed to play for Tigers, carried the ball himself only once. He intercepted a Beach pass in the third quarter to smoothe that play seemed effortless.

Tigers scored all their points in the first half of the game.

Kitchener Ties Guelph In Semi-Final Round

(By The Canadian Press)

Kitchener and Guelph stand tied at one game apiece in the semi-final round of the Senior Inter-County Baseball playoffs today. With their third game in the best of five series scheduled for Kitchener Friday.

Kitchener came from behind to trim the Maple Leafs 4-2 at Guelph last night as Pat Boehmer held Guelph batters to four hits. Boehmer bounced three hits in the second, allowing Guelph to score twice, but settled down for the rest of the route. His teammates nicked Bill Leader for 10 safeties.

Stratford is at London tonight for the fifth game of a best of seven series. If London loses, the sixth game will be at Stratford tomorrow but a London win will finish the series.

INDUSTRIAL PLAN FOR GERMANY TO EQUAL THAT OF '36

Provides For Annual Steel Production Of 10,700,000 Ingot Tons In Western Germany

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, Aug. 29 (AP)—A western Germany with an industrial capacity about equal to 1936 was envisaged today by the United States and, Great Britain in a new level-of-industry plan providing for annual steel production of 10,700,000 ingot tons.

Under the plan, the United States and British zones, to relieve the burden on American and British taxpayers, would produce 15 per cent more exports than the same areas did in 1936 to bring in $2,000,000,000 a year.

The new plan was a revision of the four-power level-of-industry and reparations agreement of March, 1946, determining the United States and British military governors, Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Air Chief Marshal Sir Sholto Douglas, termed the low ceiling set in that agreement "unrealistic."

Under the four-power plan, the steel ceiling for all Germany was 5,800,000 tons. Under the British-American plan, the British and United States zones alone would produce nearly that total.

Disclosure of the plan followed by two days the adjournment of a day conference of the United States, Britain and France here in London during which German industry was discussed.

In that conference, the French voiced opposition to the plan and were reported to have come with renewed power for warmaking. Before the conference, Russia protested that leaving her out of the talks violated the 1945 Potsdam agreement.

The City-Douglas announcement set no specific ceiling for steel capacity to be retained in Germany for British and American zones; but it was reported officially that this would be about 11,500,000 tons a year.

Police Swinging Clubs Battle Demonstrators

Cairo, Aug. 29 — (AP)—Police swinging clubs battled demonstrators marching through the streets of Cairo today shouting "Revolt, down with imperialism, long live our brothers the policemen."

Two persons were reported wounded slightly by police fire.

The demonstration was a new protest of the East the United Nations Security Council had not ordered British troops from the Nile Valley, as Egypt demanded. Three persons were reported killed in a similar riot last week.

The manifestation began with Moslem prayers. Friday is the Mohammedan Sabbath.

Nearly 1,500 persons thronged Al Azhar Square, where thousands of Moslems used to flye mosques for noon prayers. The crowd emerged and walked quietly until they passed the police lines. Then they started shouting for revolt. Clubs whirled into the air and dispersed the crowd, pursuing remnants with clubs.

The demonstrators finally left the streets, many to sleep during the night hours to be ready for renewed activity tonight should the U. N. reject the Egyptian demand.

'JUNGLE' SLAYING MONTREAL WOMAN BEING PROBED

Armand Chartrand Held As Important Witness, Claimed Man Met Woman Recently

Montreal, Aug. 29. (CP)—Police pressed their inquiry into the "jungle" slaying of 43-year-old Cecile Carriere and held as an important witness for a coroner's inquest today 31-year-old Armand Chartrand.

Police described Chartrand as a "jungle sleeper", a man whose home is the wooded area on Mount Royal, rising above mid-town Montreal.

Cecile Carriere died yesterday and police allege her death was due to a beating received at the hands of a man during a rendezvous two weeks ago in the mountain "jungle" area.

Sgt. Dela. Gerald Lawton and Act. Detective Jack Chartrand took custody after finding him in Fletchers Field, a wide expanse of park on the fringe of the mountain where many down-and-outers have found the night during the warm summer weather.

Miss Carriere's body was found yesterday by a friend, 45-year-old Pauline Lacroix, in a room in the lawdry, run-down area of St. Lawrence Boulevard near Sherbrooke St.

According to detectives Miss Carriere had left a man, now held as a witness, in a mountain rendezvous two weeks ago.

Chartrand, so the story goes as placed together by police, came on the scene and joined in the meeting and allegedly beat the woman.

Prison said he had known the victim for three years. But, he told police, he had not been seeing her at her home for several months.

He called there yesterday morning, the last Carriere complained of pains in her head and ribs. Chartrand told police he left the blackened eyes and her face bore the marks of a severe beating.

Prison told police that she was ailing but alive when he left her. He returned to the room later and found her dead.

Police Const. Eeine Rousel, medico-legal expert, said the woman died as the result of "repeated blows on the head and he gave cause of death as a cerebral hemorrhage.

PROGRAM TO COPE WITH CRISIS IS WELL RECEIVED

Plan Pegged on Rebuilding German Industry Under Marshall Aid

London, Aug. 29 (CP)—The 11-point "last chance" program for Germany announced in Paris today initiated by the powerful Federation of British Industries to Prime Minister Attlee, drew a favorable reaction from several leading newspapers today.

The plan, heavily pegged on rebuilding German industry as a basis for European recovery under the Marshall aid program, was presented to the government yesterday as nearly 25,000,000 persons are living precariously on only one-third the country's foreign food deficit, estimated currently to total about 12,000,000 tons ($2,500,000,000) annually.

Want Coal Exported

The Federation urged all possible steps to be taken to overcome economic collaboration, including the export of coal and limited steel, by mining in such short quantity that even her own industries lack fuel.

It asked that coal production be increased above the present 185,000,000 tons annually to 220,000,000 tons and that the "drastic reduction of some governmental controls over industry."

The organization, whose membership includes major British industries, declared that the government postpone its planned nationalization of steel industry which, it said, would cause "irreparable damage" and make the target production of 14,000,000 ingot tons in 1948 impossible of attainment.

It called on the government to abandon its plans to increase its coal expenditures by £250,000,000 ($1,000,000,000) and suggested that industry join in a "heavy cut" in the national program of capital costs.

The Conservative Daily Telegraph said the industrialists' program had merits and urged that parliamentary debate on nationalization be recalled quickly so that the "real perils of the situation can be brought home to the people."

The influential Times attacked the government for its "cautious and reluctant" approach to get Britain economically and commercially back on its feet again.

The Manchester Guardian said "if (the federation) recognizes as the government proposes still not to be enough the nation to have to live within its income means that it must reorganize its whole economy."

The Guardian said there is no informed source said Russian Ambassador Georges Zarubin and Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, conferred on the possibility of reopening British-Russian trade talks which collapsed at Moscow recently.

Meantime, the government's abolition of the basic gasoline ration was reported to have caused the bottom to drop out of the used car market.

Police Doubtful Slain Man's Body That of Minille

Badly Decomposed Body Found Near Port Huron

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 29 (CP) — Discovery of an unidentified decomposed body near here last night led to rumors it might be that of Nicholas Minille of Ottawa, one of three long-term convicts who escaped from Kingston penitentiary Aug. 18, but while descriptions of the body were being investigated by police agencies doubt was cast on the Minille angle.

Minille broke out of the Kingston penitentiary with Donald (Mickey) McDonald of Toronto and Ulysses Lauzon of Windsor. The two later were linked by police with a Windsor bank holdup Aug. 20 and were believed in the border area.

Chief of police Claude Renaud of Windsor today said he was not sending anyone from Windsor to check on the body here. The official description of Minille and the unofficial description of the body found here differed slightly.

Deputy Sheriff A. J. Foster said the body seemed to fit the description of Minille as received from reporters.

Foster said, however, the condition of the body would make identification difficult. He quoted doctors as saying the man, apparently the victim of a murder, had been dead "anywhere from seven days to two weeks."

He said it was difficult to check the man's fingerprints here because of decomposition.

"It was almost impossible to get fingerprints but what we did get we have sent in to R. P. 2. in Washington."

In addition, there was no skin on the man's chin or forehead, ruling out the chance of identification through tatoo marks Minille is said to have on his arms.

The deputy sheriff said his description of Minille was obtained from newspaper reporters. This is how it compared with the body:

Minille murdered and is believed to have been 33-35 years old. His height is estimated at five feet, 4½ inches. He had dark brown-reddish hair.

Minille, as described to Foster by the reporters, was 31, stood five feet 9/4 inches and had dark brown hair.

Police said the description of Minille as released by Canadian authorities after the escape from Kingston:

Age: 35; height: five feet, five inches; dark complexion; dark brown eyes, black hair—plus the limp.

Had Gold Dental Bridge

Foster said the man whose body was found last night had a gold dental bridge. This was a description of Minille's dental work.

Foster said police believed that establishment of a link with Minille depended on the medical decision of the time of death. If the man was slain two weeks ago, the trail of the escaped convict

Minille is the break from Kingston were Ulysses Lauzon, 25, and Donald (Mickey) McDonald, 40, who have been linked with a Windsor bank holdup last Friday in Windsor, Ont.

(In Windsor, Chief Constable Wilfrid Wilson said he was not sending anyone" to Port Huron for a check on the theory that the body is that of Minille.)

Foster said the body was found in a ditch 15 miles northwest of here and that the victim had been shot through the head with a .38-calibre revolver.

POLICE HUNT TRIO RESPONSIBLE FOR DAYLIGHT HOLD-UP

$25,400 Taken From Hotel Proprietor After Leaving Bank

Winnipeg, Aug. 29 (CP) — An intensive, district-wide police search was under way today for three men who held up J. M. Kingston, proprietor of the Winnipeg Hotel, on a downtown street yesterday and robbed him of $25,400 he had just drawn from a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

The daring carefully-planned holdup of the 62-year-old businessman was Winnipeg's second major crime in little more than three months—a branch of the Bank of Montreal was robbed by three armed bandits May 17 and about $87,000 was taken in the largest since air $87,000 robbery in 1930.

Mr. Kingston had just entered his automobile after leaving the bank with the money, to be used as a cash payroll for Canadian National Railways employees who work in the city, when a man jumped into the rear seat and stuck something which felt like a revolver in his ribs and told him to drive on.

As scores of shoppers walked by unaware of the holdup, the six-foot, well-built hotel proprietor reached over the front seat and pulled the bandit into the front seat. Then as he grappled with him, a second man jumped into the car, struck Mr. Kingston in the face, stunning him, and the two left the bandits to escape.

Before he could shout for help, they had fled into heavy traffic and Mr. Kingston was unable to take on from still another auto.

Police said a third man also had been involved in the holdup but that this was not the gunman they suspected the clue to be the same who robbed the Bank of Montreal in May. Police said, however, they did not believe the three were Donald (Mickey) McDonald, Ulysses Lauzon and Nick Minille, who, police have sought since their escape from Kingston, Ont., Penitentiary last Aug. 17.

He has already flown a cargo of fruit to North Bay.

JAPAN TRANSFORMED

Tokyo, Aug. 29 (AP)—Japan, growing out of its feudalism, is "a completely transformed and modern nation" in two years of occupation, Gen. MacArthur's government section stated today. The statement came in a new series on accomplishments in the 24-months since surrender, praising Japan's progress in advancing economic, social, political and cultural freedoms.

Demand For Help Outstrips Supply Says Labor Dept.

Labor Shortage of Almost Wartime Proportions Seen

Ottawa, Aug. 29 (CP) — The Labor Department reported today that industrial expansion has been so great that demand for workers now exceeds the supply.

The late spring this year delayed the usual mid-year peak in employment rise, but this resulted in seasonal pressure in July and early August in all industries, and the accompanying demand for workers has created a labor shortage of almost wartime proportions, the Labor department release said.

A total of 83,000 unplaced applicants were registered with the National Employment service Aug. 14, with vacancies of 85,000.

"This labor shortage will become even more acute next month," the Department added, "since peak activity is not usually reached until the end of September, when agriculture, manufacturing, construction and transportation are working at top capacity.

"The August 14 figure for unplaced applicants is 19,000 below the July 10 level, and 56,000 below that a year ago. By sex, there were 68,000 male and 28,000 female applicants, as against 79,000 and 33,000 respectively a year ago."

The department statement continued—

"The current situation spotlights the problem of matching workers with the jobs available. Geographical dislocation in a country like ours is a fact and one great obstacle—while industries in Ontario and Quebec need workers desperately, the surplus labor still exists in the Maritimes and Pacific regions.

Policies Supported

"Another factor is that much of the labor surplus now is composed of partially disabled, physically unfit or older workers who do not meet employers' specifications. Primary industries throughout the country are campaigning for workers, but few are available for this type of employment that immigration policies are warmly supported as a solution."

In Ontario, there were 27,000 unplaced applicants and 40,000 unfilled vacancies Aug. 14. Most industries were boosting production to the limit of available materials and labor. The movement of workers from Nova Scotia had been a boon to heavy industry in particular.

Food processing plans were busy with seasonal crops, and a labor shortage loomed for the early fall. The farm labor shortage had been intensified by weather difficulties, and where 2,000 western harvesters were wanted, only about 1,000 came. The pulpwood industry would absorb about 2,400 displaced persons from camps in Europe, about half of which already had arrived.

Wages Not Attractive

High wages in the mining industry, the release said, could not attract sufficient workers.

The prairies had 14,000 unplaced applicants Aug. 14 compared with 18,500 unfilled vacancies. This "highly-seasonal region" is approaching its yearly peak.

Despite weather which has affected crop prospects, there is still a great demand for eastern harvesters, since this year men will be needed in all three provinces instead of being transferred from one province to another at the harvest progresses.

Requirements will be greater and the season much shorter than in a normal year.

Unplaced applicants and unfilled vacancies (in bracket) in National Employment Service offices in Ontario at Aug. 14, were: Belleville, 281 (5,042); London, 718 (1,628); Oshawa, 2,475 (298); Ottawa, 3,811 (1,798); St. Catharines, 664 (518); Toronto, 5,245 (15,257); Windsor, 2,976 (353).

MIGHT SET EXAMPLE

Baltimore, Aug. 29 (AP)—Baltimore's garbage heaps in mid-night set an example in international harmony says J. V. Kelly former secretary of the Board of Park Commissioners.

Kelly yesterday urged the board of estimates to ask Premier Stalin of Russia to put bear as a goalmate for the Druid Hill Park polar bears. Alaska is Russia's polar bears.

The trio he said, "might create more friendly international relations."

Will Resume Talks On Settlement Of Packers' Strike

Toronto Aug. 29 (CP)—Talks aimed at settlement of the three-day-old strike of 4000 Swift Canadian Company Packinghouse workers were scheduled to resume here today.

Representatives of the company and of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.) met for more than two hours in a hotel room yesterday but there was no indication that agreement was near on major issues which include a Union demand for wage increases in a new master contract.

The Union's Canadian Director Fred Dowling said the Union had agreed that no statement would be made on the progress of negotiations but that a Swift Company-and-Union statement would be issued if the talks were successful. Sources close to the situation said it was unlikely settlement would be achieved this week.

As the Union maintained picket lines around Swift Canadian plants in Moncton N.B.; Toronto, St. Boniface, Man., Edmonton, Moose Jaw, Sask., and New Westminster, B.C., Ralph Helstein, U.P.W.A. international president arrived here from Chicago to join the Union negotiating team.

Seek Wage Increase

The Union' seeks a wage increase of 15 cents an hour for its members in Toronto and 20 cents for those elsewhere. If granted, these increases would bring the basic rate to 92 cents an hour Union men said.

Settlement of a five-week-old strike at Swift's Dairy and Poultry plant at Melville, Sask., has been made a Union condition of negotiating a new agreement. The Union also wants the dairy and poultry plan brought into a master agreement with the meat packing plants.

Besides the representatives of Canada Packers and Burns and Company, two other leading Canadian Meat Packing firms, continued discussions with U.P.W.A. representatives concerning new contracts.

U.S. Wants Parley To Speed Korean Independence

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The United States today called for a four-power conference to speed Korean independence.

The request was made in a new note to Moscow saying that the present deadlocked Soviet-American commission to arrange for a provisional government can not continue.

"The United States government can not in good conscience be a party to any further delay in the establishment of a commission of Korean independence and provisions that the two powers agree hering to the Moscow agreement meet to consider how that agreement may be speedily carried out," the note said.

It suggested that conversations on the problem begin Sept. 8.

Simultaneously the state department disclosed a summary of its proposal for Korean reform.

They repeated a suggestion for a four-power trusteeship, already rejected by Russia.

More Outdoor Facilities Needed

Brantford, Aug. 29 — (CP) — Establishment of more outdoor recreation facilities would remove unnecessary the extension of jails and penitentiaries, F. E. Roberts, secretary-treasurer of the Grand River Conservation Commission yesterday told the Ontario Municipal Association.

Mr. Roberts said Parks and camps were part of the Grand River conservation scheme and established eight centres and covered 2,600 square miles.

While the average municipality could establish a conservation scheme by itself, a group of municipalities could make it "very hard for the province or anyone else to turn down a request for funds," he said.

However, properly developed plans must be presented.

Earlier the convention passed a Sarnia-sponsored resolution requesting the Ontario Department of Welfare to assume full responsibility for support of Children's Aid Societies while leaving administration in present hands.

Sunspots are Strongest Known "Radio Stations" say Scientists

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP)—Sunspots were described today by one of Britain's leading radio scientists as the strongest known "radio stations," with more than a million times the power of the biggest man-made transmitters.

Sir Edward Appleton spoke on "words into Flowshares" conference of the British Association for the advancement of science.

He indicated that these radio waves from the sun are probably responsible for the "fade-outs" that interfere with long-range radio reception at times of unusual sunspot activity.

Ordinarily the radio emission is minute. But experiments he conducted with scientists J. S. Hey proved, he said, that "extremely strong" radio emissions occur from sunspot areas. The maximum effect being observed on a wave-length of the order of five metres.

"Such abnormal radio emissions cannot decide the origin of the solar radio noise which increases sharply at the same time as radio "fade-outs" occur.

French Imports To be Reduced By Two-Thirds

Paris, Aug. 29, (Reuters)—French imports from dollar countries, including Canada, are to be reduced by two-thirds in the second half of 1947, it was officially announced today.

The announcement followed an emergency meeting of the Interministerial Economic Commission.

It was announced that the importation of the following products would be suspended indefinitely from next Monday: Gasoline, cotton, lumber, paper pulp, wood, fruit, hides, and nonferrous metals.

The dollar deficit import slash was attributed officially to a $600,000,000 deficit in the proposed $450,000,000 import program for the second half of 1947.

Zeiss Optical Works to be Reassembled In Five Separate Units in Russia

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

Berlin, Aug. 29—(AP)—Russia, following the Russian pattern of a policy of decentralization and dispersion, has decided to have reported reassembling Germany's famed Zeiss optical works in five separate units scattered from Leningrad to the Urals, according to German sources here.

Recent reports received here indicate the Russians have embarked a pattern of industrial decentralization as a defence scheme in the event of atomic warfare, with much of their production system sheltered in the fastnesses of the Urals and beyond.)

The information about Zeiss was sent back to Germany in letters by some of the 200 German researchers and technicians whom the Russians took along to the Soviet Union when they dismantled the plant at Jena, in Thuringia, for reparations. The Germans were taken along to operate the industry and operate it for the Russians.

These deported specialists are the correspondents wrote their colleagues in Germany, said the British-licensed newspaper Die Neue Zeitung today, that they are re-establishing the plant in five units — at Leningrad, Moscow, Kiev and in the Urals.

The Germans wrote that they the Zeiss machinery had suffered substantial damage from exposure to weather and from other causes in the long haul to Russia.

They added that as specialists they have been receiving extraordinary treatment from the Russians, including higher food rations and pay than Russian workers. However, the extra rations do not apply to members of their families.

Caretaker Found Dead in Basement Of K. G. School

Caretaker at King George School for the past 4 years, Clarence Garbutt, aged 53, was found dead in the basement of the school after nine o'clock this morning.

Discovery of the body was made by Lawrence A. Kelly, public school inspector and administrator of Belleville schools, together with two workmen who had come to the school to install new boilers for the opening of school next week. The body was found beneath a step ladder. Police were notified and notified Sgt. D. Ella, and P.C. Sunderland answering the call.

Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott viewed the body and stated death had occurred at least eight hours previously. A post mortem was ordered.

Mr. Garbutt was last seen two days ago by members of his family, and was reported to have told Mr. Kells that he was going fishing. He had not been seen about the school, when Mr. Kells left the building at five o'clock Wednesday evening.

It is believed by police that Mr. Garbutt had returned home some time Wednesday evening and had decided to do some work at the school when he had possibly suffered a heart spell. Mr. Garbutt lived alone in a trailer at the rear of the school.

Belleville Band Wins 2nd Place In Open Competition at C.N.E.

Plays Against Some of The Finest Bands in The Country

Playing against some of the most outstanding bands in Ontario, in fact, the best in Canada, Belleville Wonderful Band gained away with second prize in the open competition staged at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto on Wednesday.

A total of 28 bands entered the seven sections of the competition, the Belleville band being listened to by a tremendously large crowd of band music lovers.

Winner of Class "A", or the open class in which the Belleville Band competed, over the London Band under the direction of Bandmaster Martin Boundy, wartime conductor of the air force band overseas.

$300 Cash Prize

First place winner received a cash prize of $300 and the trophy, while Belleville received the second award, a solarium. Effie Band, the Belleville Band was Bandmaster L. F. Addison. Also participating in the competition was the Chatham Kilties Band under the direction of S. G. Chamberlain, a noteworthy band which has seen many years of public competition.

"The 42 members of the Belleville Band never played better than they did in the competition" stated Manager Harry Moorman today as he paid tribute to the performance of the band personnel. "They played in truly professional manner."

"In Belleville we have one of the finest musical organizations in the Dominion of Canada and the Belleville Band, second place at the Exhibition this fact has to be recognized," continued Mr. Moorman.

Few Points Difference

There was very little to choose in the performance of the 1st and second place winners in the competition with the London organization winning only by a margin of only two and one half points. As in previous years, the second place Belleville Band played selection (Faust).

Although the competition started at nine yesterday morning the Belleville Band did not play until nearly six in the evening. Band members arrived back in the city at four this morning.

HORE ELECTROCUTED

Midland, Aug. 29 — (CP) — When a horse stepped on "Frankie" Hore here yesterday it was electrocuted: A short circuit in the town's electric wiring system had charged the cover, and the animal's steel shoes acted as a conductor. The short circuit has been adjusted.

Scout Travellers Return Laden With Souvenirs

Halifax, Aug. 29 (CP)—In the duffle bags and packs of a contain portion of the Warrior's passenger complement when she arrived here yesterday was one of the strangest assortment of articles ever assembled under an aircraft carrier's flight deck.

Thirty-two Boy Scouts who had attended the sixth annual worlds jamboree at Molesey, France, and 25 Royal Canadian Sea Cadets who had visited England as guests of the Navy League were allowed to take with them only what they could carry.

But when they returned they brought with them a few extra and newly acquired articles.

Most of the souvenirs were in the hands of those who reported that "the French would trade "anything for anything".

One boy traded an Indian turban, about seven yards of bright green silk cloth, for a gold braid, which he had obtained from an Indian Scout in trade for his extra hat.

Still others brought Samurai swords, miniature Eiffel Towers and almost all had a pair of small Dutch shoes; one unfortunate lad had a full-scale pair—his own size at that.

The Sea Cadets who had less scope for trading while visiting Britain, brought less varied items of interest from England but admitted that English shillings are pretty hard field for the trader.

"And prices are so high, too," commented one.

Assistant Scout Master Len Johnson, formerly of Saint John N.B. and now of Halifax, said that the Canadian Scouts had mingled "magnificently" with the other Scouts(including the Russians).

King Scout Wayne Murray of Moncton, N.B., and Assistant Canadian Scouts from the British quarantine camp "nice fellows".

The British, said Scouter Johnson, were moving "mountains" with their help for the reconstruction zone. They don't want it to be used for the wrong purposes."

German youth, however, took to scouting training like ducks are "very keen on it."

Australians were in large numbers, he said.

Sea Cadet James Cumming of Edmonton, Alta., told of the cadets' visit to the naval base at Portsmouth and termed his visit to the submarine pens one of the highlights of his trip.

But perhaps just as exciting was seeing the Atlantic.

"Coming from the Prairie as I do it was, something new. I was out to British Columbia but never before had anything like this."

But seven of this lot believed at least two of the cadets who yielded to nature and admitted sea sickness during a rough period of the return voyage.

Another lad admitting he fell before the wiles of the sea was an Immature Scout who showed the sailors what he believed a new way to box the tricky navy sleeping hammock.

After five fateful tries at trying to balance the tricky canvas the scout quit. He finished the night on the floor.

No immediate action will be taken regarding requests for the right to operate rolling kitchens in the city, it being decided to have the city solicitor obtain information for submission to council in the matter of preparing a by-law dealing with the matter.

Mayor Frank Follwell and Alderman Chas. Hyde were named as delegates to Windsor for the Plumbing Inspectors and Officials convention Sept. 18-19, while the Mayor and Alderman H. J. Clarke, chairman of finances were named as members of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Cheese Board

Many Cheese Factory Patrons Said Selling Cream for Butter Production

Many cheese factory patrons in the Bay of Quinte district are feeding their skimmed milk to hogs and calves instead of feed grain which is very scarce.

Get Skimmed Milk

Current cheese prices return the factory operators only $4 per cwt. for his milk while cream at 64c an ounce would return around $1.02 with the skimmed milk back.

"And we would not have to pay any co-operative income taxes," claimed one salesman.

Referring to the drop of from 25 cents per pound, for overseas cheese in May, Carr, Stirling, stated "I don't see why cheese producers should be penalized forever. We took it all through the war. Many patrons have already left the factory for the creamery."

Colored cheese sold on the Board at the highest price in many years as buyers bid 23 1-16 cents and at 23 cents. White cheese brought 22 3-16 cents with buyers to pay 22 cents and specialty cheese. A total of 3,323 cheeses were sold including 731 colored.

Weekly Livestock Review

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP)—Continued labor troubles coupled with few choice cattle offerings contributed to slow trade on the livestock market here this week. Cattle prices opened barely steady in the top grades Monday while medium to good offerings were weaker to 25 cents a hundredweight and more lower. Cows opened at $9-$9.50 with an occasional top at $10 but closed Tuesday with light heifer cows selling up to $10.50 with an odd top at $11. Canner veal values were steady with common to medium grades and choice offerings continued steady while lambs dropped before the week ended $1 lower in slow trade.

Included in the cattle run were 865 western stockers. Top for choice weighty steers was $15.25 Monday under steers weighing $10.50-$13.25 with a few at $13.50. Fed yearlings brought $17 to $18, bulls $9 to $9.50 with a few heavy bolognas at $10. Stockers opened strong with common to medium grades $9 to $10.75 and good quality selling readily at $11 to $12, but sales dropped off Tuesday with little business done. Prices were considered steady for the week. Ordinary quality milkers and springers sold at $85 to $140 each.

Veal calves were $15 to $16 for choice with plain to medium $10 to $14. These latter grades slowed up by the middle of the week and were hard to sell with few buyers bidding. Thin grassers sold for slaughter at $8 to $8.50. Hogs opened at $22 for choice grade A, $22.60 for B1 with sows $16 dressed.

Lambs opened 50 cents lower than last week's close at $15.50 off truck and $16 off car but sold steady throughout the week; with $1 discount for trucks. A few culls sold at $12 to $13. Good light sheep opened at $8.50 to $9 but the close was easy selling slowly at $7 to $7.50 with heavy sheep slow at $5 to $6. Culls were $4 to $5.

$15 a Week Store Clerk Committed For Trial in $10,000 Theft Case

Sydney Mines, N.S., Aug. 29, (CP)—A $15 a week department store clerk, Miss Phyllis Bond, 36, was free on bail today while she awaited Supreme Court trial in October on a charge of stealing $10,000 worth of merchandise from her employer of the last 17 years.

Hundreds who crowded into the town hall of this Cape Breton mining community yesterday heard Magistrate Verne Read commit the plump brunette after police read a statement in which she was alleged to have admitted taking goods "home without paying for them."

While employees of the British-Canadian Cooperative Society continued classifying two truckloads of goods seized by police, the clerk heard Crown Prosecutor Donald Finlayson tell the Magistrate that evidence would establish the "connection" between herself and her fiance John MacQueen of nearby Sydney.

The packing house truck driver to whom she was to have been married Thursday was not in court yesterday but the girl heard store manager Thomas Anderson testify that "an array" of merchandise including dresses, sheets and hosiery" had been seized in the MacQueen home.

Bore Code Marks

Articles, which John the MacDonald, foreman of clerks, said bore code marks of the co-operative store, were produced as evidence in court. They ranged from awnings to table cloths, and included mattresses, decorations and a novel "Little Women".

MacDonald related the conversation between himself and the employee who had been fired four days before.

"Johnny, don't you think I have been lenient," Phyllis said to me," he recalled. "If I can buy it back, believe you me there will be a big bonfire in the Bond backyard. This kind of stuff will bring very good luck . . . Johnny, I lied to my parents. I told them I got bargains."

The incident which started the investigation leading to the charge against Miss Bond occurred last Wednesday when she was fired after store officials charged her with making a sale of $1.50 worth of unbleached cotton without turning in the cash.

In a statement read in court by R.C.M.P. Corporal James MacDonald, Miss Bond was alleged to have said that "for the past several years I have been taking possession of goods from the department, and—taking them home without paying for them."

Ottawa, Aug. 29 (CP) — Canadians are producing more butter but they are also eating more, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics showed today in monthly figures on butter supply and use.

The bureau said the upward trend in creamery butter production continued in June, registering a 3 per cent increase over June, 1946, but stocks at Aug. 1 did not reflect this gain in production, the holdings of 28,560,000 pounds being only 128,000 pounds greater than those of the same date a year ago.

The total supply of creamery butter available for distribution in July was approximately 32,000,000 pounds, against 27,000,000 in June and 31,000,000 in July 1946.

Labor Council Passes Motions At Meeting

At the regular monthly meeting of the Belleville District Labor Council held in Engineers Hall Pine Street, last night the following resolutions were adopted unanimously.

"This Labor Council, comprised of A.F. of L. Railroad Organizations and C.I.O. Unions, regrets the lack of action on the part of City Council to immediately provide Wartime Housing for the people of Belleville especially since the Council went on record unanimously at their June meeting in favor of such action," and also "That Labor Council deplores the action of the medical profession in their attitude in making their medical fees at this time when the country is fighting the possibility of inflation."

The hearty welcome was extended to the latest labor organization to establish itself in Belleville, namely Local 533 United Electrical Radio & Machine Workers of America which set a precedent by having two lady delegates at the meeting.

Halsey, The Humanitarian

There have been a number of inside stories of World War II by Allied military leaders but those we think more interesting than a series of articles by Fleet Admiral William F. Halsey, USN, which recently concluded in the Saturday Evening Post. In brief sketchy outlines of them deal with his early years in the U.S. Navy but the bulk of the narrative was given over to his experiences as naval officer in the war against Japan.

Nothing we have seen following this first brief outline, which impressed us as to the kind of man Admiral Halsey is is one passage which described his impressions and the events when the news was flashed to him that the Japanese had finally surrendered. He wrote, "My first thought at the great news was 'Victory!' My second was, 'God be thanked, I never have to order another man out to die!' My next was, "I am grateful for the honor of being in Command of the Third Fleet on this day."

Nothing else reveals quite so much the calibre of this great leader as those thoughts in victory, "I'll never have to order another man out to die." Throughout his story there were frequent references to his concern over the welfare of the men serving under his command but his main worry and sorrow, outside his day-to-day duties, was the loss of many fine men in pursuit of their duties.

His feelings as to the responsibilities of his war leadership probably were shared by other commanders of our services but they have not been so graphically revealed as those he expressed in victory. We feel sure that Alexander, Montgomery and Eisenhower and many other great leaders had similar thoughts for they are men of great hearts as well as magnificent leaders, but Halsey puts his down on paper for the world to read.

If there was more of this concern for human welfare in the minds of another great country whose actions are the cause of much worry to the world, the case for peace would be greatly strengthened but then, this country's leaders do not think as Halsey did with his, "I'll never have to order another man out to die."

Lightning's Damage

Economists rarely take lightning bolts into account in drawing their charts, but many a businessman is leaving to cock an eye toward nature's warfare between heaven and earth says the Wall Street Journal in assessing some of the property loss through lightning.

Lightning rod manufacturers expect 1947 to be a peak production year, surpassing last year's output of about eight million feet.

Companies making arrestors and other equipment to shield power and communication lines from sky flashes are running about forty per cent, ahead of their five million dollar sales of last year.

Oil companies know when they hear thunder. About fifty-five per cent of their tank fires are caused by lightning.

Insurance companies have totted up their losses from lightning and find that by 1945 they received a quarter-million claims for lightning-sparked fire losses of sixty millions. What with higher property values, claims are running larger now.

Businessmen of agriculture suffer. The National Board of Fire Underwriters calculates thirty-seven per cent of farm fires from bolts.

Science, backed by industry and government, is trying to learn how to bring maverick electricity under better control.

Barrages of bolts are greatest during the Summer. They are fired back and forth a million times faster than sound. They smash factory chimneys, shatter machinery and rip off roofs. When the thunder has died away by rule of thumb they will have left in their wake fifteen to twenty millions in shot-up property. They will also have electrocuted about 400 persons and injured a thousand more.

Each average square mile in the U.S. gets battered by ten lightning bolts yearly. But the distribution is inequitable.

Fried Salt Pork

It's more or less out of fashion now — except for a few discerning countrymen who know the inherent tangy goodness of it. In an era of food instantaneously when nothing comes frozen, dehydrated, concentrated and pre-cooked, fried salt pork is likely to be dismissed without due consideration. In late August when a man has had his fill of fried chicken, chicken pie, and chicken fricassee, he sort of hankers for a mess of the salty country meat.

There's a natural affinity between the pork and the rest of the meal. Patient experimentation has proved that boiled potatoes mixed with milk gravy are the fate-blessed concomitants of the crisp, flour-covered, saliva-starting slices. Since last winter the chunks of pork have floated in the dark, crankly brine in the wooden barrel beneath the cellar stairs. good husbandman likes to know there is plenty of the meat for his Saturday night baked beans and for the foundation of fish chowders.

There are a few basic secrets in the mess that observe. The pork must have strips of lean in it to furnish satisfying, long-lasting chewing. The chunk must be freshened a few hours in tepid water. Keep the pot on the third cover of the stove from 7 A. M. to 11.30. Slice it exactly five-sixteenth of an inch thick and fry slowly in an iron spider over an ash and oak fire. The last few minutes take off the stove cover so the hot heat will make a crisp outer covering. A half dozen slices of the fragrant, tart-crusted salt pork, new potatoes in their milk gravy, plus a few biscuits with currant jelly, two slices of cold, juicy, deep-dish apple pie and a glass or two of cold, creamy milk is a satisfying August day dinner. — (New York Times Editorial.)

Want a Cook?

Bridget, the goddess of the broom and dishpan, is going to come into her own again in Canada—with her name changed to Olga or Gretchen or Anastasia, observes the Vancouver Province.

Domestic servants in this country have been becoming rarer and rarer. Thousands of families now do their own housework who ten years ago had one or more servants to help out in the kitchen. More than one harrowing businessman ends his day not in a comfortable armchair as soon as dinner is finished, but vested in an apron and prescribing carefully over the activities of the kitchen sink.

The maid-of-all-work and the "cook-general" have become scarce luxuries for a variety of causes. One obvious cause is the shortage of manpower in business and industry during the war, when young women found they could double and triple wages obtainable in domestic service by working in factories and offices.

Draining Airfield

A $250,000 experiment to test whether it will be possible to control the gradual sinking of LaGuardia Field without closing down the airport indefinitely has been begun by the Port of New York, relates The New York Herald Tribune.

The Authority's plan is to drill 450 holes 16 inches wide and 84 feet deep into the waterlogged east end of the field, then fill them with sand and see if the sand will carry off the sub-surface water responsible for continuing settlement of the airport's eastern section.

If the plan, of "sand drains," untried in the east, has been used extensively by California engineers to prepare swampy terrain for highway projects.

"I had four weeks' eggs ration for breakfast this morning," said one of the arriving British immigrants. That's putting it in a way that should make us pause, Hamilton Spectator thinks.

As Canada gets older it will bear a lot more about its dietary penalties. For all its time our country is gaining a proportionately greater number of old people. By present trends the number of Canadians over 70 years of age will have jumped from 440,000 persons under four per cent., in 1940, to 582,000, or 4.63 per cent of our population in 1950. By 1970 we will have nearly a million people over seventy years old, or approximately seven per cent of the total.— Hamilton Spectator.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1947, Edgar A. Guest)

THAT'S MINE

Oh, be it book or crayon box
Or toy balloon or building blocks,
Just let another girl or boy
Pick up the plaything to enjoy,
Its owner — eight years old or nine —
Starts battle with the cry: "That's mine!"

"That's mine!" Wherever children throng
The grownups hear it all day long.
"That's mine!" and mothers run outside
Possession's problems to decide,
And dry the tears and stop the cries
That out of selfishness arise.
"That's mine!" at first a childish cry
That bitterer grows as time goes by.

"That's mine!" a phrase that fosters strife
And long has marred the joy of life.
"That's mine!" I think the question fair—
Do humans ever, learn to share?

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Why is a kind of evergreen tree known as spruce?

— "Spruce" in Middle English was the common form of "Prussi", Prussia, and that Country's state fir, what we "Sprucis" or "spruceland".

It seems to be well established that the spruce fir, a member of the pine family of trees, was so named from having been first known in commerce as a native of Prussia.

This theory is supported by the fact that "Spruce" as a surname occurs in the English names —of importers, exporters, and others from Germany to England by the Hanse merchants, as spruce beer, or, spruce canvas, spruce boards, spruce chests and spruce beer.

"Spruce" in the sense of "trim, neat, dapper, or smarter than usual in apparel, comes from the same source.

To dress sprucely or "to spruce up" originally meant to dress in the Spruce or Prussian manner, particularly in the style of Spruce or Prussian leather jackets that were the fashion in the 16th century.

"Spruce" in its modern sense occurs three times in Shakespeare. In "Love's Labor Lost": Holofernes says Armado is "too peremptorie, too spruce, too affected, too odde," and later in the same play Biron refers to "Taffeta phrases, silken terms precise, three-piled hyperboles, spruce affection, figures pendanticall." In "The Taming of the Shrew" Grumio asks Petruchio's household servants: "Now, my spruce companions, is all ready, and all things neat!"

Some writers have questioned the derivation of "spruce" from "Prusse" because they could not account for the prefixed "S" and because the Germans call the tree "Sprossen fichte," sprout fir," from "Sprissen", sprout But that "spruce" as an alteration of "Prusse" is seemingly established by an unbroken chain of etymological evidence.

Spruce beer may not have received its name directly from the name of the country, although a product from Prussia was so referred to already in 1741. It is a fermented beverage made from a sweetened concoction of spruce leaves and twigs or flavored with spruce extract and it was probably named for the Country long after the tree had come to be called spruce.

Letter to the Editor

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

Please allow me to explain your item in Wednesday night's issue regarding "Child Bitten by Dog on Station Street."

I wish to state that I have two beautiful Dalmation dogs that are playful and kind to children.

Unfortunately through some course they I am not aware of, the elder dog, lying along the sidewalk, bit a child. This dog was ordered destroyed by the veterinary Dr. T. Thorne and was given an "OK" and already to return home. In regard to the second instance, regarding the child bitten on Memorial Park, this was caused by the younger dog playing with the child who unfortunately was scratched during the play. These dogs have never been known to be ugly or cross and are favored by the residents of this locality and also by the parent of the child bitten on Monday night.

I am taking the legal procedure in keeping the dogs confined for a period of 9 days, this being requested by the city authorities.

Publicity in minor cases have been given much attention, and it is better to be bitten by a dog of good reputation than by some of the back-biting one gets through these days.

SO MANY NEED CALCIUM, AND VITAMIN D

These physiological facts are well established:

1. Everyone needs not less than 400 U.S. P. XIII units of vitamin D daily, in human assimilation, utilization and retention of calcium (lime) from food.

2. An adequate assimilation or intake (into the blood and tissues, not merely into the stomach) of calcium is required not only to maintain normal growth and repair but to

3. Regulate excitability of nerve centres and nerve fibres.

4. Maintain vigorous contraction of heart muscle, and

5. Diminish permeability of the capillary spaces (spaces between tissue cells), through which the blood plasma, as water seeps through a bed of sand or through a blotter) in conditions such as dropsy, edema inflammatory swellings, hives, "weeping eczema," frequent or constant watery running of nose, etc.

Take it easy now, characters—we are talking about prevention of such conditions. Surely you don't eat three square meals a day for two weeks and expect to prevent hunger for the rest of the year, would you?

Before you begin to lime up it might be to your advantage to read The Calcium Shortage, a booklet which, despite Congress, is still available on written request at the original price, ten cents, if you inclose stamped envelope bearing your address.

Because of its favorable influence on spasm or contraction of the arterioles (improperly called "capillaries!") an optimal daily ration of calcium is especially advisable for men with arteriosclerosis, angina pectoris, coronary occlusion or thrombosis or any tendency thereto.

Will not Choose Site For 2 Years

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP) —The Kaiser-Frazer Corporation plans to make automobiles in Canada but will not likely decide upon the site for two years, Joseph F. Frazer, president said in a press conference here yesterday.

Mr. Frazer, visiting Toronto following a trip to Europe, said the automobile industry is proceed in an orderly fashion in this expansion and "there were no signs of a boom before the ultimate back-log of 10,000,000 car orders would be caught up sufficiently to restore competitive selling."

He said the Kaiser-Frazer Corporation now was the fourth automotive producer in the world, and that production schedules at Willow Run, Mich., call for more than 15,000 cars a month for the balance of the year.

ten deficient in calcium than in any other chemical element." Chemistry of Food and Nutrition (Sherman),

Reason why the modern diet is inadequate in this particular nutritional element is that most people consume insufficient milk and milk products, particularly cheese, milk, cheese, ealy yolk, green leafy and other raw salad vegetables, peas, beans, peanuts and nuts are the richest food sources of calcium. Cream, butter, egg yolk and oysters and some sea fish such as salmon are the best food sources of vitamin D, but few persons get enough vitamin D from such foods to maintain good calcium metabolism so everybody must either manufacture his own (by exposing naked body to sunshine) or supplement the, daily diet with a suitable ration of vitamin D.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

How many hours of sleep does a girl fourteen years old need?

(Mrs. W.R.)

Answer — Nine hours every night in summer ten hours every night in winter.

Gumming Their Way to the Grave

What diet do you suggest for a person who is old who has lost nearly all of his teeth and, therefore, finds it hard to digest the...(C.T.F.)

Answer — No, No, it isn't the diet, it is the teeth that are to blame. If the poor old geezer has been limping along for years without teeth it may be too late now to keep him with us much longer. Americans are too ignorant, and too reckless to employ a good dentist when they need one, and live a long life.

Motion Sickness

Do you give advice about preventing or relieving train sickness or plane sickness? (T.W.A.)

Answer — Same thing as seasickness, automobile sickness— It is better called motion sickness. For pamphlet on motion sickness, send stamped envelope bearing your address. No clipping please.

NAPANEE TAKES FLYERS INTO CAMP BY 14 TO 1 COUNT

Eastern Entry Evens Series in Semi-Final Round For City Baseball Title

Napanee roared back into the Belleville Baseball League semi-finals race at the Exhibition Grounds last night when they blasted the Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers 14-1 in one of the Flyers worst diamond exhibitions of the year.

The game was the second in the semi-final series and last two teams with one game each as Flyers defeated Napanee in the first tilt by a 6-3 score. The third game will be played in Napanee next Friday night.

Last night's debacle saw a smooth-working powerful Napanee squad coast through to an easy victory. They took advantage of every break that came their way, and with the Flyers booting the ball all over the lot, and unable to fathom the shots of Ed. Hooper, it was just a matter of how many after the third innings.

Flyers paraded their entire hurling staff, five all told in an effort to pull the game out of the fire, but the Napanee sluggers had tasted the sweets of victory in the first three innings and there was nothing to it.

Hooper Had Easy Night

Hooper, with the Napanee squad fielding behind him like champions had an easy night of it. The smooth righthander held the enemy hitless and runless for five innings when Dicky Fitzpatrick beat out a bunt for the first Flyer hit of the game. After that Hooper scattered the three remaining safeties Flyers got off his delivery over three innings. He struck out nine and issued but one walk beside aiding in the attack with a single in the eighth and scoring home on a hit and a Flyer error.

The Flyer hurlers with the exception of Curtis, were used then the eighth, in a dying cause were strictly through the proverbial harvest. All told they loaned ten free tickets to first base, three of which showing over gift runs. Titus went well for two innings and then the roof fell in on the Flyer hill as Napanee showed over five runs for a single.

Fatal Third

Vick drew a walk to start the fatal third Murphy raced to first on Titus' single, but the big guy now stumbled and fell. Curry and Gerow followed with passes. That was the end of Titus and Al Wade went to the mound. He struck out the first batter to face him, retired the second and then Bridgeman hooked a hot hopper to short. VanVlack doubled to left centre and Murphy and Hooper got the rim with a fast one. The pitcher then pounded himself out of the game saving his effort for the all important Intermediate "A" game with Batawa tonight.

Five runs crossed the plate just as far as the game was concerned as it was all tucked away in the Napanee victory bag and then.

From that time on there was nothing much to it. Hooper set the Flyers down practically as fast as they strode to the plate while his mates were taking every advantage of errors given by the wobbly Flyers. They scored two more runs in the fourth on one hit, aided by an error and a pass in the fifth on a walk, singles by Hayes and VanVlack and a wicked triple. They grabbed a single run in the seventh and the second explosion of the night came in the eighth when they rammed four more tallies on four hits and three walks.

Scored in Sixth

Flyers scored their lone marker in the sixth when Hovis, substitute catcher drove a towering triple to deep left centre and raced home on Al. Wade's long fly to the same spot. They threatened again in the seventh when Bridgeman drove out a wobbly bagger, but Hooper retired the next batter after which little trouble.

Jocko paced the winners attack with a triple and double while VanVlack contributed a double and single with both clubs getting a pair. Bridgeman, Dunning, Fitzpatrick and Hovis were the only Flyers to connect safely.

PARHAM EVENS SERIES DEFEATING POINT ANNE 4-2

Third And Deciding Game Will Be Played in Kingston

A smooth-working Parham softball team evened matters in their intermediate "C" playdown series at the ball park last night when they defeated the Point Anne Wings 4-2 in a closely fought game. The Wings defeated the Parham squad 3-2 in a heartbreaker in Picton's playdown and the squads now meet in Kingston on Saturday night for the third and deciding game.

The Wings can place their defeat to the boys' inability to hit in the clutches. On one occasion with the score 1-0 against them they loaded the bases with none out. But their batters forced out runner at two occasions and the third struck out to end the frame.

Pat Maracle on the mound for the Parham squad was a better fate. The slim pitcher struck out ten batters and his best effort of the night came in the sixth when a hit and two walks filled the bases. He then pitched retired one runner and Maracle struck out the next two to retire the side. In the seventh, with two coming in the second, when Parham scored a pair of runs over the fifth when the visitors scored their third tally.

The game was officially accounted for the runs as the Wings infield cut loose with a couple of wild throws.

Parham Takes Lead

Parham took the lead in the second innings on Licari's single, a steal and Murney Green's double. They added the third in the fifth on hits by Bertram and Siminette, and they pushed over the clincher in the eighth when T. Goodfellow poled out a lofty home run to deep centre field.

The Pointers drew on even terms with the Parhamites in the fourth after scoring a single in the second. Murney Green Jr., singled and was assisted to second and galloped home on Huck's clout to centre field.

But that was all they could do. They threatened on one or more occasions and as was said before their best chance came in the eighth when they loaded the sacks but went down before the fine fielding of the visitors.

The game was more or less a hurling duel between Maracle and D. Goodfellow who went the mound route for Parham. Goodfellow allowed eight hits over the nine innings route and struck out but three. His team mates let in the field behind him and came through with timely hits when they meant runs. Add to this more costly errors on the part of the Wings and you have the story.

Licari Best on Field

Licari, right fielder for the Parham squad, who, it was reported is a member of the Detroit Red Wings National Hockey team, looked like the best player on the field. The dusky chap belted out a double and two singles as well as fielding like a veteran. Bertram smashed out two hits for the winners. Murney Green Jr., got himself three of the Point clouts with Everett getting two and Huck, L. Maracle and Whalen coming through with the remainder.

The Teams

Point Anne Wings — L. Maracle, 3b; Whalen, ss; Finlan, as; Everett, cf; Green, c; Bennett, rf; Huck, lf; Huck, lb; D. Maracle p; Murney Green Sr. lb.

Parham — Simonette, E. 3b; G. Goodfellow, ss; T. Goodfellow, cf; Licari, rf; Simonette, c; Cronk, lf; Bertram, 2b; Bird, 1b; D. Goodfellow, p.

BANGTAILS CAN BE BEATEN

San Francisco, Aug. 29—(AP)—The bangtails can be beaten, Victor W. Nielsen assured the court today but the percentage wasn't anything to shout about.

Nielsen, testifying in a divorce case yesterday, pulled out a little black book on his beta to counter his wife's claims that he squandered the family's money on the race horses.

In two years, he told the court, he had bought $311,000 worth of pari-mutuel tickets on an original capital of $4,500.

His profit? $20.41.

An adjoining building, housing a print shop, was destroyed as debris from the collapsed building smashed down its walls.

Overturned Coal Truck Funeral Pyre For Two

Dutton, Ont., Aug. 29 (CP)—An overturned coal truck which burst into flames a mile east of here yesterday became the funeral pyre for two St. Thomas residents, Ralph Welch, 23, the driver and Bill Rick, 12, a neighbor's boy. Both were dead when their bodies were removed from the shattered and burned cab hours later.

Not until last night was the Rick boy identified although both bodies were burned almost beyond recognition. Since early afternoon police had been looking for a "Campbell" boy believed to be the unidentified passenger.

Cause of the accident is not known as there were no known eye witnesses. Police said Marks on the road indicated the truck swerved suddenly, leaped a ditch and crashed through a fence into a tree.

Identity of the boy was unknown for hours after the mishap as officials of the Imperial Fuels Ltd. at St. Thomas, said Welch left the yard with a load early in the morning without a passenger. He was on his way back to St. Thomas when the accident occurred.

Police said both victims were trapped in the cab when the trailer box drove forward and pinned them during the crash. The gas tank burned but did not explode.

Welch is survived by his mother and three brothers. Young Rick is survived by his parents, two brothers and four sisters. Both lived on Alma Street in St. Thomas.

A statement about
HOUSEHOLD HEATING OILS
The demand for petroleum products throughout the world is today much greater than at any time in history. In Canada, for instance, consumption of heating oils has doubled since 1945, the year of peak war requirements.
To help meet this unprecedented Canadian demand Imperial Oil has provided an unprecedented supply. However, the demand for heating oils used in range burners, space heaters, water heaters and household furnaces continues to increase at a rapid rate, while our most strenuous efforts to expand refining and storage capacity and other facilities are being hampered by lack of construction materials.
This means that the margin between the supply of and the demand for heating oils is very narrow and may approach a critical point this winter if people continue to put chase oil-burning units without first assuring themselves of an adequate supply. As a protection to the public we would advise that:
Before purchase of a range burner, space heater or any household oil-burning equipment, make certain you are assured of a continuing supply of fuel. Early this year, in order to protect our existing customers we notified our entire sales organization, including dealers and agents, that we could not take on any new heating oil customers.
Imperial Oil's replacement and construction program, delayed when materials and labor were needed for war production, is being pressed as rapidly as possible. When completed it will restore our traditional margin of supply over demand so that all requirements will be met. In the meantime every effort is being made to increase available supplies.
Any commitments we have made to supply household heating oils have been carefully considered and we can assure our customers that, barring unforseen circumstances these commitments will all be met.

New Soapless VEL Is New Modern Cleaner

by Frances Thompson
noted homemaking authority

Soapless VEL has changed my idea of washing clothes and doing dishes. This modern discovery has shown me for all time that heavy suds, such as soap products produce, are not necessary for cleaning.

The light fluffy suds you get with VEL are somewhat like a frothy drink, or an ice-cream soda—but foolproof. Breath the fresh and delicious suds. This makes it particularly good for washing baby duds with VEL. I've found that the clear solution left after VEL suds disappear, has all of VEL's original cleaning power. And it rinses right out in rain water. That's why VEL is so economical to use, and so beneficial in the bath-tub.

VEL FOR DELICATE FABRICS

I have found that soapless VEL delicately yet wonderfully softens the water in which it washes. This makes it particularly good for washing baby duds with VEL. I've found that soapless VEL is a neutral product, free from acid or alkali. It neither has anything to harm colors or delicate fabrics. And a little less VEL than soap (no need to add more than a few suds suffice). You'll find one rinsing is all that's needed, and it eliminates soapy film and scum.

VEL FOR DISHWASHING

A teaspoonful or two of soapless VEL in dishpan (or dishwasher, if you have one, please!) is all that is required to get sparkling dishwashing. No need to add soap or soap powder. Just put your VEL solution. Soapless VEL gives rich cream quickly and easily, no smears on glass or china, nor scarcely any scum around the sink. For hard-to-clean pots and pans and for egg-stained pans and plates, VEL's cleaning action is really amazing.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A bridge expert is a devil of a bidder. What a fiend he is for using his opinion to fit each new deal. He leaves his footprints in the middle of every controversial situation.

Ira Bridge World magazine is a "Failing Test Expert's" hobby. Each of a dozen of more ranking masters is asked to answer the same problem question. A consensus of their replies is announced.

One case started like this: North, one heart; south, one spade. What is your next bid when holding this North hand:

♠ K 2
♥ K Q J 10 7
♦ K Q 8
♣ K Q

Four votes were for two no-trump; three for three hearts; seven each for two spades, two hearts, two diamonds. None offered proof. Each decided by opinion with some doubt as to the result.

Two no-trumpers feared ending in three no-trump without an ace. Three hearters feared partner would push to slam without enough aces. Two majorers feared partner would pass possible game. Two diamonders wanted partner to get a cheap chance to bid again.

Horse Sense refuses to accept bids determined only by opinion. It uses bids that can be proven. Three hearts is the correct bid here.

Responder shows three tricks, of which two are high cards. With eight, you see 11. This calls for a jump, forcing to game. Bids follow 1-A-N-T takeout, assist, no-trump. Jump takeout of your rebiddable heart suit. Bid three hearts.

No fear that partner lacks an ace. You have four kings and three queens. What two high cards are the least south can hold? One may be a queen. At least one must be an ace.

No fear of reaching unmakeable slam. To get there partner will first bid four no-trump. To bid four no-trump, he must have two aces and a king or better. With your kings, he would have to have three aces.

What bridge experts dish youse will settle no issues.

AT THE BELLE — In "Undercover Males," closing at the Belle Theatre tonight, Ann Southern has two leading men in the persons of Barry Nelson and Mark Daniels. It's the newest and most exciting Male-ie film of them all. "A Likely Story," starring Bill Williams and Barbara Hale is the second feature offering.

AT THE CAPITOL — Soldier of fortune Ray Milland and idealistic farmer Barry Fitzgerald join forces in Paramount's spectacular Technicolor production, "California," which is now showing at the Capitol Theatre. Milland and Fitzgerald are co-starred with Barbara Stanwyck in the John Farrow production. On the same program Leo Gorcey and the Bowery Boys in "News Hounds."

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 29 (AP) — Louis B. Mayer may be sorry he ever hired George Brent. The actor is giving other MGM stars, particularly Clark Gable, the wanderlust.

Brent has been saying that he will toss in the chips after his current picture and retire to Tahiti. To other actors, harassed by taxes and other inconveniences of the post-war world, it sounds like a great scheme.

"That Brent has the idea," Clark told me. "Why couldn't a guy do that?

"You know I have four months off between pictures and that helps. But when it got to be two weeks before the start of this picture I knew I had to go back to work. I started sweating."

The plain truth is that Clark, who is 46, doesn't want to work. "Every time I start talking about quitting, they (MGM) get excited. I told them when I came back from the army I wanted to give it up, but they wouldn't hear of it. They said to try working for a couple of years to see if I wouldn't like it."

Clark's deal with Metro is unique. It is long term ("I'll be an old man when it's over—54") and can be cancelled by him, but not by the studio. Since MGM won't permit its actors to share a percentage of picture profits, he can collect only a straight salary. "That way you can make just about as much as the ordinary guy," he said.

"I've been here 17 years and I haven't seen any of the outside world," Clark continued. He doesn't count the trips provided by courtesy of the United States Army.) "People tell me I'd get tired of not working but I don't think so, not with so much I want to see. As for money, it doesn't take much groceries for one guy."

Brief Review

"Variety Girl." (Par)—Is one of those all-star musicals which were popular a few years back. This salute to the variety clubs is packed with every Paramount star except Betty Hutton (who was pregnant at the time) and tied together with the usual skimpy plot. It has Hope, Crosby and enough sure-fire entertainment to make one overlook its inadequacies.

AWARDED ALLOWANCE

Los Angeles, Aug. 29 (AP)— Over the objections of Comedienne Carlotta Monti, W. C. Fields' long friend and confidante, the comedian's widow, Harriett, yesterday was awarded an allowance of $600 a month from the late actor's state. The order was issued after Mrs. Fields testified that during the last 14 months of his life, Fields paid her only $40 a week for her support.

Johnny Mize Aiming at Babe Ruth's Record of 60 Homers; Cards, Dodgers Should Beware

Giants' First Baseman Has 44 And Five Games Ahead of Ruth's 1927 Season

Johnny Mize definitely is aiming his big bat at Babe Ruth's home run record of 60 and if Brooklyn Dodgers or St. Louis Cardinals get in the way, it will be just too bad for their pennant ambitions.

Although publicly he pooh-poohs the idea, the New York Giants' slugging first baseman has his heart set on socking those 60. Deep down in his heart he feels he has a chance, although he knows it is but an outside chance.

Mize has 44 to his credit, counting his circuit clout yesterday which enabled the Giants to defeat the Cardinals for the second straight time 6-5. Mize currently is five games ahead of the pace Ruth set in his record-breaking 1927 season. Of his 31 remaining games, nine are against the Dodgers and three against the Cards.

Mize's second homer gave the Giants 180 for the season, only two shy of the major league record set by New York Yankees in 1936.

The Dodgers gained a full game on the Redbirds by defeating Chicago Cubs 4-1 at Ebbets Field. They finished off Hank Wyse with four runs in the first inning and went on to win their first game from the Cubs in their last five encounters.

Braves Win Twice

The third-place Boston Braves added a double-header victory over from Cincinnati Reds 8-7 and 3-2 in Boston. The Braves had to go 16 innings to win the first game, then played only 5½ innings of the second game which was halted by darkness.

Schoolboy Rowe pitched Philadelphia Phils into a virtual seventh place tie with Pittsburgh by shutting out the Pirates 7-0 in Philadelphia.

Manager Steve O'Neill of Detroit Tigers levied a $250 fine on Hal Newhouser after the Tigers' ace hurler refused to leave the mound when O'Neill signalled him that he was through in the third inning of the game against Boston Red Sox. The Red Sox won 13-3. Newhouser was rocked for nine hits in 2 2/3 innings to absorb his 15th defeat of the season. He has won 13.

Pitcher Joe Haynes won his own game when he singled in the winning run in the 13th inning as Chicago White Sox defeated the Indians 4-3 in a night game in Cleveland.

The Yankees, Washington Senators, Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Browns were not scheduled.

JERSEY GIANTS GAIN FULL GAME ON THE ROYALS

Defeat Syracuse Chiefs While Toronto Leafs Downed

(By The Associated Press)

The International League, in the midst of a tight pennant struggle is fits own, provided 10 to 1 odds down to the wire before a winner is decided.

With the regular season ending next Sunday, Montreal Royals were leading today by only two games with the second-place Jersey City Giants moving forward rapidly.

The Jersey City Giants gained a full game on the leaders last night when Max Macek's arm helped the Royals.

Sal Yvars, Les Layton and Fuzz Mackenzie homered for the winners while Al Meie hit one for the visitors. Chiefs' Lou Wade yielded six hits in registering his 18th victory.

Fred Chapman's single with bases loaded in the eighth broke up a 3-3 tie and gave the Leafs a 3-3 victory over the Royals, in Kansas City, Saturday night, to receive credit for the win. The Royals collected eight hits off Walt Sessi and Dick Whitman hit for the circuit for Montreal while Jim Kennedy starred on the side of the park for Toronto.

Behind Bob Chesnes, moved into fifth place by taking both games of a doubleheader from the fourth-place Buffalo Bisons 3-2 and 6-4. Ed Green turned in a three-hitter in the first game as Russ Derry's triple drove in two runs. Green also connected for a home run to help John Mikan in the second game.

Baltimore dumped Newark into sixth place by defeating the Bears 4-3. John Gill walked and Babe Dahlgren paced the Royals with home runs, batting with bases empty and one aboard. The latter scored the winning run in the 13th inning on a single to drive in three runs. Johnny Hutchings pitched the victory, which enabled the seventh-place Birds to pull up to within one game of the Bears.

CHIPS

OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEORGE H. CARTER, Sports Editor

Trenton Flyers got one of those "get-even" nights last night after nearly chests at the Exhibition Gayety last night and it is reported that the old, fat come tonight they face the Belleville Bulls on their own stick-up against the Batawa Seconds in the first game of the Intermediate "A" playdowns. Game at 8:30.

Flyers actually looked pathetic in that squabble last night when they were outplayed, hustled, drawn and quartered by the powerful Napanee crew. It may be that the Gibbardville gang never played better baseball in their lives and by the same token Flyers never played worse. The Kelly Krew couldn't and didn't do a thing right and Joe Killoran's buddies didn't do anything wrong.

Behind the four-hit chucking of Ed. Hooper, who held the Flyers hitless until the ninth, Napanee batsmen had their rookies for fifteen runs, the visitors getting but three scrappole's false teeth. The fielding was likewise short of Worth and they clouted the Flyer hurlers at times when the Napanee batters didn't need that wasn't necessary. Flyers accepted the unsportsmanlike Gaston attitude, and whenever Napanee decided the game needed a run or two, they promptly handed it to them. The last that Napanee scored five runs off one hit in the third tells part of the story.

Flyers threw no less than five pitchers into the fray. Titus who started the game, Hollister who lasted a couple of chuckers, then Al. Wall went in. He stuck it for an innings and hopped out. Then Ted Gibbard, conserve his strength for tonight's game against Batawa, Purdy, a left-hander then essayed the role and weathered four innings for the Flyers and Hipgrave. He lasted an innings then Curtis finished the job.

In fact, at one time it looked as though Sarge Kelly, Flyers Sport Man Friday, would have to go into the breach himself or else send out a call for the adjutant or the C.O. to get warmed up. At a time three Flyer utility men were noted tossing coins to see who would go in to relieve Titus. It was odd man in, but the game looked so hopeless that it was n't and it wasn't their night to bowl. The Napanee boys, them, baseballically speaking was their uniforms. But that doesn't detract one iota from the outstanding performance handed to a capacity grand stand by the Gibbardville crew. If the Killoran gang plays the same brand of ball in their forthcoming playdowns with playdowns some foreign teams will know they've been in a ball game.

And the Flyers didn't lack for support. They had a more or less organized cheering section in the stands which kept the Flyer supporters from the tear buckets. The cheer section had a variety of songs and interspersed their musical efforts with some instituted suggestions to the team the management and to the fans. Kelly, "We want Kelly" they chorused several times — at one fateful moment of the game. Scarce had the melee subsided than a stentorian voice from nowhere demanded to know "Who the hell's Kelly."

Meanwhile down at "Ox Fields, Frank Sedore's Wonders ran into a snag when the starry Frankie was shelled and they defeated 3-2 Tuesday night set them back on their heels with a smart 4-2 win to even the intermediate "C" series. The third game will be played at Victoria Park Kingston on Saturday night.

Two costly errors actually gave the Wonders the Ox Point defeat. The game developed into a hurling duel between Frank Sedore and Don Goodfellow, but another factor in the Wings' disinterestion was their inability to hit in the clutches. In the eighth inning they went down, the Wings cluttered the sacks with none away. Goodfellow forced two batters to ground to third and the outs were easily made at the plate.

Manager Sedore decided to use strategy, we have another name for it, and he promptly yanked Hack, Wings first baseman who had been clouting the ball with great ease and consistency and inserted his reservable Marmsey Green, Sr. Into the breach as a pinchhitter. Green went in there softer than a lamb in the heart and promptly whiffed at two strikes. Then Hack broke up in amazement. He heard the thud of the ball in the catcher's mitt as the umpire "Stree-ike Three, Yer Out." With his head thumbing Green to the bench.

What actually happened was quick-thinking on the part of the Dominion hurler. Green stepped to rub some dirt on his hands but forgot to take off his bats. The pitcher, quick like a flash, called for the second the play for the third strike before Marmsey could grab the bat-boy, and that was that.

We're not trying to be partisan in the matter but anyone who saw the Trenton Intermediate game last night will agree that just three members of the mushball performer to display his wares in this part in some time is Licari, Parham right fielder. And Licari for the Intermediate "A" boys as well. Licari smashed out a double and two singles and fielded his position like a major leaguer. His smooth work both at the bat and afield caught the eyes of the visiting scouts. It was a treat to watch the dusky star perform.

"Hey Sedore," wagged a wisecracking wag, "Why dontcha grab that guy. They tell me he's after getting his job."

"Job, hell," snorted a greyhaired oldtimer from the regions of Sharbot Lake, "That guy just don't work in the mushball league. He's a ringer, he's out of Jawn Adams pole as the Detroit Red Wings hockey team."

President Don Thomas announced this morning that the third and deciding game between Trenton Flyers and Napanee in the City Baseball League semi-finals will be played in Napanee Monday, Sept. 5, that is, time of game will be announced later.

Further announcements today include the first game of the first round OBA Intermediate "A" series between Lindsay and Lalta. This tilt takes place in Bobcaygeon Monday evening and should be the beginning of a good series. Lalta will be without the services of Vern Gover who is home on furlough, but otherwise will be at full strength. Napanee, however is better than Lalta reserve's Lounge and should go places.

There's a neat softball tidbit coming up in Trenton Saturday tomorrow afternoon and evening when the Buffalo Harlem Glants meet a Trenton All-Star squad in a pair of exhibition softball tilts. First game gets under way at 2.30 p.m. with nightcap scheduled for 8 o'clock. The colored boys have been seen touring the province are stars in their own right, and the faithful should get an eye full of mushball as she should be played.

Soccer Situation To be Thrashed Out At Annual Meeting

Toronto, Aug. 29 —(CP)— The situation which saw Toronto's Ulster United booted out of Dominion's Cup Soccer competition at the playoff stage is to be thrashed out at the annual meeting of the Dominion Football Association in Montreal next Monday.

The showdown appeared a certainty after the Ulster executive last night called on the D.F.A. for a review of the circumstances under which disciplinary action was taken against Ulster by the D.F.A. for using outside left Johnny Marshall after he had been declared ineligible. The review would be made from a committee with Ontario and Quebec members excluded.

Ulster also recommended clarification of certain rules — especially those dealing with submission of lists of players. Some of the present 30-year-old rules are not being followed by the Association executive itself President Art Halliwell of Ulster charged in a statement last night.

The Ulster case stems from the team's action in using players against Montreal Carrteel in the in the Eastern Canada playoffs which he had not been transferred the required number of days before the first game here.

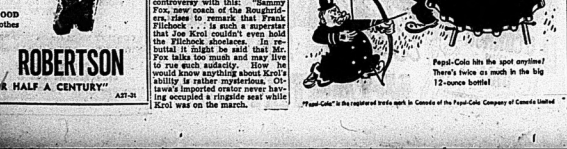
Toronto, Aug. 29 — (CP) — You couldn't be too critical of people who last week arched their eyebrows into question marks at the mention of rugby (the Ottawa Roughriders-Toronto Indians exhibition clash) here in near-90 degree heat. So you thought it was silly?

Why, up at Timmins in Northern Ontario the McIntyre summer bonspiel with a starting entry list of 50 rinks was played this week. Reported Sandy Jack (Timmins Press) Marks with an opportunity to "meet a man all the way out to Nelson, B. C., albeit two years late.

In a pre-spiel piece, he recalled Nelson had bragged in 1945 that it had the largest summer bonspiel in Canada. "Well," he wrote, "the fifth annual McIntyre summer bonspiel gets underway Monday . . . these other towns have to get up early in the morning to catch the Porcupiners in bed."

Answer to Flichock



It could be that Ivan (Hamilton Spectator) Miller has hit upon what might be the last word in the controversy in Big Four circles and among sports-writers in the east over the signing by Hamilton Tiger-Cats' back Flichock, former New York Giants star.

After describing as "so much eyewash" a report the Ottawa Roughriders didn't want Flichock, Ivan says: "Flichock would look good in any uniform. He may easily be just what the Rough and best thing to hit Canadian football since Eddie Allen called a certain orney Montreal gridder right on the heels many moons back."

Ivan's answer to the controversy over the-star he describes as the man who listened to New York Finishers but didn't heed them: . . . With everyone and his grannie eager to see this gridiron notable perform, the backers of rival clubs will almost certainly change their minds when they start figuring what Flichock's presence in a Senegal outfit will do for the Big Four's treasury."

Joe's Shoelaces

On the point of Flichock's ability, Mike (Kingston Whig-Standard) Rodden, entered the controversy with this: "Sammy Fox, new coach of the Roughriders, views it, however, that Frank Flichock . . . is such a superstar that Joe Krol couldn't even hold the Flichock shoelaces. In rebuttal it might be said that Mr. Fox talks too much and may live to rue such audacity. How he would know anything about Krol's ability is rather mysterious. Ottawa's frustrated coaching staff having occupied a ringside seat while Krol was on the march.

IMPERIALS WILL FIELD STRICTLY HOME BREW TEAM

Coaches Counting on Several Rookies to Strengthen This Lineup.

Sarnia, Aug. 29 — (CP) — Shying away from the import pattern followed by other O. H. A. Jr. clubs and used by great Sarnia football clubs of former years, the Imperials will field a strictly home brew outfit in the 1947 race. The roster of the team this year won't differ much from that of last year when the latter was eliminated in the O.R.F.U. semi-finals by Hamilton Wildcats. The order of things in the coaching department will be reversed, with Stan Reeve, last year's assistant coach, taking over as chief mentor, and 1946 boss Clifford (Curly) Parsons, filling the assistant role.

With the exception of Chip Boardman of Carleton College, Ottawa, and Ragnar Dick Anderson, former University of New Brunswick rugger star, every member of the Imperials is a homebrew.

The coaches are counting on several rookies to strengthen the lineup and among these are two junior backfield grads, chunky Jack Knowles and Francis Hughes. Another gem is Doug Gray, Sarnia boy who quarterbacked Ridley College last season. Best line prospect among the juniors is Ted Romaschuck, 185-pound middle.

Trespanier Heads Veterans

Trip Trespanier, back for another year, heads the list of veterans working hard to get in condition for the season opener, Dutch Davey, 233-pound half last year, has been shifted to the front wall and will likely start at middle with Bill Gunn, playing his second year with the team.

Strongest point of the lineup will be at end where they have several deadly tackers and pass grabbers. Five veterans are ready for the first whistle and Keith Fisher, Ike Norris, Lyle Withers, Lindy Leckie and Johnny Chamberlain will all see action.

To lend strength in the back division, Cec. Woodcock is making a comeback and turned out this week with the lads. Other backfielders expected to check in with improved performances this season are Mike Mahlk, Hank Galloway and Ken Moore.

Galloway will likely do most of the passing and punting and his kicks have been sailing high and far in workouts.

Bruce Mattingley and Jack Robb are being groomed for the centre position, Mattingley having been converted from his flying wing job of last season. Trespanier and John Silvas rate as top prospects for inside wing, a division which Reeve coached four will in last year.

Others working out with the team include Rich Jackson, Don Knowles, Bob Elzig, Gar Schiedel and Bill Miller and Clare Sutton. The Imperials chances — a big question mark!

YESTERDAY'S STARS.

(By The Associated Press)

Ted Williams, Red Sox — Made three singles and a six inch at bat, drove in two runs and scored once on Boston's route of the Tigers.

Johnny Mize, Giants—Slammed his 44th home run with two on in the first inning, doubled in a run in the third, grounded out in the fifth and missed another home run by several feet.

Lou Boudreau, Indians — West hitless in five trips to the plate.

59 SWIMMERS LIKELY TO START IN 10-MILE SWIM

George Young, Who Copped Honors 16 Years Ago Will be at Starting Line

Toronto, Aug. 29 (CP)—There's a long grind ahead of 59 swimmers seeking world's professional honors for the 10-mile distance at the Canadian National Exhibition today—at least five hours of slowly plugging with little chance to rest.

Before starting time at 2 p.m. this afternoon there were 59 willing mates but just how many would shrink the cold waters of Lake Ontario depended on the conditions at the lake midday.

One sure thing—ver that probably only half would remain in the swim until the finish—many more and fewer than that would be pulled out ten miles.

The hunches were on George Young, 32-year-old Philadelphian, formerly of Toronto who copped the honors over a 15-mile distance 16 years ago on the same horse was Jerry Kerschner of Columbus, Ohio, who is making his professional debut in today's event.

Other veterans of races past were slated to be on hand for a try at the $2,000 first prize money, though a majority are newcomers to the distance swim at the C.N.E., revived this year for the first time since before the war.

From the United States entries included Stephen Chamlin, Buffalo, N.Y., Paul J. Maloney, Buffalo, N.Y., Dr. Richard Dobuth, Minn., Art Berg, Muskegon, Mich., Nick Pucci, Saugerties, N.Y., Michael Sojka, Buffalo; and Otha Wilson, Detroit.

25,000 Fans to Watch

More than 25,000 fans are expected to be on hand for the test of endurance.

From various parts of the Dominion, swimmers had hometown delegations on hand to cheer them on the tedious course which goes out for more than one mile of the ten into the choppy lake waters.

The balance of the swim is done in half mile lengths inside the breakwater.

From Hamilton, 19-year-old Leon Wilson and 24-year-old Ted St. Aubin present a strong contingent, while other starters expected are, Howard Norton, of Dundas, Ont., Arthur Mill of Schumacher, Georgio Marconi, Montreal; Fred Weber, Kenora, William Gillings, and Kenneth Knight, St. Catharines; Godfrey Coke, Shawinigan Falls, Que., Leonard Campbell, Sherbrooke, Que.; Charles Garvais, Sudbury, Jim Buchan, Peterborough, William Leach, Chatham, Jim McLagan, Niagara Falls, Ont., Waldo Williams, Hamilton, Thomas Pedder, Belleville, Nick Nevin, Port Colborne, Bill Oriskkewich, St. Catharines, Charles Anderson, Niagara Falls, Ont., and Lep Clark of Windsor.

Claims Dr. Hardy Smoothed Way Between Assocs.

(By The Canadian Press)

Claude Kewley, Canadian representative of the Scottish Ice Hockey Association, said in Toronto last night that Dr. W. G. Hardy of Edmonton who will soon assume the presidency of the International Ice Hockey Association, has succeeded in eliminating differences which existed between the British Ice Hockey Association and the S.I.H.A. The rift appeared when an official of the B.I.H.A. asked the Canadian Association to block the transfers of Canadian players to Scotland. All barriers to the transfers have now been removed. "Dr. Hardy has no only clarified the situation most diplomatically but has also paved the way for lasting and complete accord between the S.I.H.A. and the B.I.H.A. and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association," Kewley said.

A field of more than 115 of Canada's top-flight junior golfers are expected to start competition today for the 1947 Ontario Junior Golf Championships at Oshawa Golf and Country Club. Gerry Kessling of Kitchener, 1947 Canadian Junior Champion and defending champion of the Ontario Junior Crown, teed-off the course yesterday and pronounced it "certainly deceiving."

The touring Western Ontario Lawn Bowling team, on their last meet on 4 tour which has taken them to the West Coast and Prairie Provinces, defeated six rinks of the Manitoba Lawn Bowling Association 111-105 at Winnipeg. Their tour over, the team entrained for Toronto last night.

United States and Australian Davis Cup teams, in preparation for the International Tennis classic at Forest Hills Saturday, Sunday and Monday, put in their last serious practice matches on the championship courts yesterday. The U.S. team consists of singles stars Jack Kramer and Ted Schroeder, and Australia is represented by Jack Bromwich and Dinny Pails.

Rockingham Park, Salem, Mass., where 890 racehorses are quarantined with an outbreak of swamp fever, will not continue its operations after the present meet ends Saturday.

Burly Abate No. 1 Coach Champ Maker

Produced More Than 200 Title Winning Teams During Quarter Century

Toronto (CP) —The surprising part of Bob Abate's athletic career is that he hasn't crashed more headlines as coach of Canada's outstanding coaches. Yet the record shows the burly playground coach is deserving of them.

At 50, after more than a quarter-century of directing sports activities in some of the poorest sections of Toronto, Abate has produced more than 200 title-winning teams — probably more than any coach in the Dominion. And that remarkable record has been compiled with a minimum of fuss.

For the last 15 years, Abate has been forced to get along without a playground — though the name Elizabeth, and nicknames "Lizzies," still sticks — since the park was taken over to build a hospital. Often he could give the hundreds of kids that flocked the park nothing but good coaching, lots of practice and sound advice.

He himself played a fair game of basketball, soccer, hockey and football. But where his work is known he is recognized as the foremost basketball coach in Eastern Canada. Under his guidance the famed Toronto Lizzies became synonomous with the ultimate in all except senior basketball.

Turns Out Champs

It was under Abate that a score of Toronto's leading athletes of the last decade got their start. Goody Rosen, International and major league baseball star, first played for an Abate team. Bob predicted a major league career for Rosen as early as 1922 when Lizzies, with Goody in the outfield won the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association junior title.

Lionel Conacher, Canada's Big Train, played football for Abate. Warren Snyder, Chris Speyrs and Alex Levinsky also turned out playing for good-natured Bob. Today he has handled many amateur boxers and hockey teams and he still leads the way turning out champion playground and self-confidence.

Football was an original love and after his playing days he coached McMaster University to their Canadian Intermediate title in Collegiate circles in 1920.

His coaching formula is simple "Make the team a battle... treat all players equal, stress team spirit and make sure the coach is the boss."

ARGOS TAKE TO AIR

Toronto, Aug. 29 — (CP) — Toronto Argonauts write a new kind of record in their 76-year-old history when they take off today in two Trans-Canada Air Lines' planes for Winnipeg and two exhibition games with the Blue Bombers, last year's Western football winners.

Thirty-six Argo players are to make the trip for the games Saturday and Monday. A civic reception awaits them in Winnipeg.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was sitting at her desk thinking about how to start a letter, and I said, Hay ma!

Now I'm trying to concentrate on this letter, so if you haven't anything important to ask me, please postpone it, ma said, and I said, Well G. ma, I was going to ask you something about a letter, so maybe it'll give you a idea. I was going to ask you what you'd do if you got a letter addressed to you opened it and found out it was all wrote in Chinese, I said.

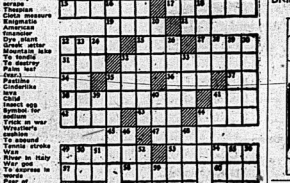
Oh for land sakes I might of known, ma said. Now if you can't think of anything sensible to say, I'd appreciate a little golden silence, she said.

And she wrote about 3 words and stopped to think again, and I said, Well hay, ma, if you dont know what to write in a letter, why dont you wait till somebody sends you one with stuff in it that's easy to answer? That's available, I said.

Now I dont want to hear another word till I've finished this letter, and that's definite and final, ma said.

And she got a sudden idea and started to write, and pritty soon I saw a little spider walking across the frunt of her shoe, and I said, G. ma, hay.

Are you deff, or just impervious? ma said.



The result being no conversation till she finished her letter, and then she said, Now, if you really have something to say, what is it?

There was a spider on you frunt, I said, and she said, What! Why didn't you tell me, you crazy thing!

I tried to, but you interrupted me, I said, and ma said, Dont talk nonsense. This is a free country and you're supposed to use your judgement in emergencies. Otherwise you mite as well be in the Dark Ages or at the bottom of the sea, she said.

And she supposed herself all over just for luck and I quick went out on general principals.

Women Moving Into Profession Side-ShowBarking

Toronto, Aug 29 (CP)—Women have moved into the profession of side-show barking.

Though veteran barkers look a bit quizzically at them, three girls are working on the Canadian National Exhibition midway and they seem to draw the crowds.

One woman barker working a girlie show has added a new twist to the old formula. Instead of urging customers to "see the most bee-you-ti-ful dancing girls in the world", she says:

"Won't you step inside where you can see the girls closer?"

That, a bright smile and a hootchie-kootchie hip wiggle starts the turnstiles spinning.

But the male barkers by no means take a back seat. Old-timers prove every day that they have lost none of their persuasive talents.

"It's the only one in the world," is a statement few midway enthusiasts can resist. Play on the sensational, the unusual or the freakish appeals to a wide section of the crowds.

One barker says he has three "lines" prepared—one for intelligent customers another for what he termed "the middle-class guy" and a third for the gullible.

Another veteran whose deep resonant voice has shouted the wares of shows in almost every country of the world said a North American audience is always easiest to fool.

"But they always appreciate a show more," he added.

A take-off on the Al Jolson "Mammy" position on one knee is of the guaranteed techniques to attract a crowd But most barkers prefer the individual approach to coax the customer to the box office.

Crime Ring Used Girls for Decoys

Oakland, Calif., Aug. 28—(AP)—A 9-year-old crime ring which used "walky-talky" radios, lured holdup victims with girl decoys and drew in burglary tools from Canada by plane was smashed yesterday, police said, by the arrest of 10 young men and women.

Police said lengthy investigations showed that:

The gang operated by using a radio shop as a "blind".

Placed girls in taverns to lure victims to pre-arranged locations where they were beaten and robbed.

"High life" parties by men and women members followed each successful "job."

All but the juveniles were booked on suspicion of robbery in the Oakland jail. Charges are pending.

Bond was set at $10,000 for Nazis from Dutch diamond merchants in 1940.

The diamonds, totalling 17,000 carats and including one blazing red diamond valued at $45,000, were recovered in 1945 by the United States 9th Army from their Nazi hiding place in a German salt mine.

The diamonds were to be turned over to the Dutch Minister of Economics at the Dutch-German border town of Beek, near the Wilhelmina battleground.

Packed in 15 wooden boxes, some of the diamonds were as large as seven carats.

"We are restituting the precious stones in time for Queen Wilhelmina of Holland's birthday on Sunday," said Col. William C. Brey, chief of the United States military government's foreign exchange depository.

"Return of these stones," Capt. R. Smit Kleine of the Dutch Restitution Mission in American-occupied Germany, "will bring about the revival of the Dutch diamond-cutting trade. In time, they probably will be shipped to the United States for dollars."

Bride, Father-in-Law Shot, Young Husband Found Dead Later

Shelbyville, Ill., Aug. 28—(AP)—A 16-year-old bride and her father-in-law were shot dead today and last night, and early today police found the body of Mrs. Helton's estranged husband, a .32 calibre pistol at his feet.

Mrs. Geraldine Helton, 16, and her young brother, Walter Kneamen, 13, were shot as they danced at a roller rink last evening. Young Kneamen is in critical condition. Police said several witnesses identified Donald Helton, 22, as his wife's slayer.

An hour later police, summoned to the farm home of Earl Helton, 60, Donald's father, found the elder Helton dead and Donald's mother, Mrs. Florence Helton, about 60, shot in the hand and arm.

Later, a jeep which police said young Helton had driven away from the roller rink was found abandoned near a Shelbyville machine shop he had operated. This morning, the Secretary of Ironton returned to the Helton farm home and found Donald fatally shot.

Kennedy Wants 1,000,000 Acres Extra in Grain

Toronto, Aug. 28 (CP) —Col. T.L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, today called upon farmers in the province to plant an additional 1,000,000 acres in grain crops next year as a means of alleviating world shortages in food.

He suggested that the government will be prepared to assist a scheme of increased crop production and told delegates attending a conference of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association that labor shortages can be overcome by a system under which farm machinery would be pooled.

Col. Kennedy predicted there will be no end of the shortage of food in the world until 1950.

"I say that the shortage will continue for at least another 3 years," said Col. Kennedy.

The minister said he had noticed some farmland in the province over-run with weeds. He deplored the fact Ontario farmers do not grow enough to feed their own livestock and depended on imports from Western Canada to fill their needs.

"We should grow enough feed to feed our livestock," said Col. Kennedy.

Entire Egyptian Police Force Standing By

Cairo, Aug. 28 (Reuters)—Almost the entire Egyptian police force was standing by today to guard against demonstration arising from possible failure of Egypt's case against Britain in the Security Council of the United Nations.

Such a failure was considered here to be inevitable and guards were strengthened at a number of foreign occupied buildings. Many threats against the lives and property of countries supporting the British case have been reported, some of them signed "the Black Hand."

The British embassy, today officially denied a report appearing in the Cairo paper Al Misri stating that British civilians and families had received instructions to prepare to evacuate Egyptian towns.

It was a mystery in Cairo today how such reports arose, as despite strained relations, there was not thought to be anything in the present atmosphere to justify undue alarm on the part of foreigners. The British Association had assured them that though there may be demonstrations, there need be "no fear, either for their persons or their property."

Despite the preoccupation with the U.N. case, a number of newspapers are giving attention to the present economic difficulties besetting the British people.

Some writers see a moral for Egypt in her "struggle for independence" in Britain's determination of purpose, emphasizing that only through the unity of the British people can the Labor government hope to succeed in winning the "second battle of Britain."

Commissioner Tells Sons of Freedom Raids Must Cease

Will Face Arrest, Possible Injury If Fires Continue

Nelson, B.C., Aug. 30 (CP) — Pessimism reflected the general attitude of both Doukhobors and apprehensive residents around this Kootenay Valley centre today, as they awaited the reaction of the racial Sons of Freedom to latest warnings issued by Deputy Police Commissioner John Shirras.

The commissioner, here investigating causes of the civil war between opposing Doukhobor sects made an urgent appeal yesterday for a truce, backed up by a blunt warning.

Addressing more than 300 sons gathered here, the commissioner announced that if they persisted in their orgy of arson and terror they would "face arrest and possible injury." To date, private buildings and property valued at $30,000 have fallen to mass acts of incendiarism blamed on the Sons of Othodox Doukhobors.

The Sons, whose religion theoretically ignores and even opposes man-made laws, and who believe that "only the laws of God" are binding, promised to give a specific answer to the commissioner today.

Meanwhile Arthur Kolosnikoff acting as Mr. Shirras' interpreter and spokesman for the Sons of Freedom, admitted his group had burned opposing Doukhobors' homes "because we did not approve the purpose for which they were being used."

He further charged that many Orthodox Doukhobors had used their pacifist religion as a shield against serving in the armed forces during the war, then profited from the war.

"We burned homes to see how many true objectors there are to war," Kolosnikoff asserted. asserted.

The spokesman showed no qualms in declaring his group's intention of burning the large community house at nearby Shoreacres, B.C., "the last of 3 marked buildings."

The other two fell to the torch last week.

Commissioner Shirras replied bluntly that he would not allow the building's destruction, and cautioned the group that their admissions of setting fires may be used as evidence "in any action I may take."

Sealed Tenders For Battleship Being Requested

New York, Aug. 30 (AP)—The 30,600-ton battleship New Mexico, built at an estimated cost of $7,800,000 in 1918 and subsequently subjected to several expensive face-liftings, is up for sale.

But the buyer of the big battlewagon must be a United States citizen willing to beat her superannuated hull and batteries into plowshares or their equivalents.

Sealed bids must be submitted by Sept. 30, and the successful bidder will be required to scrap the vessel, now at East Boston, Mass.

The world's first turbo-electric battleship when built, the New Mexico in the second world war supported a dozen invasions of Pacific islands. On one occasion her guns roared continuously for 19 days.

National Horse Show Attracts Over 1,200 Entries

Toronto, Aug. 30 (CP) —With a record number of 1,200 entries the National Horse show at the Toronto Exhibition gets under way Monday and will continue all week.

The show brings together about 225 exhibitors from Ontario, Quebec and Michigan who will put their charges through their paces before several famous international judges. Dress rehearsals have been going on for three days and several innovations have been added to the program to prevent loss of time.

One interesting feature of the first show since 1941 will be the entry of Irish horses imported by Canadians since the end of the war. Among exhibitors of Irish breed animals are H. J. O'Connell of Ste. Genevieve de Pierrefonds, Que., and Vernon Cardy of Val. David, Que.

Events in every class will be run off nightly starting at 5.30 p.m.

The list of judges announced last night, includes: Adrian Van Sinderen of New York, heavy harness horses and harness ponies; Austin Brownridge, Brandon Man., and M. W. Staples, Guelph Ont., commercial classes; Morris Powers, Williamsville, N.Y., palominos and western classes; and Brock Fuller, Milwaukee, Wis., equitation classes.

10 Freight Cars Are Derailed

North Bay, Aug. 30 (CP)—Ten cars of an Ontario Northland Railway freight train were derailed late Friday on the Kirkland Lake subdivision, it was announced at North Bay headquarters of the company today. Cause of the derailment is being investigated by railway investigators.

The accident occurred three and a half miles west of Rouyn when 10 freight cars of a train en route to Englehart from Rouyn left the track. The cars remained upright and were not damaged. Cargoes were undamaged and no one was injured.

An auxiliary crew from Englehart was dispatched to the scene.

New Greek Govt. Seems Doomed To Early Collapse

Athens, Aug. 30. (AP) — Greece had a government today for the first time in a week, but the new cabinet, headed by Constantin Tsaldaris and almost solidly Populist (Royalist), seemed doomed to early collapse.

The ten ministers were sworn in by Archbishop Damaskinos last night at the palace of King Paul I to replace the Coalition government of Populist Premier Demetrios Maximos, which fell last Saturday with the resignations of three Centrist Cabinet members.

All except one belonged to the Populist Party, led by Tsaldaris. The exception was an independent, Admiral Alexander Sakellariou, Minister of Supplies and Provisional Minister of Merchant Marine. Tsaldaris, becoming premier, kept the foreign ministry, which he had held under Maximos.

In a formal statement issued today, Tsaldaris said he still was willing to negotiate with the opposition for a broadened Coalition Cabinet.

Talks along that line this week came to nothing. Some opposition leaders have criticized Populist officials' conduct of the fight against Communist-led guerrillas in the north.

RUSSIA RATIFIES 5 PEACE TREATIES WITH SATELLITES

Clears Way For Ending Of Hostilities With Bulgaria, Finland, Italy Hungary, Romania

London, Aug. 30. (AP)—Russian ratification of peace treaties with five Axis satellites cleared the way today for a formal ending of hostilities for Bulgaria, Finland, Hungary, Italy and Romania.

Moscow radio announced unexpectedly last night that the presidium of the Supreme Soviet had ratified the five treaties, signed in Paris last Feb. 10.

A British official said Andrei Y. Vishinsky, deputy foreign minister, had promised that Russia would agree to deposit the instruments of ratification at "an early date this completing action and making the treaties effective.

Still to be drafted are treaties for Austria, Germany and Japan.

By the terms of the satellite treaties, Russia stands to gain $900,000,000 in reparations, the only major power to claim such payments. She gets $300,000,000 each from Romania and Finland, $200,000,000 from Hungary and $100,000,000 from Italy.

From Romania, Russia takes the eastern border province of Bessarabia; and from Finland she takes the northern port and province of Petsamo and a 50-year lease on Perkkala-Udd for a naval base.

Withdarw in 90 Days

Britain and the United States are required to withdraw their troops from Italy within 90 days and Russian troops must pull out of Bulgaria in a like period, but the treaties give Russia the right to keep soldiers in Hungary and Romania so long as is necessary to protect commnications to occupied Austria.

The reaction in most European capitals was one of relief that now the first part of the peacemaking job was done. Some sources felt, however, that Russian ratification heralded an attempt to facilitate the admission of Eastern European countries into the United Nations, perhaps when the United Nations Assembly meets next month.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi of Italy expressed hope that now Italy could be approved for the U.N.

Other results of completed action on the treaties included:

The ending of Allied Control Commissions in the five countries.

The birth of the new free territory of Trieste.

Pair Remanded Another Week

Haileybury, Aug. 30 (CP) — Rocco Sisco and Roger Gauthier, both of Cochrane, Ont., were remanded another week when they appeared in police court here yesterday in connection with hearing of charges against them of murdering 22-year-old Valair Vandebelt, pretty Toronto nurse.

Magistrate S. Atkinson announced that preliminary hearing will be held at Cochrane, Sept. 12. The accused will appear in court here again Sept. 5 when they will be remanded until Sept. 12.

Charges against the two men were laid following discovery of Miss Vandebelt's body in the bush at Silver Queen Lake, 15 mile from Cochrane. A plastic belt was knotted about her throat.

Sisco and Gauthier had attended the same party as the girl June 23 at a cabin near the spot her body was found.

PROF. E. GILSON DOES NOT FEEL WAR IMMINENT

Believes U. S. Should Help Britain, France, Holland And Belgium

Ottawa, Aug. 30 (CP)—Professor Etienne Gilson, renowned French philosopher and member of the French Senate, said in an interview today that he believed the United States should concentrate less on the reconstruction of Germany and more on the reconstruction of France, Britain, Holland and Belgium.

"It is not for us to dictate the policies of the United States, but at least we can express wishes based on our experience of the last 50 years," said Prof. Gilson who is on his way to Hamilton to lecture to the National Studies to be sponsored there next week by the Young Liberal Federation. Later he will take up his annual post as professor of philosophy at University of Toronto.

"The United States, he said, should in its reconstruction assistance give priority to those countries which fought for democracy. As it was now there was "no army" between Russia and Cherbourg that could repel any kind of attack.

While he did not feel that war with Russia is imminent, he said no one could tell when a new war may come. Incidents in Greece or elsewhere might bring about war. He did not believe that the Russians or anyone else wanted war at this time.

Economy Bad

Prof. Gilson said France's economy was in as bad if not worse plight than that of Great Britain. Unfortunately for the last three years France had suffered crop failures.

He said he could not see how the country's economy could be rebuilt without assistance from the United States. France was not banking on assistance from the Marshall doctrine because so little was known about it.

"Are we going to be asked to give up our liberties for dollars?" asked Prof. Gilson without waiting for an answer. "If the doctrine is accepted the Americans will lose dollars, but we may lose something much different."

United States as a world power still had to be tried and proved. No one knew how she would use her new international influence. She was in a different position than Britain whose policies as an international power were well known.

As to his political life, he said he had accepted a Senate seat when it was offered to him for a third time this year because he remembered a speech Canada's Health Minister Martin made in Toronto some 20 years ago. In that speech Mr. Martin said that citizens could not shirk their responsibilities to their country.

It was on the invitation of Mr. Martin that he had agreed to lecture to the Hamilton meetings.

'GLAD HE'S DEAD'

Chicago, Aug. 30 — (AP)—Mrs. Anna Sosnowski told a coroner's jury yesterday she beat her husband to death with a hammer and butchered his body, and also was quoted as saying she tore out his heart and tossed his head in a river. The 54-year-old grandmother moaned "I'm a terrible woman" as she sat in jail cell but later described details of the slaying and declared: "I killed him and I'm glad he's dead."

HORSE STOPPED "DEAD"

Midland, Ont., Aug. 30 (CP)—When Donald Maugham, driver of a meat market delivery wagon called "whoa" to his horse it stopped dead—and it was just that. The horse happened to stop right on a manhole cover charged by a short circuit in the city electrical system. The horse's shoes acted as a conductor for the fatal electric charge.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF BANK MANAGER ELUDES POLICE

Armed and Dangerous W. Pavlukoff, Only a Few Jumps Ahead Of Heavy Police Posse

Vancouver, Aug. 30 — (CP)—A haggard, hunted man, accused of the gun-slaying of a Vancouver bank manager, was today believed to be outstripping a heavily-armed, 80-man police posse in a 12-mile race through bushy, rough country to the United States border.

Reported by police to be "armed and dangerous," Walter Pavlukoff, 35-year-old ex-convict, was still one jump ahead of weary posse members after 48 hours of tracking.

Vancouver, Provincial and R. C. M. P. officers, armed with automatic rifles, sub-machine guns and tear gas bombs, failed on two occasions by a matter of minutes to flush their quarry.

First of the near captures came yesterday when police arrived minutes late at an isolated shack where Pavlukoff was reported to have threatened a seven-year-old girl with a gun.

Later police reported that less than half an hour separated pursued and pursuers when veteran manhunters from the Washington State Reformatory spotted Pavlukoff's footprint in soft earth. The prints plainly showed that he was limping.

With a helicopter hovering overhead, a bloodhound followed Pavlukoff's scent and groups of the posse in direct contact by walkie-talkie radio, the chase today moved over rugged terrain, well-known to the fugitive, in a southerly direction.

Pavlukoff was charged with murder following the fatal shooting of Sydney S. Petrie, 55, in the Broadway branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce during a hold-up attempt Monday.

The Canadian Bankers Association has posted a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of Petrie's slayer.

Britain's Late-Season Holidaymakers Seem To Be Out Of Luck

London, Aug. 30 (Reuters) — British tourists have been "caught like rats in a trap" by the government's foreign travel ban, a travel agency official asserts.

When the cabinet announced that to save dollars no tourists would be able to travel for pleasure to non-sterling areas after Oct. 1, tens of thousands of unlucky late-season holidaymakers began looking for alternative resorts.

Every two out of three turned to Eire or the Channel Islands, both popular holiday areas within the sterling bloc, but from each tourist agency they met the same retort:

"Sorry, booked up months ahead."

Even those wealthy enough to consider South Africa did not escape frustration. The principle airways company, operating between that Dominion and Britain, reported today: "Completely booked up 'till January, 1948."

House Fire Takes Lives of Couple At Dorchester, Ont.

Search Fails to Reveal Possible Third Victim

London, Ont., Aug. 30 — (CP)—Two badly burned bodies believed to be those of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hawkins were removed from a one storey frame house at nearby Dorchester here today a few hours after a fire had demolished the two-family dwelling.

Police said earlier beliefs that a third person might have perished in the fire was discounted after a search through the smouldering embers. Two families lived in the dwelling but a neighbor, Mrs. (Dr.) A. W. Smith said the other persons, a woman and her grandmother on were on holidays when the fire occurred.

Mrs. Smith said her husband had been called to the Hawkins home about 11.30 p.m. last night after a woman had been found lying on a sidewalk slightly injured. She said Dr. Smith, her husband, treated the woman and told her their was evidence of a fight in the house. She said much furniture was damaged and a stove had been wrecked.

Police were reported called to quell the disturbance.

Villagers noticed the house on fire shortly after two a.m. and rushed to extinguish the flames but it was too late to save the burning home

Police and a coroner were investigating the fire scene today.

Entire Wing of Princess Elizabeth's Bridal Home Destroyed by Fire

By GLENN WILLIAMS

London, Aug. 30 (CP)—A spectacular fire destroyed the entire south wing and caved in the ancient roof of Princess Elizabeth's bridal home at suburban Sunninghill Park today. Authorities said they had not discarded the possibility that the blaze was touched off by an incendiarist with political motives.

The fire companies battled the blaze for hours, pumping thousands of gallons of water from nearby Mirror Lake before they brought it under control at dawn. Flames shooting 50 feet into the air could be seen for miles.

The south wing of the stately old Georgian house, which was being refurnished as a home for the Princess and Lieut. Philip Mountbatten, was enveloped in flames when firemen arrived shortly after midnight.

A National Fire Service officer said he was "satisfied that there is no question of arson," but official sources disclosed that detectives of the Criminal Investigation Department had been instructed to inquire into every possible cause, including arson inspired by political motives.

One unofficial theory was that a lighted cigaret may have been dropped in a rubbish pile by one of the workers engaged in remodelling the 25-room mansion, which has been unoccupied.

D. M. Taylor, regional National Fire Service commander, said the construction of the 175-year-old building hampered the firemen. He said the construction was one of cavity walls with a false roof and flaring eaves which left a void between the walls and the roof.

"The fire travelled through this void, and as we put it out in one place, it popped up in another."

Only the servants' quarters escaped damage. No estimate of the loss was given but authorities said it was heavy. It may be impossible to repair the mansion suitably by Nov. 20, the wedding date. Only a few rooms were being redecorated and repaired.

U.S. EX-SOLDIER HELD FOR THEFT OF ATOM PHOTOS

Pictures Found in Man's Home Shows Various Stages of Atomic Research

Washington, Aug. 30 (AP)—Arnold Frederick Kivi, 27-year-old ex-soldier, was held for arraignment before a United States Commissioner here today on charges of taking "highly confidential photographs" from the Los Alamos, N.M., atomic installations.

J. Edgar Hoover, Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced Kivi was arrested last night in Brooklyn, N. Y., where Hoover said F.B.I. agents nabbed 37 photographs and 10 negatives when they searched Kivi's home.

The F.B.I. director said pictures found in Kivi's possession showed various phases of atomic research equipment used in connection with the bomb and several pictures of visitors to the atomic property.

Hoover said that Kivi, when first interviewed, said he had made 500 official photographs of various stages of development of the atomic bomb. He later admitted, the F.B.I. director said, that he took the classified photographs when he left the army in February, 1946, and that several weeks later, he became "extremely concerned about the pictures and burned them."

Kivi was the third person this year to be charged with taking government documents from an atomic project.

Alexander Conder Luft, a former United States army sergeant, was placed on four years' probation Aug. 21 after he had pleaded guilty. Ernest D. Wallis, a 34-year-old Chicago photographer, also an ex-soldier, has yet to be tried on similar charges.

19 American Republics Approve Treaty of Defence

Quitandianha Brazil, Aug. 30—(AP)—The United States and 18 other American Republics meet today to give final approval to a historic treaty of defence, pledging all their armed might against aggression anywhere in the western hemisphere, from pole to pole and from Greenland to the Aleutians. Canada has been invited to sign the treaty later.

Today's plenary session of the inter-American conference on peace and security was devoted to acceptance of the treaty as a whole.

The 17 principal articles were approved individually yesterday and last night only two weeks after the various foreign ministers and their advisers commenced their momentous conference.

The final problem of interpreting treaty-defined measures against aggression was solved cordially last night. Argentina's delegate, Pascual La Rosa, rushed across the room to embrace United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (Rep.-Mich.) amid applause. He said the United States and Argentina were agreed on the problem.

Only a few hours before, in the committee on aggression, they had exchanged sharp words over whether collective armed action would be called for if United States forces were attacked outside the inter-American security zone.

Miners Will Be Requested To Return to Jobs

Doncaster, Yorkshire, England, Aug. 30. (CP)—Fuel Minister Shinwell and Arthur Horner, general secretary of the National Union of Mineworkers, will urge striking Yorkshire coal miners tomorrow to return to their jobs. Meetings will be held throughout the country's coal areas.

Reuters News Agency said the press will be barred and only miners admitted to the Shinwell meeting, but that Shinwell "would be prepared to make a statement" after the meeting.

An impression grew today that the strike was largely due to the miners' inherent suspicion of any speedup operations which would increase production with the same amount, or fewer, men. The strike began at Grimethorpe colliery where 140 workers walked out when ordered to increase the extent of their operations. It spread to 13 other pits.

About 27,500 men are involved and the loss in production is running to 35,00 0tons daily. Some mines noted a slight trend toward a return to work last night but Monday morning will be the true test of whether the strike spirit is weakening.

The original strikers said their action was due to the fact that some of them would be "thrown on the market"—that is, be taken off lucrative coal-face jobs and given poorer-paid cleanup jobs around the mine or even directed to other pits.

A coal board spokesman said while 11 men would have been moved from their present place of work on th e coal face under the new system "there is spare room in the pit to absorb them and more besides."

Domestic Hog Quotas Abolished

Ottawa, Aug. 30 — (CP) — The Canadian Meat Board announced last night that domestic hog quotas, which have applied at all packing establishments in which hogs were graded for Dominion government premumus, have been abolished, effective Sept. 1. This means there are no further restrictions on the slaughter of hogs or on the distribution of pork for Canadian consumption.

Two Years Ago a Beaten City, Tokyo Gayer Under U.S. Control

Tokyo, Aug. 30. (AP) — A handful of United States troops entered this city capital on the hot morning of Aug. 30, 1945.

Dazed and weary Japanese glanced at them with no show of emotion, then plodded on, mechanically, hopelessly. Defeat hung like a shroud over the country on this first formal entry of the victorious Allies.

Just two years later there is a new spirit in Japan and a new energy among the people, spurred by hope of speedy return to the society of nations.

That morning two years ago found Tokyo's rutted streets comparatively deserted by citizens in terror of a conquering army. Tokyo was a drab junk heap, strewn with rusting ruins among the vast, depressing emptiness of total bombing.

Today throngs jam streets cleared of rubble, repaired, and recently cleaned in honor of visiting foreign business agents. Workmen still are putting patches over war scars, but throughout Tokyo much of the seared emptiness has been covered by new houses and small shops.

This correspondent rode the 23 miles from the Atsugi airfield to Tokyo that morning two years ago in a street car jammed with hollow-eyed Japanese men and women in patched, ditry clothing. I ate luncheon at the once swank Imperial hotel. It was largely ersatz Japanese food, served in twilight gloom. That night was so black that I fell into an air raid shelter a few steps from the hotel.

Today the people are better fed and better dressed. The tautness is gone. The nights are brightened by lights from American billets, hotels and newly-erected Japanese shops. The Americans have roof gardens and clubs; the Japanese have tiny, expensive cabarets.

When the Japanese first began to talk two years ago, they spoke hesitantly and humbly in gratitude to their Emperor for halting the war; now the Japanese hopefully and freely discuss their peace treaty prospects, talk of Japan's future rights, and speak of the Emperor with continuing affection but with no trace of the former overwhelming awe.

The face of Japan has been lifted. Shops at Hiroshima sell atomic bomb souvenirs.

MERCURY-DIPPED PENNIES REPORTED IN CIRCULATION

Complaints of mercury dipped pennies being passed off as present pieces have been received at the local police station during the past several days and police today advised shopkeepers and others to be on the lookout for such coins.

One merchant vendor today complained that on the last two market days pennies have been passed on her. The mercury dipped coppers are only slightly larger than the old style pieces and a similar appearance could be easily accepted as dimes.

'Picking Schools' Being Inaugurated By Department

With most tomato growers in Eastern Ontario harvesting and selling processing tomatoes on a graded basis for the first time this year, the Department of Agriculture is sponsoring "picking schools" in representative areas of the district.

It is emphasized that to get the greatest returns growers must pick and deliver a maximum of No. 1 quality fruits and a minimum of culls.

Growers and pickers are invited to attend any of these "picking schools" to be held in the Bay of Quinte area. A qualified inspector will be on hand at each school to define the standards and to discuss with growers questions which might arise with respect to the method of grading leads of tomatoes upon their arrival at the factory.

The schools do not last more than one hour and a half and are timed to interfere as little as possible with farm routine. Time and location of each school is being advertised in the local newspapers.

OBITUARY

LATE SAMUEL ROLLINS
(Contributed)

At Belleville General Hospital, Friday, August 22nd., there passed from our midst a most highly respected citizen in the person of Samuel Rollins born eighty four and a half years ago being the second youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Rollins of Old Hill, Ameliasburgh. He had five brothers Robert, George Wallace, Tefft, Neal, Rev. James Rollins, also two sisters, Mrs. Frank Harris and Mrs. Alice Allen, all predeceased him.

The early years of his life were spent at the homestead where he became a most prosperous farmer and lumberman and a leader and influential citizen. His advice and leadership were at all times gratefully accepted. In the year 1901 he married Minnie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Van Kleek.

In religion he was Presbyterian and from boyhood was at all times most active at any work pertaining to the church. He also made the war memorial and the cemetery at Cooper such an outstanding feature in this section. About thirty years ago he built a home in Madoc village and at once became active in the civic and business associations of the town.

Interested in Fair

He was particularly interested in the Madoc Agricultural Society. In fact, he was at one time secretary of the society and held this position for over twenty years when he resigned because of ill health. He was most active in those years and with his leadership the Madoc Society now have grounds and buildings which will be a monument to him forever. He travelled many thousands of miles to tell the countryside of Madoc Fair. He and Mrs. Rollins donated the Dairy Building to the association. He always said "Any man should be proud to work for the fair." He was most happy when the Fair had a credit balance.

No family ever did more for Madoc Fair than he and Mrs. Rollins. He was a generous giver and an ardent supporter of all clean and civic functions of a benefit to the village. Being of a reticent nature he never sought office nor wished applause or outward demonstration for his efforts. He did not discuss politics but voted for the man and not the party, for years he wanted a public library for Madoc Village and the past year had given of his time and energy to see this accomplished but he did not see the building finished. However, he saw the plot enclosed and to be a gift to the Village from he and Mrs. Rollins.

Advice Valued

His advice was at all times valued in world affairs. Having practised honesty and fairness all his life his friends and survivors who practiced these virtues. To sum up a wonderful citizen, Samuel Rollins was a most honest, consistent, persuasive, and agreeable man to work with. He was always a leader, his heart and purse always open to the needy. Madoc has lost an honored citizen and a wide circle of friends sincerely regret his decease.

The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Poulton on Monday afternoon from the Rollins home to Madoc Cooper church and cemetery. The attendance testified to his popularity and was limited only by the ability to enter the church because of space.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife and many relatives. Madoc has lost a fine, honest, fair-minded friend.

The pall bearers were of his own choosing: John McCaffery, Fred Curry, Robert Bristol, Harry McDonald, Robert McCoy, Edward Brown.

BEER DID THE TRICK

Baltimore, Aug. 30 — (AP) — Sla, a six-year-old mare hauling a watermelon wagon barnward last night, sat down in the street and refused to budge.

Sla licked her lips, bounded to her feet and trotted off to the barn.

Taking advantage of the city's ice shortage, dealers said, the black market operators are pouring ice from unknown sources and taking over ice deliveries at exhorbitant prices. One disconsolate dealer said the black marketeers are operating with success "especially from people with babies who will pay any amount of money to keep milk from souring."

Miss M. Riddell, Hamilton, Hurt In Car Accident

Miss Marjorie Riddell, Hamilton hairdresser, suffered arm lacerations and a fracture of the left collar bone in a Belleville hospital as result of a collision at Marysville between two vehicles proceeding in opposite directions.

Miss Riddell, with her mother, Mrs. T. R. Riddell, also of Hamilton, was riding in a car driven by her brother, Gordon Riddell, when the vehicle was in collision with a westbound car driven by Thomas Jordison, Kingston. Passenger in the Jordison car, Gordon Gretes also of Kingston, suffered a cut forehead while Mrs. Riddell suffered bruises to her arm and leg.

According to O.P.P. W. Gagne who investigated the accident, Riddell was driving east when at the intersection at Marysville he was undecided as to whether he should turn right and go straight ahead or curved to the right. He decided to continue straight ahead, his vehicle being struck on the right front fender as the car passed in front of the Jordison car coming in the opposite direction. Both cars were badly wrecked.

Sons of Freedom Group Barred From City Limits

Nelson, B. C., Aug. 30—(CP)—A new crisis appeared to be looming today in the sect war between rival Sons of B. C.'s 30,000 freedom-seeking Doukhobors as the city council by unanimously barred the medical Sons of Freedom group from the city limits and the Sons embodied their second straight mass meeting in the strife ridden orthodox city of Shoreacres, 12 miles west of here.

Tension mounted in the West Kootenay district despite a sudden break in the two day outbreak of six known or suspected attacks that caused damage estimated at more than $30,000. There were no new reports of fires or violence overnight.

At Trail some 85 miles southwest of Nelson, police chief John Laurie completed arrangements to halt the movement of the Sons into the city following an emergency meeting of the police commission last night to prevent the spread of the fanatastic wave of violence and arson to the interior B. C. centre. The commission empowered Chief Laurie to take "all steps necessary" to keep the Sons from the city, including forswearing in of additional reinforcements.

Meanwhile the Sons, ousted from the orthodox group more than 30 years ago for refusal to pay taxes on communal-owned land, issued a signed statement last night announcing that they would "continue their 'movement'" through every Doukhobor settlement in Canada in a drive to win new supporters from orthodox ranks.

Written in long-hand on a sheet of yellow paper, the statement claimed the present "terror and turmoil" involved all Doukhobors, regardless of group and should not be blamed on the Sons of Freedom alone.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

USEFUL BIRDS

We are forever reading about destruction caused by caterpillars, sawflies, grass-hoppers, and other insects too numerous to mention. Scientists in their ports and thousands of dollars are spent each year in the Utah district these pests. But what many people are apt to forget is that birds are our most satisfactory allies.

Did you ever pause to consider the benefits they confer on mankind? With practically no exceptions, from the 25 inch long Snowy Owls that have a special appetite for mice, to the 3 1/4 inch Ruby-throated Hummingbirds that are fond of small gnats with the nectar of the flowers, they are all friends to earn their keep. To kill a blue jay is to interfere with the balance of nature.

With their strong, sharp bills and especially-constructed jaw muscles Woodpeckers go after wood-boring grubs. Even robust Cardinals indulge in rose-chafers and tent worms. Sandpipers relish in beetles. We should all be very thankful to Nighthawks and Whip-poor-wills for gobbling up mosquitoes and June bugs while they are on the wing. No one can deny the damage caused by tent caterpillars must not be overlooked with their egoistic fondness for these pests. Perhaps the most beautiful birds that come to Canada are the black and white Rose-breasted Grosbeaks with their peculiar taste for potato bugs. Nearly all the Wood Warblers are entirely insectivorous, eating insects that larger birds ignore. And so the story goes on, with Chickadees, Brown Creepers, Red-winged Blackbirds, Kinglets, Bluebirds and Wrens as benefactors.

But that is only half the story. Think of the work they do to assist the farmers by destroying bushels of weed seed! Almost every actually prefer these to precious grain. Into this group go Redpolls, Goldfinches, Juncos, Vesper Sparrows, Savannah Sparrows and Tree Sparrows with special laurels awarded to the White-crowned Sparrows whose menu includes much ragweed, and the little Chipping Sparrow that besides making away with numerous tiny injurious insects, dines also on ragweed, crab grass and lamb's quarters.

Here is a great gang of workers, each doing its own special job most thoroughly and never present at the opportune moment, because they come in a locality where their favorite food is abundant, only to depart when pleasure we get from their lovely plumage and free concerts, we must remember the economic value of birds and give them full protection.

TYPHOON NEARS FORMOSA

Tokyo, Aug. 29 — (AP) — A typhoon with winds up to 100 miles an hour was nearing Formosa today after lashing the Bashan islands north of the Philippines, the United States weather wing reported today.

Unidentified Man Held in Search For Two Convicts

Windsor, Aug. 30 — (CP)—Arrested Wednesday in a raid on an eastside Central Hall Avenue house, an unidentified man is still a prisoner in the women's cell block at police headquarters and the centre of interest in the search for Ulysses Leamon, 26, and Donald (Mickey) McDonald, 40.

Police seized the man a week old; started minutes after a $40,000 robbery last Friday at a downtown branch of the Royal Bank of Canada — apparently by the two convicts, who fled Kingston penitentiary Aug. 18.

McDonald was linked to the holdup by a fingerprint found in the bandits' abandoned getaway automobile. The bank employees said the leader of the holdup team looked like Leamon. Police believe both men still are in Windsor. They have a suspicion that Nicholas Minille, the third escapee, also is in the city.

Investigation has been partially tied to see the man in custody. One report said he was questioned several times by detectives. Police refused to discuss the man's case. Opposite his name on police arrest sheets is the notation: "for investigation."

Another man, arrested in the same Wednesday-morning raid, was charged with possession of an unregistered revolver. He said a "stranger" in Leamington, Ont. gave it to him.

All but six search warrants have been issued to city police since the city-wide manhunt started, it was learned.

Heavily-Armed Police Cordon Around District

Vancouver, Aug. 30 — (CP) — Sixty heavily-armed police Friday began a search for Thomas Speid, square-mile area in Surrey municipality, 15 miles southeast of here, in search of Walter Percy Isbist, 33-year-old ex-convict they accuse of slaying a Vancouver bank manager last Monday.

The officers armed with machine guns and tear gas bombs and riot guns, moved into the area in which are on the way from Washington State Reformatory, had called off British Columbia's most intensive manhunt when darkness fell but they first ringed the area with guards.

The first helicopter used in British Columbia police history had been ordered over the district yesterday as the officers — Vancouver, Provincial and R. C. M. P.—moved at their search.

It began when a rancher, Pat Hilchuk, said he had seen Pawlak off, named in a warrant as the man who shot Sydney S. Petch, 55, manager of a branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, run out of a chicken house earlier in the day. Police immediately threw a cordon around the area and pressed every resource into the grim game of hide-and-seek.

Meanwhile at Vancouver, a coroner's jury into Petch's murder on "Murder by an unknown male" after a five-day inquiry into the slaying. The Canadian Bankers' Association has posted a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the slayer.

No police evidence was presented but one witness, accountant Robert E. Bowman told Mr. Pettis apparently had not known for some minutes that he had been shot in the abdomen.

Requests Dept. To Assume Full Cost of Operation

Brantford, Aug. 29 — (CP) — A Sarnia-sponsored resolution requesting the Ontario Department of Welfare to assume full responsibility for support of Children's Aid Societies while leaving administration in present hands was passed yesterday by the Union Municipal Association.

At present, municipalities assume 25 per cent or more of the cost of administration and care of wards, delegates to the Association convention said.

Another resolution asked amendment of statutes so that assessors must return assessment rolls by Aug. 31 instead of Sept. 30. The motion, brought before the Association's rural section by the Municipal Association of the villages of Ontario, also said that at present clerks have insufficient time to prepare voters' lists for December municipal elections.

A resolution urging the welfare section urged an increase in unemployment benefits.

Reeve Frederick G. Gardiner of Forest Hill villages told the delegates that "municipal government was "the foundation of all democratic government" and should be kept strong.

Pre-War Pepper To be Available After September 1

Ottawa, Aug. 30 — (CP) — Ach-choo . . . beg pardon, but fast the prospect of strong, pre-war pepper coming back to the meal table brings on a sneeze.

The Prices Board announcement indicated last night that after Sept. 1 you should be able to replace your wartime synthetic pepper with the real McCoy — if the manufacturers are ready to co-operate.

On that date all control regulations and restrictions on the use, sale and manufacture of pepper will be discontinued.

Since July, 1946, manufacturers have been required to manufacture imitation pepper according to a formula which only allowed the use of 500% per cent ground rice, black or white pepper, 1½ per cent Monhasse chillies and 48 per cent flour or other cereal.

Payment in Human Dividends

Next week the Belleville Community Chest opens its annual campaign for funds for the work that is carried on in the city and district by the Children's Aid Society; the Victorian Order of Nurses and the Young Men's Christian Association.

A resume of the services given the public by these three organizations is hardly necessary. The V.O.N. and the C.A.S. are the modern counterparts of the Good Samaritan, offering aid and succor to the needy, some of whom have fallen by the wayside, others in dire need of medical services, while the Y.M.C.A. points the way to good citizenship through the media of character-building, physical fitness and spiritual understanding.

Often unheralded and unsung these organizations go about their humanitarian work under blazing summer suns and winter snows. Regardless of weather or other conditions, these Samaritans take their duties in their stride, and bring needed aid to the less fortunate people of the city.

The climate of tomorrow's men and girls who are born "with one stride on them," are as worthy of a chance to live a healthy useful life as those brought into the world under happier circumstances. Parents, some of them rent apart by misunderstanding or other circumstances, deserve the opportunity to face the world united with their families.

Youth, in these tempestuous days of temptation, must have the chance to live clean, wholesome, Christian lives, if this city and Dominion are to hold high their heads among the communities of the country and the nations of the world.

Your contribution to the Comunity Chest is an investment in the lives of the future citizens of Belleville, one which will pay in human dividends.

The Belleville Community Chest needs $12,000 with which to carry on its great social work. It has been said that Belleville is a "city of progress." No community can reach progress unless its citizens and agencies are properly equipped to aid it. The Community Chest, and its great work form one of the main cogs in the great machine of preparedness for the future. To be properly maintained, will bring Belleville progress to the era of greater prosperity that surely lies ahead.

A canvasser will call on you. Greet him or her courteously. Give generously.

Some Thoughts on Bank Robberies

Commenting on the series of recent bank robberies, R. W. Pearson makes some thoughtful observations on the situation in the Windsor Star. He says it would seem apparent that a majority of Canadian banks are sitting ducks for enterprising thieves.

This cannot be blamed on the bankers or the police. It is simply a circumstance of our development. We are a small population spread over a large area and the people on the fringes of the settled areas must have banks for their convenience.

These banks are usually some distance from police protection but they often have to carry a large sum of big bank notes in the centre of cities. The big banks are only a matter of feet from the nearest police station. The little bank is usually a matter of miles.

A Windsor bank was robbed and much was made of the fact it was not connected to the police station by an alarm. In this particular case this might have helped, but in many others the robbers would be miles away before the police could reach the scene of the holdup. Bank thieves work quickly. Two or three minutes inside the bank is often enough.

The thieves also know all about burglar alarms, states the article, and they do not attack the banks equipped with them.

It has been suggested also that an armed guard in each of these banks, especially on pay days, would help. But guards can be shot down, slugged unconscious or caught with their hands in their pockets. In the current outbreak one such guard was murdered while attempting to shoot it out with the robbers who had the "drop" on him from the start.

There are other aspects of the problem which also throw the odds heavily in favor of the criminals.

Robbers usually have the firepower and the element of surprise on their side. They have their guns drawn when they enter the bank. The bank employee have to get theirs out of a drawer, or, at least, reach for it

The robbers are desperate, many sometimes full, to the gills with either dope or liquor. They are strangers. Bigger, happy, well-fed citizens, of more prosperous quality, they would not be finding up actions. They, therefore, think nothing of shooting down anybody who gets in their way.

Looking at the matter in the light of these cold, hard facts, it is futile heroism for any bank employee to attempt to thwart these criminals. He should interfere only if is sure he has a considerable edge on the crooks.

These rashes of bank robberies eventually die out, we think. Some robber, stupid and unlucky, gets caught. The public is thoroughly incensed by the reign of terror the robbers have been conducting and the judges and juries know this.

The robber that falls is, therefore, brought to trial. He gets no sympathy and goes to jail for a very, very long term.

This causes an abrupt change in plans of a lot of gentry who had some "easy living" money lined up. And later on, the bank robberies until somebody gets lucky again.

Waste in Face of Famine

Every day brings news of increasing food supplies and deepening hunger in many parts of the world. As Summer wanes Europe is preparing for a Winter as cold as the last or worse. In view of these conditions it would be interesting if the Wartime Prices and Trade Board were do explain why it has brought than it has done so far, its decision to cancel the meatless days of Canada's public eating places.

It may be that the board does not fear any increase in the total consumption of food in Canada as a result of its decision. Canadians and tourists, it may be argued, will eat less of something else. But the board, to say the least of it, must be very confident about the nation's meat supplies and our ability to maintain our agreement to ship large quantities of meat overseas. Some more enlightenment on this point, some clear figures showing this year's present supplies, our probable supplies during the next year and our overseas commitments should be given to the public without delay.

The impression that the order cancelling meatless days lies less in its effects on the meat sales in public places than in its effect on the public attitude toward the general food shortage. It is to be feared that the public may see little reason to worry about food generally when the Government suddenly removes restrictions on the use of meat.

Actually, there was never a time when the utmost economy in the use of foodstuffs was more needed. Canada is one of the few nations which can afford an adequate diet but it cannot afford the waste which still goes on in many households and in most public eating places. Garbage which would be considered a feast in many parts of the world is still thrown out of Canadian restaurants. Pieces of bread, half-eaten, are still left on the plates of every restaurant; patrons who only desire a small portion of food still are given much more than they can eat. In Europe and Asia, people who could possibly imagine that this country was part of a world living on the edge of starvation, where millions of people will die during the next year from malnutrition.—(Winnipeg Free Press)

What Price Doilies

The British Government, as part of its super-austerity program, has imposed a further cut upon the already drastically curtailed supplies of materials available to newsprint users in the United Kingdom.

It has been suggested by some and suspected by many that the Attlee Government's dislike of criticism caused the move, rather than considerations of economy.

Under today's circumstances we find it odd to see "Made in England" stamped on the paper doilies used by the thousands daily in the restaurant service of one of Canada's great railway and hotel systems. —(Financial Post).

CURE FOR ANGER

When you're angry, here's a plan:
Write the bitterest note you can.
Spill your malice there and then;
Pour it through your fountain pen.
Was it real or fancied wrong?
Tell your thoughts in language strong.
Scorch the paper with your rage.
Fill with insult every page.
Use the ugliest words you know.
Then—don't let the missive go.
That's a letter you should keep
'Til you've had a good night's sleep.
Reading with a calmer mind
In the morning, you may find
You are glad you didn't send
All that bitterness you'd penned.
Coffee? Tear that letter up!
You'll enjoy a second cup.

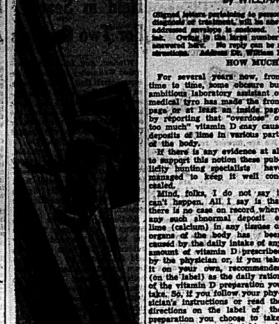
Soundness of Aim Given Praise By British Papers

London, Aug. 30 (Reuters)—British newspapers today coupled approval of the purely economic aspects of the new Anglo-American plan for rehabilitation of their zone of Germany with warnings that strict security measures must be enforced to prevent resurgence of German militarism.

The Conservative Yorkshire Post declared historians are likely to set the program as a "major landmark in the development of post-war Europe.

"The general objective is to make the (Anglo-American) region self-supporting. From the economic point of view there can be no disputing the soundness of this aim. Nobody will today deny that the present condition of Germany constitutes an insuperable obstacle in the way of European recovery."



The plan, however, could prove politically injurious and compromise the attainment of a stable peace system.

The Liberal London News Chronicle said that, economically speaking Britain and the United States had done the right thing in raising the permitted level of industry in their zone.

The new plans should in the long run save the financial burden on the occupying powers and enable Germany to resume her essential contribution to European's industrial system.

The Manchester Guardian declared British and American authorities do more in the plan than merely adjust their reparations policy to the fact that Germany is not being treated as an economic unit. They recognize that the old plan could never have been tolerable, and try to "correct the hopeless disequilibrium between heavy and light industries which made it nonsensical on any assumptions."

NOT A TRICK

It'll not a magician's trick Carl Sama, holding Joe Bassett Jr., 5, in his arm, is shown descending from the Architects Building, in Detroit, Mich., in a demonstration of the safety-scape, a fire rescue device. They say the manufacturer says, permits the descent of loads up to 1,800 pounds at not more than 6 feet a second.

British War-Bride Changes Opinion About Americans

Detroit, Aug. 30 (AP) —Despite marriage proposals from two sympathetic Detroit Yorkers, Mrs. Pearl Baker, a jailed 35-year-old ex-WAC, refused to embark for her English home this week unless out on the matrimonial market.

Misty-eyed at offers from Ernest Pierce and Frank Van Patten, the comely, blonde Briton expressed appreciation.

"But, no thanks. I'll wouldn't make any difference if they had a million dollars. I'm going to go back to England."

She was jailed on a robbery charge in a $12 toy gun holdup necessitated, she told police, by her husband's refusal to support her at the desertion of her ex-soldier husband. She has two small children, one given adoption and the other boarded out.

The proposals, however, relieved the grim-looking, one-time opinion of Americans of a somewhat rosier view.

"Some are fine people here," she smiled. "I was wrong."

13 "Hot" Planes Ready for Dash To Cleveland

Van Nuys, Calif., Aug. 30 (AP) —Thirteen "hot" planes with pilots all match stood ready to take off in the cold dawn fight on the $25,000 Hendrix Trophy dash to Cleveland, Sept. 1.

The 2,045-mile race attracted a group of leading American speed fliers, including the 1946 Bendix winner, Paul Mantz, Burbank, Calif., and William P. (round the world) Odom.

Two possibly three women were among the contestants, Jane Page Hinchcliff of Winnetka, Ill., and Dianna Cyrus of Santa Paula, Calif., were lured as sure starters. Jacqueline Cochran, who finished second last year, was tempted with the idea of fielding Bruce Gimbel, Greenwich, Conn., fly her P-51 Mustang.

All entries were converted warplanes with the P-51 the apparent favorite of the speeders.

Mantz, who shot down and "bopped up" in the battle against time for the $25,000 Thompson Trophy purse cuts will be $5,500 for second; $3,000 for third; $2,500 fourth; $1,500 fifth; $1,000 sixth and $500 for seventh. Moreover, the first woman to finish will receive $1,000.

MAY REVOKE CITIZENSHIP

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 30 (AP) — District Attorney Alex M. Campbell yesterday asked the federal court to revoke the citizenship of Anton Jay, 55-year-old factory worker, on the basis of a 1918 deportation order which accused him of being a Communist. Campbell said the action is part of a Department of Justice drive to "further safeguard the supreme internal security of the United States."

HOW MUCH VITAMIN D?

For several years now, from time to time, newspapers have had ambitious laboratory assistant or medically tired has made the front page, or at least an inside page by reporting that "overdose" or too much vitamin D may cause deposits of lime in various parts of the body.

If there is any evidence at all to support this notion these publicity hunting specialists have managed to keep it well concealed.

Mind, folks, I do not say it can't happen. All I say is that there is no case on record, where any such abnormal deposit of lime (calcium) in any tissue or organs of the body has been caused by the daily taking of any amount of vitamin D prescribed by the physician or, if you take it on your own, recommended (on the label) as the daily ration of the vitamin in preparations you take. So if you follow your physician's instructions or read the directions on the label of the preparation you choose to take, you can't go wrong. What you do may do you no good, of course, but anyhow it can do you no harm.

The two most significant cases on record were of a retired Canadian physician who either experimentally or with suicidal intent took enormous, overwhelming quantities of a vitamin D concentrate, aimed at the treatment of high taste potentialities, a case of vague and mysterious character, from which one might draw almost any sort of inference; (2) an infant who died through error or carelessness in reading the instructions on the label fed enormous daily quantities of vitamin D by administering a teaspoon full (what was thought was fish liver oil) daily whereas a drop or two contained the amount needed. The infant, a youngster, showed calcified areas deposits of calcium, but died even though that may sound downright to the layman, every physician knows that a case of rickets, capable of healing long tuberculosis is precisely by calcification of deposits of lime, calcium in the tissue surrounding the tubercle or tuberculous spot. very least an infant, growing child, youth or adult can get daily without developing actual nutritional deficiency disease—the optimal daily vitamin D requirement is, in my opinion, being 1,000 units (the minimal daily requirement is 400 units).

INFORMATION ROUNDUP

Massachusetts and Connecticut are the only New England States, and the only two of the original 13 Colonies that have names of Indian origin.

In "A Description of New England" (1616) Captain John Smith of Virginia coined and mapped the New England coast two years earlier, applied "Massachuset" to an Indian village. It is not likely that Smith or the Indians themselves at that time knew the literal meaning of the word.

The customary explanation is that "Massachuset" means "great hill" in the dialect of the Algonquin Indians who lived along what became the eastern end of Massachusetts Bay. Some authorities think the term was originally the name of a single village or place. while others think it was the name of a tribe. Perhaps it is a fusion of two names. It means that "great-little-ee-set" (meant "great hill—little place" and was applied by a place of Indians to "the hills." The tribal names was "Massachuset" and it means "people of big-hill people" or something of the sort.

Whatever the original meaning of the Indian term, the tribes of Massachusetts took it, and by the time it came to be known to the English it had become a tribal name. The colony established around Boston was called, "The Colony of Massachusetts Bay." In 1691 all the mouth were united under the name of the Indian tribe.

Connecticut comes from a similar source, Both "The Colony of Connecticut" and "The Colony of New Plymouth are preserved in the current nicknames of the states, "Nutmeg" and "Old Colony" and "Bay State" and "Pilgrim State" and "Old Colony."

The meaning of "Connecticut" is even more obscure. The name is from the Indian word signifying "long river" or "river of pines." When the Dutch explored the Connecticut territory around the mouth of the river in 1614 they misunderstood the Algonquin Indians there to refer to the river itself as Connecticut, and extended like "Quon-ne-ta-cut."

Connecticut may say that "at the long estuary" is an approximation of the Algonquin word, but the phrase on which the name is based. Early settlers spelled the name in half a dozen different ways and applied it to the entire river. In 1636 they settled on the Connecticut became Connecticut.

The official nickname of Connecticut is "Constitution State," which refers to the fact that representatives of the towns met at Wethersfield, Hartford and Windsor met in 1638-39 and framed the "Fundamental Orders," regarded as the first written constitution of a self-governing people. The humorous nickname is "Nutmeg" and may have grown out of the story that the Connecticut Yankees had the habit of making pegs of wood and palming them off as genuine nutmegs. Most of the spices were one of the chief articles of export from the State.

Batawa Shoemen Defeat Flyers 8-5 To Take Firm Hold on First Round

Intermediate "A" O.B.A. Playdowns

In a free hitting game that produced twenty-three clouts all told the Batawa Shoemen took an 8-5 win over the Flyers in game one of the O.B.A. Intermediate "A" playdowns at the Exhibition Stadium Grounds last night. They defeated the Trenton RCAF Flyers 8-5. The second game in the series will be played here under the lights next Wednesday.

The Shoemen had a shellacked for the large crowd to rave about in the opinion that the contest was to rock away the all-important first game victory as their hitting power to grab the Batawa poled out eleven hits all told, while Flyers socked out an even dozen. The Shoeman hit safely in every inning but the first, while the Flyers pounded out base clouts in seven of the nine frames.

Errors played a large part in the Flyers defeat, the air laddies counting no less than nine miscues to the winners two.

Batawa scored three runs in the second innings to take a lead that they never relinquished. Flyers whittled away at this margin and on occasions threatened to tie up the pastime but timely clouts and pitching in the clutches kept them out of danger and they matched run for run with the Flyers until the seventh innings when they forged ahead by a two run margin which they increased to three in the ninth to tuck the game away.

Bowan for Batawa and Holdershaw for the Flyers both went the route for their respective teams. And in a colorful pair spirit both struck five of the opposing batsmen with Holdershaw issuing the only walk of the game. Both were touched freely with the air force moundsticking Bowman for twelve hits and the Shoemen touching Holdershaw for eleven safe drives.

The gaily sprungs of the game came in the inning when Batawa forged into the lead with a trio of tallies off Burris single and Scott's double aided by a Flyer error and Peacock stopping the Holdershaw ace at the plate. Batawa increased their score to five in the second by virtue of two singles and another Flyer error.

They added three more in the fourth and fifth and went runless until the ninth when they met over the clincher off Peacock's second double of the game and Schisser single.

Flyers whittled away at the lead scoring single runs in the first three innings, two in the fifth and that was that.

Generaux, a newcomer to the Flyers, and Bridgeman, veteran shortstop and Holdershaw, the pitcher pounded out three hits each for the Flyers with Dunlop, Marlette and Fitzpatrick getting the others. Peacock, Batawa's peppy centre fielder for the Shoemen paced their attack with two doubles while Burris kicked in with a trio of singles.

Batawa and Schisser with two hits apiece led for the balance of the Shoemen clouts.

Dulmage Motors Make Playoffs In Commercial Loop

In a closely fought game at the Alexaite field last evening the Dulmage Motor nine climaxed their season's campaign by dunking the Bourgeau Garages crew by 5 to 3 in Commercial League Softball Game.

Young, losing pitcher for Bourgeaus, was a trifle erratic in the first inning walking the first two batters. A sycamore burst by Fyfe and some wild throws on the part of the Garage infield gave Dulmage's pep-gun in the first frame. A mighty home run by Bill Elliott in the third frame with no one on gave the Dulmage team another run. In the fourth inning A double by Bill Elliott scored him. In the sixth Dulmage left off with a single. Then Whiting bit one through short that bounded into the outfield. Gerry resulting will have scored the two runners, and the Dulmage score was on.

Bourgeau's got a single run in the fourth frame on a double by Burley which scored M. Fitzpatrick who had walked ahead of him. Singles by Young and Fowler and an error gave the Bourgeau's two counters in the fifth to end their scoring.

Young losing pitcher for Bourgeaus struck out nine, walked seven, and gave up three hits for five runs. Galpin, winning Dulmage pitcher went the distance striking out one, walking two, and giving up four hits for three runs.

NEWARK BEARS UNLIKELY TO MAKE PLAYOFF SPOT

First Time Since 1932 Yankee Farm Team Not in First Division

(By The Associated Press)

The Newark Bears wrote brilliant chapters of International League baseball the last 10 years, are on the brink of completing a season out of the first division for the first time since 1932.

All it took was a few runs which they never recovered, the Bears have a seventh place, 10 games behind the fourth-place Columbus Jets and with only 12 games left to play.

The Bears dropped from sixth to seventh last night behind Richmond Orioles by losing a twin bill to the Orioles, 6-3 and 11-4. Johnny Wittig, who relieved in both games, received credit for both victories.

Meanwhile, Montreal Royals retained their two-game first-place margin over the runner-up Jersey City Giants, downing Toronto Maple Leafs 6-3 while the Giants stopped the third-place Syracuse Chiefs 8-3.

Leahy Gerbosser halted the Leafs with 10 hits to post his 19th homer to start the Royals moving.

Although outhit 19-5, the Giants bunched their blows effectively at the expense of Dick Howell who went the route for the Chiefs.

The Bisons routed Rochester Red Wings 13-6 with a nine-run fourth-inning rally enabling the Bisons to sew up the game.

British Empire Will Fall Apart If People Don't Get a Move On Says Hon. A. Caldwell, Australia

By GEORGE RITCHEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Aug. 30 (CP) — This capital was told this week by a burly, two-fisted gent who says the British Empire will fall apart if people don't get a move on.

He is Hon. A.A. Calwell, Australia's outspoken minister of information and immigration, whose job is to get 70,000 people a year to move from the British Isles to Australia to fulfillment of that Dominion's immigration scheme.

A stock, rumple-suited man who looks more like a first-class carpenter than a commonwealth cabinet minister, he met members of the parliamentary press gallery while he was here and, in a fast-talking commentary on Empire affairs, joined them every few minutes with a ludicious use of duches il wrecks where they fail he would be more inclined to simpler phrases.

There was no mistaking however, when he propounded his pet theory that Britain needed to de-populate and tartly branded as a "bloody nuisance" Winston Churchill's plea to emigrating Britons to "stay home and fight it out."

As though his face mirrored the thought, the Calwell chin and lower lip jutted out and he snapped: "That really means stay home and 'starve' it out. Britain can never starve herself into prosperity or security."

Living in Dangerous Times

The Empire, he said, was living in "dangerous" times. It needed itself—the victor in the second World War and yet it was so wasteful that it had lost its effectiveness in influencing each others' "the best relations the colonies could give Britain was not to ship food to the people by the thousands of tons"—the Dominions.

"With only enough support a population of 50,000,000, Britain was seeking to feed 47,000,000 and the situation was "grim."

But he Calwell chin really shot out when the minister came to the subject of Japan, or as he put it, "The Black Dragon."

These barbarians, he said with biting of the words, 'can never be de-nazified, humanized or civilized under 50 years of occupation, let alone the five years which I have a hunch is all that the American occupation will last."

Australians fully expected another "bitter" war with the Japanese in the Pacific and that was one reason why they were seeking to "people" their population from 7,000,000 to 20,000,000 in the next 2 1-3 generations.

We believe we will have to defend our way of life and our civilization again and we know we need greater population and we need it soon. We can't wait. We are not going to tempt fate again, and we have no illusions about what our fate will be if we do."

Britain for one thing, was overpopulated and Britons were helping to "starve and suffocate world councils.

Toronto, Aug. 30 — (CP) — This district has been invaded by the praying mantis, the peculiar insect which is farmers' friend feeds on injurious insects, and officials of the Ontario Museum are getting weary answering telephone calls from citizens who want to know what the bug is.

The experts explained it's really the praying mantis, because of its prayer on other insects. The name of "praying" comes from its attitude when it folds its two front legs back under its head. Praying or preying, they won't be around long. Adult life of the insect is one year.

"Getting any bites, Pop?"

A Day at the "Ex"

Editor's note: Mrs. W. H. Kells, Toronto, who has many friends in Sidney, Madoc and Elzevir townships, has written the following story of her observations during a day at Canadian National Exhibition. The story follows: •

By LUCY R. KELLS

Needless to say I am from the vicinity of Belleville and a native of Hastings County from pioneer stock. The big "Ex" intrigues me with such strides as evinced on every side. Many years ago, I wrote and read a paper at Women's Institute meeting in Queenboro on "What we learn at Fall Fairs."

I attended Wednesday all day. Here are a few points of interest. In the Women's Building (part of the Manufacturer's Building) the lady in charge of Federation of W.I. asked me if a new institute was started near Madoc where there were only twelve prospective new members. The ladies in charge of the Red Cross information booth were most any gathered from the "ups and" caught in cascading locks. The elbow-length-sleeved bolero is buttoned snugly down the front.

Not here for many years, the fur-trimmed wraparound coat appears in almost every collection. Shocking pink woollen or wrappy linen, with a plaisa fox collar that extends into a long stole, is the formula for a high-fashion coat.

Autumn winds won't matter, not with so many hood coats from which to choose. Tobacco brown mellon makes a handsome coat that falls in a generous, yet slim line from rounded, slim shoulders. Double seaming encircles body and sleeves to accentuate a cropped-shoulder look. A fence-frame collar, of leopard, becomes a pretty hood when pulled up. Big leopard cuffs on sleeves.

with flowering plants and the flowers and in long drees, standing so serenely in her native setting was surely a "bit of Holland," to take one's breath away. No end of the bulbs in blooms, flowers of every color, bouquets, table decorations.

• • • •

In the Coliseum, one walked through rows of fruit, beautifully displayed, red apples, (Artichans) in piles, baskets of large plums (the finest I have ever seen) under cellophane, beautiful peaches and pears a mouth watering assortment. I didn't linger long but went up stairs to Women's World. I noticed several man were in the lot. Exhibits of furnished rooms (quite practical, too) clothing, rugs, books, just everything imaginable. The Y.M.C.A. hostels, the Book Reprint Series, all worthy of note. I particularly enjoyed the showing of "Heroines of Canadian History" brought to life from "Thorn Apple Tree," "The Tin Flute," "The Viking Heart," "Grandma Whitman" from "Jalna" and "Maria" from "Maria Chapdelaine," as I had read many of the books. They were wonderfully portrayed, as well as a running accompaniment on them and on Stephen Leacock's "Sunshine Sketches." I was pleased to see that several of the portrayals were from Quebec settings, which is as it should be.

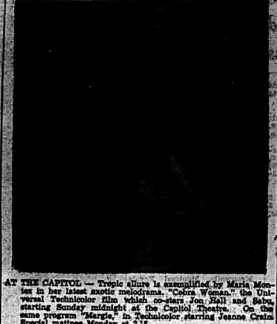
• • • •

And our eastern provinces were not forgotten as they, too, have made rich contributions to our land. The costumes were very typical and the Canadian life represented in these novels is from 1790 to 1900.

In the General Exhibits Building the newest in radio, in gadgets of all kinds, the waxes and linoleums, conglomus etc., were in evidence and lofty decorations and flag-draped artistry.

The Electrical Building was grand in soft colors, when lighted, and all too extensive to describe, with chemistry in action, plastics, nylon, glass. There were gorgeous dresses in yellows, browns, pale blue, nylons, raincoats, stockings all featherweight to delight the women.

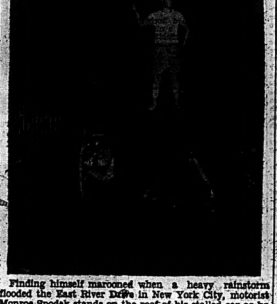
The bandshell was most beautiful in soft tones of light. The lighting on the grounds and around the buildings was wonderful. The band music was enjoyed by thousands seated nearby, viewing the water. The Waterloo band and R.C.A.F. bands performed.



Hinchey Music Displayed

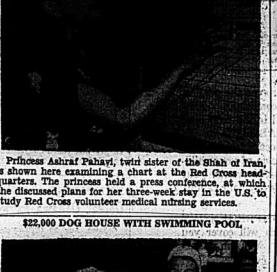
I was thrilled to hear them announce that Reg. Hinchey of Belleville had composed several numbers which they played. The crowds came and stayed and were replaced by many many more.

The waters of Toronto Bay were beautiful and blue and the odd steamer, the speed boats, and the sail boats, added to the scene as the swimmers were expected in from the big swim.



Alas, I have no time for "Elsie" the nice Jersey and her young calf in his special stall, crib, bed, but I saw them. I did not see the prize quilt, but I did see the "Bridge's Delight" where a girl from Weston won the award.

The papers give an ever-increasing attendance over the last fair, day by day. As they said to Elwood Hughes, the general manager "the biggest fair in the world," as he drew the winning tickets for the draw, outside the Pure Foods Building, "Canada, besides its contribution to the call of war, in all the services, is travelling fast in production in every line forging a place among the nations. May we ever hold high the torch—a clean Canada."



AT THE CAPITOL — Tropic allure is exemplified by Maria Monez in her latest exotic melodrama, "Cobra Woman," the Universal Technicolor film which co-stars Jon Hall and Sabu, starting Sunday midnight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Margie," in Technicolor, starring Jeanne Crain. Special matinee Monday at 2.15.

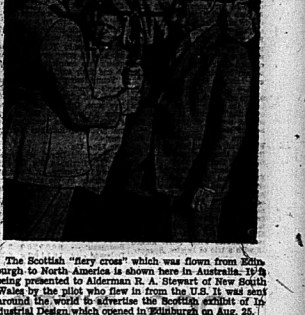
$22,000 DOG HOUSE WITH SWIMMING POOL



Denied a home in a Los Angeles apartment house because of a "No Dogs Allowed" rule, Mrs. Ada Williams became so indignant that she bought a $22,000 home "for the dog," she says. Then she built a $5,000 swimming pool where "Jimmy" takes his daily dip. The dog is shown here with Mrs. Williams as they cooled off in the pool. Mrs. Williams made a fortune as operator of a pet control service. She labels the new home "The house the rats built for Jimmy."

The Trouble Problem of Different Faiths

Well, I can't force parents have the wisdom and the understanding to realize that the wider horizons their children have, the more they themselves they can make more reasonable and happy, or of thinking and doing from their standpoints. The better they will they be prepared to get on successfully in the world, and more liberalize by to put blinders on their children's eyes so they will know only what their parents, people and races' things within the narrow confines within which try to confine their minds without knowledge of the world at large, or set of ideas; to set to such a way is to rob their sons and daughters of the benefits of having to the finest men and women of which they are capable, to deny them of the opportunity to become broad men of the world in which they are a part, and in which they might learn to lead a happy life.

Certainly this girl should be permitted to write to this boy. To forbid it is not only to take away from these two young people their right to a broadening friendship but it might well be the cause of their having to go on a piece of deception and possibly cause their separation despite the parental prohibition, which is often too late.

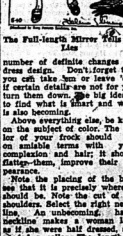
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON



You'd think that trying on pretty new summer dresses with the hope that you are going to find a few chic numbers— would be a treat for the soul. But it isn't. If you have conceit, prepare to shed it. It is a devastating experience, as many women have discovered. It's all due to that full-length mirror.

You may observe changes in the figure that you have been fondly assuming. A diet, diligence and exercise, changes you have not suspected show that you looked all right to you, look all wrong in the mirror for some reason or other. Fastidious though you may be in the art of making up, you suspect that there's a bit too much coloring on your cheeks. And your hair! After you have wriggled in and out of two or three frocks, it behaves in a riotous manner. Any hair is out of place.

Perhaps it is just as well. Perhaps it will spur you into being extremely careful about every detail of grooming in the future. All those little things to consider! Smooth heels—and shapely ones, near, nail polish just so, purse looking new and fresh. Well it is a lifeline, too, for it lays dividends in self-esteem and personal satisfaction.

Let us hope that you do not go all to pieces and burst into tears before the candid mirror. Exercise your courage. Make up your mind it is just one of those things. Unsuspected face and figure faults are bound to be found on a brightly lighted fitting room. If you have been casual about your dress and beauty duties, this ordeal may shock you into action.

In the choice of new frocks, take your own good time, no matter how impatient the saleslady may be. You don't want to make any mistakes. Spring fashions are bringing along a number of definite changes in line and detail. Don't forget that you can't take 'em or leave 'em; if certain details are not for you, they're not for you. It's a waste of time to find what is smart and what is also becoming.

The Full-length Mirror Tells No Lies

Above everything else, be keen on the subject of color. The one color of your frock should be on suitable terms with your complexion and hair. It should flatter—them, improve their appearance.

Note the placing of the belt; see that it is precisely where it should be. Note the cut of the shoulders. Select the right neckline. An unbecoming harsh neckline makes a woman look as if she were half dressed, and shielded a collar, length of the skirt is important. Skirts are a bit longer this season, and that is just as well.

Plans for a Trousseau Tea

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me about an informal trousseau tea. I have been asked by a friend to manage this tea, and I do not feel that I am thoroughly acquainted with all details. There is to be no reception after the wedding, and this trousseau tea will probably be the only social function.

1. Should the invitations be written or just telephoned? The guests will be mostly neighbors and very intimate friends.

2. Should the bride and her mother "receive?"

3. What about the menu . . . what should be served?

4. How should the trousseau be arranged and shown?

5. Is it proper to take a gift to a trousseau tea when you don't expect to be invited to a shower, or do expect to be invited to the wedding.

6. What are the duties of a bride-to-be at such a tea?

7. Is it proper to have any entertainment for the guests?

Helena

1. The invitations to this informal tea may be given by telephone, or by notes of invitations.

2. Yes, the bride and her mother welcome the guests together and often the bride's mother invites the groom's mother to receive the guests with them.

3. The menu is usually a simple tea-menu: tea and/or coffee (hot or iced) and/or punch; small sandwiches, little cakes or cookies.

4. The trousseau is usually artistically arranged in the bride-elect's room, and the guests may be either "escorted" to this room or may go wherever they wish.

5. It is proper to give a gift to the trousseau-collection, but it is better to send it before the tea, rather than to take it with you.

6. The bride-to-be welcomes her guests as they arrive, makes any necessary introductions, sees that the guests are happy and comfortable, and later sees that they are served to refreshments. But she should not preside at the tea-table; instead she should ask one or two of her women relatives or intimate friends to assist her in this pleasant duty of presiding at the tea-table . . . and also two or three others, if she wishes, to "show" the trousseau.

7. You will find, I am sure, that there will be no need for planned entertainment any more than at any other tea-party, for the point is to chat with friends and to "ooh and ah" over the beauty of the trousseau.

How The Bride Addresses Her Husband's Aunts and Uncles

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been married recently, and soon my husband and I are going to have a home town to visit with his several aunts and uncles. How should I address them . . . "Mr." and Mrs. seems too formal?

Frances

A bride addresses all her husband's aunts and uncles (and cousins) just as he addresses them . . . so you say "Aunt Mary" and "Uncle Jim."

It is interesting to observe, in a group of people, people at any age, the ones who have a tendency to lower the general tone of the group, and those few, choice creatures who, by the highly-sanitized quality of their spirit—elevate the tone. It is not that the people in this latter group are high-brows, not that they are intellectual, not that they are not fun-loving. On the contrary, they usually are the ones who add to the humor, to the fun, to the general enjoyment of the time, the stimulating feeling of "here is a pleasant and charming Somebody."

Excellent Plan to Order Restaurant Dinner Beforehand

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To celebrate our Tenth Wedding Anniversary my husband and I would like to give a dinner in a restaurant in the city near where we live. We plan to invite twelve or fourteen guests, and to make the table-reservation about a week or ten days ahead of time, for it is a very popular restaurant and our anniversary date is on a Saturday. My husband thinks it would be best for us to go to the hotel to make the reservation (we have no 'phone), and at that time to order the dinner, so that the cocktails (we will have only one round of cocktails) and also these to be served at the table rather than in the cocktail lounge), and the wine we shall have are having served with the dinner. I think this would be a good idea as far as ordering the cocktails and wine are concerned, but I disagree with him about the ordering of the dinner, because I think he should leave it entirely to their choice of foods. Do you agree with my opinion or with me?

I agree with your husband about this plan, and most enthusiastically. Ordering the dinner ahead of time gives the charming impression that it is given by a hostess and host who know their social way about, and whose gracious custom it is to give much personal thought to the planning of a party, particularly of such an important party as a tenth anniversary celebration. Having the ordering done ahead of time makes the service-procedure run more smoothly, and if it is not necessary, to interrupt the conversation in order to consult the guests about their food preferences. In other words, the restaurant dinner proceeds in the smooth fashion of a well-planned and well-served dinner in a home.

In regard to your idea about ordering the cocktails, many hosts today wisely plan to have only one "round" of cocktails before dinner—and ordering the wine that is to be served during the dinner is also an excellent plan. Your husband may also, if he wishes, pay for the dinner when he orders it, and the headwaiter or whoever takes the order might have the tips for the waiters added to the check, or give them after the dinner is over. The headwaiter or maitre d'hotel will also, if you wish, provide a flower centre-piece for your table, and also have an anniversary cake made and served with ice cream for the dessert course.

Giving Posthumous Son Father's First Name Different Middle Name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Two months ago my husband was killed in a motor accident, and in about two weeks I shall have a baby. Since this is my first child, if it is a boy I would naturally like to give him his father's name. In this circumstance, which is the "junior"? If there is a choice as to whether or not the name is used, I prefer not to be the "junior."

Mother-to-be.

No; a posthumous son, given his father's name, is not "Junior"; he becomes what was a son born after his father's death, the son is given his father's first name but a different middle name. Then when he is older he will have a name different from that of his mother, and this will avoid a name-confusion. You might like to consider following this idea.

Measuring Train on Wedding Gown

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When it is said that the train of a wedding gown is "measured" such a length . . . for example, three yards long . . . how are the measurements taken?

Lois

From the back of the neck to the tip of the train.

Never better is the word of stylists when it comes to appraising the smart silk mull. Black satin is used for a beautiful afternoon skirt . . . the longer skirt all-over quilted, the fitted jacket plain with pointed collar and cuffs. With it a blouse of black chiffon quilled in gold thread.

New York, Aug. 30 (CP)—North American stage premiere of "Robert Burns," a musical on the life of the bard, is to be at a still-to-be-determined Canadian city for cheering, Broadway learned this week.

Furthermore, before the production hits the Main Stem which it hopes will lead to a Broadway run, the Canadian travel—to be watched carefully from here—will take it on a tour of at least three Canadian cities—Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa.

Which of the three will be chosen for the debut, set for Nov. 10, remains to be seen.

"Robert Burns" is one of two productions the War has been promised about Scotland's poet for the new season. The other is an ambitious play titled "Auld Lang Syne," projected by producer John Murray Anderson.

A trial run in Canada is a notable recognition of the Dominion's growing theatre-consciousness.

Opening with a prologue showing Burns philosophizing at the business end of a plow, the story runs through four acts and spans scenes to wind up in the bedroom of Burns' home at Dumfries.

Quit Pushin'

Following theatre crowds newcomers in good spirits, the city's al pushing toward the 44th Street theatre, where Jimmie Stewart and Josephine Hull pack them in nightly to howl over "Harvey."

Frank Fay's big white rabbit has grown to the size of a two-year-old to accommodate the tall-er Stewart but the added three inches have not made Fay the more visible. Producer Brock Pemberton (who himself has joined sequity to "appear" as distinct from "act" the part for next week with the Barter Theatre Company of Abingdon, Va., says Harvey may have a new friend when Stewart's run expires—comedian Joe E. Brown.

Lena Horne, now enchanting to the tune of $7,000 a week at the Copacabana, is to make a season at Paris' fashionable Monseigneur's night club . . . Giving chorus boys and girls a career expectancy of five years at best, equity has obtained higher wage scales said to compensate more fairly those who have exercised capacity in that side of the business. Actors weren't included. They apparently go on forever. . . .

Who picks a fight against the might of any stronger fellow may take a beating. Serves him right. Nor does he rate a bellow. The wise centre to hold their fire and keep a safe position and thus restrain until they gain sufficient ammunition.

In Horse Sense, each rule is determined by what can be proven correct. It starts with the basis that each player is entitled to an average of one fourth of what a pack of cards contains.

Pairs in a bridge game vie with each other for supremacy of the final contract. If shy player opens the bidding, he starts competition. It is wise to do so unless you have more than the other fellow!

If you do not open and everybody passes, you have lost nothing. If somebody else opens, you can back in with a bid. So, why open unless you are stronger than your expected average?

This may be slightly modified for pact score, some believe. Are the uncertain, gains from such enough to compensate for the doubt that results in all deals? Let someone prove it.

Dealer holds this hand:

♠ A 8 8 3
♥ K 9 7 4
♦ None
♣ K J 8 6 4

This hand contains only three high cards; no more than average. It contains no more than one sure trick; no more than average. So, it is not a sound opening. Simple mathematics tell you so.

You are liable to open such a hand. Why? Not because you possess strength enough, because opponents must let your side get the bid. Not because you can defeat opposing bids. Then why?

Is it because you fear everybody else will pass? So what! If partner is unable to bid, opponents have the balance of strength. Or the strength is about equally balanced around the table.

Did you say you would like to take a chance with it? Ah. Then you came here to gamble. Okay. You're faded. Shoot.

FOUND IN MASS GRAVE

The Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Aug. 30 (AP) — Robert Taylor has been a Hollywood meal-ticket ever since playing Romeo to Norma Shearer's Juliet in the 1936 "Romeo and Juliet."

Now Bill Walsh of MGM, a constant observer of showbiz flows through his office every day, is wondering why Taylor's name is being avoided from his home. They've been together since Taylor left acting job. Walsh is supposed to be another "man behind the throne" of the hundreds of others.

The motion picture industry has been paying high lights on itemized and paid in the United States. Walsh figures that from June the average studio employee earns $2.50 per hour and $100.00 for a week's work. Nearly every worker, except confidential secretary and executives, Belongs to some kind of Union.

"I think the only other ones not organized in a couple of film managers," Walsh told me, "and someone will get around to them one day."

Walsh, a former National Labor Relations Board official, deals with about fifty different unions constantly covering MGM's average of 6,000 workers. They come to him with their everyday problems in order to mediate in disputes over who should do which work.

Construction of sets is the major point of battle.

For instance, Walsh declared that during the filming of "Anchors Aweigh", a scene was planned in the hold of an aircraft tarrier. There was a dispute about which Union should bore the holes in the bulkhead for fastening bunks. Both Unions held their ground, so the scene was changed to a locker room. In "Till the Clouds Roll By" there was a battle over which Union should build the set for the "Show Boat" number.

"Neither would give in,' said Walsh, "So we had both build a show boat and then had them cut the boats hauled out to the back lot and wrecked.

AFTER SINGLE FISH

Penetanguishene, Aug. 29—(CP) — When Herman Bechard of Penetanguishene went fishing in Penetanguishene Bay this week he was after a single fish — a big muskellunge he had spotted on an earlier expedition.

Near the place he had been seen before, the big fish struck and hooked himself firmly in the end of Bechard's heavy duty 24-pound silk line. After 10 minutes Bechard played him with a bamboo salmon rod and then landed him.

The muskie weighed 37 pounds six ounces and measured 46 inches in length and 19 inches in girth.

Point Anne Leafs Win First Int 'A' O.A.S.A. Playdown Game From Kingston 6-3

By DON BOYLE

Don Boyle Restricts Visitors to Four Hits While Pallon Cracked For Three

(By O. H. C.)

The highly-touted thunderous power of the Kingston league squad champions of the Kingston City Softball League was shelled but a flash in the moonlight game at Point Anne last night when the Leafs of that village handed the Limestone City team a 6-3 setback in the first game of their two-of-five Intermediate "A" first round playdown series.

The batting prowess of the visitors was definitely stifled by the slants of portsider Don Boyle, Leafs ace hurler who set them back with only four hits while the nine innings route. Had the Pointers played errorless ball the record might have been different, but none the less with a perfect game. He struck out seven and issued no walks.

Ken Hall started the ball around in the first innings accompanied by a couple of Kingston errors and one hit in the ninth accounted for the remaining three of the Limestone City's total tallies in all were compiled by the Leafs in the first three innings and one they were costly.

Thus the Pallon conqueror of the Kingston Loose in the playoffs either one game up or up to par. He was pitched for eight clouts three of them coming in the last seven to take top honors in the 10-mile grind. Taking the lead in the final mile with an amazing burst of speed which held second position from the start, Gazel was in the water 4 hours, 44 minutes, 37 seconds. The record is held by Frank Pritchard of Buffalo, who took four hours, 19 minutes, 38 seconds to win the last two years ago. Pritchard is not entered this year, but two previous winners are scheduled to appear.

Only eight swimmers finished out of a starting field of 36.

Ward finished 3 minutes 42 seconds in front of young Jerry Kerschner, of Columbus, O. The latter led until the end of nine miles, but tired rapidly under the stiff challenge from Gazel and was passed by barely a yard.

The winner picked up a check for $3,000 while the runner-up received $1,500. In third place and winning $1,000 was an unregistered truck driver from Washington, Steve Wozniak. He took 5 hours, 3 minutes and 40 seconds, swimming much stronger in the last few miles. Fourth to finish was fifth as he completed four miles and started to overcome two competitors before another mile had been completed.

Bert Cornaga, swimming instructor at the University of Washington, finished fourth in 5 hours, 36 minutes and 45 seconds, but won $750.

Many swimmers literally descended into the water when the last two members appeared. Gazel and Emil Kerschner, two youngsters who swam stroke for stroke in a grim battle for first place during the first four and a half miles and then fell back to just get into the money.

The elder of the two, Tommy Fay, 22, of Hamilton, finished sixth in 9 hours, 39 minutes and 30 seconds, with the youngest competitor in the race 16-year-old Cliff Lumsden, taking sixth and last money, $250, in 10 hours and 9 seconds later. Park won

Fair of Toronto Wins Junior Golf Crown

Oshawa, Aug. 30 (CP) — A bang-on shot on the final hole of an extra nine-hole playoff earned 17-year-old Bob Fair of Toronto Cubdale the Ontario Junior golf championship and the Fair Isle trophy.

Runner-up in the tournament yesterday at the Oshawa Golf Club was Gerry Kessaling, 20, of Toronto and Canadian Junior champion, Bill Moreland of North Bay came third.

At the end of the regulation 36 holes, Fair, Kessaling and Moreland were tied with 146 each. Kessaling forced the tie when he birdied the 18th hole to catch up to Fair, who was one stroke ahead at that point. Moreland had had a one-over-par total for the round up to the 16th hole and needed only par for the last three holes to win but he bogeyed the 17th and finished in the pack.

Going into the ninth hole of the playoff Kessaling and Fair were up by 32 Fair, who was one trailed with 34. Kessaling got his second wind, however, to take the eagle at the green on the 155-yard hole. Fair, meanwhile overstalled the hole and missed a four-footer requiring three strokes to get down. Kessaling then putted on he green for a score of 33 on the opening nine. Kessaling had 36 and Moreland 37.

A record 105 youthful golfers from all parts of Ontario competed in the tough 6,300-yard course, Kessaling, runner-up winners was Murray Norman, Kitchener, and with 153 scores; Bill Louth Oakville, third with 154. The 54-hole affair was held over two days, closely followed by Ken Hall, Point Anne, with 155, W. Kitchener, leader in the 14-year group with 176, Ron Smith, Toronto, scoring 78 in the tough 6,300-yard course.

Prizes were presented by Syl Apps, Ontario Athletic Commissioner.

New York Giants, Once Bane Of Flatbush, Now Rate Fond Affection Over in Brooklyn

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

There was a time when it was a fond pastime for fans of New York Giant players to walk in the streets of Brooklyn. Today the Flatbush flatbush citizenry is ready to spread out the welcome mat for anybody wearing a Giant uniform.

In the last three years, the Brooks have whipped the Giants 35 times in 39 games on their home grounds. This season they have lifted their fistic neighbors six times in seven starts—twice.

Not only have the Giants been accommodating to the Brooks but they've been especially accommodating to the Dodgers' chief foes, St. Louis Cardinals. In 19 engagements with the Redbirds, the Giants have come out on top in 10 times.

The Giants played their usual role of stooges at Ebbets Field last night before the Brooks' fans as Ralph Branca, the stringy armed righthander, registered his 19th victory with a 2-1 decision.

A five-run sixth inning at the expense of pitchers Dave Koslo and Joe Beggs bagged the victory for the Brooks. Bobbie by Jimmy Jorgensen and Al Gionfriddo, batting for Beggs, singled. Eddie Robinson, who contributed a single to the rally, scored Bobbie with the first run of the inning.

Clinton Brown moved within a half game of the second place Cards by tripping the Phillies 5-3. Bill Voiselle registered his 16th straight with an eight-hitter.

Scoring two unearned runs in the seventh inning, the Yankees tied Washington 3-3 and beat the Senators 4-3 in the 10th with George McQuinn getting the hero with one out and the bases loaded to score a runner from third. Joe Page hurled the pair of relief for the Senators.

Eddie Pellagrini doubled in two runs in the last of the seventh to give the Red Sox a 5-4 victory over Philadelphia Athletics 2-1 in Boston. Leroy Mickey Harris, who relieved Joe Dobson in the first inning, limited the A's to 3 hits in the final five innings.

Landing on Ellis Kinder for 4 runs in the sixth, Detroit Tigers defeated St. Louis Browns 5-3.

The scheduled game between Chicago White Sox and Cleveland was postponed by rain. Other clubs were not scheduled.

Solmar Tables:

Haste Makes Waste in the Outdoors

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables

The more I see of fishing and shooting, the more I am filled with conviction that these are leisurely sports. To hurry, while indulging in them robs you of much of some of their charm but usually of the fun and chances of success.

Take bass fishing for instance. When the bass plug was first introduced, it was a leisurely matter dealing with the cast of plugs practically the same. You allowed the plug to be motionless at any time. Started the retrieve with the plug in the water. Then at what they told you. Keep it moving; don't let it stop. The natural result of such advice was that a host of bass moved about in water in a fairly rapid rate.

Then with one of the inevitable whims of fine casting in the backlash, fancy entire anglers specializing in casting. Each new man who doesn't have a backlash once in a while. Then the competition casters at the New York Sportsmen's Show in Madison Square every now and then. True, their backlashes are mixed with fancy casts they have made in the early days of bait casting, backlashes often assumed the proportions of a bird's nest. While these "bird nests" were being untangled, the bass plug often remained floating quietly on the water.

Anglers began to realize that these stationary plugs were taken by bass with more frequency. Consider such happenings as unusual accidental. Gradually the practice of plug casting began to slow down.

Today plug casting is a leisurely piece of business—at least it should be. Many anglers allow their plugs to remain on the water quietly on the surface after they are cast. The secret of this type of sport is imparted to the plug until the moment you reel in for the fifteen or twenty. Then the plug is agitated slightly. Then it is again allowed to rest motionless for awhile. Bass fishermen are learning that lesson from the pros in bass lake.

Before the advent of World War II, I used to spend a couple of weeks each summer fishing with a camp owner in northern Vermont. He observed that I used a fly rod for bass so we cast bass bugs along the shorelines of his favorite lakes and ponds and had a grand time of it. Bass-bug casting is slightly different from a fish-one hand-on the rod—and the other hand on the back line. Being inherently lazy and not wishing to work any harder than the best of line, I had adopted the dubious expedient of lighting a cigarette between casts. As I had been cast I would lay my rod in front of me in the boat and light up while the bug and the fully extended line lay motionless on the water. It saved a lot of trouble that way.

Knowing what bass often do to a stationary lure, my friend cautioned me against such unorthodox procedure. After three silk bass had stuck a stationary bug and escaped unhooked he took a pencil stub from his pocket and made some figuring on the seat of the boat. It came out this way.

Casting a bug at the tempo of twice to the minute meant that we had cast three hundred and sixty times in three hours. At but five of those casts had been fished out according to plan. The remaining three hundred and twenty strikes or one strike to every forty casts. Obviously this was the fact that three bass had struck a stationary bug out of the five casts. Either they had reach, or another, the cast had been made while the bug remained on the water for a space of fifteen seconds. In each case the bass would be allowed to rest quietly on the bug until the line had been widened to a diameter of about two feet. Then a twitch was received slowly and quite gently. Then the bug was left alone for a no effort; we stepped up production considerably.

Time was (when I was young and had more energy than good sense) when I used to think nothing of getting up at the crack of dawn of a bass riverrat's clip. Now I combine my activities pretty much as one does in golf. The best days of racing down river casting only are the days of the early days of the season. Odonata (dragon flies) are now just beginning to appear in bass as I used to and I save a good deal of energy and exercise by taking time to observe what goes on about me. I have a much better chance of a bass that way.

When you come right down to it, the best way to fish for bass is from some shoreline of a lake, bass, just as you would for trout. Locate them by keeping track of the feeding periods. I have found that I can find the fish most of the time. During Solunar Periods. If the fish is shoreline with a top-water bugs between times, I use an underwater lure of some kind. Such a thing as having no longer eat on Sunday. Any day, believe me, baits makes waste in the outdoors.

BALMY BEACHERS AIM FOR PLAYOFF UNDER NEW COACH

By WILF GRUSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 30 (CP) — Toronto Balmy Beach didn't draw the best hand in the Senior O.R.F.U. playoff draw but they're sporting a fresh coat of optimism under their new coach.

Porter, co-pilot last year until Bob Cosgrove, won't know until the season is well under way how actually shape up. It was a make-shift team that lost to the highly-touted Hamilton Tigers of the Big Four in the O.R.F.U. final last Saturday and for the present the 22-2 defeat at the Beaches park can be discounted.

At the moment Balmy Beach is very short on line. There is scarcity of experienced middle wall men. Only Jack Bell, a 190-pound veteran, is available at backfield is three deep in spots.

The Beachers have lost 11 men of last year's team, including Ted Reeve, Ken Ludlow, Bill Bell, Jack Hobbs, Johnny Lake, Bill Hollinger and Ken Ireland, veterans of Tommy Ford and Bob Cunningham; ends Geordie Hall and Ken Archibald; Jack Burkhart, Bill Stockman; snap Bill Hollinger and Ken Ireland; halfbacks and insides Harry (Buzz) Hall and Jack Armstrong.

Before the club's opening game on Sunday, Sept. 7, Porter will have a full quota of five imports working out every night. Of the Washington brass who filled the 1946 roster, Bob Goldstein, Jack Burkhart, Bill Stockman, Jack Armstrong and Ken Archibald are available.

Banking on Center

Porter's hopes rest on Bell, Bob Goldstein, Jack Burkhart, Bill Stockman, Jack Armstrong and Ken Archibald are available.

Banking on Center

Porter is banking on Bruce Coulter, a 190-pound ex-Navy passers to come out of a Toronto high school in years. Until he and Baits are ready for the quarterback spot will be shared by Bill Thompson and Jack Downs.

Among the halves are the Morley twins Al and Norm; Cryderman, speedy Negro who has played in 64 Canadian and American football around Detroit; Bill Petrilli, Bill Leaty and Merchant Stu Scott.

So far the Balmies have nabbed three experienced linesmen in Middle Paul Mowry, with Toronto Indians last year, and Ted Pietrusenko, former Hamilton Wildcat inside, and snapper Frank Williams who will be with the club for five or six games before he returns to university of Toronto.

CANADIAN SPORT SNAPSHOTS

By EDGAR SIMON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Aug. 30 — (CP) — There's little scuffing in football fixtures these days with the odds heard at Toronto's amateur league looking like a mismograph as it reacts to the result of every pre-season exhibition game.

One of the east's top ranking hopefuls, Toronto Tate (Telegraph) Reeve, took in Wednesday's Hamilton-Toronto battle and came away with a healthy respect for Leo Layman's Alouettes on the strength of their 32-7 victory.

The Moaner, who came by the nickname in days of adversity as he managed Toronto Balmy Beach clubs, discreetly avoided the slaughter as the Beaches fell into same evening tangle with Hamilton Tigers.

But in the neutral setting of Moaner's box he made expert comments on the potentialities of the teams he saw Saturday.

He was public about the Riders. They played without star running back Sully Glasser. The broken-field running of Johnny Pope, the Rider flash from Philadelphia, and all-round work at Red Bell pleased him. But the Alouettes were something else again.

His first (and only) unfavorable reaction was that they lacked a passer, but Reeve recalled that Layman likes to experiment in the early season and recalled 32-point-season rubbishing that took last year before scoring the fireworks out of the rest of the big four.

Moaner, "a couple of large strangers were in the offing (they were said to be Bears, though we did not get a look at their paws) and one of them may be the pitcher Laughing Lew needs to go with the weight and speed of his Mountaineers."

The next 500 words of Reeve copy point up the weight and speed impressively. The general idea is that you'll be reading more about it later.

Dry Those Tears

Dipping even farther into the future, Laurie (Coal Reporter) Brain soothes the pessimists who wrote off Galt's entry in the Ontario Hockey Association's junior A loop when they heard Detroit Red Wings planned to shift their support to a Windsor club.

National Hockey League wheigan Max Kaminsky, business manager of the club's new foster parents on Dundas street, Secretary of the American League says the Rockets have 40 players listed for training, with some of the overflow kicked for Galt.

CHAPTER 1.

Angeline Small stepped out of the elevator at 8 o'clock and nodded to Kitty Brice behind the switchboard.

"Cold!" she said with a bright grimace. "Have they lighted the fire in the lounge?"

"Yes, Miss Small."

"Good," Miss Small said. But she walked briskly across the square lobby and checked for herself. There was only one girl in the lounge, a night worker in a Western Union office who went off to her job when the other girls came home. Miss Small found this routine confusing. When she went to her own bed at midnight, after coffee and gossip with Monny, she wanted to know that all of her 70 girls were safe and sound in their 70 good, though narrow, cots.

Miss Small switched on more lights, approved the fire and the bowls of fresh chrysanthemums, and spoke to the girl who was huddled in a deep chair with her eyes closed.

"Good evening, Lilliam. Or should it be good morning?"

The girl looked up with a long, insolent stare and closed her eyes again.

Time for a little heart-to-heart talk with this one, Miss Small decided. Mustn't have sulks and surliness, such a bad example for the others. Perhaps a tiny note in her mailbox, an invitation to a nice cup of tea in my room. These poor, love-starved babies, I must do all I can.

"Isn't that a new coat, dear?" she asked.

The girl got up and brushed by the outstretched hand. "Excuse me" she said. "I forgot something."

Miss Small watched her cross the lobby with an arrogant stride and enter the elevator. I'll win her over, she promised herself, but I won't say anything to Monny. Poor Monny. She worries so when she knows I've been hurt.

She returned to the lobby and entered the railed enclosure that was the office. A broad, flat desk faced the street entrance and behind it was the switchboard. A panel of push bells covered the wall behind the board. The bells rang in the rooms at seven in the morning and six in the evening. That was when the dining room opened. They also rang to announce visitors, phone calls, and emergencies. At right angles to the desk stood an orderly hive of glass-covered mailboxes too often empty.

"Kitty!"

Kitty gatherd herself together and rose in sections. She was a tall, thin girl with poor skin and lips that were faintly blue.

"There's something in my box, Kitty, and you didn't give it to me."

"Headache," Kitty muzmured. "I'm sorry, Miss Small, but you went by so fast before, and it's only a note Miss Brady put in."

"Miss Brady? Hand it to me at once, please." Miss Small tried to keep the pleasure out of her voice. Darling old Monny, she told herself, she's thought of something nice for us to do later on. Maybe the theatre, or a really good movie, or a little supper at that new French place. She opened the envelope carelessly under Kitty's curious gaze.

Angel (Monny wrote), I've got to see Marshall-Gill about the party, she phoned. You'll have to take over the desk for me until Plummer goes on at 8. There's a new girl coming in, Ruth Miller, I'm afraid I forgot to tell you. Forgive? She's to go in with April Hooper. Explain to her about April, will you? That's something else I forgot, but you'll do it so much better than I would! Yours, M.

Miss Small tucked the note in her blouse and sat at the desk, smiling at the daily report that was fastened to the blotter. Monica Brady's sprawling hand had okayed a suspicion of mice on the second floor, uncovered a flaw in the addition of a plumber's bill, and questioned room 304's explanation of why she had stayed out all night. Under 304's explanation, which was a new one, she found the new girl's registration card. Ruth Miller, age 29, saleswoman at Blackman's, no family or known relatives. Then came the confidential information in the staff code. Middle class, some refinement, shy, not a mixer, underweight, poor vision and teeth. Probably tonsils. Recommended by M. Smith and M. Smith.

Miss Small frowned. That meant three girls from Blackman's. It wasn't wise to have more than two from the same place. Two could be friends, three could be troublesome.

The front door swung open, admitting a raw, damp wind and a chattering pair who called "Good evening, Miss Small," as they hurried to the elevator. The evening had begun.

From the rear of the lobby a clatter of china and silver began in a low key and steadily rose, the silent switchboard came to life with a series of staccato buzzes, and the front door opened and shut at frequent intervals. In a short time the institutional smell of largescale cooking and thick, damp clothing had routed the fragrance of burning logs and chrysanthemumr. The Hope House girls had lived through another day and were coming home.

At 5 o'clock young Mrs. Nicholas Sutton approached her favorite clerk in Blackman's toilet-goods department on the main floor. The clerk was Ruth Miller. Young Mrs. Sutton, snug and warm in her new birthday sables, slid a shopping list across the counter and made an honest apology.

"I ought to be shot for coming in so late," she said. "You've got all your adding up to do."

Ruth Miller took the list and smiled. In the year she had worked at Blackman's Mrs. Sutton was the only woman customer who had regarded the counter between them as a bridge not a barrier. In consequence, she had once given a star on top of a Christmas tree; they were both remote yet intimate; untouchable but hers.

Mrs. Sutton smiled back at the plain, pleasant girl and wondered for the third or fourth time why she didn't take her away from that counter and put her in the Sutton nursery. She'd be wonderful with baby. "How've you been, Miss Miller? And why aren't you wearing your glasses? That's crazy, you know."

"They're broken," Ruth Miller said. "But I'm getting new ones."

"I should certainly hope so! Crazy to put off things like that. But otherwise you look very chipper."

Ruth Miller's pale cheeks flushed. "I'm just fine," she said. She'd tell Mrs. Sutton why she was fine, too. Some people might think it was silly, but Mrs. Sutton would understand. Mrs. Sutton always surprised you that way. All the money in the world herself but she understood about not having any. "I've got a new place to live," she said breathlessly, and her calm, plain face was almost pretty. "No more subways and furnished rooms with not enough heat and eating any which way! And only six blocks from here, a lovely place, you can't imagine! It's a kind of club, a hotel for girls, with breakfast and dinner, and they even have a room in the basement where you can do your own laundry. It's lovely, and so cheap, and all the hot water you want I think that's what got me. No hot water is awful"

"No hot water in the devil," Mrs Sutton agreed "How'd you ever find it?"

"Two girls in our stockroom live there I knew they made less than I do, but they always looked better somehow You know—nice coats and gloves, and permanents, and all that So I asked them how they managed and they told me And then I went over there and talked to the Head, a Miss Monica Brady, and she said she could give me a room with another girl Eight dollars a week, can you imagine, with the food and all those privileges! I move in tonight and—" She stopped because Mrs Sutton was staring straight ahead and her eyes were as wide as a child's.

Ruth Miller turned her own head to investigate, and her heart gave a sickening lurch. On the rear wall, above the elevators, a small red light blinked steadily and evenly. One-two-three, one-two; one-two-three, one-two. The light was little more than a crimson blur, but she could read its silent message to well.

"I know what that's for," Mrs. Sutton said softly. "Old man Blackman is a friend of my father's. But what's the dope? I mean what does the blinkety-blink say?"

Ruth Miller looked down at her hands and saw that they were trembling. She tried to fill in the sales slip, but it was useless. I'm a fool, she told herself; I've got to stop acting like this. She didn't look up when she answered. "One-two-three, one-two means the main aisle, hosiery . . . It's a woman."

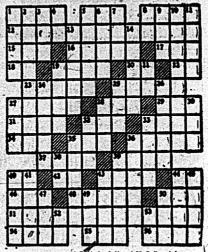
"The idiot," Mrs. Sutton observed cheerfully. "Pulling a thing like that when the store's almost empty. She deserves to be caught. Idiot, she must be crazy. . . . Hey, maybe it's nat a professional, maybe it's a kleptomania. For heaven's sake, maybe it's somebody I know! I'm going over!"

Ruth Miller's hands gripped the edge of the counter. "No," she said. "No. Don't do it, don't go. It's not fair, it's awful; don't go, Mrs. Sutton, please."

Mrs. Sutton gave her a quick, surprised look. "Okay," she said carelessly. "You're a nice girl, Miss Miller, and I'm a no-account lug. Well so 'ong. Charge and send the stuff. We're going down to Pinehurst tomorrow, be gone until after Thanksgiving. See you when I get back." She turned up the collar of her sable coat. "Be good," she smiled.

Ruth Miller watched the slim, straight figure as it walked without hesitation to the side-street exit. Mrs. Sutton was avoiding the main aisle where a high voice was raised in tearful expostulation.

It was then 5:15. In another 15 minutes she would begin a new life. She filed Mrs. Sutton's order and sent it down the chute.



Ruth walked slowly down the last block. Other people were coming home to shabby brownstone tenements and rooming houses, stopping on the way to buy food at the corner delicatessen, collecting the week's laundry from the Chinaman whose basement window was beaded with steam. She watched them from the secure heights of one who was bound for a warm dinner, a bed with a cretonne cover, and a writing desk of her own. There was a shoe-repair shop in the middle of the block and next to it a dry cleaner's. Very handy she told herself especially the cleaner's. For when I get my blue.

Canadian Universities Likely To be Packed Again this Year

Harried University officials across the Dominion expect few-or-no-raising problems although last year's enormous veterans swelled enrolment is expected to be as large again in the coming term.

And even smiles may be induced by an expected increase in the ranks of students.

But officials in most university centres say these are thoughts bordering on days for married veterans. Those with babies—about 500 married students with children are expected to assist at the University of Toronto—will have the most difficult time finding lodging.

When they find accommodation the majority of students will concentrate on engineering and science courses from which thousands of students will be turned away because of the lack of teaching facilities.

Apparently undaunted by an enrolment far above pre-war years, the University of Saskatchewan expects about 4,500 students again this term following a reduction of entrance requirements to the Prairie School from 10 to 8 0 per cent.

Usual lowering of registration in a poor crop year suffered this Summer in the west—is expected to be nullified by the drop in qualification standards.

An increase of 800 per cent in enrolment in the University of Manitoba's interior decorating and architecture courses points up the trend towards specialized studies.

Enrolment in the Manitoba School is expected to equal if not better last year's 6,462 in which Government funds up 44 per cent of the total.

17,000 at Toronto

At the University of Toronto, where 15,500 students are expected again to dwarf the 10,000-student body of 1939. The most interesting part of the school's history is being launched to find accommodation for 1,200 married students.

The expanding University of British Columbia and the overcrowded McGill University both will double their size and the beautifully-located West Coast School. Most married veterans that the University of Manitoba will live in the 104 two-room huts opened by the school.

The University of New Brunswick where last year's enrolment of 4,500 will be boosted by 100 this year, will also provide more apartments for married couples.

New Building at Queen's

The record-breaking registration of 3,000 at Queen's University in 1946 is expected to be bested this year. But expected completion of a new mechanical engineering building is expected to ease the situation.

A new two-year course in straight farming—with no connection to the course leading to an agricultural degree—is expected to attract to the Ontario College of Agriculture at Guelph, Ont., all the students it can handle.

Highest attendance in the history of McMaster University at Hamilton, Ont., is predicted with plans to accept 1,200 registrations.

Capacity registrations are expected in all Maritime Universities. Dalhousie at Halifax is expanding to provide for an increase and students in laboratories will be expected to double up on equipment.

A new degree course in Commerce will be given at the University of Prince Edward Island.

The length of the medical course at Laval University at Quebec reverts to the pre-war five years instead of four.

Little Benny's Note Book

I had to go to the market for some stuff, and I was carrying it home, and something ran up behind me saying, High there, young fellow, are you going my way?

Being pop coming home, and we kept on walking together, pop and Walt, who has a keckfik instinct and my genius at deduction told you I went to the market.

Aw gosh that's a cinch with me carrying all this stuff, I said, and pop said, That's not half of it, my dear Watson. I also deduce that when you got about half way home you decided to cross the street to investigate some attraction on the other side but you changed your mind and came back again, he said.

Some guy. I know who over there, but he went in his house by the time I got half way across, I said. Hey, how did you know my name, pop? I'm sort of new me, I said, and pop said, I assure you neither you nor I are much of my acquaintance. It's strictly a matter of cold scientific deduction. Also, you paused to look in the window of the little stationery and candy store, but you didn't actually go inside, probably because you had no money except the change from the market which naturally you couldn't dip into without a long and impassioned explanation to your mother.

Aw pop, you did so see me, I said, and pop said, I assure you I saw nothing but the right side of your face, which was quite enough for a man of my talents.

The result being I quick looked, and here me's bag of flour was all split up and left on the road making a hole in the back corner of it, and I said, Heck, now I'll probably have to go all a ways back to the market.

Which I didn't, on account of half a bag of flour being all me needed for a waffle.

Making me feel partly lucky.
